Aircraft Team Victors In Girls' Loop

Norma Strickland's effective pitching was too much for Brintons in the Girls' Softball League game on the Military Training Centre diamond last night.

The Aircraft pitcher struck out flock of batters and kept the Brinton hits well scattered with the resul that the Aircrafters won the decision 12 to 4.

The winners went out in front by scoring four runs in the first inning and the result of the game was never much in doubt after that, although the Brinton girls battled all the way.

The teams:

Aircraft: Marg. Selkirk, Irene Stewart, A. DeCarlo, Eleanor Craig, Norma Strickland, A. Patteson, Ruth Hewitt, Marilyn McCarthy, Irma Perdue.

WATERWINGS ...1943 STYLE

Remember the water wings you used as a kid at the sea shore? Fighting airmen wear them too . . . 1943 style . . . as part of their standard equipment. When the flyer hits the water he wastes no precious seconds blowing up his "wings". He simply opens a valve in a small cylinder of compressed carbonic acid gas ...and his "CO_2 jacket" is inflated for him in a flash. This same useful gas is used to inflate the rubber boats and rafts which have saved so many lives in all the Seven Seas. Much of this gas comes from our plants, a by-product in the making of War Alcohol. Never before has the need for Alcohol been so urgent. Alcohol is a prime essential in the production of synthetic rubber, is an important ingredient for plastics, and is the constant ally of doctors and nurses in their fight against infection. Producing Alcohol is our one all-important war job. All of our plants are working to capacity to produce it.

HAMBLIN HOLDS BISONS TO FOUR HITS AS TORONTO WIN BY 3 TO 1

Newark Bears Drop Game To Baltimore

(By The Associated Press)

Old "Hot Potato" Luke Hamlin seems to be back in his early season pitching form, so Toronto Maple Leafs have little need to worry about their International League lead.

The former toiler in the Brooklyn bullpen came back to the minors this year after a busy but not particularly successful 1942 season with Pittsburgh Pirates. And Luke set out as if he intended to return to the big time, winning his first five games to give the Leafs a flying start in the pennant chase.

Toward the end of May Hamlin began to falter but now has another five-game winning streak to his credit.

Last night he turned the heat against Buffalo Bisons for the third time in four games he has faced them and beat out young Rufe Gentry in a pitching duel; 3-1. Hamlin allowed only four hits and not a single walk against Gentry's five-hitter.

The victory gave Toronto a 6½-game margin over the Newark Bears who were the 4-1 victims as Baltimore Orioles broke out of a losing streak that had cost them seven defeats in eight games. Baltimore's Ed Klieman hung up his 16th victory, holding the Bears to seven hits.

Montreal Royals, who trounced Rochester 9-0, just reached the .500 mark by that victory while Baltimore wound up in a fourth-place tie with Syracuse Chiefs, who were blanked 2-0 by Jersey City.

Montreal's Al Sherer and Jersey City's Bill Voiselle took credit for these two whitewashings. Sherer limited the Red Wings to four singles and a revamped Montreal lineup produced 13 blows.

Voiselle, registering his first victory as a starting pitcher in more than a month, held the Chiefs to six singles.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 16 — (CP). — The average punter hasn't a chance when even the owner of a 22-to-1 long shot winner starts out for the pari-mutuel wicket to bet on his own horse and is touted to an also-ran. You don't think it happened? Just ask R. H. Thomson, owner of Apity, which won the sixth race at Vancouver's Hastings Park the other day and paid $46.70 for a straight ticket. Thomson and his stable workers pooled their loose cash to invest on Apity, but all hands listened to a last-minute tip on Sport Fan which ran seventh in a field of eight.

Fighting Bob:

Death of R. J. Manion, former Conservative Leader, recalled to Harry Scott of the Calgary Albertan that Fighting Bob could possibly have been one of Canada's greatest hockey and lacrosse players. Harry, a real authority because he himself later played professional hockey and lacrosse, went to school with Manion in Fort William. Harry says Manion was a great defenceman in both hockey and lacrosse.

Game called:

A senior baseball game in Edmonton was halted for 15 minutes after Umpire John (Lefty) Ducey suddenly backed from the park in the second inning. Lefty had split his blue pantaloons in an exceeding important area.

Incidentally:

'Tis reported Hamilton Wildcats of the O.R.F.U. have corralled Half-back Doug Smith, last year with the Kitchener-Waterloo football team.....The grapevine hints Edie Shore may attempt to lure Earl Robertson from retirement to fill the Buffalo Bisons goal gap caused by enlistment of Gordie Bell. Robbie, once an outstanding hockey goalie with New York Americans, has a railway job in Edmonton and may be difficult to coax back into action.

Dodgers Leave Medwick Sitting At Home

By JUDSON BAILEY,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Bums rush is on in Brooklyn for Fair and this time the heave-ho is about to go to Joseph Michael (Muscles) Medwick, the once celebrated outfielder whose usefulness to the Dodgers, like that of Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsom, apparently has come to an end.

When the ball club left New York last night for a three-weeks trip Medwick was left at home

Although the manoeuver was shrouded in mystery by club officials, no mirrors were needed to see behind the veil of Branch Rickey's house-cleaning.

26 Players on Rooster.

Having moved to wipe out the rebellion against the manager Leo Durocher by trading Newsom to the St. Louis Browns, Rickey has 26 players on his roster, one over the limit, and was compelled to get rid of another man.

His choice of Medwick was connected only directly with the rebellion. Rickey had been trying to dispose of him ever since becoming President of the Dodgers last November. He didn't like the temperament of the famous slugger, who never had batted less than .300 in 12 seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn and who had been the National League's batting champion and most valuable player in 1937.

Rickey's chances of making a deal for Medwick have faded with the player's performance this year. At present his batting average is .272 and he hasn't made a hit longer than a double.

Last night Durocher simply announced Medwick had been given "permission" to remain at home.

Cards Beaten 4-3.

Yesterday the Dodgers, while idle, even gained half a game on the Cardinals, who were whipped 4-3 at Pittsburgh last night as Maurice Van Robays, just returned from a Minor League whirl at Toronto, collected a double and two singles to lead a 14-hit attack on Max Lanier.

Chicago Cubs bunched five runs in the third and three in the eighth to crush Cincinnati Reds 8-0 behind the four-hit hurling of Hiram Bithorn.

The Phillies pounded a 9-1 victory out of New York Giants.

In the American League Orval Grove attained his eighth triumph without defeat by pitching five-hit ball as Chicago White Sox downed Detroit Tigers 7-4.

Washington whipped the Boston Red Sox 4-3 with Bob Johnson driving in three runs, two of them on a homer.

St. Louis Browns stopped Cleveland Indians 2-1 in the only game played in daylight.

4th Battery Boys Attend Artillery Camp For Reserve Units At Petawawa

For the past two weeks the 4th Field Battery (R.) of Peterborough has been with the 43rd Field Battery (R.) at the Reserve Army Camp in Pettawawa, where they are getting an opportunity of working with the equipment used by the forces training for active service. During the break of periods at the Reserve Army Artillery Camp at Petawawa it is always time for a smoke. This trio on LEFT are shown lighting up. From LEFT to RIGHT, Gunner R. O. Dixon, 704 Park Street; Gunner G. Johnston, 232 McDonnel Street, and Gunner G. Ball, Bridgenorth. Four reservists (CENTRE) are receiving instruction from Armament Sergeant-Major J. F. Lowe, Toronto, a member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. They are, LEFT to RIGHT: Gunner L. Barringer, Peterborough; Gunner A. L. Chapman, Deseronto; Armament Sergeant-Major Lowe; Gunner O. B. Miller, Deseronto, and H. M. F. Ryan, Kingston; while on RIGHT, Gunner N. MacMurchy, of 176 Lock Street, is shown at LEFT laying a gun on an aiming post. In the CENTRE, BACKGROUND, is Gunner R. E. Dixon, of 367 Armstrong Drive, and at RIGHT, Gunner T. G. Wells, 466 Stewart Street.

43rd Regiment Has Real McCoy Play With Big Guns, Ride Jeeps As Reserves Train At Petawawa

RESERVE ARMY ARTILLERY CAMP, Petawawa, July 15.—Keen, enthusiastic gunners of Canada's Reserve Artillery Army, their bodies bronzed and fit, are swarming over these sandy plains in the first thrills of the realization of a training dream that has existed in fancy since the beginning of the war.

Here, with the boom of 60-pounders ond the sharper notes of the 25-pounders rolling an artillery symphony around them, the "civilian" soldiers are living and training in actual war surroundings.

Gone is the nightmare of weary basic training. In its place is a dash of gunnery theory with plenty of practical work. Here in the tented city, the eager youngsters and wise veterans of other wars are undergoing the same kind of training that has made their Active Service brothers the pride of the Allies.

From farm, factory, office and shop come these civilian gunners for a short period of two weeks under expert instruction using the cream of gunnery equipment. They are gradually reaching the training climax that will see them hurling live shels through the air at actual targets.

This is the thing they have longed for and at last are experiencing. Remember it is no make-believe, no theoretical fantasy. As one Belleville gunner puts it: "....the real McCoy." And they are sincere. Their enthusiasm is no sham.

Lieut.-Col. Frank J. Mooney, officer commanding the 44th (R) Field Regiment, R.C.A., composed of batteries from Belleville, Napanee, Kingston and Gananoque, is as enthusiastic over the training as are his officers, N.C.O.s and gunners. "It is a soldier's dream come true," he said. "We could not have asked for anything better, the instructors are of the finest type and know their jobs. The equipment given my regiment is excellent, while administration and other phases of training could not be better. The regiment will benefit greatly, not only physically, but also from a training point of view."

43rd Enjoys Camp.

The 43rd (R) Field Regiment, R. C.A., two hundred strong, moved into camp on July 4 under Lieut.-Col. D. J. Lawrie, commanding officer, and will break camp on July 18. The regiment, comprised of batteries from Cobourg, Peterborough and Lindsay, is training with the 42nd Regiment of Toronto and the 44th of Gananoque and district.

It is the fourth annual summer camp for many of the old-timers, and by far the best. Complete modern artillery and small arms equipment has been made available, there is no scarcity of vehicles or canvas, food and water is good and sanitation is first-rate. The camp medical officer, Major S. Y. Walsh, of Peterborough, sums it up by saying: "Conditions generally are good in this camp."

Specialists' courses are conducted by officers and assistant instructors thoroughly trained for this work, and the gunners are really learning about the 18 and 25 pounders. They are shooting this week.

Like to Work.

Random remarks heard around the ten lines in the off hours tell their own story of the enthusiasm of the Reserve Army men. Sgt.-Major "Babe" Anthony of Peterborough remarks: "This is one camp I can get my teeth into. The boys are all getting a bang out of the training set-up." Gunner Bill Maize of Cobourg, with a sunburned grin, says: "I'm darned if I'd work this hard at home, but it doesn't seem to be killing me."

Captain Roy Phillips of Peterborough, O.C. 4th Battery, after his unit had a few days' training, stated emphatically: "This is a well-run camp. Good organization and training, plenty of good equipment to work with. Our Battery ought to get a lot out of it." This seems to be the consensus of opinion from the commanding officer down to the youngest gunner.

Try Everything.

Reserve Army Artillery Camp officers are leaving no stone unturned to make the "reserve gunners'" stay a pleasant and fruitful one by providing the last word in artillery tactics training and equipment Keen young eyes are looking through dial sights, telescopes, and compasses. Helmeted youngsters ride the "jeeps," the gun tractors, and crouch behind the shield of field pieces. They are experiencing the thrill of going into "action" with real guns in formation.

"Boy, this is the life,' gruns Sgt. C. R McKenzie, West Moira, wiping the perspiration from his sun helmet. A youngster still in his 'teens he can scarcely wait for action. "Just wait until I'm old enough. It's the guns for me and Heinie will know it."

Good substantial food and lots of it; comfortable tents with plenty of blankets to roll away the day's fatigue, ample recreation facilities are some of the contributing factors to the well-being of the "Reserves."

But the training is the thing. It is what they have wanted for years and what they are getting. Canada's Reserve Artillery is showing that if the need arises they will be ready to face any emergency.

the East Sicilian coast, said flatly both Lentini and Carlentini already had fallen).

A seven-mile thrust by Americans through mountain territory on the central front engulfed strategic upland positions in the Vizzini area 25 miles northeast of the beach head forged by United States forces at Scoglitti.

In the Vizzini region the American 7th Army, commanded by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., thus is linked with British and Canadian forces comprising Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army.

To the west, the Americans have captured the towns of Campobello and Riesi above the Licata bridgehead and are menacing Caltagirone, northeast of Gela.

Messina Plastered.

The Allied air might, with forces of R. C. A. F. Wellingtons and Beaufighters giving a helping hand, plastered the Sicilian entry port of Messina Tuesday, and had this thrust followed up by American bombers Wednesday.

According to Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press War correspondent at Air Force Headquarters in North Africa, the R. C. A. F. bombers pounded railway yards and oil storage depots in that key Northern Sicily port. Returning Canadian crews, he said, described the explosions as "really good," while Wing. Cmdr. Dan McIntosh of Regina reported opposition non-existent, saying "they didn't even have a slingshot."

In a companion piece Stewart reported R. C. A. F. torpedo-carrying bombers were blitzing Axis shipping around Sicily. He said Canadian crews Wednesday shared in the destruction of a 5,000-ton Axis tanker, left sinking another 1,000-ton tanker and hit a 9,000-ton supply ship.

Tuesday he said, a Canadian Beaufighter pilot, FO. Spanky Reneau of Toronto, blew up an Axis cargo ship.

In appreciation, Maj.-Gen. James Doolittle, in command of the North African strategic air force, sent a congratulatory note to the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. for their "superb efforts" in current operations in Sicily.

One correspondent with the Americans in the west reported the enemy position with regards to ammunition and supply already appears to be serious. This same correspondent said the Germans had deliberately shelled surrendered Italians.

Destroy False Leaders.

They added they were determined, however, to "destroy the false leaders and their doctrines which have brought Italy to her present position."

The release of the joint statement, which followed several informal invitations in recent months that Italy get out of the war, was the signal for a propaganda drive which included the dropping of thousands of leaflets on Italy by Allied bombers in addition to beaming the message to the people of Italy by radio.

Asserting Germany's hopes for world conquest "have been blasted on all fronts," the joint statement declared the skies over Italy are dominated by vast Allied air armadas and Italy's coasts are threatened "by the greatest accumulation of British and Allied seapower ever concentrated in the Mediterranean."

"Every moment that you resist the combined forces of the United Nations—every drop of blood that you sacrifice—can serve only one purpose: to give the Fascist and Nazi leaders a little more time to escape from the inevitable consequences of their own crimes."

The 600-word message concluded: "The time has now come for you, the Italian people, to consult your own self respect and your own interests and your own desire for a restoration of national dignity, security and peace. The time has come for you to decide whether Italians shall die for Mussolini and Hitler—or live for Italy and for civilization."

Shameful Leadership.

Asserting Mussolini had plunged the Italian people into a war which he thought "Hitler had already won," the Prime Minister and the President said that at this moment the combined armed forces of Great Britain and the United States "are carrying the war deep into the territory of your country."

"This is the direct consequence," it continued, "of the shameful leadership to which you have been subjected by Mussolini and his Fascist regime."

It added that the Fascist leaders sent Italian sons, ships and air forces to distant battlefields to aid Germany in her attempt to conquer England, Russia and the world, in spite of Italy's great vulnerability to attack by air and sea.

"This association," the United Nations' leaders told the Italian people, "with the designs of Nazi controlled Germany was unworthy of Italy's ancient traditions of freedom and culture—traditions to which the people of America and Great Britain owe so much."

They said Italian soldiers have fought courageously, but have been betrayed and abandoned by the Germans on the Russian front and on every African battlefield from El Alamein to Cape Bon.

Cattle Prices Scaled Down During Week

TORONTO, July 16 — (CP).— Cattle prices dropped 50 cents a cwt. in trade on the livestock market here this week. Lambs were firm, veal calves gained and hogs and sheep were steady.

Cattle prices which have been running at the highest levels since 1920, were scaled down in an effort to get live prices somewhere near in line with beef ceilings, the Dominion Marketing Service reported.

A heavy holdover from Monday was reduced to a few hundred head when most of the owners decided to let their cattle go to the scales on Wednesday, in lieu of better bids. Weighty steers of good to choice quality closed at $12.50 to $13.25. Butcher steers and heifers were at tops of $13.50. Butcher cows closed at $8 to $9.50 with canners downward to $5. Bulls were $10 to $10.75 for good butchers and $8.25 to $9.50 for bolognas. Stocker trade was dull at $9.25 to $12.50 for stockers with stock calves up to $13. Good milkers and springers were steady at $125 to $160.

Calves Improve

Veal calves improved on short runs to close at $15 to $15.50 for choice with common downward to $10. Grassers were $8 to $9.50.

Lambs strengthened to a general $19 for good ewes and wethers with bucks at $18. Yearlings sold from $12.50 to $14.50 cwt. Sheep were steady at $5 to $10 cwt.

Hogs held steady at $16.75 to $16.85 dressed. Sows closed at $14.50 dressed.

20 Locomotives Shot Up

At least a dozen airfields were plastered with bombs and strafed with machine-gun fire and 20 locomotives were shot up, an Air Ministry announcement said.

One of the airdromes attacked was in the Paris area. Another air field at St. Dizier was bombed three times by (R.A.F and R.C.A. F.) formations, which then roared off to strafe railway lines and gun emplacements.

A Beaufighter was credited with destroying a German ME-110 over the Rheims area.

Minor enemy air activity was reported over Britain during the night, bombs being dropped at scattered points in southeast England, East Anglia and the greater London area.

A communique said these raids had resulted in one fatality and no damage. One enemy raider was reported shot down.

The break-through at Orel was interpreted by some foreign military observers in Moscow as the end of Hitler's last all-out attempt to defeat Russia.

They said there was no question the Germans had hurled the most powerful weight of armor and men they could spare at the Russians in this summer's campaign.

Commenting on the Russian counter-offensive in a broadcast recorded in London, M. Viktorov, a Moscow commentator, declared Hitler has now been forced to fight on two fronts. In his acknowledgment of the Allied successes in Sicily, the commentator said "Hitler's latest gamble has been foiled. His failure is all the more conspicuous as his main forces are on the Soviet-German fronts."

MAIN STREET TOPICS

MILK FOR BRITAIN

The sum of one dollar has been contributed by the Primary Sunday School class of the Bridgenorth United Church, making the total of the fund to date $11,685.41.

NICE SUM

The bank clearings for the week ending July 15 show a substantial increase over those of 1942, the increase being $199,153. The figures for the week in 1943 are $941,203 and a year ago $742,050.

FOR GREEK AID

A cheque from an anonymous contributor "L.H." was received for the Greek Relief Fund today at this office.

BERRIES PLENTIFUL

The wild raspberry crop is said to be abundant. The fruit is full sized and even the samples that grow along the roadside are almost extra specials. An Examiner man who is on his holidays said he filled a pail "in no time" Wednesday, gleefully thinking of the fruit dealers and their cloud-line prices of strawberries. The staff man was taking off to the huckleberry country somewhere in the eastern part of the county with further thought of using nature's offerings for next winter's use.

RATION COUPONS

Summer hotels are now required to take ration coupons from guests who stay 7 days or longer, and for a week's visit are obligated to collect 1 butter coupon and 2 meat coupons but none for tea or sugar, it was stated today by A. G. Smith, Inspector of Local Offices, WPTB. Formerly the period for which a guest might remain at a hotel without relinquishing ration coupons was two weeks, but the new regulation supersedes this it was added.

IN TORONTO TODAY

It is understood that several factory executives volunteered to go along with Alderman Swanston to Toronto today to enquire into possible readjustment of the beer supply and sales so as to prevent factory workers from being excluded from the retail distribution.

TRUCK, CAR COLLIDE.

A truck driven by Wilfred Schweirs, 516 Wolfe Street, and an automobile driven by George Manley, Park Hill Road, were damaged in a traffic accident at Wolfe and Stewart Streets. Schweirs was driving west on Wolfe Street and Manley south on Stewart Street, and the two vehicles met in collision at the intersection. The frame of the truck was bent and fenders and radiator damaged. The front fender and bumper of the other car were also damaged.

HIGH PRICED BAIT

Fred Goodfellow discovered this week a small boy's dishonesty which was probably devised for tourist victims. "Do you want to buy some bait?" this boy asked, and as Mr. Goodfellow was thinking of a fishing trip the next day, he enquired "How much?" The boy valued the box of worms at one dollar. "It's going to rain; there'll be lots of them" was the protest, and although he started away the boy came back, "seventy-five cents," and Mr. Goodfellow handed the lad the money. Next day when he went fishing he found exactly ten worms in the grass filling, a mean bit of juvenile piracy.

FRUIT SUPPLY LIGHT.

Heavy demand for fruit in the big centres such as Toronto and Hamilton tends to reduce the allotments to Peterborough. One local source of information said they double their orders in the hope of getting one-third. Raspberries and huckleberries are in the stores to-day, and will on the week end stands Montmorency cherries will be early next week but the available quantity is below the average.

ANTIPODEAN TIRES.

Some enquiry about a few automobiles that have been seen here bearing the stamp "Made in Australia" brought slight information from the retail automotive trade. Harlan Keefer, Water Street, said he had sold the last of his stock some time ago. A Goodyear sales representative said that most of the rubber compaines had plants in Australia, thereby explaining the probable source of this remnant.

MOTOR CYCLIST INJURED.

Amos Grant, 24, Stewart Street, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital on Thursday night, suffering from a cut on his head as the result of a collision between the motorcycle he was driving and an automobile. Grant was driving east on the old Norwood Road and the automobile was crossing that road on a cross road a short distance east of the city when the motorcycle collided with the rear of the other vehicle, driven by Mrs. M. Morrow, and the rider was thrown off. He was taken into hospital by a passing automobile.

County Holstein Herd Makes Fine Showing

The largest record of performance test completed in a Peterborough County Holstein herd last month was that of Trent Valley Colantha Bonheur, owned by Coughlin Bros., Peterborough. She began her test as a five-year-old and produced 15,249 lbs. milk containing 571 pounds butter fat in 365 days. Lassie May Segis from the herd of Frank Kelly, Peterborough, finished in the same class with 545 lbs. butterfat from 15,749 lbs. milk. Another member of the Coughlin Bros. herd, Trent Valley Pontiac Colantha, made 520 lbs. butter fat from 15,314 lbs. milk as a seven-year-old in 305 days and a six-year-old, owned by Frank Kelly, Peterborough, finished with 473 lbs. butterfat from 15,266 lbs. milk. A senior yearling from the herd of Stanley Wood, Peterborough, gave 411 lbs. butterfat from 12,272 lbs. milk.

All the above records were made on twice-a-day milking.

Good Neighbors Exceed $650 For War Victims

It is generally recognized that good leadership will play an important part in the success of any venture where a number of people are involved, and when the cause is a worthy one, under such auspices it has a good chance of succeeding.

In January of 1942 two ladies living beside each other on Ware Street Mrs. W. Townsley and Mrs. P. Kitchen started to work on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and from this small beginning, their efforts have met with what might be termed phenominal success, for backed by a group of ladies who supported them faithfully in this work of good for others, they have to date raised the fine sum of $653.05.

The bulk of this splendid sum of sums has been raised through holding of euchre parties in the homes of the adherents to this group, which usually were supplemented by a small draw for some article which had been donated for that particular occasion.

In seeking a name by which the group might become identified, the term "Good Neighbors" suggested itself from the fact that the originators lived beside each other, sharing alike the work needed to make a success of their venture, and the responsibilty that went with it, and in like manner they with those who are supporting their good work, equally share in the credit that comes from making such a success of it.

Then again, what could be more appropriate for a name than "Good Neighbors" when their very act of raising money here in the city of Peterborough, should be for the express purpose of giving help to people in far away Britain whom they have never seen, there being no better example of real good neighborliness a stold in the parable of the Good Samaratin than this.

To-day another $52.00 appears in the list of receipts in their name for the fund, the result of parties held in the Homes of Miss Reynoids on Dalhousie Street, Mrs. Head on Olive Avenue, Mrs. Sproule on Stewart Street, Mrs. Smith on Gladstone Avenue, and Mrs. Siddall on Park St. south, each of whom have a little extra contribution in this one donation by reason of this help to the group as a whole. As a group, both leaders and members are to be highly commended for the good work they are doing on behalf of those stricken through air raids over Britain.

Two personal donations also are included in to-day's list, both coming from persons who have given on a number of occasions, with "E. M. F." who perhaps holds the record in number of this type of help to the fund being listed, with Miss Jean Hills who happens to be on holidays from which a fine thought emanates, since in seeking ones own pleasure, there is thought for others in need kept in mind, an example which would further enrich the world if followed more extensively by others under like circumstances.

Saturday's Market.

The stall on the market this Saturday will again be in operation for the fund with Gwen Cooper and Anne Blackburn in charge as sales clerks. There will be tickets on sale for a draw on one of the latest style coffee percolators donated by Harold Coleman.

Fair Trial Is Asked For Labor Court

SUDBURY, July 16 —More than 500 Sudbury residents, including a solid group of C.C.F., C.I.O. supporters, packed Stunnes Hall, last night at the Liberal nomination and to hear Premier Harry Nixon.

Miners at the rear booed the Premier as he moved to the platform, but a burst of applause drowned out the discordant note A man was removed from his seat when he engaged in a voluble debate with Dr. Raoul Hurtibese, Liberal M.P. for Nipissing, after the latter had concluded an address in French.

Premier Nixon was not interrupted in his address. It was expected he would deal at length with labor problems, but beyond an appeal for a fair trial of the new labor machinery, he made no mention of local industrial issues or the alliance of the C.C.F. with the C.I.O.

When Premier Nixon concluded, Chairman Waterbury said he had had several written questions handed to him and that they would be answered.

James Cooper, Sudbury's representative in the Legislature since 1937, and renominated to contest the seat at a convention several hours earlier, said: "This is no closed shop affair. Our party doesn't believe in that kind of thing. You are free to criticize if your criticism is fair and just."

Many in the audience remained to get answers to the questions; these dealt with local issues, one of them being whether the Liberal candidate had an objection to the C.C.F. following its constitution in selecting a leader. This had reference to the failure of Mayor W. S. Beaton of Sudbury to obtain the C.C.F. nomination at a recent convention. The mayor was not allowed to place his name in nomination because he had not been a party member for the required length of time. Reference to this was made by Mr. Cooper, who termed it "undemocratic."

The C.C.F. - C.I.O. alliance has created a confusing situation in Sudbury. Liberals believe it will hurt the C.C.F's chances while other think the C.I.O. will bring many votes to the party candidate who is Bob Carlin, the C.I.O. organizer in Sudbury district.

Body Found In River

TORONTO, July 16 — (CP). — The body of William White, 60, of Oshawa, Ont., was found floating in the Don River here yesterday. He had been discharged on July 12 from Christie Street Military Hospital.

71-Year-Old Victoria Phaeton Is Equal Of Luxury Model Today

If someone asked you to take a ride in a carriage that was built nearly three-quarers of a century ago, would you take the chance? Wouldn't you be afraid that the darned old contraption would fall apart in the middle of the next block, perhaps like the famous one-hoss shay, "all at once and nothing first?" Would it be wiser to decline with thanks a wild proposition like that?

Well, why put the question, anyway? Is any body going to ask you to go for a ride in a vehicle as old as that? Probably not. There just can't be carriages as ancient as that still in circulation these days. You may think but there are and the proof of it is that one exists in Peterborough to-day.

This particular carriage— a victoria phaeton — belongs to H. B. McGinness, who owns the wagon-building works at 552 McDonnel Street. He bought it from a man in Belleville a short time ago. And it is a real curiosity.

Mr. McGinness does not plan to use the phaeton, though that is not because he's afraid it would break up on him if he hitched a horse to it and attempted to drive it through the streets. He purchased it solely for its curiosity-value. It is a very well-preserved relic and belies its extreme age altogether. This is partly due to the skill of craftmanship that went into its making, and partly to the fact that it has never seen active service since the death of its first owner, who passed away only a year or two after he bought it.

The phaeton was built in 1872 by Brown and St. Charles of Belleville, though the lamps on each side of the driver's seat bear the imprint of Rogers and Sons, Wolverhampton, England. Who the first owner was is not known, nor how many persons through the years came into possession of it, nor why it was never used again once the man it was originally built for died, but at all events it could never have received any but the best of care. Seventy-one years old, and if not as good as new certainly very close to it.

The victoria phaeton was a type of carriage that became very popular starting with the last half of the 19th century. It was essentially a family vehicle, used for Sunday outings in the park and suchlike, and not intended for heavy work or for adventures on the primitive countryside highways of those far-off days. This particuar carriage was constructed to be drawn by a team of hackneys; it has an elevated driver's seat which accomodates two persons, and two seats in the one facing each other, of which the one facing back is small and narrow and can be let down to make more room, leading one to suppose that it was intended for the children, and children are not always allowed to go along.

Candles provided the illumination for the phaeton at night, and springs pushing up from below in the lamps forced the candle up into the hooded part of the lamp as its upper portions were burned off, in the same way that that the spring of a cigarette lighter pushes up the flint.

The woodwork, leather and upholstery of Mr. McGinness' phaeton are all in a remarkably good state of repair and make one wonder at the fineness of materials and the patient effort, all by hand, that went into the construction of this carriage. At the time it was built to buy a model like this was indicative of considerable means, and perhaps camparable to the purchase of a high-priced touring-car or limousine to-day.

Mr. McGinness says he might be persuaded to bring out his prize possession and let it be exhibited to the public eye on the occasion of a carnival or some special event.

Prevention Of Accidents On Farm Urged

Prevention of accidents in the manufacturing industries may have been the inspiration of the note of caution and appeal sounded in the policy program of the Women's Institutes of Ontario as drafted by the committee on agriculture and Canadian industries of the Women's Institute of this province of which Mrs. F. E. Birdsall of Birdsalls is convener.

The farm women of the Institute, one of the most consistently active and helpful organizations in this country, are reminding their men folk of the importance of preventing accidents in their own primary industry.

The following is a quotation from the committee's report:

"If anyone lives and works amid the dangerous uncertainties of kissing ladder rounds, projecting nails, balky gasoline engines and another dozen risks, it is the farmer. He is the man who is not only keeping the Canadian dinner pail full, but is also putting a good deal into Britain's. He also is doing much toward clothing the nation.

"It is important that such a valuable man be kept constantly in top working condition. When war calls his hired man to military service, the farmer is expected to go right ahead doing the best he can. In fact he is asked even to produce more.

"Never before in the history of farming in Canada has it been so necessary that every farmer be fitted to look an emergency in the face, and know how to meet it. This is the first step to agricultural preparedness, this safeguarding of manpower against impairment through avoidable causes. This is the way of preventing the thousands of mishaps and accidents that just now are so costly to the individual and to the nation.

"It is an unpleasant truth that the accident ratio in agriculture is considerably higher than in any other industry. The greater part of the accidents could be avoided with a little care. Sharp-edged tools left about carelessly cause many accidents. So do racks and fences not in repair and nails not removed from loose boards.

"Take a look around the farm to check on any accident risk. The farm is the source of a front line weapon of war—food. It is a vital factor to victory. The farmer's fitness is as important as that of the sailor, soldier or airman.

"If you are going to build a better world it must start from you."

The report of Mrs. Birdsall's committee discusses two salient points of program, production and manpower, recommends home gardens, keeping bees, farm forums, production of sheep and so on, and appeals to farm women to put forth extra effort this year.

The Women's Institute does not make the slightest concession to difficulty, as indicated in the following quotation:

"Again this year we adopt the slogan, 'All Out For Victory.' More than ever this year we must stand behind it, exerting every ounce of strength using our hands to solve the best and easiest means of meeting our objectives.

"It is hard to ask our farm women to do more work than they carried out last season, for never in the history of Canada has so much been produced by so few. But, let every farm woman take a vow now to do at least as much and where possible more than she did last year."

War–25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press.

July 16, 1918 — French stood firm east of Reims; Germans advanced towards Epernay from the Marne in very severe fighting on the whole Western Front; French-American troops regain Marne heights. Austrian Commander-in-Chief von Hetzendorf removed from command.

Serving Overseas

Trooper J. (Bert) McClennan, who enlisted with the C.A.C. October 19, 1942, is now serving overseas. He is the son of Mrs. R. McClennan and the late Mr. McClennan, Chamberlain Street, and he attended the Collegiate here and was an employee of the Canadian National Express Company.

Heavy Raids Made On Italy

CAIRO, July 16 — (AP). — In a 24-hour period on Thursday R.A.F. and American bombers made heavy attacks against Axis installations at Messina, on the north-east tip of Sicily, and Foggia, in Southern Italy, a Middle East air communique announced to-day.

During the early morning hours of Thursday R.A.F. heavy bombers returned to battered Messina, dropping bombs near the Central Station and oil tanks. It was not known if any R.C.A.F. personnel took part in the raid, as they did in the Tuesday one on that key city.

However, fires from those previous raids were reported as still burning.

Wellington bombers also swept up the west coast of Greece on Wednesday night and Thursday morning, scoring a direct hit on a merchant ship in the Levkas Channel.

The Americans followed up by daylight, plastering an airfield at Foggia and scoring hits among the hangars, on workshops and station buildings.

Two satellite landing fields in that vicinity also were hit, the announcement said. At one, three aircraft were burning aground and at the other bombs fell among a concentration of 12 planes, some of which were seen to catch fire.

The big bombers adopted a new technique on this journey—that of scattering incendiaries over the countryside. These were dropped on the outward trip, the communique said. On the return trip forest fires were observed at Metaponto, on the Gulf of Taranto.

One Allied plane was reported missing from this and other operations.

Drew Defends Program Of 22 Points

KENORA, July 16 — Every point in his 22-point program had been put forward at some time publicly in the Legislature by the Opposition, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader George A. Drew declared here last night.

"Liberal and Socalist leaders have tried to give the impression that this was suddenly put together for the purpose of the election," said Mr. Drew. "Our Socialist friends even go so far as to tell you that we have stolen their platform. "As long ago as 1939 I advocated the removal of at least half of a school tax from the homes and farmlands of our province. There is nothing impracable about this proposal. It can and will be done. The charges for school taxes on the tax bill will be cut in half. This is the only part of the British Empire where the whole burden of maintaining our schools is thrown back upon real property. The homes and farmlands of Ontario must be relieved of this burden so that our young people may be encouraged to buy and establish their own homes as the first step in real social cecurity.

"Our proposals in regard to agriculture, labor, public works and all the other essential details were placed before the Ontario Legislature. In each case they were voted down by the Government and their supporters. We have undertaken to place the administration, conservation and utilization of the forest resources of Ontario under a commission to be known as the Ontario Forest Resources Commission.

They are constantly gossiping, giggling and whispering among themselves while customers wait. They also show very little respect for the men in charge and are resentful when shown their mistakes or corrected. The situation is also very embarrassing to the management when it feels necessary to call them down. They have little interest in their work and are not grateful, as they should be, for the training they are getting, as they do not realize that if they make good now they may have a job when the war is over, when every one will be hired upon his or her merit and not just because help is so scarce they have to be tolerated.

A DISGUSTED EMPLOYER

Must Be Patient with Girls

Answer—In all of these sentiments the customers will heartily agree, for among the other horrors of war is having to deal with young clerks who know nothing about their business and have no intention of learning, and who say to even an 80-year-old dowager: "Dearie, we haven't anything in your size," without even bothering to look.

But let us be patient, remembering that when we were in our teens giggling was our only accomplishment, and the only thing that we were interested in was a new hairdo and a date with the current boy friend.

Dear Miss Dix: Sometime ago you published in your column an article about an association called the "Vacant Home Guard" that put small boys to work so as to keep them out of mischief, by looking after vacant houses. It was an interesting theory and possibly the experiment worked, but my observation of small boys is that they are more destructive than constructive, and I should hate to turn my house and garden over to their tender mercies when I wasn't there to keep an eye upon them.

But here in my city of Dallas, Texas, we have hit upon a plan of utilizing the small boy power better, because it puts his destructive proclivities to work. The youngsters are being organized into neighborhood groups to take care of the pestiferous tin can problem that is such a pain in the neck to housewives. Armed with the family hammer, a board and a can-opener they make the rounds of their tin can route each week, flattening out and preparing the cans according to government regulations on the day before the garbage collector arrives, and thus make their defense stamp money, and indulge their lust for smashing things at the same time, thereby combining patriotism, profit and good works. MRS. X.

Answer—It is a grand idea that I am glad to pass on, particularly at this time when the schools are out and the small boy let out to seek what he may destroy. For if there is any one thing that makes a woman's love of country sink down to zero, it is when she undertakes to fix a can according to the way Uncle Sam wishes to have it presented to him.

LAWN BOWLING

It would be rather difficult to put your finger on any particular game and say that that game was the outstanding game of the evening.

One could take a seat behind any of the scheduled games and be assured of seeing a first class contest.

Starting right in on the east side, the Chesler-Giroux affair set the pace. It was close all the way and Giroux forced the veteran south paw to go into overtime.

On the very next green, Gimblett was fighting Freeman all the way and it was only a big six on the fourteenth end that turned the tide.

And then the Payne-Coleman affair was a dandy and once more a six end did the trick for the member of the board.

The McMillan-Fulford game was another one—just one point between and the wall. Jeffries scrap showed that the boys are right at top form.

And so it went all evening.

Owing to so many of our ladies taken part in the Port-Hope tournament, our Milk for Britain tournament set down for next Wdnesday has been postponed. More details later.

The ladies are holding a tournament all their own on the spare greens Monday night at 7 o'clock. Schedule rinks, 3 and 8 end game. 50c fee and four good prizes.

The entries for our big open bonspeil to be held on Wednesday, July 8, have started to come in. They include Joe Kennedy, Auxbridge, William Young, Kew Beach, H. Roseaver, Port Hope, L. Snowden, Oshawa. With the following Peterborough rinks: G. Gimblett, R. F. Downey, H. Freeman, C. Renaud, and W. Jeffries.

Remember the list will be closed just as soon as 32 rinks are in, so to our local boys, don't leave your entry too late.

Right Exercises Will Lead to Health and Beauty

Do Your Exercises

For that figure you wish to obtain and that glowing look of health one of the best ways to get it is by exercising.

Every woman, is, to a large extent, mistress of her appearance and is able to control the contours of her body. It is only logical that bodies show individual characteristics, just as faces reflect personality and the inner life of a person. You can shape and mould that body of yours by the wa, you eat, sleep, stand, walk, exercise, and the kind of games you play.

Correct body mechanics will help not only the outward appearance of your body but also the functioning of your internal organs. You cannot expect to get the full benefit of your breathing, circulation, digestive and elimination processes when your organs are crowded in too small a space.

Our 32-page booklet gives you simple rules of health and effective exercises which have been worked out to fit your needs and to correct your weak points.

You owe it to yourself, your family, your friends, to be at your best both mentally and physically.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service for your copy of BEST EXERCISES FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DESTROY HIS TIMING

IF YOU can make a No Trump declarer use up a needed entry to dummy before he has its long suit established, you have destroyed his timing of the play and rendered that suit worthless to him. Counting the number of probable stoppers of the suit held by your side, and the number of entries or re-entries to get at the suit, will usually give you the key to the situation.

North: ♠ A 8 / ♥ Q J 8 7 4 3 2 / ♦ A 9 / ♣ 9 7
West: ♠ 4 2 / ♥ A 10 6 5 / ♦ 10 4 2 / ♣ K J 6 5

South: ♠ K 10 3 / ♥ K / ♦ Q J 5 / ♣ A Q 10 4 3 2

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 NT

West naturally led the 4 of his partner's spades. South, deciding to work on the dummy's hearts, rather than his own clubs, and therefore wishing to retain the spade A there as a re-entry, took the J with his K and then laid down the heart K. West put on his A and then led the spade 2 to the A. The heart Q and J were scored, and the 8 led to West's 10. With no more spades, that defender returned the diamond 2, whereupon the diamond A, three more hearts and the club A completed nine tricks for the declarer, giving him his contract.

Foresight by West should have told him to duck the heart K on the second trick. South then, if the K was a singleton, as hoped, would have had to use the diamond A to reach dummy, so he could lead more hearts. West could have taken the returned heart Q with his A, then knocked out the spade A. The hearts would be dead then, because West could win the fourth round with his 10. That would have limited South to two tricks in hearts instead of five, and would have compelled him to let West in with clubs, whereupon a diamond lead to the K would have enabled East to finish the hand with the setting spade tricks.

How should East play this hand for 3-No Trumps after the heart A takes the first trick, the 9, 10 and Q constitute the second, and the 4, 8 and K the third?

Labour Makes Suggestions For Peace Era

OTTAWA, July 16. —(CP)— The Canadian Congress of Labor in a brief submitted to the Commons Post-War Reconstruction and Re-Establishment Committee recommended Thursday the adoption of 10 proposals for post-war action as the views of the 200,000 organized workers.

The summarized proposals follow:

1. Maintenance of the present control at least for the period of transition from war to peace economy.

2. A comprehensive program of Public Works and National development to provide employment for those temporarily displaced during the transition period.

3. The building up, by Provincial and Municipal authorites, of reserve funds for post-war reconstruction, the Dominion Government creating a special type of security in which such funds could be invested.

4. "Democratiation of the controls and of the planning and execution of the works programs by the admission of labor, farmer and consumer representatives to all the controlling, planning and administrative bodies.

5. Maintenace of certain controls for as long as they are required to accomplish the purpose of fundamental social reconstruction.

6. Full employment "in the plain, ordinary meaning of the term."

7. Social control of the economic system, to whatever degree and in whatever form may be necessary for full employment.

8. As first steps in reconstruction, a post-war food and housing program designed to assure all Canadians an adequate supply of nourishing food and decent housing; and the raising of rural standards of living to the urban level.

9. Revival of international trade provision for international social control of international monopolies, and a system of international collective security.

10. Amendment of the British North America Act to give the Dominion Government and Parliament power to deal with "genuinely" national social and economic questions and to perform Canada's international obligations, including the conventions of the international labor organization.

The C.C.L. submission was read by Dr. Eugene Forsey, Director of Research, with president A. R. Mosher, secretary - treasurer Pat Conroy and executive secretary Norman Dowd attending.

Dr. M. Doyle Speaker, Uncle Early Minister

BAILIEBORO, July 16 (ENS). — The second service of the Diamond Jubilee of the United Church of Bailieboro was held on Sunday with Dr. Manson Doyle, of Toronto, of the Board of Religious Education as guest speaker.

A unique coincidence welding a link in the chain of the church's history was the fact that Dr. Manson Doyle is a nephew of Rev. Thos Manning, the minister who carried out negotiations for the building of the church sixty years ago.

For the morning service Dr. Doyle chose Matt. 16: vs. 18. 'Upon this rock, will I build my church' declaring that the church is no accident, but that it is a natural result of beleiving Christians polarized around Christ.

Special choir selections were a quartet 'Just as I am' by Miss Winnifred Gainer, Mr. and Mrs. Harland Seens and Eldrilge White, and a full choir anthem 'Bless Thou the Lord'.

At the evening service a letter of greetings and congratulation was read from the Peterborough Presbytery sent by the president Rev. J. W. Wilkison of Havelock also Rev. G. S. Easton president of the Conference sent greetings. Dr. Doyle spoke again.

Special music was presented by the Brotherhood of St. James Peterborough.

Honeymooning Still Occupies Top Place In Wartime Business

Written for The Canadian Press
By WINNIFRED STOKES.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 16 (CP) —Niagara Falls—honeymoon centre of the world and the electrical nerve centre of Ontario—has established an enviable record among Ontario cities for enlistments and production of war supplies.

Sprawled along the shores of the mighty Niagara River, the city also has opened wide its hospitable doors to men and women of His Majesty's Forces from all parts of the Commonwealth and the Empire as well as from others of the United Nations. It also is the wartime home of thousands of war workers who came here from all parts of the Dominion to work in war plants. The city has accommodated this influx of population without any of the feverishness of boom towns and in such a manner that readjustment to peace conditions after the war will be a simple matter.

Produce Power.

Throbbing turbines in the giant Hydro plants along the Niagara River produce 700,000 of the 2,000,000 horse-power used to turn the wheels of industry in Ontario, it is stated by Hon. W. L. Houck, vice-chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and a resident of this community. The privately-owned Canadian Niagara Power Co. distributes power in the peninsula as well exporting some to the United States. Construction of a huge weir in the Upper Niagara River has made an additional 20,000 horse-power available for use in Ontario.

All the industries in Niagara Falls and the adjoining municipalities of Stamford Township and Chippewa Village have been enlarged and converted to war production. A huge secret war plant has been erected near the city. The Toronto Power Co. is turning out electrical equipment for the Royal Canadian Navy under the Government's "bits and pieces" program.

However, honeymooning retains first place among the city's industries and inspite of the war the number of newly married couples coming here has increased greatly.

A.R.P. Began Early

Niagara Falls was one of the first Ontario municipalities to organize a civilian defence corps and now has 1,700 men and women skilled in A.R.P. work.

The junior Chamber of Commerce has organized a "farm commando" brigade to help harvest crops in the district. Victory gardening has become one of the chief hobbies of the citizens who have been given an example in this activity by Mayor George R. Inglis, veteran of the first Great War, and others in public life.

The Volunteer Auxiliary Drivers Corps—a group of young women workers headed by Laura Hyatt—has made a tremendous contribution to the war effort by salvaging metal, papers and other articles which provided $10,000 for the Red Cross. The women of the city are untiring in their efforts on behalf of the Red Cross and in contributing money and articles for bombing victims in England.

Newfoundland Village Destroyed By Fire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 16 (CP Cable)—Trinity Settlement, in the Indian Bay area of eastern Newfoundland, was wiped out by a forest fire and a similar fate threatened another settlement—Wareham—today.

No loss of life occurred. Trinity's population of 250 was evacuated by motor boats rushed to the rescue from many points along the coast.

Latest reports from Wareham stated seven houses already had been destroyed in that community, where about 100 people live.

Loss at Trinity included two mills and other lumbering property, a shop, lodge, school and 20 homes.

The fire has raged for several days.

Captive Germans Refuse To Associate With Their Pals The Captured Italians In Sicily

By JOHN GUNTHER

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST, July 13 (Delayed)—This correspondent saw the first batch of 73 German and Italian prisoners captured in Sicily today. The experience was enlightening. The difference between the small cluster of alert, smartly uniformed, smoothly shaved Germans—two air force officers among them—and the amorphous mass of poorly dressed, dispirited Italians was that between the modern boluevards of Berlin and the most primitive villages of Sicily.

One deeply tanned, blond German perfectly good-humored and still full of confidence, carrying himself more like a superior tourist than a prisoner of war, told a guard:

"Not by any means do we consider the war situation hopeless."

Another said: "Yes we were captured—and it was bad luck."

Another: "We are being well treated here."

The Germans were neat in khaki shorts, sport shoes of excellent material, and looked like the Austrian boys I used to meet years ago at Austrian summer resorts. They kept closely to themselves, separated themselves from the Italians as if they wanted to avoid an invisible infection, spoke of the Italians with utmost contempt.

The Italians, dressed in totally unsuitable baggy pants, ragged shirts and nondescript variety headgear, tumbled off a truck, some surly, some humming. They were so weary that several fell flatfaced on the dusty road. All had to be helped up a steep gangplank by British sailors, who handled their duffel-bags.

The Germans took an isolated place on the boat. Two of them made as if to strum imaginary guitars. One said:

"Well, I hope we have a good time in America."

Reds Within 25 Miles Of Orel Base

Gains Of 10 Miles Are Reported In Soviet Thrust

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, July 17 —AP) — The German High Command has thrown two new divisions, one armoured and one infantry, against the Russian spearhead now threatening Orel, front dispatches said to-day, but the Red Army was reported repulsing all Nazi thrusts and continuing to advance.

One wing of the Red Army's smashing counter-attack was reported to have rolled to within 25 miles of the heavily fortified Nazi base as the Germans rallied all available manpower and equipment in a desperate effort to stave off a major break-through.

Within Artillery Range.

Soviet columns stabbing in from the north and east are within heavy artillery range of Orel, dispatches said, but it was not disclosed whether barrages had actually begun yet. They also could pound the Orel-Bryansk railroad.

(The German communique reported "fierce fighting of defence continued in the Orel area," yesterday, and that Soviet attacks were repulsed in the "hard, fluctuating struggle" with 251 Russian tanks destroyed).

The dispatches said the Russians were sending motorized infantry with tanks and mobile cannon to comb the forest clearings for Nazi troops.

One of the most stubborn battles took place around a village on the west bank of an unidentified river not far from the Russian wedge in the German line,it was reported. The Russians said they captured the village.

Fighting Died Down

Southward along the Orel-Kursk-Belgorod bulge, against which the Nazis hurled a heavy offensive 12 days ago, fighting now has died down to scouting operations.

The war bulletin gave the day's bag as 129 German tanks and 76 planes, raising the 12-day total to

The judge postponed action until Aug. 6. In the meantime he ordered more prospecting for dead cats in Fortine's garden.

Is Next Jump To Islands In Aegean Sea?

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

IZMIR, Turkey, July 17 (AP).— Residents of this second largest Turkish city are keeping a weather eye to seaward where, a few miles away, lies Chios, one of the Axis-occupied Aegean Islands.

With the Allied invasion of Sicily apparently going forward without a hitch, rumor here says this week-end may be critical for the Dodecanese and Greek Aegean islands.

Automobile owners in Izmir haven't received their gasoline rations for two days, possibly indicating the Turks have decided to economize on existing stocks because they are afraid a campaign in the Aegean would cut them off from Syrian supplies.

It is persistently rumored here the Izmir-Istanbul mail boat, which usually makes two round-trips weekly, will not sail for the next few days due to the danger in the Aegean.

What these rumors and indications add up to is uncertain, for the Allied Command is keeping its plans to itself, but there is a definite air of expectancy here which, of course, may have no foundation.

Must Break Barrier

The Aegean islands including Dodecanese are a long archipelago stringing out from near Salonika to Crete, and form a barrier which must be broken before an invasion of Greece could be undertaken.

The southern islands are under Italian command and largely garrisoned with Italian troops. Lately, troopships have left Salonika with between 9,000 and 10,000 German coast guards, artillerymen and signal corps troops intended to stiffen the Italian defence.

Ideal Landing Spot

Next only to Crete as an outer defence bastion for Greece and the Balkans is Rhodes, 50 miles long, 25 wide, about 300 miles from Cyprus and within rowboat range of the Turkish shore. The island has sandy beaches with deep water approaches almost all the way around. Some beaches would make an ideal landing spot for Allied invasion boats.

The Rhodes garrison is principally Italian, and large. Estimates place it in the neighborhood of 30,000, exclusive of recent German reinforcements.

The Italians evacuated all women and children from the island almost two months ago.

The next most important Dodecanese island is Leros, a few miles northwest of Rhodes. Some experts rate it the most important. It is a natural submarine base and a large number of Italian submarines are based there.

Refugees reaching neutral territory from the Dodecanese say the morale of Italian troops there is low, due to insufficient food and long confinement. But they emphasize the Axis means to fight hard to keep this outer ring of defences intact.

RAF Bombers Blast Power Plants

Britain-Based Planes Fly Over Alps For Second Night

LONDON, July 17 —(CP)— Britain-based R. A. F. bombers smashed at Italy's transportation system with a second straight night assault across the Alps last night by blasting the power facilities which feed Mussolini's electrifed railways while Mosquito bombers battered Munich on the German-Italian Brenner line.

Last night's targets in Italy, as was the case the night before, were transformer and switching stations through which flow the current generated in the Alps to keep Italian rail supplies moving.

The strength of the raiding force was not given immediately, but the fact the R.A.F. bombers set the alarms wailing in western and central Switzerland would indicate it was a powerful one.

The offensive against the Continent was kept up in daylight raids to-day by fleets of twin-engined bombers which started shuttling across the Channel with the rising sun.

Target for Medium Bombers.

Abbeville, important French railway centre, was the target for medium bombers which struck at dusk yesterday to leave great fires burning in that control point for all rail traffic to the north.

The raid was made at the cost of one bomber and protected by a thick blanket of Allied fighters, including those of the R.C.A.F.

The dusk attack fololwed up the
The dusk attack followed up the night blows by the R.A.F. which cut a path of ruin from Northern Italy to the low countries.

In releasing additional information on the Thursday night raids over Northern Italy the Air Ministry said attacks were on electrical nerve centres and were closely tied up with the Battle of Sicily in crippling the Italian railway system. Three of the four transformers hit were near Bologna, rail centre through which runs the Brenner Pass line from Munich over which reinforcements from Germany must travel.

Two Sisters In R.C.A.F.

Invasion Of Europe May Follow Sicilian Pattern

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 17—(AP).—The imminent prospect of a clean-cut victory in Sicily has confirmed the Allied formula for an amphibious assault on western Europe and suggests strongly in the view of some observers that the same pattern will work against Hitler's Atlantic wall of western France.

There is no intention to imply, these sources pointed out, that the Germans are relying on mere scarecrow defences. However, reports from the Mediterranean front of surprisingly low Allied casualties and rapid progress throw a clearer light on the Nazi theme of impregnability.

The ascendency of Allied air power leaves little doubt, it was said, that the R. A. F., R. C. A. F., and the 8th United States Air Force will be able to lay down the same efficient umbrella over an Allied landing on the French coast as over Sicily.

Air Force Is Stronger.

British bases are closer to the west wall than the Allied Mediterranean bases are to Sicily. Although the German Air Force in the west is undoubtedly superior to that in Sicily the Allies have proved repeatedly they can control the skies over France.

A simple fact illustrated by Sicily seems to be that the Axis, for all its reserves, can not maintain an adequate front against the Russian army and still man the whole rim of the continent to fight a concentrated attack at beach heads of Allied choosing, the observers here said.

In their own broadcasts the Germans and Italians said they were fully aware of the impending attack on Sicily. Thus the only surprise element was where the Allies would strike. It was obvious that even with 250,000 to 400,000 men estimated by the Allies to be in Sicily they could not be thinned out to man the 500-mile coast and still have sufficient for a mobile reserve.

That same problem is magnified to cover an 8,000-mile coastal front on Western Europe.

Guard Against Undue Optimism

OTTAWA, July 17 —(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in the House of Commons that if the Canadian people guard against undue optimism, they "have every reason to rejoice at the results so far achieved in the first major operations in which the Canadian army has taken part."

During his statement, made a week after the landing on Sicily, the prime minister revealed that Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., is in command of the Canadian forces in the Mediterranean, including Sicily.

Mr. King said Canada had reason to be thankful the landings on Sicily were completed "with very light casualties," and that resistance during the first week of operations had been comparatively slight.

Rommel Left France In Hurry

LONDON, July 17 — (CP). — The Algiers radio, which said it was quoting a reliable Swiss source, reported to-day that Nazi Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel hurriedly left Aix-les-Bains, France, for Lyons the night of the Allied landings in Sicily and that since then no news has been received of his whereabouts.

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

A report that Rommel was shot down in a transport plane en route to Sicily was broadcast over an underground German radio station on Tuesday night. The broadcast was recorded in Sweden and the story was relayed to Great Britain.

Greatest Battle Of Invasion Unfolding As First Attacks Of Nazi Divisions Beaten Off

Messina Again Hit Crushing Blow By Allied Bombers

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 17 —(AP). —Allied air units struck new paralyzing blows at the Axis lifeline from Italy to Sicily yesterday and the previous night with heavy attacks on the Messina Strait transport system and enemy air bases from heel to toe on the Italian boot.

American heavy bombers battered San Giovanni, mainland terminus of the Messina ferry route, following up a night attack on the same target by Wellingtons of the R.A.F.

The big bombers planted rows of explosives on docks, railroad sidings and the ferry line itself. Aerial reconnaissance showed that at least 50 direct hits were scored in the target area.

Other Allied raiders battered air fields at Reggio Calabria and Vibo Valentia in daylight raids, continuing assaults that started the previous night on these objectives and another air field at Crotone, and air units operating over Sicily kept up their pounding of Axis communications in support of Allied invasion forces.

Americans Bomb Bari

American bombers from Middle East bases again joined in the daylight offensive, striking this time at Bari airdrome, Axis fighter and fighter-bomber base on the Adriatic coast of southern Italy.

Hangars, adminstration buildings, dispersal areas and runways were covered by concentrations of bomb bursts and at least four grounded aircraft were set afire, a communique said.

In this raid the Americans bumped into heavy fighter opposition, destroying 11 enemy planes, probably destroying seven others and damaging two more. Three bombers were lost.

Allied air units operating from North African and island bases meanwhile accounted for 13 enemy planes, four of them downed by night fighters, while losing four aircraft of their own.

Other bombers also crossed the Messina Strait to strike at Reggio Calabria and Vibo Valentia on the toe of the Italian boot.

It was disclosed officially that Field Marshal Baron von Richthofen, cousin of the German First Great War ace, now is directing the air defences of the Axis in Sicily.

163 Axis Planes Lost.

The score against him during the first week of the Allied invasion was 163 Axis planes destroyed against the loss of 69 by the Allies. In addition, the total of five merchant ships have been sunk and one tanker and four destroyers damaged.

Widespread attacks on enemy rail and highway communications throughout Sicily continued with "large numbers" of transport destroyed or damaged.

An Allied air communique said the enemy concentration centre of Randazo,— just across Mt. Etna from Catania, was pounded during the night by medium bombers.

Canadians Are Spoiling For Good Fight

By HAROLD V. BOYLE,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

WITH ALLIED FORCES IN SOUTHERN ITALY, July 14 — (Delayed) — (AP) — The most unhappy soldiers in Sicily are not the defeated Axis troops but the thousands of victorious Canadians, disappointed because they are unable to force the fleeing enemy to stand and fight them.

These cocky lads, immensely proud to be members of the Canadian Army, threaded their way through heavy fortifications after landing on the beach of Pachino on the southeast corner of the island.

In a triumphant march through Ispica, Modica and Ragusa, a town of 40,000 poulation which is one of the key cities of southern Sicily, the Canadians captured more than 3,000 prisoners in three days, but their success only aggravated their discontent.

Only a Sideshow.

For 3½ years during which they helped protect the British Isles against invastion the Canadian were spoiling for a good fight— and they still are. They feel a bit cheated because they think Sicily is only a sideshow to the main battle.

Too Slow For them.

A group of these husky, bloodthirsty neighbors of the United States who were assigned to the task of policing Ragusa explained the source of their discontent while munching oranges on a street corner.

'It's too slow for us here," said Cpl. William Purves of Grand Prairie, Alta. "We want to fight — we want to get at the enemy."

"I expect we will be going faster soon," said Pte William Korbett of Edmonton. "Those Germans ought to give us some fun."

The Canadians complained the Italian "vino" only made them thirsty.

"I just had my first orange in three years," said Lieut. Maxwell Saville of Edmonton who was one of the most bitter because the Italians did not afford sufficinet competition.

'We floated in on Sunday morning with very light casualties," he said. "Then 18 of us rolled into Spica and the whole Italian garrison came swarming out of walls and holes to surrender. They had bushels of ammunition—enough for a whole fortress and if they really wanted to

8th Army Approaching Outskirts Of Catania, Allied Line Moves Up

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 17—(AP).—The Canadians have captured Caltagiron and Grammichele, strategic towns in the centre of the Allied line in Sicily, it was announced today.

Further to the northeast, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army was believed to be approaching the outskirts of Catania after smashing back the Herman Goering and elements of the 15th German armored divisions in the biggest battle yet fought for the Italian island.

Going forward with a powerful Allied war fleet on his seaward flank gunning the enemy's positions, Montgomery has captured both Lentini and Scordia, at the entrance to the Catania plain, Allied headquarters announced, while on all other parts of the Allied front the advance continued.

15 Miles Below Catania.

Lentini is about 15 miles below Catania, the prize seaport and air base half-way up the east Sicilian coast, and Scordia is nine miles inland from Lentini.

Rounding out the capture of four towns by the Allies, the Canadians took Caltagirone, 20 miles inland from the American bridgehead at Gela, and Grammichele, six miles to the east.

With French Goumiers, fierce knife and tommy-gun wielding warriors from the Moroccan hills on their left flank, the Americans of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton were believed to have emerged from the hilly ground that ringed their beachheads and to have penetrated inland for perhaps 30 miles.

The Canadians had cut into the heart of the enemy's defence system in central Sicily by their capture of Caltagirone about 28 miles due west of Montgomery's forces at Lentini.

Allied Line Moves Up.

The whole Allied line in that sector had moved up almost abreast of Montgomery, and the new surge gave the Allies possession of a lateral east-west highway and a valley running east-west which will greatly facilitate the task of maintaining unbroken communications with the British 8th Army.

(The London Daily Express said Canadian and American troops also were pouring onto the Catania plain from the Vizzini area, joining hands with Montgomery for a push on Catania, key Sicilian port and air base midway up the east coast.

(The Algiers radio said British troops were attacking the outer defences of Catania itself.

(Indicating the Americans were putting on a powerful push to broaden their coastal base to the west also, the Italian high command announced in its communique that a bitter battle was raging near Agrigento, as well as near Catania.

(Agrigento is about 12 miles west of Naro, captured by the Americans a few days ago, and only three or four miles inland from Porto Empedocle. At Agrigento and Porto Empedocle are important Italian air bases, harbours and troop concentration centres.

(Capture of Agrigento would give the Allies possession of well over half of the Sicilian south coast and occupation of about 150 miles of Sicily's coastline.

(Some observers estimated that one-eighth of the area of Sicily now is in Allied hands.)

At the end of a week's lightning campaign the Allied armies were thus firmly established at bridgeheads all along the southeast coast and in control of two of the most strategically important roads in the area.

Trained Men Govern Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 17— (CP). —The first combined Anglo-American military government of its kind accompanied the Allied invasion army to govern Sicily, it was announced today.

(Hundreds of British and United States officers and men, who were trained secretly for months to govern occupied enemy territory, quickly established headquarters.

Canadian personnel is included in the new military government, presumably in key positions in which British and American officers alternate.

No further information about Canadians was available here but it was believed they were officers who are experts in law, finance, public health, public safety, and general governmental administration.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower designated Gen. Sir Harold Alexander as military governor with supreme authority in Sicily.

The Allied military government organization itself is headed by Maj.-Gen. Lord Rennell of Rodd as chief civil affairs officer. Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSheery of the United States is deputy chief.

No Political Connection.

It was officially declared that establishment of the Allied military government has "no political implications of any kind."

Reaffirms Stand

MONTREAL, July 17 (CP).—Gen. Henri Giraud last night in a broadcast to Canadians reaffirmed that Frenchmen are "determined to bring all our material and strategic resources into the common effort of the United Nations."

Co-operation Of Allies Brings Success

No Bickerings And Jealousies As Were Found In Last War Seen Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Divers elements go to make up the victory which the United Nations are forging from white-hot steel, and the masterful manner in which the Sicilian stronghold has been invaded emphasizes again that unprecedentedly unselish Allied co-operation is the ranking reason for success.

Taking it by and large, there exists between the Allies a cordiality —and in many cases a real comradeship — which wasn't even dreamed of in the last war.

Looking back at the last conflict, I shall not soon forget the consternation caused when some American officers, fresh from the United States with newly-arrived troops, announced in so many words that they knew how to make war, and did not want any advice from the British.

That sort of thing went on, with Americans, British, French and the other Allies all contributing their share to the mess. The feeling ran from the lowest to the highest places, even resulting in shocking jealousies as to which Ally should have supreme command in combined operations.

What a change now. We are swapping our resources and our hospitality. There's no limit to the exchange; the lid is off. On the battle-fronts it's share and share alike, and the greatest soldiers of one country are happy to subordinate themselves to the command of a colleague from another nation — if that's best for the cause.

The reason for this remarkable change? Well, let's just call it a horse-sense truce.

Perhaps the most potent factor in drawing us together was the mortal danger the Allies were in. We found ourselves fighting for our very survival against a barbaric enemy who had the initial advantage. Then, too, we have been smart enough to profit by the mistakes and bickerings of the last war.

It was that willing unity which gave the Allies their victory in North Africa. It's the mainspring of that greatest of all amphibious operations which is being carried out in Sicily.

Italy Not Surrendering

Country Has Strung Along With Hitler Too Long

LONDON, July 17 — (CP). — In the first direct reply to the Churchill-Roosevelt surrender demand, the Rome Radio intimated today that Italy had strung along with Hitler too long to turn back now.

"Even if Italy surrendered," it said, it would not mean she would have found peace once again. If, as the British and Americans say, their goal is Berlin, then their way to it is Italy.

"The Italian people would still be in the war; they would be asked by the invaders to turn their weapons against Germany.

"Italians know full well that for them this war is one of life or death."

The broadcast same soon after the Italian High Command communique had announced that Allied planes flew over Rome last night and dropped leaflets.

Beurling Speaks His Mind

Lot Of Harsh Words Spoken About Fighter

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

At the R.A.F. Gunnery School Somewhere in England, July 17 — (CP)—There has been a lot of harsh words spoken about Buzz Buerling's habit of speaking his mind, whatever the consequences, but you never hear them from his immediate fighting and flying associates.

Every one qualifies this way: "He really should be able to say what he likes. Nobody can look at his record and say he does things wrong."

Beurling has done a lot of unorthdox things on this side. He is the only man in the memory of Fleet Street who thumbed his nose (and that's no figure of speech) at a group of newspapermen in front of Buckingham Palace after an investiture. They all laughed. None of them resented it.

He is the only man I have met on this side who will speak his full mind at any time and never specify whether it be published or not. He doesn't care whose toes he tramples. He doesn't like being interviewed, is always impatient to get away if he has some flying to do, but he answers every question directly.

U.S. BOMBERS ARE BLASTING JAPANESE AIR BASES

Jap Air Base At Munda Dive-Bombed

100-Plane Attack Made By U.S. Flyers On Japanese Base

By C. YATES McDANIEL,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, South West Pacific, July 17 —(AP) — Munda is being dive-bombed to destruction.

Eighty-two more tons of bombs burst Friday upon the Japanese air base whose defenders, from their foxholes, have seen the Central Solomons skies darkened by bombers from the first day of the Allied invasion on June 30.

More than 100 of these planes delivered the latest of these low level attacks which in a short while have exploded in excess of 300 tons of bombs on Munda.

Twenty-eight tons of 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombs blasted at Munda's guns and men on July 3; 70 tons on July 9; 67 tons on July 10; 52 tons on July 11; 31 tons on July 13. Other raids have been made without the communique disclosing bomb weights—but always the raiders are dive bombers and torpedo bombers.

The Lambeti plantation positions of the Japanese two miles east of the airdrome and the air field itself were yesterday's targets. The communique made no further reference to Allied jungle fighters who have been closing in on Munda. Heavy rains swept the fighting sector.

On Northeast New Guinea, where Australian and American conquerors of Mubo now are moving against Komiatum, within seven miles of their objective of Salamaua, Japanese air base, Douglas attack planes bombed and strafed in support of the ground troops.

George Cook Arrives Home After 3 Years

First Canadian to win the George Medal and Bar, George Cook of Lakefield, who was proprietor of the Lakefield Boat and Canoe works prior to his enlistment, has arrived in Canada from the Mediterranean, and will spend a few weeks vaction with his mother at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Parsons at Loon Lake.

It is understood that he recently was promoted to the naval rank of Lieutenant Commander, after more than three years in that branch of the service, chiefly in the sea which Mussolini set out to claim as solely Italian water. His Commission preceded him to Canada and was news when he arrived home in this country.

Lt.-Com. Cook has seen a great deal of service in the wresting of the Mediterranean from the enemy, and has been latterly engaged in the dangerous business of taking the "sting" out of enemy mines, torpedoes and bombs, and rendering them harmless.

ADDED home security has always been one of the foremost objectives of Brantford Roofing's production ... extra protection against the ravages of fire, time and weather. But, as this soldier typifies, men who used to help Brantford Roofing build for security are out battling for it now.

Because Brantford Roofing products have a petroleum base—and oil is strategic material nowadays—the supply of Brantford Roofing for houses is limited. Any quantities available for civilian use are rationed to dealers, to ensure an equitable share in each community. To stretch raw materials as far as possible, all Brantford Roofing lines have been standardized on a minimum range of styles and colours.

If you are faced with roofing problems, ask your Brantford Roofing dealer to assist you. He will help you make your present roof last longer and effect urgent repairs with a minimum of new material. He will also help you plan now for a completely renovated roof after victory.

Power Benefits Be Extended Nixon Promises

BLIND RIVER, Ont., July 17 — (CP). — The Liberal Government will extend the benefits of electric power to all rural districts, Premier Nixon said last night in an election campaign address in favor of Lynn W. Miller, Liberal candidate in Algoma-Manitoulin constituency.

"During the Liberal administration, more than 10,500 miles of the power lines were constructed, and we will extend this as soon as the materials are available," he added.

One step in the development of the post-war tourist trade will be an extension of the work of the Fish and Game Department and more fish hatcheries will be built as one step in a fish and game conservation program.

Criticizing the election platform of Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, who said his government would assume 50 per cent of the cost of education, Mr. Nixon said the funds must come from the taxpayer whether collected by the municipality or the Provincial Government.

"It has been the policy of the present administration to pay large grants to school districts with small assessments," he added. "In some districts we are now paying more than 70 per cent of the cost."

1st Division Commanded By Gen. Simonds

LONDON, July 17 —(CP Cable)— Word from the Sicilian front to-day indicated that Maj.-Gen. Guy G. Simonds is commanding the Canadian 1st Division as it fights as part of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army.

It has previously been made known that the Canadian 1st Division is engaged in the island assault which began a week ago to-day, but the commander's name was withheld.

Yesterday Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent with the division, was permitted to say that the Canadians were commanded by a 40-year-old General from Kingston, Ont. This was virtual identification, but at that time Simond's name was censored from copy leaving London.

To-day Peter Stursburg of Vancouver, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation correspondent, in telling of a visit by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied Commander-in-Chief, to the Canadian area in Sicily, recounted how Gen. Eisenhower in a jeep encountered Lt.-Col. Ken Bradford of Toronto on a dusty road.

Wrote Strusburg:—

"Gen. Einshower jumped out and said, 'I am glad to see a Canadian officer. I am glad to have Canadians under my command.'

"Einsenhower askd Col. Bradford if he would deliver a message to Gen. Simonds saying the general hoped to see him soon."

Followed Salmon

Gen. Simonds took command of the Canadian first division in Britain a few months ago when Maj.-Gen. H.L.H. Salmon of Winnipeg and Toronto was killed in an airplane crash.

Before Gen. Salmon, the first division had had two other commanders, Lt.-Gen. (then Major-General) A. G. L. McNaughton, now commander of the Canadian Army Overeas, and Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, now officer commanding the Canadian Pacific command.

Earlier this year Gen. Simonds went to North Africa as a brigadier from the Canadian Army and saw the victorious 8th Army beat Marshal Rommel at the Mareth Line and take Sfax. Then, unexpectedly, he was summoned back to Britain to find himself a general and divisional commander. He began the war as a major.

An Englishman by birth, Gen. Simonds is tall and dark, with the air of a man confident of his capabilities.

He was born at Bury St. Edmunds, England, in 1903 and came to Canada as a youngster. Educated at Ottawa's Ashbury College, he went to Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., graduating in 1925. He entered the permanent Canadian forces an an artilleryman.

Before the war, he made two trips to Britain, first for a gunnery course in 1932 and later for a course at the staff college at Camberly. He was attached to Sandhurst and Woolwich after his staff course.

8th Army Is 13 Miles Below Catania

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 17 — (AP). —The greatest battle of the Sicilian invasion was reported unfolding on the Catania Plain to-day as British and Canadian forces beat off the first Nazi divisions encountered there and pushed on toward Catania itself.

Fighting described as desperate already was in progress late yesterday as Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army, of which the Canadian 1st Division is a part, pushed into the plain above Lentini, 13 miles below Catania, reported in flames from a heavy pounding by Allied warships.

(The London Daily Express said Canadian and American troops also were pouring on to the plain from Vizzini to the south-west in flanking attack. The report had no confirmation, however, and official announcements said yesterday that Vizzini, about 25 miles inland, had been captured by the British and Canadians.)

(Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press war correspondent at Air Force Headquarters in North Africa, reported to-day the British and Canadians were already at least four miles north of the captured port of Augusta, pushing forward along a front stretching 112 miles in conjunction with the Americans.

(He said that if the Allies succeed in taking Catania the morale of the Axis troops in the west end of the island would drop because their chance of escaping to the European mainland would be lessened.)

Massing on Catania Plain

Almost all the German defenders of Sicily were reported massing on the Catania Plain, which lies across the 8th Army's northward drive to Catania and Messina and extends west to Gerbini, around which the Axis still holds eight satellite air ports.

The 8th Army encountered units of the crack Herman Goering armored division north of Letini yesterday and hurled it back, although the Nazis, unsupported by their units, were reported to have fought doggedly. The 15th German armored division, said to be a collection of units originally destined for Tunisia, was reported held in reserve on the plain.

Observers were confident the Allied tank strength was sufficient to overcome any opposition.

Other observers emphasized the developing battle as the hardest the Allies likely will face in Sicily

3,181 tanks and 1,762 planes. German losses in personnel also continued to mount, the communique said, listing the total at 62,000.

The Nazi High Command was reported using all its available motor transport to rush reserves to the threatened front.

The three - pronged Russian drive converging on Orel had been reported previously to have carried the Red Army 12 to 48 miles into enemy-occupied territory.

Deep in Nazi Defences

There was every indication from the Russian communique that the Red Army had bitten deeply into German defences.

Russian reports said that in some sectors the Germans were in somewhat "disorderly" retreat. Of 10 divisions facing the Red Army, five were reported routed while the remainder "suffered a heavy defeat." Four of the 10 divisions were armored, the communique said.

Air Force in Action

The Russians said the advance was heavily opposed by the German air force which was said to have flown 1,500 sorties in a single day. Heavily mined areas over which the Soviet tank divisions were advancing also slowed down the attack.

At the southern end of the Kursk salient, where the Germans in the first few days of the battle made their only gains, the Russians said they still were whittling the wedge which the Nazis have held for the last 10 days.

Cherry Crop

TORONTO, July 17 — (CP). — minimum price of nine cents a pound for sour cherries for processing delivered at the manufacturer's plant has been set by the Farm Products Control Board for the 1943 crop, it was announced last night. The Board's order is subject to approval by the prices board.

The announcement said that the total cherry crop for 1943 will be only about half the amount processed in 1942 and added that tree mortality has also been serious with growers suffering not only crop losses but capital investment as well.

Board Claimed No Credit For Munro Work

OTTAWA, July 17—(CP).—Brooke Claxton, Parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Friday told the House of Commons it would be "preposterous" for him to claim for the Wartime Information Board credit for the "fine stories" on the Sicilian campaign by Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent.

He said editorials on his statement to the House last Tuesday had "said or implied" that such credit had been claimed, but "such an interpretation was not justified by the record."

Mr. Claxton said he had been attempting to show that W.I.B. had "done useful work in the background" in connection with the "early and favorable notice" relating to the invasion of Sicily.

He gave credit to all the agencies engaged in getting the news of the invasion to the public, Mr. Claxton said, but his statement of Tuesday had to do with "the early news of the landing in Sicily," contained in the dispatch from Washington disclosing that Canadians were in the action, and the statement of the Prime Minister issued immediately after, both in the first hour of last Saturday.

"The dispatches from correspondents with the troops only came more than 24 hours later."

Working On Story Thursday

He said the board had been working on this story as early as Thursday, endeavoring to see that the first announcement of an invasion included mention of the Canadians.

"It also made arrangements to ensure that the Prime Minister's statement immediately afterwards was quickly and effectively distributed, particularly in the United States."

"In the statement (Tuesday) nothing whatever was said to detract from the work in Sicily of Mr. Munro or other correspondents or of The Canadian Press itself. Mr. Munro's despatches were superb.

"They have done much to tell the Canadian people vividly about their troops in action for which I do not for a moment claim credit for the Wartime Information Board.

"In this case the board had to do with the early announcements and the quick and effective distribution of the first statement about Canadian participation emanating from Canada."

Education Tax Said Unfair By CCF Leader

BELLEVILLE, July 17 — Proposing that at least half the cost of education be met through the Provincial treasury, E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the C.C.F. Party in Ontario last night at a meeting in Belleville charged that the present method of paying for education through municipal taxes is unfair.

"The C.C.F. proposal means that instead of bearing only 13 per cent of the educational costs in Ontario, Queen's Park would carry 50 per cent," Mr. Jolliffe explained. "In some places it would be more and in some less but the average would be at least 50 per cent."

"The idea," he continued, "is to establish equality of educational opportunity. That will mean larger grants in some cases than in others and grants will be made on the basis of need."

Mr. Joliffe said that Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative leader, had been trying to frighten the electors "with dark hints about things which don't exist in the C. C. F. program." Mr. Jolliffe spoke at an election campaign meeting here.

"He talks as though annuities and insurance policies would be in danger if the C.C.F. took power," Mr. Jolliffe said. "People who have placed their savings in annuities and insurance contracts have nothing to fear from the C. C.F."

He added that the C.C.F. would create conditions of full employment and real social security "which will enable people to enjoy the benefit of their hard work and their savings."

The C.C.F. planned to establish equality of educational opportunity, he said.

Of Course You Didn't Want An Election

Nobody did, except Premier Nixon, greedy to grab another five years' power and Mr. King and his associates at Ottawa, anxious to test public opinion in Ontario. The new Ontario Liberal leader, whose record shows that he is always ready to hitch-hike on any vehicle that seems to be heading in the direction of office, has chosen to throw this province into the turmoil of an election at a time when Ontario troops are in the thick of the fighting in Sicily and when hard-pressed Ontario farmers, short of help, are battling desperately to handle the harvest and grow the food to feed Canadians and their allies. His action should be condemned at the polls on August 4 with an avalanche of votes against the leader and party guilty of such an offence.

Nobody, we repeat, except Mr. Nixon and his associates wanted an election. But one has to be fought and it is of the most vital importance that Premier Nixon should get the answer he deserves.

This election will settle the question of what kind of government Ontario is to have for the next five years. What kind of a government that will have to deal, we hope, with post - war problems. Ontario must be made a province fit for heroes to come back to when the war is over and if the Nixon administration has no more to offer than its record for the past five years God help the boys when they come home. Floating along on the financial buoyancy of liquor and beer money, the Liberal administration since the last election has been one of the laziest, smuggest and most complacent administrations in Ontario history. If it has done anything more than get the liquor and beer situation into a hopeless muddle, few people have heard of it. If Mr. Nixon has anything concrete to offer in the way of dealing with the tremendous problem of rehabilitating Ontario soldiers and Ontario war workers his speeches have thoroughly concealed it.

HE CAN'T REPRESENT US!

One of the official reasons for calling an election at this time is that there are eleven ridings in Ontario without a representative at Queen's Park. Strangely enough the Liberals of West Peterborough have chosen to nominate a candidate whose election would mean that this riding would be without a voice in the next Legislature.

Capt. Alex. Elliott is doing a big job, a much bigger job than representing us at Queen's Park and everybody honors him for it. But he cannot do that big job and still speak for this riding at Queen's Park. If he were to be elected Peterborough would be in exactly the same position as the eleven other constituencies whose lack of representation supplied Mr. Nixon with an excuse for calling the present election.

In short if Peterborough wants to be represented in the Legislature the choice in this riding narrows down to the candidates of the Progressive-Conservative and the C.C.F. parties.

Electors should have no difficulty in making the choice between the clean-cut 22-point program outlined by George Drew, the Progressive-Conservative leader and the visionary and nebulous promises of the C.C.F.

THEY'RE ALL IN IT!

There are well-meaning folk in the C. C. F., many of them. There are also all the leftists and radicals and socialists and faddists in the province, all the isolationists and the communists and the fomenters of war strikes. If you can find any three of them that gives you the same synopsis of C.C.F. aims and policies you are luckier than most people. The majority of its exponents seems to think the Co-operative Commonwealth program means three car-garages, a radio in every room, bath-rooms on every floor, a three-day work week and all of these things paid for in some mysterious way by the state without touching the pockets of the individual.

In Peterborough thinking electors are already deciding that voting for a candidate who cannot possibily represent this riding, or for a standard-bearer who hopes to ride into office on the strength of a Santa Claus C.C.F. policy would be a sheer waste of the privilege of voting.

That is why they are rallying to the support of HAROLD R. SCOTT, veteran of the First Great War and candidate of the Progressive Conservative party, a business man who will really represent this riding in the new government led by another veteran of the Great War, George Drew.

Galilee of Christ's Time Ireland of Roman Empire

REV. E. R. JAMES.

Jesus was Transfigured Before Them. St. Matthem 17:2.

Jesus Was Transfigured Before Whom? Peter, James and John, who were of the inner circle of the Apostolic band. They were men who had a closer spiritual affinity to the Lord Christ.

A great crisis had arisen in the Master's ministry. In the eyes of the Jewish church authorities He was a Revolutionist. The disciples were plain men of Galilee taught to look upon their Church authorities with deep respect and reverence. It shocked them to think that they looked upon Him as a Teacher of rank heresy.

On the other hand the great mass of the people felt that He was not a revoluntionist. He would not raise a revolt against the Roman Government. You must remember that Galilee was the Ireland of the Roman Empire and seethed with revolutionists. The Zealots, one of them was in the Apostolic Band, were Nationalists of the deepest dye.

St. Peter had discovered His secret. "Thou are the Christ" is his confession. It was but part of His secret. They are to be convinced that He is indeed "The Lamb of God"—both Priest and Victim. Through His willing obedience He is to offer Himself "as a full, perfect and sufficient sacrifice, oblation and satisfaction for the sins of the whole world." This inner circle is to learn that His rejection and crucifixion was indeed the will of God.

St. Luke tells us that "as He was praying" He was transfigured before them. Consciously Our Lord had placed Himself in the Presence of the Father. He poured out His soul in intense prayer and supplication. As a real Man the future looked dreadful. Something of that is implied in the latter words: —"He set His Face steadfastly to go to Jersualem." "As He was praying" the glory of God came upon Him. The sense of that Presence filled His heart and soul with such joy that His Face did shine as the sun. Our Lord realized something of the glory that He had left behind Him when "He came down from heaven and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary and was made Man."

There stood with Him Moses and Elijah representing the Law and the Prophets. They spake of "His decease," His exodus, His going forth which He was to accomplish in Jerusalem. The appearance of Moses and Elijah would satisfy the Apostles that He was not a law breaker, are revolutionist. Moreover the three saw something of His divine glory.

"Jesus was transfigured before them." The Apostles saw the mysterious change of His earthly Body. It became etherilalised, to use a modern expression. His transfiguration helped them to understand something of His resurrection and that He was indeed the risen Lord. Peter and John on the resurrection morn ran to the sepulchre. It is written:—"They saw and believed." The statement is clear and abrupt. This vision on the Mount helped them at that hour.

St. Paul teaches that the Christ must be formed in you. Slowly year by year there must be seen something of the Christ appearing in you. You must be "another Christ" as a modern teacher tells us. He must become incarnate in you by the Holy Spirit. A missionary lady was speaking to a crowd of villagers in India telling them about the Lord Jesus; how He loved people; healed their sick and comforted them in their times of sorrow. When she paused a voice from the crowd exclaimed: —"Lady, we have seen your Jesus. He lives in our village." Later she discovered that an aged catechist left his home and lived in that village. When the plague came he ministered to the dying, comforted the mourners and cared for the orphans. The villagers recognised the word picture.

How the story rebukes us. "We have seen your Jesus" is the greatest need of to-day. Can your friends say of you:—"He lives in our village, our town, our community?"

WE BEHELD HIS GLORY, THE GLORY AS OF THE ONLY BEGOTTEN OF THE FATHER, FULL OF GRACE AND TRUTH.

God Encourages Moses For Task of Leading

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform lesson on the above topic for July 18 is Exodus 3:13-4:31, the Golden Text being Exodus 3:12, "Certainly I will be with thee.")

THE CALLING of Moses to his great task of leading the Children of Israel out of the land of Egypt is given a larger space in the Bible than the calling or conversion of any other person, probably because it was so important in the history of his nation. Moses seems to have been quite overcome by the high honor of being chosen by the Lord, and quite certain that he was not the one to do the work. It took time and patience to convince him that he indeed was the man, and none other.

When I come to the children of Israel, whom shall I say sent me? he asks. "What shall I say unto them?"

God answered, "I am that I am . . . thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, the Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent you: this is My name for ever, and this is My memorial unto all generations."

God instructed Moses that he should gather the elders of his people together and tell them that the God of their fathers had seen their affliction and would lead them out of the land where they were so cruelly treated. He warned Moses, however, that the king would not let them go, but He, the Lord, would "stretch out My hand and smite Egypt with all My wonders which I will do in the midst thereof: and after that he will let you go."

Told to "Borrow" Clothes, Jewels

They should not go empty handed, however, but should "borrow" or ask for jewels and clothes to take with them so that they would be wealthy. We can only surmise that this was not intended as a robbery of the Egyptians, but that the Israelites were entitled to these things as they had earned them by their labors.

Moses was not yet convinced and asked by what token he could prove he really was sent of God. "What is that in thy hand?" asked the Lord. "A rod." He was told to cast the rod on the ground and it became a serpent of which he was frightened. "Put forth thy hand and take it by the tail," he was told, and when he did it again became a rod.

He was next told to put his hand in his bosom, and when he withdrew it it was white like a leper's hand: do it again, he was told, and the hand became normal. The last miracle he was to perform to convince people he was God's messenger was to take some of the water from the Nile in his hand and throw it upon the ground, when it would become blood.

Moses' next objection was that he was not eloquent, but the Lord asked him "Who hath made man's mouth? or who maketh the dumb or deaf, or the seeing, or the blind? have not I the Lord?" .. .. "I will be thy mouth, and teach thee what thou shalt say."

Even this was not enough for Moses, and he asked the Lord to please send someone else. At this the Lord grew angry, and he said to Moses, "Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can speak well. And also, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee: and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart. And thou shalt speak unto him, and put words in his mouth and I will be with thy mouth and will teach you what ye shall do. And he shall be thy sopkesman unto the people."

Moses Is Convinced

Moses was finally convinced that he was the man, and he went to his father-in-law, Jethro, and asked to be allowed to take his wife and sons back to Egypt. Jethro told him to "go in peace," so Moses set his wife and two sons on a donkey and started, for the Lord had assured him that all the men that sought his life were dead.

Moses' younger son had never been circumcised, and because of this the Lord sought to kill him but Moses' wife Zipporah, circumcised him and then apparently went back to her father, Jethro, and Moses went on alone. Aaron was told by the Lord to meet his brother, and he did, and they kissed each other affectionately when they met in the "mount of God."

Moses "told Aaron all the words of the Lord who had sent him and all the signs which He had commanded him." Then Moses and Aaron gathered together the elders of children of Israel. It seems that even in their state of bondage they still maintained their organized religion and elected their leaders or elders.

"And Aaron spake all the words which the Lord had spoken unto Moses and did the signs in the sight of the people.

"And the people believed: and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that He had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped."

So was the leader chosen and the plan set to rescue the tribes of Joseph from their oppressors in Egypt.

Church Vacation Schools Hold Closing Exercises

The Peterborough Church Vacation Schools, which have been in progress for the past ten days, held closing exercises on Thursday; the Jackson Park group, which was held for children of the north end of the city, holding its closing the afternoon and the group which met at St. James, Knox, and All Saints' Churches, giving an entertaining program and display of work in the evening. Rev. H. J. Mahoney, who has been in charge of the schools this year, was master of ceremonies on both occasions. The second vacation school was divided into three age-groups, the kindergarten classes, under Mrs. E. M. Davis, meeting at St. James; the primary classes under Mrs. Ross Williamson at Knox; and the juniors, under Miss Marian Wray at All Saints Church.

The closing exercises for this school were held in the church auditorium at Knox, where the work of the pupils was on display in the primary Sunday School room. The work displayed consisted of pretty necklaces and curtain tie-backs ingeniously made from colored straws and colored paper, cut-out, colored birds and other pretty thing that children delight to make. The primary children, who range in age from six to nine, made needle books, cleverly using up old Christmas cards, pictures in star-shaped frames of metallic card-board, vases made of jars covered with pieces of colored paper, stuffed rag-dolls; among the juniors, the boys had made a number of interesting articles of wood.

During their program, each department was allotted about fifteen minutes, in which to show what they had learned during the ten days. The babies were adorable as they sang familiar little songs and hymns and heard a story told by Mrs. Davis. Mrs. George Wallace was their accompanist. The primary department, under Mrs. Williamson, sang very charmingly indeed, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Glover, and their program included both familiar songs, and some that were new to the vacation school program, including two pretty action choruses, a group of little girls from this class under direction of Miss Isibel Connelly, repeated the 23rd Psalm in unison. The junior department's program consisted of familiar songs sung with enthusiasm, a repetition of a scripture passage in unison and a set of verses repeated by a group of girls dressed as Red Cross Nurses. Mrs. Stanley J. Richardson was accompanist.

The program of the Jackson Park School was held under the great pine trees where the children sang splendidly and joined whole-heartedly in the action songs. Miss Jean Somers, teacher of the Kindergarten group, led her class in several songs, and told them a story in her inimitable and charming manner. The school has been fortunate in having as it supervisor Miss Bessie Ketcheson, who spent several years in China on the staff of a Normal School where she instructed kindergarten teachers. Rev. H. J. Mahoney brought the greetings of the ministerial association to the children and the parents who had gathered to see the fine display of toys, gifts and handicrafts which are to be sent to missions.

The children who received certificates for having attended seven out of the 10 days were: Knox, kindergarten, James Jacobs, Lloyd Gaskin, Elaine Leggott, Richard Jacobs, Bobby Keating, Ethel McMurchie, Catherine Chesler, Albert Curtis, James Orr, Mabel Turner, Lorraine Bullied, Arden Boyter, Thomas Lee Barry, Sheila Pitchford, Frank Bennett, Barbara Weese, Marjory Harvey, Alice Burnside, Margaret Burnside, Sylvia Hayes, Beverly Bell, Barbara Bell, Lorna Miles, Elizabeth Miles, Nancy Smith; juniors, Margaret Davidson, Joyce Pitchford, Jean Wight, Beverly Kidd, Bob Reynolds, Robert Hurle, Donald Smith, Joyce Haynes, Jeanette Campbell, Margaret Johnston, Lourene Keeting, Vyrtle Sisson, Billy Campbell, Ronald Miller, Hubert Panter, Evelyn Wallace, Marjory Turner, Beverly Hutton, June Bullied, Jean Jolly; primary, Esther Campbell, Helen Hubbell, Shirley Killingbeck, Shirley Panter, Harold Valentine, Bobby Hollingsworth, David Simpson, Lois Ann Kemp, Betty Rowe, Alice Rowe, June Rose, Betty Filer, Barbara Wallace, Ann Maudsley, Margaret Parnell, Barry Hollingsworth, Bobby Turner, Jack Mason, Gordon Bullied, Ronald Collins, Ronald Willis, Daniel Detton, Sonny Hutton, Florence Miller, Diane Miller, Marilyn Panter.

Jackson Park, primary and kindergarten tea, Nancy Hughy, Lorraine Wiley, Louise Wiley, Frances Clarke, Kathleen Sargison, Ann Shea, Margaret Rugh, Sylvia Tenise, Donnie Sargent, Bruce Wiley, Paul Leeder, Jimmie Goodfellow, David Ross, Peter Chown, Shirley Dobson, Margaret Dobson, Dorothy Goodfellow, Ann Merritt, Mary Lou Mackie, Bobby Burgess, Wayne Shea, Billy Eplett, Donald Kitching, Terry Hawkins, Sargent, Malcolm Wil-

God Encourages Moses — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 3:13-4:31.

When the Lord finally made Moses see that he was the one to lead his people out of Egypt, he went to his father-in-law, Reuel or Jethro, and asked his leave to go back to Egypt, and Jethro said, "Go in peace."

Moses set his wife and sons upon an ass and started for the land of Egypt, taking the rod of the Lord in his hand, by which he was to prove to the Israelites that the God of their fathers appointed him to lead them.

Then the Lord told Aaron to go into the wilderness to meet his brother Moses, and he met him in the mount of God and kissed him, and Moses told Aaron the Lord's words and all the signs He had commanded him.

Then Moses and Aaron gathered together all the elders of the people of Israel and showed them the Lord's signs and told them that the Lord looked upon their affliction, and they believed.

The Italians Are Given a Choice

Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt have given Italy a choice of honourable surrender or a fight to the finish. Let us not deceive ourselves that the choice is an easy one. The Italians have been the butts of this war; they have made a mess of every engagement in which they did not have a ludicrous superiority in men and arms, and they were even constrained to call for help when they faced the resolute but outnumbered Greeks. They have less resembled ancient Romans than Keystone Komedy Kops. But although they cannot fight we must not think that the Italians are fools, or that they have no pride. If they choose to surrender their country without a fight they will have added to history an incident of unexampled humiliation.

The people of Italy, most observers think, would be glad to surrender. They are realists. They were never wholeheartedly in the war; they have suffered privation and have lost most of what they had; they are little better than vassals of the Germans, whom they hate; they were once friendly with Britain and the U.S., and depend on the sportsmanship of those two countries not to push defeat unbearably far. What is more, if they surrender, they will be linked, however ignominiously, with the winning side.

But the Italian leaders are not all comic-opera soldiers. They know that for them a surrender is the end of every cherished hope, the shattering of a dream. They may choose to fight.

Their trouble is, that if they fight they will have to fight alone. Rome has made it clear that the Germans are fighting for Sicily, not the Italians. But Germany is facing Russian aggression in the East, and cannot spare troops to defend all of Italy. There are well-supported reports that Germany is basing her future calculations on the assumption that Italy will be knocked out of the war, and that Mussolini has been offered headquarters in Vienna is he should have to flee from his own land.

Morale in Italy could hardly be lower than it is. The press has huffed and puffed since Spring, ridiculing the idea of a successful Allied attack on Italy or any of her present possessions. But now, although our troops may be said only to have stepped on Italy's toe, the press is flat, gloomy and exhausted. The Italians are done for, and whatever course they take, they will have to accept defeat soon. Let us hope, however, that they will accept our offer of an honourable capitulation.

The Lions' Wading Pool

The local Lions' Club is to be congratulated on its excellent idea in making a wading pool beside the Hunter Street bridge. When the work is completed this should be a pleasant, safe and pretty place for children who are either too young to be swimmers or who are learning to swim. The park provides a pleasant approach to the wading pool, and a place for those to sit who are escorting the younger children. The Otonabee, as it winds through Peterborough, does much to make the town attractive, and a little planning and work would increase its value in this respect greatly. The Lions have made a start with their wading pool, and if the opposite bank could be somewhat improved the section of the river by the Hunter Street bridge might become one of the beauty spots of the city. It has been said that Peterborough should do more to make itself attractive to the great numbers of working people who live here and whom we seek to attract here. Beautifying the river and providing playgrounds for children are two ways in which this end can be achieved.

The work which the Lions' Club is doing in preparing the wading pool is a good example of the sort of work which needs doing in every town, but which would rarely be done if the service clubs did not undertake it. The value of these clubs to the commuity can hardly be exaggerated. Through their organizations they are able to unify the good intentions which we all feel but which, without prodding, we rarely put into action.

The Matter Of Tips

There has been some talk of a strike in one of the large Toronto hotels. The bell-boys want higher wages. At present they are paid a small wage, and they expect to make the rest of their money from tips. Apparently the tips have not been so large as they could wish.

We do not think that there is much to be gained by discussing the question of tipping. Some people like to receive tips, and others like to give them, and the fact that the habit is undemocratic makes no difference at all. It is recognized that tips are expected in return for service at most hotels, and employees are hired on that understanding. It is the amount of the tip which causes trouble. Naturally the servants want all they can get, and equally naturally the guests tip less when their other expenses are heavy than they do when money is loose.

On the continent of Europe the matter was settled by adding an item to each bill amounting to ten per cent. of the total, and this sum was put into a common service fund, from which all employees received whatever their dignity, seniority and rapacity demanded. Guests did not tip unless they wanted special service of some sort. This plan might be adopted here with advantage, for then the tips would vary directly with the amount of business the hotel was doing, and the likelihood of strikes would be considerably lessened.

The South African Election

Owing to the slowness of registering the soldier vote, the full returns for the General Election in South Africa are not yet available, but every observer concedes that the Union Party, led by Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, has won the day, and may have a majority in Parliament of as much as forty seats. It has been a great victory for the pro-British element in the Dominion, and by no means an inconsiderable political defeat for the Nazis.

Opposing Smuts' Union Party were Dr. Daniel Francois Malan's Reunited Party and Oswald Pirow's Ossebrandwag. Malan took the stand that, if he were elected, he would immediately stop South Africa's participation in the war, and would ask the Axis for a separate peace. Pirow is definitely pro-Axis, and his party has made a nuisance of itself by sabotage and anti-British propaganda. But Smuts can count on the support of all the British, and the far-seeing element among the Boers. The Boers outnumber the British five to three, and many of them have completely reversed the strongly anti-British attitude of their forefathers. Indeed, Smuts himself has made this right-about-face. In his young days he was a minister in the government of Oom Paul Kruger, and fought with distinction against the British in the South African War. He headed a band of guerilla raiders called "commandos", and it is from them that the modern force takes its name. In the South African War Jan Smuts once made a prisoner of a British subaltern named Winston Churchill, who later escaped. The two men met afterward in Lloyd George's War Cabinet, and have become fast friends.

The political victory of Smuts crowns a great career. The old Field Marshal has given his life to the development of his country and is sincerely convinced that it is better off as a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations than it could possibly be as an independent state. What is more, he has persuaded great numbers of his Dutch compatriots to the same view. When he took South Africa into the war, it was by a vote of 80 to 67—not a great majority. If, in this election, he increases his majority substantially, it will be a notable tribute to the British connection.

The Axis have long regarded South Africa as the logical place to provoke trouble in the Empire. Ties of blood, the Germans thought, would draw the Boers to the Nazis. Kaiser Wilhelm made the same mistaken calculation in the last war. There are disaffected Boers, it is true, but there are disaffected people everywhere. The majority see the future of their country as part of the Commonwealth.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Hitler is reported to be confined to a room with neuralgia. Hard on the neuralgia!

Toronto is reported to be flirting with the idea of women traffic cops. Soon the faster citizens may be flirting with the reality.

The election campaign seems to be moving very slowly. In this weather the candidates have no enthusiasm for fast running.

It has been suggested that with blueberries at their present price it might be more better business to sell them by the dozen.

What Happened Last Year?

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

FOR well over a century the Encyclopaedia Britannica has been the supreme reference book of the English-speaking world; it was founded in 1768 and rapidly attained eminence as a book in which all but the most abstruse special information could be found on every possible subject. The Encyclopaedia itself retains that reputation, for although some unskillful editing has made hash of a number of articles it is, in the main, as it was when the great Eleventh Edition was prepared. But the Encyclopaedia also publishes a yearly volume called the Britannica Book of the Year, which purports to tell us everything of significance which happened in the year just past. Last year, some readers may recall, I reviewed the volume which dealt with the events of 1941, and in this article I shall deal with the book which I have just received, which is meant to provide me with a compendious reference book for 1942.

IT IS certainly a handy book, and I shall use it often, but it is not quite what one expects from the Britannica publishers. As most people know, the ownership and editorship of the Britannica has crossed the ocean, and it is now the property of the University of Chicago. The change, as reflected in the Britannica Book of The Year, is not a happy one. Not to mince matters, the Book stresses American doings at the expense of universal doings; the Book is provincial in tone. The Britannica speaks for the English-speaking world and for the whole world of scholarship; this Book of the Year gives the impression that it might have been prepared by the staff of one of Mr. Luce's publications. Beginning with the frontispiece, which shows us a vista of marching men against the background of the Capitol at Washington, it is American clear through. Let no reader interpret this an anti-American spleen; if the book were sold as an American reference book no fault could be found with it; but the Britannica has a wider scope, and should not be nationalist in tone.

THE bright optimism of American magazine writing is to be found in some of the important articles, as for instance, that on Democracy. Why it is in the book at all no one could say. Democracy was the same in 1942 as it was in 1842; we use it somewhat differently, that is all. But the interpretation of Democracy given in this folksy article would be quite unacceptable to many millions of excellent democrats who are fighting with the United Nations at present. The illustrations, too, are gay and pert as good reference books never are. Was the "leisure hour for farmerettes" really such a vital part of 1942 that we need a picture of several farmerettes with shorts and Lana Turner hair-dos singing round a piano at Hudson, N.Y.? And do we really need so much information and illustration about Oveta Culp Hobby? And why does Clare Booth Luce, the author of "Stuffed Shirts" and "Kiss The Boys Goodbye" get an article to herself, when the fact that Rebecca West wrote "Black Lamb and Grey Falcon" gets a cursory mention under English Literature?

BUT enough of this fault-finding. Accepting the Book of The Year as a distinctly American production, it has its solid information and its occasional humours like every other reference book. Medical articles usually make good reading, and it is pleasant to learn on page 50 that "diagnostic alertness and surgical conservatism continue to be the watchword in acute pancreatitis," which means that the doctors found out nothing new about it in 1942. And there is another medical gem on page 570, under psychiatry, where we are told that "seasickness, although it recurs with considerable frequency and is often not entirely curable, is best treated by transfer to a larger ship or, in some cases, land duty." On page 82 there is a brief but meaty article on Assassinations, and the bag of Quislings and Axis officials in 1942 was encouraging, though it was a pity that some bungler missed Franz von Papen with a bomb on February 24. Under Popular Music we find the information that the hits of last year were "Johnny Doughboy Found A Rose In Ireland," "When The Lights Go On Again," "My Devotion" and "Praise The Lord And Pass The Ammunition"; but the top place is reserved for "White Christmas," a song of the "semi-sacred" variety. Hearing it over and over again, I often hoped that when the singer got his White Christmas he would freeze in it.

THE article on Canadian Literature gives the impression that Canada bloomed with masterpieces last year, a fact which I, who read most of them, had not observed; but the article is written by the National Secretary of the Canadian Authors' Association, and he should know. The best articles of criticism in the book are those on the theatre, by George Jean Nathan and Ivor Brown; they know that criticism without high standards is mere sound and fury. There is much sound and fury in this Book of the Year, but I shall cherish it all the same.

Oh, Tell Us How

A year or so ago, during the search for a basis for synthetic rubber, amateur inventors had a field day. They came up with suggestions for making rubber out of everything from cigarette stubs to couch grass. During the excitement, the information came out that the Russians had built a great synthetic rubber program on the extraction of juices from dandelion roots.

The idea intrigued us then, and it intrigues us now. The point is not how they got the juice from the dandelion roots, but how they got the dandelion roots out of the ground. If the Russians have discovered a means of removing dandelions from the ground, a million Canadian householders are waiting with bated breath for the secret.

To the average Canadian lawn masseur, the dandelion is a major nuisance. He goes over his lawn week after week, labouriously digging out the dandelions. But no sooner does a shower of rain pass than the dandelions are in full bloom again. This year, it seems to us, has been the worst year for dandelions in a decade. The never-ending and losing struggle against them is fraying Canadian nerves. If the Russians want to know what to do to cement goodwill between their country and ours, we can tell them. Let them tell us at once how they extract dandelions from lawns so that they will stay extracted. — Winnipeg Free Press.

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, July 17 (CP)—The visits this week of Dr. H. V. Evatt, Australian external affairs minister, and Gen. Henri Giraud of the French Committee for National Liberation are two more indications of Canada's growing stature as a nation.

These visits are not merely "courtesy calls." Canada, as the fourth greatest producing nation among the Allies, has an important place in the United Nations supply picture. The visitors come to hold conferences with Canadian officials and any social functions are subordinate to those meetings.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King mentioned the official visits in a review of external affairs department operations. He spoke of "the developing importance of Canada in the world community," and added:—

"The fortunes of war — or something more than the fortunes — have brought to Canada valiant men and women of many nations: sovereigns, prime ministers, foreign ministers and officers of state; chiefs of staff and ranking officers of armies, navies and air forces of many lands."

The House made good progress toward adjournment this week, with several committees finishing their work for the year and estimates going through in pretty good order. The outlook is for July 24 at the latest.

The national research council is conducting a private war against one of the problems facing United Nations airmen in cold climates—how to stop Jack Frost from depositing frost on grounded aircraft.

The research workers have decided they can't stop ice from forming, and they've launched an encirclement move. The aim now is to find a way to make the frost form in a loose condition so it can be removed easily. The fight is continuing on a number of special pastes and some promising ones have been found.

There's a busy little office up in one of Ottawa's main business buildings where they'll sell you postage stamps on one condition—that you don't use them on letters or other mail.

It's the philatelic bureau of the post office department, which caters to the needs of stamp collectors and does a roaring trade whenever the Dominion issues a new set of stamps.

Was World's Greatest Mimic

(BUFFALO COURIER EXPRESS)

CISSIE LOFTUS undeniably was the greatest mimic who ever walked across a stage. And Cissie Loftus was more than that. She was a great actress. So inextricably is her name associated with mimicry and comedy that most playgoers of the present generation are unaware of the fact that, about the turn of the century, Cecelia Loftus was playing with E. H. Sothern in "If I Were King," with Sir Henry Irving in "The Merchant of Venice," and proving herself a legitimate actress in the best tradition.

But it was several years earlier, in the Gay Nineties, that Cissie Loftus, still in her teens, won the hearts of London and New York with her unparalleled genius for mimicry. She was only fourteen when she began to give her "impersonations" in a music hall at a salary of five pounds or $25 a week. Before her sixteenth birthday, she was earning $2,000 a week on the stage—and, in her spare time, writing verse for the Yellow Book, organ of London's intelligentsia of the period. At seventeen she eloped with Justin Huntly McCarthy the playwright and renounced her prodigious salary to go in for art as a legitimate actress.

Cissie Loftus' life in the fabulous period and thereafter would make a novel. After the theatrical season of 1913-14 she suddenly quit the stage and the shadows closed about her. Ten years later she reappeared in the public prints when dispatches told of her arraignment in a London court on a charge of unlawful possession of drugs. Here is how the New York Herald Tribune retold the story in reporting Miss Loftus' death:

"She told a pathetic story in court on November 17, 1923, a pallid, trembling shadow of her once vivacious and well-poised self. She told how she was compelled to seek relief from pain after the premature birth of a child and how this led to acquisition of the drug habit.

"Placed on probation for a year, Miss Loftus returned to the United States and her first appearance at the Palace Theatre was greeted with a tremendous wave of cheers and tears. Her act normally lasted twenty minutes, but constant curtain calls kept her on the stage for an hour.

"Her comeback was assured thereafter."

Cissie Loftus' feet were set firmly on the upward path again—and she never slipped back even for a moment through her remaining years of life. And that was the greatest triumph in the almost incredible career of Cissie Loftus, a great mimic, a great actress, a great woman.

Not A Thing Would Be Changed

PETER wondered if they would have clams in batter. Last week they had. His mother would have something special. There might even be one of her deep apple pies with pork in it. He would go straight up to his room, first thing of all, before he ate, and see if Richard had meddled with any of his things. The books he had written were locked up safe in his haircloth trunk. Richard couldn't get at those. But he had left his bottle of pearls he had got out of mussels right in sight on the table. He'd see if they were there. Then he would go down and out to the tieup and see how much Star had grown....

He hoped Richard wouldn't have gone after the cows, so he could do it himself.... He would take a look at the little brook in the culvert, to see if it had any water in it yet. It ought to. It had rained one day this week. He would find some spruce gum and chew it. There'd be sure to be some boxberries in a place he knew about. There might even be a late huckleberry or two in that clump of bushes where he had lain and read "Kit Bam the Mariner" and tried to picture the bronze horse flying in the evening air and had been startled by the groan of a night-hawk overhead.

Peter hoped there would be enough left of the sunset to light up the trunks of the beech trees. He would stand there as he had stood each night for years since he had first gone after the cows and stare at them a long time and see if he could get to thinking the thoughts he used to think there. Funny, he couldn't put his hand on one of them now. But they would start coming all right when he was there. They were always lovely, the way they flowed into each other. Sometimes the cows would have gotten clear home by the time he came to the last of them and looked up and saw that the stars had burned all through the sky around him. It would be dark too soon though, tonight. The lamp would be lit when he got back....

It would be nice to be in a low room after these gloomy high ones, and hear the whole clan talking all at once, and nobody listening to a word the rest were saying. He would play one game of backgammon with Richard—but only in case Richard hadn't gotten into any of his things. After that, he would get his books out and read and not notice the others talking any more. Snoozer would have his nose on his knee, and he'd pat him now and then. His mother would let him sit up and read as long as he wanted to, for there was no school tomorrow. He'd have a chance to be all by himself at the big kitchen table. The clock that was made like a mince pie—and advertised Nonesuch Mince Meat and had the marks that looked like bird tracks which mince pies always had on them—would be working away with its wheezy tickling. A mouse would patter behind the wall, running along on some errand of his. It would all be just as it always had been, and not a thing would be changed.—From "Lost Paradise," by Robert P. Tristram Coffin, (New York: Macmillan.)

A Bible Message

Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!....

He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destruction. (Ps. 107: 15, 20.)

O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good: because his mercy endureth for ever. Let Israel now say, that his mercy endureth for ever....

I called upon the Lord in distress: the Lord answered me, and set me in a large place. The Lord is on my side; I will not fear: what can man do unto me? The Lord taketh my part with them that help me....

It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man. It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in princes....

The Lord is my strength and song, and is become my salvation. The voice of rejoicing and salvation is in the tabernacles of the righteous: the right hand of the Lord doeth valiantly....

I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord. (Ps. 118: 1, 2, 5-7, 8, 9, 14, 15, 17.)

Where the Fault Lies

Let us hope that we will now be spared — on the part of Administration officials or the members of Congress—personal denunciations of Mr. Petrillo for making these outrageous demands. We have had enough of the personal-wickedness theory in connection with John L. Lewis. It is precisely the labour policy of the Administration, and the timid acquiescence of Congress in that policy, that have built up the irresponsible power now exercised by the Lewises and the Petrillos.

The Administration, Congress, and the Supreme Court have among them placed in the hands of James Caesar Petrillo the power to force practically every musician in the country to join his union. They have placed in his hands the power to tell these musicians when and how and whether or not they can make recordings.... the private arbitrary power to tell the American people what music they can and cannot hear.... the power to boycott and thereby the power to ruin theatres, restaurants, concert halls, transcription companies and radio companies that do not do his bidding.

They have given to Petrillo and every other labour leader a special exemption from the anti-trust and anti-conspiracy laws, a special exemption even from the anti-racketeering laws. They have put labour leaders, as such, above the laws that apply to everyone else. And then they are amazed and hurt and horrified when these labour leaders proceed to make use of the legal immunities that they have been at such pains to shower upon them.—New York Times.

Present-Day Travel

Of travel nowadays it can be accurately said, as Oscar Wilde said of marriage, that everyone ought to try it at least one if only to see how much it's been overrated. It seems, therefore, that Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman speaks true talk when he says that most people, after traveling once or twice under present conditions, will cease and desist of their own free will.

While the railroads and buses are doing a man-sized job under the most trying circumstances, traveling has ceased to be a pleasure and has become a wearing chore. How thoroughly this is so, no one will really appreciate without trying it. Only one word of advice: If you're taking a vacation trip, leave plenty time for a nice long rest when you get back. You'll need it.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Blood Plasma Rushed To Africa To Aid Wounded Canadians

In Ottawa this week Pensions Minister Mackenzie in the House of Commons, described as "a magnificent gesture for which we are profoundly grateful" the establishment in Ogdensburg, N.Y., of a blood-donor clinic from which blood will be sent to the Canadian Red Cross.

The incident was described to the House by George Fulford (Lib., Leeds), who urged members of the House to be inspired by the action of the Ogdensburg people to make greater contributions to local blood-donor clinics.

The first step in the invasion of Europe is underway, with a large representation of Canadian soldiers in the field fighting side by side with fighting men of the United Nations. Following the armies into the Mediterannean theatre is a large group of nursing sisters, among them a former Peterborough resident in the person of Lieut. Clara Morris who has been in the service almost since the war started.

The hospitals where the Canadian wounded will be cared for by the Nursing Sisters of Canada will be based in North Africa, with full hospital equipment and with a stock of blood plasma for the treatment of the wounded men and it can be supposed that some of the blood donated in Peterboro has found its way to this front.

There is nothing more needed at the present time from those of us who can help in this manner than giving regular blood donations and in Peterborough this can be done at the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic. At the moment we are not doing what is expected of us in this area and an invitation is given by the Blood Donor Clinic to all those who have not registered to do so. Any person in good health between the ages of 18 and 60, male or female, is eligible to become a donor.

Next week will be anniversary week for the local clinic, it having been opened just a year ago at that time. The staff would like to break a record of 235 donations which was made a couple of months ago. Will you not become interested and help this wonderful war effort.

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 17 — (CP) — One of the latest Canucks to have a hand in knocking down a Hun fighter is Flying Officer Walter Parks, D.F.C., of Verwood, Sask. He is captain of a Lancaster in an R.A.F. squadron and his midupper gunner destroyed a night fighter on the way home from bombing Bochum and Gelsenkirchen.

The gunner was PO Bob Baker of Cleethorpes, Eng., who said half the battle belonged to Parks for the swell manoeuvring he did. The night fighter came in from the portside and the rear gunner was the first to see it and shouted to Parks to turn. The Canadian pilot swung towards the fighter and Baker got in a quick burst at 200 yards. Then the Jerry went down in flames.

The "Intruders" now are more than two years old and the famous fighter squadron which, operating from England nearly 2½ years ago was the first to introduce the intruder attacks on enemy airfields, now is intruding on the enemy in Sicily.

In those early days the squadron flew twin-engined all-metal Blenheim bombers adapted for night fighting. "Operation Intruder" was the secret code-word by which their night missions were first known. They began one night in December, 1940, with a sortie against airfields in North France.

From that night on no Nazi bombing crew, homing from a raid on Britain or making a training fight over their own territory has ever felt safe from the sudden attack of an unsuspected British aircraft. The attack comes at the very moment they are least able to evade it, as the pilot is circling his base at low level or gliding in before touching down. To-day the Blenheims are no more. In their place over Northern Europe flies a great fleet of intruders, Beaufighters and Typhoons, Whirlwinds and Mosquitos, many of them Canadian-manned.

MILLBROOK

WMS Treasury Shows Increase

MILLBROOK, July 17 (ENS) — Mrs. Percy Stinson extended the hospitality of her home, Centre Street, for the July meeting of the W. M. S., of St. Andrew's church on Wednesday afternoon, the president Mrs. A. L. Sisco, taking the chair, and the call to worship dealing with fellowship in the world church.

Miss Maud Finnimore read the devotional leaflet, and the prayer, and business items included the decision not to hold a meeting in August; to secure the new study book and W. M. S. Blue Book, for the September gathering; and announcement that the Red Cross needs women who will sew on the quota that must be finished during the holiday months, Mrs. T. A. Campbell having blouses, slips, and skirts at her home for these workers.

The treasurer's report showed a larger sum remitted the Presbyterian treasurer in June than for the same six months last year, and the suggestion that an effort be made to form a group of entirely new members was advanced from the Presbyterial executive.

Mrs. J. H. George gave the Christian stewardship message. "Give as you would of your substance, if his hands the offering took". A letter from Miss Banfield, missionary at Muttan Bay, in Northern Quebec, was read by Mrs. H. W. Johnston, showing the many hardships endured at that far-off field; Miss E. L. Hetherington brought highlights on pastors and workers remaining true to their faith in Germany, and a message from Central India, where "Banswara carries steadily on". Dr. Catharine Whittier being the missionary, was given by Mrs. Edmund Ball.

GENELECS MAKE IT FIVE STRAIGHT BY DEFEATING SWITCHGEAR

Genelecs Are In Tie With Soldiers

Genelecs kept up their victory parade, now extended to five straight victories, Friday night when they swamped Switch Gear 20 to 3 in a City League fixture at Riverside Park. The triumph enabled Manager Ted Johnston's team to climb up on even terms with the Soldiers at the top of the heap.

Lefty Sturgeon who used to do a lot of effective southpawing for the Sugar Bowl when they were cocks of the walk in the City League essayed a comeback against Genelecs last night but found the going tough and he was not helped by slow work in the Switchgear outfield.

Sturgeon's pitching chore ended with one out in the first inning, Bill Moorhead's homer to left field which Robertson misjudged badly, being the crowning blow. Previous to that wallop Genelecs had already sent two runs across, three more hurried home on the circuit clout. Bert Harrison took over and got the fire out momentarily but Genelecs were in a batting mood and kept right on scoring. They nicked Harrison for a run in the second and would have had more if Tucker had not hit into a fast double play and they came back with four in the third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth. Preston was on the hilltop in the next two frames and Genelecs put together four runs in the sixth and three in the seventh.

Ronnie Akers grabbed off his fourth straight win. He pitched the first six innings, struck out eight gatters, kept seven hits well scattered and allowed only a single run. It came in the fourth, when Robertson singled past first, Ashmore walked and Frank Maloney drove a single to right to send the run in. Del Taylor pitched the last two innings. Tic Caccavella came through with a double behind a pass to George Maloney, and single by Abraham to drive two runs across in the eighth.

It was one of the draggiest games of the season. Switch Gear pitchers issued a dozen walks and Genelecs were helped in piling up the score by off-color outfielding. Pop flies went for hits and both homers credited to the winners were the result of misjudged drives.

Altogether the Genelecs who fielded faultlessly behind effective pitching rapped out 18 hits with Don Holmes, Holly Mowry, George Hawks and Maurice Giarino each having three safe blows.

Lionel Holmes was the only Switch Gear player to get more than one. He had two singles in three official appearances.

Big league baseball's longest consecutive hitting streak, Joe DiMaggio's 56-game record, ended at Cleveland before a crowd of 67,468 two year ago to-day, as two Indian pitchers kept him from hitting safely in three appearances at the plate. DiMaggio, now in the U.S. Army, started his drive on May 15, 1941, at Chicago.

Hogan Hopes To Toss The Whipper

Three wrestling bouts each of which should produce a full quota of cheers and boos have been signed for Monday night's program at Brock St. Arena and with the increasing interest in the mat game still expanding the evening should be the best yet.

In the main bout Whipper Billy Watson meets that wild and obstreperous character Housepainter Hogan of the Hogan's Alley Hogans.

In his first match here last week Whipper Watson showed Peterborough fans some of the reasons why he is the holder of the British Empire Title. Watson injured his ankle slightly part way through his bout with Pat Flanagan and for that reason did not "turn on the heat" on the popular Irishman with quite the same zest as he ordinarily shows. But the Whipper did enough to convince the majority of fans that he is a great and spectacular athlete. Billy's ankle was quite swollen by the time he got to the dressing-room but responded to treatment quickly. Doc. Felice, who is quite a bone-setter made an adjustment to it the next day in Buffalo and willing William is back in fine fettle today.

The powerful and we might even say rambunctious Hogan is very keen to overthrow Watson on this, their first meeting and the bout is shaping up as one that will be chock-full the kind of action that wrestling fans love.

Another piece de resistance will be the semi-final match between Pat Flanagan and Bunny Dunlop. Dunlop has got himself well disliked in this city and the clever and hustling Flanagan will be well-supported in his efforts to make the roughouse Dunlop like it. George Tofalos the little Greek who aspires to be Golden Greek No. 2 comes back against popular Joe Maich of Brantford.

Robson Reaches Semi-Finals In Millar Trophy

TORONTO, July 17. — The big guy with the big hands and the screaming wine-colored trousers — Canada's personality kid of the links—Bob Gray—was a hot number in defence of his Millar Trophy crown yesterday under Islington's burning sun.

Sad Day for Kerr Family.

Robust Robert, a reckless man with a driver or brassie, had his far reaching tee shots rolling down the fairways with deadly accuracy and gained the semi-finals of the Millar with surprising efficiency at the expense of the Kerr Brothers, Bill and Sam.

Bashin' Bob took on Sam in a second round match and emerged with a 4 and 3 win. He gulped down a sandwich half an hour later, changed his socks and went out and created a major panic among loyal Cedar Brae members by walloping Bill Kerr 6 and 5.

Gray's twin defeat of the golfing Kerrs moved him into the semi-final bracket with such fine shot-makers as Dick Borthwick, Lex Robson, and (surprise) Normie Himes, the former baseball-capped centre of Red Dutton's hockey Americans. If you're looking for dark horses in the playoff to-day don't look any further than Mr. Himes. Affable Normie has reached a pinnacle after gradual improvement in his game and at this writing is a giant killer of the most unusual competitive match play tourney in years.

Three Overtime Matches.

Three overtime matches added excitement to the second-round matches. Best show of all was put on by Hugh Borthwick and Jack Littler, the Ontario open champ. Littler finally won out on the 24th hole but Hugh's courageous showing made him the gallery's choice. On five of the six extra holes Borthwick had to sink putts anywhere from 4 to 10 feet to stay in the running. He finally missed a six-footer while Littler got one from the same distance to win the match. Hugh carried a one-up lead going to the home green, played short with a five iron and this precipitated the weird extra holes struggle.

Littler became violently ill after this match and shortly after bowed out 6 and 5 to Lex Robson of Peterborough in a quarter-final match. Robson, six time winer of the Millar, reached the semi-finals after an overtime match with Jimmy Johnstone of Rosedale. Johnstone stubbed a short putt at the 22nd, and it was all over.

Dick Borthwick, the lanky Oakdale pro who is playing at peak form right now, gained a place in the semi-final brackets by eliminating Gordie Brydson and Jules Huot. Brydson, down three holes at the 15th, bagged the last three to force extra holes but Dick won out on the 20th hole with a fine explosion shot out of a mud-coated bunker. Brydson was beaten when he had to play a difficult shot while leaning against a tree near the green. He carried out of danger expertly, but was short. When Dick pitched to within three feet of the hole he was home free.

Second Round.

Jules Huot, Kent Club, Quebec, defeated George Watson, R.C.A.F. Trenton, 2 and 1.

Dick Borthwick, Oakdale, defeated Gord Brydson, Mississauga, 1 up at the twentieth hole.

Lex Robson, Peterborough, defeated Jimmy Johnstone, Rosedale, 1 up at the twenty-second hole.

Jack Littler, Kingston, defeated Hugh Borthwick, Uplands, 1 up at twenty-fourth hole.

Bob Burns, Weston, defeated Arthur Hulbert, Thornhill, 4 and 3.

Norm Himes, Kitchener, defeated Les Franks, Islington, 1 up.

Bill Kerr, Cedar Brae, defeated Stan Horne, Montreal, 5 and 4.

Bob Gray, Scarboro, defeated Sam Kerr, unattached, 4 and 3.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Military Training Centre team will complete their part of the regular schedule in the City Softball League on Monday night when they clash with the Cardinals. The Soldiers will not be seen in action after that until the playoff series open. Right now they have a record of six wins and three losses and if they win Monday night cannot finish any worse than tied for first place in the league standing for all the other clubs in the loop have also lost at least three games. Cardinals with a revamped team declare that the Soldiers will at least know they have been in a battle. The new edition of the Cards, incidentally wearing new black and white sweaters, gave Genelecs a real scare Monday night with Pitcher Bill Anderson holding Manager Ted Johnston's team under control in great style for eight innings, only to run into a wild spot in the final frame. The Cards would like nothing better than to pin the Soldiers' ears back and they will be in there trying all the way. It is expected that Sandulak, classy second-sacker of the Soldiers who has been away on furlough will be back for the clash with the Cardinals.

Back from their two weeks' holiday the Westclox girls will swing into action at the East City Bowl Monday night when they meet Electrics in a league game. The return of the Big Bens will be popular with the fans, although the other clubs in the loop will probably be hoping that history will not repeat itself this season. A year ago when the Westclockers resumed play after their holiday layoff they started a winning streak that carried them right through the playoffs. The team has not, of course, had any practices for several weeks but judging by last season's record that does not seem to slow them down much. However the Big Bens are likely to find the Electrics formidable opposition. They have been coming up with some good ball recently and they would ask nothing better than to be the first club this season to beat the Westclockers. Wednesday night the champions and Aircraft will meet for the fourth time this season. Westclox took the first two games and the third, the best battle of the campaign ended in a draw.

Should Be A Treat

Peterborough softball fans are going to have an opportunity the week after next to see one of the fastest clubs in Canada, the Toronto Tip-Tops of the Beaches Major League who will be here for a battle with an all-star team picked from the City Softball League in a benefit game sponsored by the Kinsmen's Club for the Milk for Britain Fund. The Tip-Tops are at present leading the Beaches' loop with 11 wins and two losses and this year's club is regarded as about the strongest Manager Shefsky has ever piloted. They have gladly agreed to come down for this game to help out such a worthy cause as the Milk for Britain fund and as a result Peterborough gets this opportunity of watching probably the strongest softball aggregation that has ever displayed its wares here. The Petes are endeavoring to have Cam Ecclestone, famous Toronto pitcher, do the twirling for them against Tip-Tops.

The standing of the Industrial League which has just completed the first half of its schedule shows that the Outboard Marines have sailed along without a loss and are heading the loop with five wins. They are two full games ahead of the second-place Watercraft team with the Dominion Woollens half a game behind the Watercrafters. Here is the official standing up to last night:

Speed The Keynote

Keynote of next Monday's wrestling show at the Brock Street Summer Gardens is obviously speed. Promoter Frank Tunney has booked three of the fastest grapplers in the game for next week's card with Whipper Billy Watson, Irish Pat Flanagan and the clever Joe Maich all lined up against opponents who will make them use every fast move they have in their repertoire. The Whip clashes with Housepainter Hogan in the main bout and the reputation that the Coast bone-breaker brings east with him would be enough to scare anybody less courageous than the British Empire champion. Hogan has been putting the press on all the big shots in California for some time and he expects to polish off Watson in quick style. The Whip of course has other ideas and we have a hunch that the Housepainter is in for somewhat of an unpleasant surprise. The other bouts are right in line with the main tussle. This column's favorite bad man Al Bunny Dunlop who snarls at the referee, his opponent and the crowd with equal vigor and reveals new depths of meanness every time out is meeting Pat Flanagan and the fans will be pulling for the Irishman to take the pugnacious Dunlop apart to see what makes him that way. And the chesty Greek battler George Tofalos will try to handle that slippery eel, Joe Maich, in the other bout. It should be a honey. Tofalos is powerful and clever but Maich moves fast and his speed is liable to give the new Golden Greek a busy half hour.

Older sporting fans(as well as a host of other friends, were grieved yesterday to bear of the death of Harry Rush, who in the early days of the present century played a prominent part in the local sporting scene. The late Harry Rush was long associated with the old Peterborough Colts, played some himself as a goalie and acted as a member of the executive. He was a great Peterborough fan in those days and few local teams went into action on the road without Harry Rush being a member of the official party. His enthusiasm, his club loyalty and his genial personality, made him a welcome addition to all such outings. His death leaves another gap in the rapidly dwindling ranks of the old guard who used to keep Peterborough prominently on the sporting map.

Lex Robson of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club has been doing quite nicely thank you in the Millar Trophy tourney at Islington. Robson, who has been winner of the trophy on six different occasions won two matches yesterday to reach the semi-final round in which he was due to meet Dick Borthwick of Oakdale. In his first game yesterday the Kawartha crack had a tough battle with Jimmy Johnstone of Rosedale, finally winning on the 22nd hole after Johnstone had blown a short putt. In the quarter-finals Robson eliminated Jack Littler of Kingston, the Ontario open champion, 6 and 5.

Generals Beat Outboards In Stiff Battle

Johnson Motors made another determined bid for their first win of the season in the Girls' Softball League last night but finally had to submit to an 11-9 defeat at the hands of the Generals.

The Outboard Marines got away to a good start by a five-run splurge in the second inning when M. Smith, F. O'Toole, Helen Mark, Doreen Bassett and P. Ferguson all crossed the plate. That made it 5 to 1 as the Generals had scored once in the first half of the inning.

The ultimate winners scored twice in the first of the third to make it 5 to 3 and then came back with a rally in the fifth that saw them score five times and assume the lead to the tune of 8 to 5.

The Marines were never able to get back on even terms with the Generals but they threw a real scare into the C. G. E. camp by scoring three runs in the last of the eighth.

NEW YORK, July 17 —(AP) —A couple of weeks ago Branch Rickey was defending the Giants'—and incidentally his own— failure to buy certain ball players by saying that during the winter bartering season both clubs were interested only in the kind of athletes who could help win a pennant .... The Giants, he added, might change their attitude and show some interest in candidates for a sixth or seventh-place team .... wonder if he had Ducky Medwick in mind all the time?

Back to Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn bubble hadn't busted when Shag Shaughnessy, the International League president, was talking about managers the other day, but his comments seem appropriate in view of some of the names suggested by writers who figure Leo Durocher won't be back on the job next year .... A Major League player can't step into a major league manager's job these days without getting some experience piloting in the minors, Shag maintained, because they never have had to do their own thinking.

BUFFALO HOLDS LEAFS TO FOUR HITS TO TRIUMPH BY 4 TO 1 SCORE

Sewell's Pitch Worrying National Teams

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

National League batters have been breaking their backs on Rip Sewell's new Sunday pitch this season. It's a little thing Sewell cooked up in his spare time and finally perfected, and now the Pittsburg Pirates' twirler has become the leading elbower in the National League, sporting a slate of 13 wins, including a 9-5 job over St. Louis Cardinals yesterday.

One batter described the new toss as a cross between a parachute jump and a yo-yo, which gives you a rough idea.

It was the subject of almost as much gassing and grousing at the all-star get-together in Philadelphia as the Brooklyn stew-pot. This incidentally, has now simmered down to a mere boil, what with Bobo Newsom, agreeing to report to the Browns to pitch Sunday, just as everyone expected he would, even when he was howling loudest about the injustice of it all. Ducky Medwick, too, thinks his sale to the Giants might be a good thing, on account of it'll get him out of Brooklyn. And the Bums, meanwhile, blew a 3-2 decision to Boston Braves yesterday.

Cards Got 15 Hits.

Yesterday, Stan Musial of St. Louis Cards collected three hits off Sewell's pitching. As a matter of fact, the Cards chalked up 15 safeties, but since the Bucs bunched five runs in the first inning, all Rip had to do was coast, anyway.

The win, however, coupled with the Dodger defeat, left the Pirates only 3½ games out of second place. The Brooklyns were held to five hits by Nate Andrews. Johnny McCarthyr, who used to be a Dodger, chipped with the triple that broke up the ball game.

These were the only tussles in the National League, while over in Will Harridge's hoop, New York Yankees nipped the Athletics 6-5 on Frankie Crosetti's eighth-inning run-making single. Since Boston Red Sox knocked off Washington Senators 4-1 behind Oscar Judd's five-hit hurling, this boosted the Yanks' league lead to 5½ games and dropped the Nats into third place, back of the idle Detroit Tigers.

In the only other game, St. Louis Browns connected for only four hits but bunched three of them in the first inning to nose out Cleveland Indians 4-3. The Brownies thus pulled themselves up to a fourth place tie and dropped the tribe into seventh with the cellar door open.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 17 —(CP) — The gods of war pushed at least two favors into the laps of Prairie sport fans. Dave Dryburgh of the Regina-Leader-Post expresses thanks for another favor similar to that which gave the Canadian Prairies a feast of N. H. L. hockey through the playing of former major league stars now in the services. Dave says the Pairies, are seeing race horses "that wouldn't give the fair circuit a tumble if United States tracks were going full blast." Usually the gee-gees of best repute hit for the bigger tracks after the Winnipeg race meet closes. This year many of them are touring the half-mile tracks.

Behind the scenes:

The Toronto Star quotes Lynn Patrick of New York Rangers as saying on the eve of his induction into the U. S. Army that he's glad he won't be playing in the National Hockey League next winter. "It was pretty awful lats season. Bad hockey. And this year it'll be even worse.... There's not much fun in playing the game unless you know that every fellow out on that ice belongs in the big time because he made the climb himself—not because a war pushed him up there."

Oarsman's row:

There are doubts St. Catharines Rowing Club will have an entry in the Royal Canadian Henley this year for the first time since it was inaugurated in St. Kitts in 1904. President Jack House explains 17 scullers and sweep oarsmen of 1942 now are in the Canadian armed forces. The last straw was enlistment in the R. C. A. F. of Harve Hutcheon and Gerry Morris, mainstays of singles, fours and eights. The Henley will be held in St. Kitts July 29-31 inclusive. Entries are assured from Buffalo, Detroit, Belleville, N. J., Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and Brockville, Ont.

Incidentally:

Four members of last season's Lakehead Junior Hockey Champions, Fort William Hurricane Rangers, have joined the R. C. A. F. They are Morris Hamilton, Jackie James, Eric Sandberg and Len Miller.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press.

The Ontario Rugby Football Union will defintely operate a senior series come Autumn, it was revealed last night by Secretary Harold Bailey following a league meeting in Toronto which was attended by representatives of five franchise-holders with President Frank E. Lennard of Dundas in the chair.

Chief business of the gathering, after assurances that scheduled games would be played, was the formal admission of the Ottawa Combines to playing membership. The five other entries are Hamilton Wildcats, Toronto Beaches, R. C. A. F. Hurricanes (Toronto), a navy team from H. M. C. S. York and Toronto Indians. The ex-rough riders replaced Kitchener Panthers who retain a silent partnership in the loop for the duration, and the series, accordingly, will have the same number of active clubs as before. The reorganized Ottawa club was merely standing by, awaiting the word from league officials of the granting of a berth and it is believed in inner football circles the capital already has the material for a strong team.

The drawing up of the schedule has been left to a meeting to be held August 6 and the prospect is that opening games will be played Saturday, September 25.

Phonograph a Winner.

Flashing to a two-heat victory in the championship stallion stakes for three-year-old trotters at North Randall track, Phonograph, owned by Joseph F. Burke of Plainfield, N. Y., gained support for his appearance in the forthcoming $40,000 Hambletonian. His fastest time was 202¾. Worthy boy was second both times by more than a length.

Protest Track Meet.

Housing shortage is now given as a reason for protesting against the holding of a turf meeting. Out in Edmonton, the Civic Progressive Association and the local branch of the National Consumers League have wired objections to the Dominion Government against the decision of the Edmonton City Council to permit the meet on the ground that the housing situation would be aggravated.

Owns Three in One Race.

John Marsch, Chicago turfman, hopes to make a clean sweep of the Arlington Park Futurity to-day by sending in three of his string. Occupy, Broadcloth and Jezrahel. Last year, occupation, from the Marsch stable, copped the rich prize and Occupy, this time, is rated the fastest juvenile in the west.

Gray to Meet Himes.

Bob Gray of Scarboro qualified to meet Norm Himes of Kitchener in the semi-final to-day at Islington Golf Club in the Millar Trophy competition by eliminating the Kerr Brothers, Sam and Bill, in the second and quarter-final rounds yesterday. The defending champion defeated Bill 6 and 5 in his last contest of the day. Himes, meanwhile, won from Bob Burns of Weston one up.

Golden Jubilee Meet.

To commemorate 50 years of horse racing at Hamilton, the Hamilton Jockey Club is setting the stage for a Golden Jubilee meeting to open Saturday, July 31, and to continue through August 7. A feature for the occasion is the $3,000 Golden Jubilee Handicap, distance one mile and a sixteenth for three-year-olds and up, foaled in Canada.

Lowly Jerseys Win 2 to 1 From Syracuse

By The Associated Press

Jersey City may not get out of the International League cellar, but the Little Giants are making a game try.

With Jorge Torres slashing out a three-bagger, then stealing home in the eight inning, the Little Giants beat Syracuse 2-1 last night for their fourth straight victory and seventh triumph in eight starts.

Jersey City failed to gain on the seventh-place Buffalo Bisons, however, as Mike Roscoe twirled a neat four-hitter to lead the Bisons to a 4-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. Roscoe was in great form, pitching hitless ball until Jimmy Gruzdis doubled in the eight. Norm Deweese bangedout three hits for Buffalo while Pat McNair drove in two of the four tallies.

Given a six-run lead in the first inning when his teammates weint on a batting spree, the veteran southpaw Wes Flowers, gave up only six hits in pitching Montreal to a 7-1 decision over Rochester. Bud Kimball's two-bagger with the bases loaded drove in three runs and was the big blow in Montreal's first-inning uprising.

Newark beat Baltimore 5-3 as Walter Dubiel won his ninth game of the year for the Bears. A five-run outburst in the fifth inning, featured by Frank Silvanic's homer with two on, accounted for all of Newark's tallies.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 17 — (CP) — The largest group of Canadian Army sports officals ever assembled in Britain met a Southern England recreation ground to witness a demonstration to revolutionize track and field meets.

The 432 witnesses, including sports officers, supervisors and other officials from every formation of the Canadian Army, watched the 18th Canadian Armored Regiment stress "tabloid" sports as the utopia of group activity for large numbers of participants.

Entries for the demonstration consisted of 10 men each who competed in all events. That meant every man competed in every event instead of confining himself to a sport in which he specialized, as under the old system.

Canadian Army divisional championships and some brigade finals are being decided under the plan whereby a standard is set for each event. For instance, a time is agreed upon for the 100-yard dash and 10 men from each team compete against that time. Those equalling or bettering the mark receive two points, the others one.

Whereas under the old system a track and field meet took up an entire day, "tabloid" meets are completed in an afternoon.

Under tabloid rules, an infantry brigade group final was won by a team from the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry with a field ambulance unit as runners-up. Members of the winning team were Lieut. E. L. G. Smith of Winona, Ont.; Cpl. A. J. Kelly, Brantford, Ont.; L. Cpls. W. G. Lamb of Brantford, Ont.; G. T. Pilson, Hamilton, Ont.; R. J. Dove, Toronto, and Ptes. C. A. Bailey, Sydney, N.S.; W. A. Rankin, Niagara Falls, Ont., R. F. Davis, Toronto, and L. C. Newton and L. R. Swartz, both of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Among second - placers were Capt. N. Beattie of Regina, L. Cpl. J. Woods of Galt, Ont., and Privates H. Evans and W. H. Johnston, both of Guelph, Ont.

In another tabloid meet, the 8th Field Regiment won the championship of a Canadian division. Highlight of the meet was the presence of Lady Tweedsmuir, widow of the former governor-general of Canada, who took a keen interest in the scheme and met all team captains. Eight teams competed and awards were presented by Major-General C. R. S. Stein.

Members of the championship team were Lieuts. W. T. Thompson of Toronto and H. H. Hillyard of Saskatoon, Sask.; Sgts. M. W. Drummond, Alexander, Man.; W. W. Adams, Brantford, Ont.; W. G. Owens, Hondu, Alta.; Bdrs. G. F. Dyer, Portage La Prairie, Man.; C. F. Bowen, Broadview, Sask.; Gunners G. F. McKnight, Port Lambton, Ont.; R. W. Stoneman, of Portage La Prairie, Man.; R. E. Conway, Edmonton, Alta.

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, July 16.—(CP)—Summer season pointers for busy housewives:—

GOOD DESERT—Here's a recipe which Laura Pepper, of the Department of Agriculture, considers one of the easiest and best she has run accross in a long time. It's for a strawberry whip. To make it, put one egg white and 1¼ cups of hulled strawberries into a bowl and whip them up with a rotary egg beater... When the mixture begins to thicken, beat in one-quarter of a cup of sugar, adding it gradually and continuing to beat until the mixture will hold a peak. Five minutes should do the trick. Then add a few drops of lemon juice, chill, and pile into sherbet glasses. If kept in a refrigerator the whip will hold its shape for as long as three hours...If housewives use this mixture as a finish to their strawberry shortcakes, says Miss Pepper, there'll never be a sigh for the whipped cream topping of former years.

SALADS FOR SUMMER—With Victory Garden crops coming along, there'll be no lack of salad ingredients, and salads should be served daily during the summer months, says Marion Harlow of Nutrition Services. Spinach, peas and beans—when they are young and tender—all may be used raw in salads, and all kinds of other vegetables may be used in this form as well, thus contributing their full quota of vitamins and minerals.

DAILY DIPPING—Canada's laundries are short-handed and suffering from a shortage of experienced help. In addition they are catering to the needs of the armed forces, and the fact that many laundries in congested areas is proof of the tight situation that exists. Byrne Hope Sanders, director of the prices board's consumer branch, asks housewives to help by washing small things at home... Next time the family laundry bag is emptied, handkerchiefs, pot holders, face cloths, doilies, tea towels, small tray cloths, bureau covers and even pillow cases might well be held out and washed at home. Any measures the housewife can devise to lighten the laundries' load will do much to help keep the big tubs turning.

CANNING CORNER—If an air space is found at the top of a jar after sealers of fruit or vegetables have been processed, it will in no way affect the keeping quality of the contents. After sterilizng, a sealer should not be opened unless it is found to leak...If a leak is found the sealer should be opened and the glass lid and rim examined for cracks or chips. If there is no fault in the sealer, replace the rubber ring with a new one, partially seal and re-sterilize, allowing one-quarter of the orignal processing time... Should a sealer be found faulty, it is better to use the contents immediately, as otherwise it would be necessary to re-pack them in another jar and re-process them for the full length of time this would result in overcooking and an unattractive product.

FATHERS BIOLOGICAL NECESSITY BUT MOTHERS REALLY COUNT

Spending More Time With Children, Women Determine Offspring's Place In World

A high school team is going to debate the question of whether it is better for children to have a superior mother or a superior father, and they ask me what I think about it.

Oh, well, if I were going to be a baby and had a chance to pick out my parents, I'd put my money on Mom every time. I'd select a Number One high-grade mother and wish myself on her, for I would know that while fathers are a biological necessity and a badge of respectability to have about the house, it is the mother who really counts in a family.

It is the mothers who bring their children up by hand and fashion their characters and determine what they are going to be and do in the world, and so it is far more important for them to be on their jobs and have good strong right arms with which to coerce their youngsters down the straight and narrow path than it is for the children to have papas who have advanced theories about child-culture.

MOTHER GUIDES CHILDREN TO SUCCESS

Look about you and you will see that few great men have great sons, but every great man had a great mother. So it doesn't seem to make so much difference what sort of a father children have. What they amount to depends on Mother. If Mother is one of the half-baked wishy-washy, pepless sort, ninety-nine times out of a hundred the children will be the dime a dozen kind of human beings who clutter up the earth, no matter how brilliant and intelligent father may be.

But if Mother has brains and grit and determination and a fixed purpose in life, her children are predestined to go places. They will be the lawyers, the doctors, the preachers, the writers of books and the makers of laws, no matter if Papa was the sort of man who never seemed to get along somehow. Indeed, it is hardly too much to say that the formula for obtaining success is to give a child an ambitious mother and a shiftless father. The shiftless father will furnish the necessity for the youngster getting busy, and the ambitious mother will supply the inspiration and the power that drives him on to great accomplishments.

The amount of education the children have also depends upon whether their mother is bookish, or whether she regards reading as a waste of time that might better be employed in playing bridge, or listening to jazz over the radio. If she regards an education with veneration, she will see that her children go to school, that they do their homework, and she will put them through college even if she has to work her fingers to the bone to do it.

CHILD'S IGNORANCE MAY BE DUE TO MOTHER

But if the mother cares nothing for culture; if she never reads anything except the society notices and the how to be beautiful and keep young columns in the newspapers, she will let her children loaf through school, cutting classes when they feel like it, never letting their lessons interfere with their pleasure, and emerging at last from the school room almost as ignorant as when they entered it.

The same thing can be said of children's manners and behaviour. Every child is a dead giveaway to the kind of a woman his mother is. If he is a hoodlum who whoops and shrieks and yells when he comes into your house, and smashes the bric-a-brac, and puts muddy feet on your pet chairs; if he does not know how to speak to strangers and only grunts when you try to talk to him; if he eats like a pig, and never makes any acknowledgement of courtesies and kindnesses shown him, you've got his mother's number.

You don't have to be told that she is no lady, used to the amenities of good society, or that she is too lazy and trifling to be willing to take the trouble to fit her children for life by drilling into them the code of conduct by which civilized people live.

MOTHERS SPEND MORE TIME WITH CHILDREN

It is because the mother's influence over her children is paramount that it is more important that the youngsters should have a superior mother than a superior father. Nor are fathers to blame at the time when the children are most impressionable and when their habits and tastes and characteristics are formed, so naturally they take the color of their ideals from her rather than him. Also, the fathers are so busy making living for their families they have little time to devote to trying to guide their children in the way they want them to go, whereas it is the mother's whole job.

Worse still, the superior father, who attempts to influence his children, collides with a tiger fierce maternal jealousy that balks his every effort and makes him desist in the interest of peace.

All of which should make young men a lot more careful than they are when they pick out the mothers of their future children.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—We have a hired girl working on our farm weeding. She will be here for one meal each day for 13 weeks. Is there any way I can get extra rations for her?

A.—Yes. Rural dwellings who engage temporary help may secure additional supplies of rationed commodities. You should apply for these extra rations at your Local Ration Board office stating (a) the specific nature of the extra work (b) the number of workers (c) the number of days they will be employed and (d) the number of meals to be served. . .. Applications for less than 12 meals will not be considered.

Q.—Buying a few groceries the other day, I was charged 63c for a peck of potatoes and 19c lb. for bananas. Is there not a ceiling price on these products.

A.—Yes. The maximum retail price of bananas in any store in Eastern Canada is 14c lb. Ceiling prices of potatoes per 15 lb. peck in Welland is 58c .. .. Please be good enough to report particulars to your nearest W.P.T.B. office or to us and these cases will be investigated at one .. .. Maximum retail prices for potatoes in the Toronto area are: Hamilton $2.58, 58c; St. Catharines, $2.59, 57c; Niagara Falls, $2.59, 58c; Oshawa, $2.57, 57c; Peterborough, $2.55, 57c; Lindsay, $2.55, 57c; Orillia, $2.58, 58c; Bracebridge, $2.59, 58c; Parry Sound, $2.59, 58c .. ..Potatoes sold in less than 15 lb. (or peak) quantity must conform to the per pound rate of pecks.

Q.—Last year I remember paying 20c tin for a certain brand of Chicken Haddie. It now sells for 30c, yet the store manager insists he is not breaking the ceiling. Is he right?

A.—Yes, we believe he is. Canned fish prices have increased somewhat during the last year, but the price the primary producer or processor charges is not under the regulations. However, wholesalers' and retailers' mark-ups are controlled.

Q.—Chicken Giblets have increased 3c lb. at my grocers. Is this permitted?

A. — You should not pay more for Chicken Giblets than you paid at the same store during the basic period, Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941 .. Thank you for sending us the name of the store and particulars of this price increase. The information has been referred to the Board's investigation department.

DEPTH CHARGE DRIVE

Forty-seven depth charge posters have been completely filled with stickers representing the purchase of War Savings Stamps, and with the campaign aiming at a goal of 67 posters and the month of July only half over, this indicates that a very strong response is meeting the appeal. Of the total, 37 is the number announced by the War Finance Committee as having been filled by the banks, life insurance companies and various stores in town, while the News Carriers of the Examiner have by themselves accounted for 10 posters filled. Neither figure takes into account posters which are partially filled, even though some may be close to completion. The War Finance Committee has despatched 15 of the completed posters to Navy Headquarters in Ottawa, and will send forward the balance the first of the week.

Apiarists Sell 1st Honey Crop

The first honey appeared on the market this morning and reports indicated that the crop shows every sign of being fairly good this year.

Only one dealer was selling it on the market in the comb at 40 cents each with nothing extracted, or 75 cents for 2 combs. Allan Brown, Benson avenue, who is one of the biggest honey producers in the district is understood to have contracted to sell his entire output, and will not likely be selling on the market this year.

Bernard McManus, although he may not bring any to market for a week or two, said today that already there has been a strong inquiry about honey and he plans to sell a 4-pound tin for 75 cents. He feels that there will be a supply for the usual retail trade on the market.

There was an unusually large market with new fruits and vegetables plentiful. Herb Doig quoted carrots, onions and beets at 4 bunches for 25 cents. The top price being asked was 2 bunches for 15 cents.

Western Crop Outlook Good

Western wheat is in the shot blade, with much of it in head, according to reports from Winnipeg today. More rain is needed in northern Manitoba where coarse grain is making excellent progress. Some slight damage has been caused here and there from hail.

"Indications are for a heavy crop in the Regina division of Saskatchewan, but in the central part of the province rain is generally needed.

Pastures remain in fair condition and livestock is doing well. In central and northern Alberta, wheat averages 17 inches high, with 70 per cent in the shot blade and 17 per cent in head. Crop conditions are good throughout the province. In the Peace River territory the weather has been ideal this week with occasional heavy showers. Wheat is up to 13 inches and other grains 11 inches on the average.

"Growth is rapid and prospects bright."

Maintains CCF Democratic In Whole Set Up

Bruce Johnston, C. C. F. candidate for Petrborough and the Rev. Stanley Knowles, M. P. for Winnipeg North Centre, addressed a campaign meeting of the C. C. F. Friday night. William Johnson presided.

In his speech Mr. Johnston stressthe the necessity of two main duties—the first that of seeing the war through to a successful finish, and the second that of preparing the way for a transition from war to peace that would not result in a period of severe depression such as obtained in the wake of the First World conflict.

Noting that he had been connected with the affairs of the municipal government for 36 years, Mr. Johnston felt he could speak with the feeling born of experience in the problems of those days when he said that the depression and the dole were sad and shameful things and ridiculous in a country whose natural resources were those that Canada has at her command.

Utilization of the country's resources to the full, under public control, for the benefit of the common man and the support of public works projects, among them reforestation— these Mr. Johnston believed to be necessary stabilizing factors in the situation that will eventuate at the termination of the War.

Democratic Organization

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, Mr. Knowles declared, is not merely democratic in its announced intentions and the face it presents to the public eye, but just as democratic in the organization and workings of its conventions and committees. There is no control from on top in a descending order of important positions, there is always open debate and discussion in conventions which are held annually for the election of officers and promulgation of policies, and no strings are attacked to the action of representatives through the influence of party-whips or financial dependence upon large corporations. "We have insisted that this is a people's movement and in this conviction we do not deviate from the practice of the members' of the C. C. F. having complete control of all affairs," the speaker said.

Attention Paid C. C. F.

Briefly Mr. Knowles referred to the standing of the C. C. F. in all the provinces in which it has provincial organizations and declared that the strong support of willing workers in the coming elections was sure to result in a further improvement of its position all through the county. Already, he said, through their number was few in the Federal House of Parliament the attention paid the activities and views of the C. C. F. members was out of all proportion to the comparative size of their contingent. This, he thought, was indicative of coming things.

"Is the whole power of the community to be mobilized to pour profit into private pockets and support monopolies, or is it going to give the common people security and equaltiy in the distribution of the nation's wealth?" This, the speaker said, might be a fair statement of the question the C. C. F. asks, and the aim behind the asking is the very meaning of its existence.

Aid Corporations

"Private enterprise cannot stand on its own feet. It must have the helping hand of the party in power," Mr. Knowles said. He cited numerous instances wherein agreements had been entered into between the government and various corporations, by means of which the corporations received substantial loans for the purpose of expanding their war plant, with the provisions that no taxes should be levied upon the companies concerned for 3 or 4 years and that the facilities constructed with these loans should be in their entirety the property of the companies. "These plants and buildings are being paid for by the people of Canada, and all such improvements should be owned by the people after the war," the speaker averred.

The Aluminum Co. of Canada was so successful in these arts of bending governments to its will that it had not only succeeded in persuading the party in power to pay for a multitude of war improvements in the Dominion, but had as well received promises of loans to be wrested from the public treasury for the purpose of developing its holdings outside the borders of Canada, most notably in the case of a subsidiary bauxite company located in British Guiana.

"The Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties do not care about the welfare of 12 million Canadians; they are interested only in the advancement and well-being of the corporations which assist them to stay in power," the speaker said.

"We of the C.C.F. stand for the lifting of restrictions that have to date contributed only to the enrichment of corporations and the maintenance of monopolies; it is our desire to see industrial profits going into higher wages for the farmer and the laborer, and into public funds that will be used to secure real social security, modern health services, educational opportunities and all the elementary needs of decent living for all the people of Canada."

Navigator Overseas

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Downing, 217 Brock Street, that their son, Sgt. Edmund J. Downing, R.C.A.F., has arrived overseas. Sgt. Downing enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in April, 1942, and trained as a navigator. During his training he was at Manning Depot, Quebec City, and got his wings at London, No. 4 A.O.S., in May. Before enlisting he was employed in the tool room at the Western Clock.

R.C.A.F. Spent Busy Week Bombing Ruhr

OTTAWA, July 17—(CP)—Major activity during the past week of the Canadian bomber group based on Britain was participation in major raids on the Central Ruhr and Western Germany, the R. C. A. F. reported today in its weekly communique issued on behalf of Air Marshal Harold (Gus) Edwards, Air Officer Commander-in-Chief Oversaes.

Last Friday night, Halifax squadrons of the R.C.A.F. bomber group took part in a very heavy attack on the Central Ruhr, including Gelsenkirchen," the communique said. "In spite of heavy clouds and a fierce barrage, our bombers dropped a great weight of bombs in about 40 minutes.

"Searchlights were of little effect and the night fighters were much less numerous than usual. Owing to the clouds, it was difficult to assess results although some very large explosions were observed.

Aachen Blasted

"In somewhat better weather on Tuesday night the important railway centre at Aachen in Western Germany was heavily attacked by a force of bombers which included many from the R.C.A. F. group. The ground defenses were on a much smaller scale than usual, and the target appeared to be defended chiefly by night fighters which also operated along the route to and from the target.

Reconnaisance several hours after the raid revealed thick smoke still rising to a very great height over the town."

Mines were laid in enemy waters by R.C.A.F. Wellingtons last Tursday night.

Mustangs of an R. C. A. F. squadron on offensive patrol over Northern France last Thursday afternoon destroyed an enemy reconnaissance aircraft and damaged a number of locomotives.

Cover Fortresses

On Saturday, Canadian Spitire squadrons covered the withdrawal of United States Flying Fortresses rom an attack on enemy airbases at Caen and Abbeville, destroying an enemy fighter in combat. Other R.C.A.F. Spitires escorted Venturas of the Royal Australian Air Force in an attack on targets as St. Omer on Sunday and Monday Canadian Mustangs attacked railway targets in Northern France, damaging a number of locomotives during the operations. On Monday, they destroyed an enemy bomber.

On Wednesday, R.C.A.F. Spitfire squadrons supported United States Flying Fortresses which attacked the aircraft repair and assembly plant at Villacoublay, near Paris and R. A. F. Bostons which bombed the airfield at Abbeville, the communique said.

Railway targets, airfields and other ground targets in Northern France and the Low Countries were attacked by R. C. A. F. Mosquitos operating on three nights of the week.

"Beaufighters of an R. C. A. F. Coastal Command squadron took part in an attack on a heavily armed enemy escort vessel off the Norwegian coast Saturday evening. The vessel was left on fire and settling by the stern.

"Other Beaufighters as well as Sunderlands, Hampdens and Wellingtons of R. C. A. F. Coastal Command squadrons have operated by day and night carrying out escort duties and offensive patrols against enemy shipping and submarines."

Ten R.C.A.F. bombers are missing from all these operations, the R. C. A. F. said.

BUSY R.A.F. PADRE

GLASGOW — (CP) — Padre McHardy is the most beloved man in the Royal Air Force, said Sir Archibald Sinclair, Minister for Air. He has celebrated more marriages and christened more babies than any chaplain of any denomination in the R.A.F.

Toronto Girl Gives Aid To Local Fund

When children are only thirteen years of age summer holidays mean much to them, with its freedom from school duties being perhaps one of the biggest things they have looked forward to during the past few months, so it is all the more credit to them when they immediately set to work, and particularly so when that work is aimed at doing something to benefit others rather than themselves.

Beverly Patterson of 124 Parkmount Road, Toronto, is only 13, but some indication of her ability may be gained from the fact that she has passed into the second form at Eastern High School of Commerce without having to try her examinations, which is all the more creditable when one appreciates that earlier she had to fight infantile paralysis.

Typical of the spirit that this young girl possesses is the fact that she has already on her own initiative raised the sum of $25.00 for the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund in the short time since she came to visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harrison on George Street North.

This was done through making pot holders, and selling them, together with a variety of articles such as tea towels, needle cases, face cloths, and some flowers from her grandmother's garden, $10.00 of which was recorded in this column for the fund a short while ago, and the balance of $15.00 which is listed to-day.

At this time last year, this same young lady gave help in a similar manner to the fund on at least two different occasions, and it is quite evident that the same spirit to help those in trouble is inspiring her to continue the good work, which with the enterprise she has already shown should be a happy augury for her future.

Garden Flowers Help.

Nothing perhaps speaks more vividly of the goodness of a Great Creator than the beautiful flowers so abundant at this time of the year, which breathe the very goodness of an Almighty Hand, so it is most fitting that they should be made to continue their work of goodness long after they are faded and gone by being made the means of carrying help to those in need.

There was a wonderful display of Sweet William flowers at 135 Sophia Street, which raised the sum of $10.00, credited under that heading to-day, and when one considers that a big part of these were sold to place upon the last resting-place of those who have passed on in Little Lake Cemetery on Decoration Day it does not take much imagination to see all the good uses to which this same lot of flowers has been put to.

Children Ruin Victory Plots

Police are looking to-day for individuals who wantonly damaged Victory Gardens on Monaghan Road between McDonnel and Bonaccord Streets, Friday afternoon. These plots are being cultivated by a number of employees of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, some of the city firemen and several employees of the G. Walter Green Company.

During Friday afternoon the gardens were invaded by a band of vandals, thought to have been small boys, and considerable damage was done. In the plot operated by W. Wilson, rows of potatoes were pulled up and other vegetables had been similarly treated.

These were not the only Victory Gardens attacked yesterday. A plot on Barnardo Avenue cultivated by City Treasurer Morley E. Shaver was visited but in his case theft has been the objective for a number of young cabbages had been cut off and carried away.

Court Sentences Tripp But Remands Seymour

CAMPBELLFORD, July 17 (ENS). —Found guilty on a vagrancy charge laid by Constable W. Wellman of Hastings, Vernon Tripp, 17, of that town was awarded seven days in jail with the sentence beginning on the date of his arrest.

He was picked up a week ago in Kaldar by Provincial Constable D. G. Hayes and Constable Wellman and at that time was taken to Cobour and remanded. Lewis Seymour, 17, also of Hastings, who was picked up at the same time, was charged with obtaining a car under false pretences. He allegedly traded in a car on which there was still a lein note. Chief Constable George Hardy laid the charge and Seymour was remanded for sentence in Cobourg on July 19. Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope presided.

Council Plans Construction Of Wading Pool

CAMPBELLFORD, July 17 — (ENS) —Children of this town came one step nearer to having a wading pool as council put through the motions authorizing the taking over of the proposed site and permitting the committee in charge to proceed to collect funds for the project.

This action was taken at a special session in the clerk's office Friday night as Ronald Hazel and Joel McArthur who are interested in the scheme met with council. At the last regular session of council the Road and Bridge Committee and Property Committee had been asked to bring in a report. Deputy Reeve MacMillan reported the two committees had visited the site of what was once the sheds owned by the United Church and found the foundation wall to be about two and half feet high. After the interior was cleaned up the main work would be laying a cement floor over the area which was approximately 98 by 46 feet. He estimated the cost of materials for the cement—420 bags at 70 cents and 70 yards of gravel at $1.10 at $175.00.

To provide water and drainage there would be 382 feet of excavating according to the Deputy Reeve who saw an excellent opportunity to install three catch basins and a fire hydrant on the street. He pointed out considerable work had been done on this road from time to time but poor drainage had caused much damage to the road and increased the amount of upkeep.

Councillor Taylor was whole heartedly behind the project and thought the entire set up was ideal. It was felt certain the Rotary Club would not only endorse the plan but assist in financing it. A motion was then passed authorizing the installation of the necessary tile and water pipes, with the corporaion to bear a portion of this cost on that part of the road that adjoined the wading pool. The motion included the recommendation that the work be done under the supervision of the town engineer, J. C. Birmingham.

A second motion authorized the preparation of an agreement whereby the town would take over the property which was being donated by Mrs. S. A. Anderson and also authorized the committee in charge to take immediate steps to procure funds for the work. The question of property owners on the street signing an agreement to bear their share of the costs of excavating and filling was left with council. There has been no indication whether those benefitting would agree to pay a share of the costs. Council named th following as a committee to be in charge of the building and all other arrangements—Ronald Hazell, J. H. McArthur, W. F. Scott, A. D. Bennett, P. C. Deyes.

The garbage collector Roy Martin requested an increase of $10.00 per month in his salary. Mayor Long was of the opinion that the increase was justified as it was a difficult job. Council agreed and boosted Mr. Martin's wages from $850.00 to $970.00 per year. The resignation of Relief Officer J. J. Lewis Hay, who thanked the Mayor and members of Council for their cooperation in the past, was accepted. With August 2 being a Civic Holiday the Mayor was authorized to issue the necessary proclamation and the date for the next meeting of Council was pushed ahead to August 5.

Drew Program Double Value Frost Claims

TORONTO, July 17—Leslie M. Frost, Progressive Conservative member for Victoria constituency in the last Ontario Legislature, last night outlined the background for the 22-point Progressive Conservative election platform announced recently by George Drew.

In an election campaign broadcast over a province-wide network, Mr. Frost said the Opposition in the Legislature had urged the Government "session after session," to take action in all matters which vitally affected not only the war but "the battle to win the peace which will follow immediately after the war and for which we must prepare now."

The resolutions which the Opposision submitted mee considered carefully, and these which affected Dominion-Provincial relations now are embodied in the platform adopted at Winnipeg last year, he said.

Embodied In Program

"They have been caerfuly reconsidered by the Progressive Conservative members of the Legislature just dissolved. After extended consultation with leading representatives of labor, agriculture, industry and others interested in the welfare of the country they have been embodied in the 22-point program of our party.

"This program which is one of the most advanced in our political history, is designed to assist in our war effort, and as well, to set up the framework for a better Ontario following the termination of this struggle," Mr. Frost said.

He outlined a list of resolutions which the Opposition had offered during the last Legislature, many of which, he said, were "rejected by the Liberal Government."

Among the resolutions were proposals for interprovincial co-operation to assure the greatest war and postwar efforts; for town and country planning and reconstruction; for help for agriculture; for financial protection for soldiers, and old age pensions.

Strove For Action

He said the Opposition had urged "time and time again" that action be taken to assume maximum industrial production with effective protection for the workers, but "nothing was done."

"In 1943, to assure effective cooperation between labor and industry, a Labor Relations Board instead of a Labor Court was urged on the Government," Mr. Frost said. "This move was also rejected. With this rejection went the possibility of providing ford broad schemes of conciliation which would have assured real teamwork between labor and industry."

He said that because of the "snap election" called by the Government "tens of thousands of our armed forces will be deprived of even a proxy vote." He added that the people of Ontario "should rgister their emphatic dissaproval of tactics of this sort" in the election Aug. 4.

New Order Is Clarified Affecting Men

W. H. L. Mellis, Manager of the local Employment and Selective Service office, said today that from enquiries received it seems that there may be some confusion as to who are covered by the Third Compulsory Labour Transfer Order, which was issued recently by the Minister of Labour under National Selective Service regulations. (A series of advertisements on this Order has appeared in the Examiner.)

According to the Selective Service Manager, any confusion as to the industries and occupations intended by the Order, probably arose over the method listing of certain wholesale activities and lines of manufacture. In the case of wholesaling, the entire industry is covered by this Order, except for those branches of the industry which are specified in the Order. Reverse treatment is given to manufacturing, because the Third Order brings under the transfer system those divisions of manufacturing which it specifies. Apart from wholesaling and manufacturing, a few other lines of activity are also covered by the Order.

As a clarification the Local Employment Office gives the following list of activites as covered by the Third Order:

(1) Raising of special livestock, such as race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets; (2) flower growing; (3), horticultural services, except tree surgery; (4) leather currying, finishing, embossing and japanning; (5) brewing.

(6) Manufacturing in any of these lines: (a) fur goods; (b) robes and dressing gowns; (c) neckties and scarves; (d) curtains and draperies; (e) metal household furniture; (f) household furniture (except mattresses and bedsprings); (g) metal office furniture; (h) rattan and willow-wares, (i) cigar and fancy boxes (wood); (j) mirror and picture frames; (k) perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; (l) hand bags and small leather goods.

(7) An wholesaling activity NOT in the following list: farm products, other than tobacco; food products; hardware, lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals, minerals and chemicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines and sheet music; watches, clocks and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste.

Mr. Mellis pointed out that any employers or employees who have previously misunderstood the Order should immediately get in touch with the nearest Selective Service Office.

The Order requires the registration of men in civilian employment of the types specified, who are in age and marital classes already designated under mobilization regulations. It also covers young men 16, 17 and 18 years of age. Further, it is now illegal for employers to retain in employment men of the types specified, except under Selective Service permit.

NOTICE TO PROXY HOLDERS

The times when proxy holders could have proxies certifield by Revising Officers, as mentioned in an advertisement in the Examiner Friday, July 16, were incomplete. The following are the correct times:

Between the hours of eleven o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon and between the hours of seven and nine o'clock in the evening of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the 22nd, 23rd, and 24th days of July, 1943, and not thereafter.

Early History City Schools Told To Kiwanis

Firm foundations were laid in the early years of Peterborough's settlement for the future growth of its educational system, it was said on Friday by John Londerville, Jr., M.A., in an address on the beginnings of this district's schools given before the Kiwanis Club.

The earliest attempts at organizing a place of instruction for children were owing to the efforts of Peterborough's pioneer settlers in the years immediately following 1819. Fulfilling the conditions laid down by the Ontario Legislature in its Comomn School Act of 1816, they obtained a grant of £400, elected a board of three trustees and soon had a crude school building that educated 20 pupils.

Peterborough itself was actually established in 1825, and the year after saw the beginning of the Government School operatd by the established Anglican Church. The school was built under the leadership of Thomas A. Stewart on the grounds of the present Central School and was little more than a squared-log cabin. The first teacher was the Rev. Samuel Armour, a Scottish Presbyterian, who migrated to Canada, was ordained an Anglican minister, and in 1826 was sent to Peterborough as a missionary by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

He remained until 1832 and was in that year succeeded by the Rev. J. C. Taylor, who in 1834, along with the School Board, was compelled to give his attention to a petition that the district grammar school's fees were too high and that its curriculum was too classical in nature. The accuracy of the statements in the petition was denied sarcastically by those in charge, and whatever the truth of the matter Rev. Mr. Taylor successfully weathered the storm.

By 1845 attendance at the school was 50 and the principal was obliged to engage an assistant to help in hearing recitations and correcting lessons.

Made Many Reforms.

The growth of the primary education system was immeasurably advanced in the years that followed. In 1846 the Common School Act was passed, and Egerton Ryerson, a monumental figure in his day, bebecame superintendent of education in Ontario. Ryerson was responsible for many notable reforms and particularly for advocating the standardization of educational requirements through a series of National Textbooks.

These texts, Mr. Londerville noted, were most instrumental through their insistence on the idea of cooperation in developing a nationwide sense of international fellowfeeling and at the same time building up a broad interpretation of national patriotism, which contrasted favorably in that era with the outbursts of jingoism sometimes experienced in the States.

Peterborough was incorporated in 1850 and in 1852 all the common schools that existed were united together and their sessions held in the old British Methodist Church. But as the number of scholars grew this arrangement proved inadequate, and in 1859 the present Central School was erected—the oldest educational building in Peterborough still in use.

At this period the headmaster was John King.

With the establishment of the Central School, the early and formative years of the history of Peterborough schools may be said to have drawn to a close, the speaker stated. Among the contributions of succeeding decades were property tax assessments for the support of schools, which came in 1872, the trend towards centralization, the introduction of vocational training and the growing attention that began to be paid to the health of pupils, a consideration much neglected in the earlier days.

Milf Hardill introduced the speaker of the day, and Fraser Bradshaw rose to move the vote of thanks.

Perfect Team Alex And Monty

By JOHN GUNTHER

AT THE COMMAND POST OF THE 15TH ARMY GROUP, July 17 —Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Commander-in-Chief of all ground forces under Gen. Eisenhower, has visited the Sicilian Front and conferred with his commander in the field, Gen. Sir Berhard L. Montfield, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomgomery.

It was the first meeting of these redoubtable Generals on European soil.

This is the second time in three days that Gen. Alexander personally inspected the Sicilian Front. On his first trip he called on Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, Commander of the American 7th Army. With his usual tact he chose to visit the Americans first.

Inspection of the areas held by Britons and Canadians followed. He travelled by light cruiser on his first trip, by destroyer on his second.

"Alex" and "Monty" are a perfect team. As an officer told me here at this advance post, "Alex is the gun, Monty is the shell."

Wallace, Jones Relieved Of Wartime Jobs

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt, in a sweeping home front reorganization last night ordered Vice-President Henry Wallace and Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones relieved of all responsibility for foreign economic warfare and created a new office under Leo T. Crowley to take over this work.

The President severely reprimanded the Vice-President, head of the Board of Economic Warfare, and Jones, as Supervisor of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, for publicly airing their dispute over purchases of foreign strategic materials.

In an Executive order issued simultaneously he abolished the B.E.W. and transferred its functions along with all R.F.C. subsidiaries engaged in foreign economic matters, to the new "Office of Economic Warfare," headed by Crowley.

The latter has accepted. He now is Alien Property Custodian.

The White House also made public a Presidental letter to the heads of all Government departments and agencies telling them that if they disobey his previous instructions to bring interdepartmental disputes to him before airing them in the press he will expect them to send in their resignations immediately.

Wallace recently brought the feud with Jones into the open by charging the latter with obstructing the war effort by actng too slowly in providing B.E.W. with funds to purchase strategic materials from abroad. Jones replied that the charges were malicious and untrue.

Mr. Roosevelt, in identical letters to his 1940 running mate and to Jones, said he had come to the conclusion that the "unfortunate and acrimonious public debate" between them made it necessary in the public interest to transfer their administration of foreign economic matters to other hands.

"In the midst of waging a war so critical to our national security and to the future of all civilization," the President wrote, "there is not sufficient time to investigate and determine where the truth lies on your conflicting versions as to transactions which took place over a year and a half ago."

The President said his action to night is not intended to decide who was right, but the important thing "is to clear the decks and to get on with the war at once."

"To do this," he added, "requires a fresh start with new men, unencumbered by interagency dissension and bitterness."

Besides transferring the entire B.E.W. setup with its approximate 4,000 employees of the new Office of Economic Warfare, the President's order also gave Crowley's new organization the following R.F.C. subsidaries: The United States Commercial Corporation, the Rubber Development Corporation, the Petroleum Reserve Corporation, Export-Import Bank, and all other R.F.C. and Commerce Department agencies engaged in financing foreign purchases and imports.

Allow Citizens To Sue Crown?

OTTAWA, July 17 — (CP). — Justice Minister St. Laurent Friday told the House of Commons that consideration would be given to arguments from several members that provision should be made to permit a citizen to take action against the Crown in provincial courts.

The discussion arose over a resolution moved by Mr. St. Laurent for an amendment to the Exchequer Court Act establishing for purposes of the Court, that a person in the Armed Forces is a servant of the Crown.

The resolution was carried and the Bill based upon it given first reading.

Pull Policies Out Of Hats

OTTAWA, July 17 — (CP). — J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F. member of Parliament for York South, in an address prepared for delivery over a network of Ontario radio stations last night, criticized the policy of the Provincial leaders of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative Parties in setting forth their respective party platforms.

"No C.C.F. Leader could stand up before a mike on the eve of an election as Mr. Drew (George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative Party Leader) and Mr. Nixon (Hon. Harry Nixon, Premier and Liberal Leader) did and pull a brand new policy out of a hat," said Mr Noseworthy in urging citizens to support the C.C.F. in the Aug. 4 Provincial election. "Our policy came out of the people themselves."

He said no one person determines C.C.F. policy. The policy is discussed at various small villages in towns and cities and the recommendations and resolutions adopted at those gatherings are sent to various Provincial conventions where the delegates review, debate and vote on them.

Speaking of the policier announced by the two leaders, Mr. Noseworthy said: "These old line party politicians have provided a new sugar coating with a modern flavor for the same old bitter pill public has been swallowing for generations— the same old parties with a few changes in leaders or names are again appealing to the people with the same old line promises."

In R.C.A.F. bomber stations the boys are wondering whether or not the R.A.F. will adopt the protective airmen's armor worn by American bomber men. It was designed by Leonard Barrat, 40-year-old tailor's cutter who worked on the "iron vest" at his shop. It gives protection against machine-gun bullets.

A "pilots' bin," into which fishermen of a south-east coast town drop fish from every catch for the pilots of Fighter Command, has been set up in the local market. The fishermen adopted the plant to show their gratitude to pilots who frequently have protected them from interference from the German air force at sea and beaten off sneak raiders attempting to bomb the town. Recently these pilots shot down five German aircraft during a sneak raid and did it without loss of a plane.

Lady MacRobert, who lost three sons in the Air Force in this war, has given her beautiful Aberdeenshire home to the R.A.F. so it can be used as a rest centre for men feeling the strain of a long spell of operational trips. No distinctions of rank are made while the men are there.

IMMORTAL LOVE POEMS

"I have touched the trillium,
Pale flower of the land,
Coral, Anemone,
And not your hand.

I have dreamed unwanted things,
Visions that witches brew,
Spoken with images,
Never with you."

—Sad love words from "To One Unknown" by Helen Dudley.

This and many other poignant and lovely love poems are included in our 32-page booklet.

Who has no heard at one time the lyrical—

"Ye flowery banks o' bonnie Doon,
How can ye blume sae fair!
How can ye chant, ye little birds,
And I sae fu' o' care!"

—From Robert Burns' "The Banks o' Doon."

Those who love these old favorites like reading them over and over. Immortal poems never die in their appeal.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service for your copy of IMMORTAL LOVE POEMS. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO STRINGS BEAT ONE

IT IS always better to have two strings to your bow instead of one, if you can. In case the first does not bring the desired result, you can then try the second. That principle applies to an appreciable percentage of all bridge hands. If you try one particular method first, and it doesn't work, you are licked. But if you attempt a certain other course, and it fails, you still may have reccurse to the alternative.

	North
	♠ J 7 6 3 ♥ A 9 8 6 ♦ J 3 ♣ A 8 4
West ♠ A K 9 ♥ J ♦ 10 9 8 6 4 ♣ 9 6 5 2	N / W E / S	East ♠ Q 5 4 2 ♥ K 10 7 3 ♦ A K ♣ Q J 10

	South

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

It was too bad to see that declarer fail to make his contract, despite very lucky breaks in the heart suit. South led the heart 2, North putting the A on the J, and the returned 9 was covered by the 10, forcing the Q. When South now returned the 4, the 8 was taken by the K. This left East with the high 7, though North did not know that.

With two heart tricks sure, also two diamonds and a club, East saw that, if the spades would break, he would get four tricks there and a total of nine. So he tried the A, K and Q in succession, but this didn't work, leaving the J, now set up. With that trick added to the certain two club tricks and the hearts already scored, five tricks were sure for the defenders, and defeat of the contract.

If East, after winning the third trick with the heart K, had tried the diamonds first, you will notice he would have gained two tricks in that suit, assuring his contract.

"That was just my hard luck," said East, "in trying for a break in spades instead of diamonds; I merely picked the suit that didn't work."

He was wrong. Trying diamonds first was sounder bridge. If they had not broken fortuitously, East could still have tried for his ninth trick in spades. On the contrary, trying the spades first meant that, if they would not break, the diamond effort was useless, as failure of the spades would be bound to establish the setting trick for the defenders.

Your Week-End Lesson

Do you know the new Laws of Contract Bridge on the following infractions by a member of the defending side?

1. Premature action—leading or playing too soon.
2. Improperly suggesting a lead or play to his partner.
3. Conveying illegal information about his hand or his desires.
4. Improperly exposing his remaining card or cards.

Six Women Start On RCAMC Job

OTTAWA, July 17—(CP).— Six women have started work in a new field of military activity for their sex as "female social service workers" in the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

They have the rank of lieutenant and it is expected their number will be increased. Their duties are to interview prospective recruits and conduct surveys relating to the maintenance of medical records.

They will be concerned not only with the selection of recruits for the army but with the welfare of men rejected on medical grounds. It will army but with the welfare of men be their responsibility to see that rejected men who need help and treatment are directed to the proper clinics and agencies.

All members of the new division are university graduates who have had special training.

The six women who have been assigned to duty at reception centres in Vancouver, Winnipeg, London, Ont., Toronto, Montreal and Kingston, Ont., includes Irene Page, of Windsor, Ont.

Air Cadets Leave For Mountain View Camp

Approximately 70 all ranks went into camp today with Peterborough Squadron of the Air Cadet Corps.

The unit organized last Fall with the Rotary Club as its sponsors was recently reviewed by the Commanding Officer, Trenton R.C.A.F. Station who expressed himself as being well-pleased with the progress that was being made.

Leaving here by C.N.R. train the air cadets went under canvas at Mountain View along with other air cadets from Oshawa, Belleville and Havelock. For 10-days the cadets will have the thrill of sharing with R.C.A.F. personnel the life and duties at this well-known and bombing and gunnery school.

Flight-Lieut. A. Ward-Smith who has just succeeded to the appointment of Commanding Officer of the local squadron, stated " the boys will put their theoretical training of past months to practical use while at camp by being permitted to assist R.C.A.F. personnel at the station in the servicing of aircraft".

The recreational aspect of camp life will not be lacking as the boys are to have supervised sports, swimming and also a full program of social activities.

Squadron's Adjutant

Flying Officer L. E. Briggs who recently completed a R.C.A.F. course, has been appointed adjutant of the local squadron. Other Peterborough air cadet officers are to take qualifying courses also in an effort to give members of the unit the finest type of training possible.

That the unit is making steady headway is shown by the fact that 40 boys are now qualified as Leading Air Cadets. They are to be presented with their badges of rank at a local ceremony inaugurating the winter training season, details of which are not yet completed.

Returning from camp on 26th July, activities of the squadron will be suspended until September when the fall and winter training gets under way. A recruiting campaign will signal the opening of the new training season and it is stated there will be vacancies for another flight of around 40 boys. It is planned also to enlarge the bugle band.

Air Cadets who later go to the R.C.A.F. have a great advantage over the recruits who have lacked such training, the commanding officer stressed. A boy qualified as an LAC. is credited with his basic training in the R.C.A.F., while those who have successfully completed the full air cadet training, are considered to have advanced beyond the training school phase of R.C.A.F. training.

Assigned to Invasion . .

Only volunteers go to war for The Canadian Press—and the waiting list is long.

Qualifications: Good health, sound experience and that intangible something—keenness, enthusiasm, dependability, even luck—that makes a newspaperman.

The war reporter's job is never soft. The envious reader may picture him living a grand life in the open among happy-go-lucky comrades with battle only a nebulous background. Swell idea, of course—but it's a fantasy.

The war reporter must be tough. He trains with the Canadians—hard, body-punishing drill that toughens him as well as the boys with the Sten guns. He must go anywhere, anytime: sizzling heat or freezing cold. As part of an invasion army, he faces illness, injury, death. He may be dive-bombed, torpedoed or machine-gunned.

The war reporter lugs his typewriter where the shells burst and the bullets zing. You won't find him in a tent far behind the battle-lines writing flowery copy second-hand.

You remember Ross Munro. The CP ace went with the Canadians to wreck the coal mines of bleak Spitsbergen. He landed with them under a hail of fire on the beaches at Dieppe. He went with the group that gained battle experience in North Africa.

Four CP War Reporters: Fos Barclay, Lou Hunter, Bill Stewart, Maurice Desjardins.

Eleven others in the CP London Bureau await action. They're home-grown Canadian boys. Put your finger anywhere on a map of Canada and you won't be far from a CP war reporter's home town.

They know what faces them: danger, privation, suffering.

Do they still want to go? You bet your life!

They're betting theirs.

"We've been carrying this damn ammunition for 3½ years and if we can get the Italians to stop long enough to fight we couuld have some fun out of it," observed Lieut. Albert O. Newbery of Victoria, B. C. "But sending us here certainly is a step in the right direction," he added philosophically.

Sgt. Robert Acheson of Winnipeg, said his outfit threw 186 mortar bombs and knocked out an Italian Mortar Company that had held up a British Commando Unit all day. Then he added, "they've been running ever since. They have guns poinitng at us but no bodystays behind to pull the triggers."

"Yes," broke in Captain George Street of Welland, Ont. "Every time we catch up with them they surrender. That's the main trouble. It's bloody good to be here we were afraid we'd be stuck with guarding England for the rest of the war — but we want some real opposition."

Marine Laws Are Too Strict

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 17 — (CP). — The House of Commons gave thought yesterday to lonely men.

It talked of merchant mariners, their pay and the law that govern them; of Indians and the protection of their rights on reserves; on the search for strategic minerals among the distant rocks.

And through it all, the House made swift progress towards adjournment. Today, the traditional Saturday holiday will be abandoned and the business of the Chamber will go forward as it did yesterday — morning, afternoon and evening — with government bills being discussed.

In addition to clearing the order paper of eight government bills yesterday, the members completed examination of Transport Department war appropriation estimates of $3,824,973 and made further progress with Mines and Resources Department war estimates of $10,288,135.

Remaining to be dealt with when the House rose was an amendment that items of $579,000 for the employment of conscientious objectors under the Mines and Resources Department be cut to $1.

Schools Established

Transport Minister Michaud told of the training of Canadian Merchant officers and men in schools established for them in Canada, and how Canadians probably will be manning 75 ships in August, with the aid of officers and other specialists from the United Kingdom.

A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) said a committee of two men, representing the naval services and R.C.M.P., could have a seaman arrested on the grounds he was "likely" to hinder shipping operations.

This authority reminded him of an effort in the past to make it an offence for an Indian to even think of holding an illegal potlach an Indian ceremony banned by the Government.

Mr. Michaud said the regulations under which the committees were set up were war measures designed to prevent delays in sailing. Such delays might be caused by actions of crew members seeking to cause trouble.

Too Strict.

Justice Minister St. Laurent said he had been concerned over the terms of some such orders, "drawn by men who have recently come into the service and who make them just as stringent as the English language can provide." He had had several redrafted and had indicated that those enforcing such regulations should use them only when the security of the state was at stake.

He had heard of no cases of harsh treatment, but even that, he admitted, would not justify some of the terms included in the order. If there were any case where a man's rights were interfered with he would hear of it.

Advance to C.N.R.

Mr. Michaud said an advance of $400,000 as being made to the Canadian National Railways to make possible the building of a spur line to the Steep Rock, Ont., iron ore project. The cost of providing facilities by the railway, totalling $2,000,000 to $3,000,000, would be refunded to the railway by the company when it is in operation, by a payment on shipments at the rate of 20 cents a ton.

The agreement was that if the Canadian National was recouped, it recouped the Crown.

Mr. Michaud told M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, who spoke of congestion on trains, that priority in construction had to be given equipment other than passenger accommodation.

Get Permission.

On an item of $500,000 to provide for special exploration and development work in conection with the supply of strategic minerals, Resources Minister Crerar said money was not spent until the Metals Controller, G. C. Bateman, made a recommendation which had to be concurred in by the Mines and Geology Branch Director, W. B. Timm.

Money had been advanced to companies for development of fluorospar and chromite deposits, and in other cases equipment had been made available. Scheelite, manganese, and molybenite developments had been aided.

Lt.-Col. Arthur Ross (Prog. Con. Souris) said there was a shortage of fuel and conscientious objectors should be used in fuelwood production and in relieving the congestion at the Lakehead where 30,000,000 bushels of grain was standing in cars to be unloaded into terminal elevators because labor was short.

Answering a statement by Col. Ross that land was being sold to objectors, Mr. Crerar said such sales came within Provincial jurisdiction.

During the morning and afternoon sittings, the House put eight government bills through all stages.

Hand Transfers.

Bills approved confirmed the transfer of certain lands to Ontario and Quebec in connection with power developments, extended the annual grant of $200,000 to the Federal district commission, amended the Canada Evidence Act to authorize diplomatic officers abroad to take affidavits for use in Canada, reappointed Canadian National Railways auditors, confirmed an agreement with British Columbia to facilitate development of miners on Indian reserves, amended the Exchequer Court Act to establish a member of the forces is a servant of the Crown, authorized the merging of certain National Revenue Department offices and ratified a convention and protocol on taxation signed at Washington in March, 1942.

because the opposition will be mostly German.

Italians Deserting

Indicative of the slump in Italian morale were reports that some Italian soldiers were donning civilian clothes and returning to their homes. Young men have been seen frequently in Sicilian towns dressed in civilian clothes but wearing army boots.

As the ground conflicts grew in intensity, Allied airmen including R.C.A.F. units, were roving with increasing freedom over Sicily and the Italian mainland.

Messina Knockout.

Messina, chief Sicilian port of entry for reinforcements and supplies from the mainland, was believed to have been knocked out by Allied bombers which gouged out a strip two miles wide and a mile long from the heart of its harbor section.

Naples, Italy's chief mainland port, was turned into a blazing inferno on Thursday by thousands of explosives and incendiaries from heavy bombers which shattered the Royal Armoury and gutted acres of harbor and industrial installations. The daylight blow fell while fires were still blazing from a night attack by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers.

The German air force was reported making virtually no attempt to protect Italian towns from this overwhelming onslaught.

In the south-central sector, on the Canadian Army flank, the American 7th Army under Gen. Geo. S. Patton, continued its steady sweep northward across difficult hill country to extend its hold on vital supply and communication routes linking the eastern and the western sections of the island.

The Allies were credited with nearly 20,000 Axis prisoners taken since the start of the invasion.

(William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent at an Allied Command post, reported to-day that Canadian troops had taken at least 1,000 prisoners, "possibly considerably more," in an advance made through intolerable heat and thick clouds of dust on Sicily's central front.

He said that although only general knowledge of the invasion was obtainable at his post, it was definitely known the Canadians have pressed forward more than 20 miles and have helped capture a town on which the Allied line from the Gulf of Catania to the general area of Licata—some 90 miles—balances.)

The Allied communique to-day said the Allies inflicted "severe losses" and captured "further important positions" in their inland drives from Licata and Gela.

MILITARY TARGETS BOMBED IN ROME

Russian Army Hammers Orel's Gates

Big Counter Drive Jars Nazis Threatens Railway

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 19—(AP). — The Russian Army, overcoming the German fluid defence, has slugged its way to the approaches of the main enemy base at Orel on the central Russian front south of Moscow, the newspaper "Pravda," official Communist Party organ, announced today.

As the battle reached the close of the second week of furious fighting along a 165-mile front it found the Nazi army, initiators of the offensive, rocking back under sledge hammer blows of the Russian counter-attack which threatened the German base and their hold on the vital Orel-Bryansk railway.

(The Berlin radio said today in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press that Russian troops launched a violent offensive yesterday in the Velikie Luki sector northwest of Moscow and on the Neva River near Leningrad with support from heavy artillery fire. The Germans claimed they had thrown back the Red Army men, inflicting serious losses, including the destruction of 33 Soviet tanks.)

Move Up 4 Miles.

The Soviet midnight communique reported the Red Army had advanced an additional four miles in one sector during the fighting yesterday, capturing several villages and killing about 5,000 German troops.

The battle, which was intended by the Germans to pinch off the Kursk Salient and straighten out the line, continued to pile up heavy losses in the Nazi armored and air divisions, the Russians said. They announced they knocked out 78 tanks and 137 planes on Saturday and said an incomplete check showed 20 more tanks destroyed yesterday to bring German losses to approximately 3,500 tanks and 2,000 planes in the last two weeks.

Russian communiques have indicated during the last two days that

Clockwork Precision Marks Allied Drives On World Fronts And Churchill Admits Things Are Going Almost Too Well

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

This 202nd week of the Hitlerian attempt to conquer the world finds the United Nations holding a vigorous initiative right around the globe, and things going so well for them that Prime Minister Churchill admits he is "almost afraid to say how well."

The bombing of military objectives in the Eternal City of Rome is a signal of Allied determination, and a grim warning to supporters of Mussolini and his gangster ilk that "all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword."

The invasion of Sicily proceeds like the ticking of a clock, and the Allies have established a secure line across the southeastern third of the island.

The amazing Russians, having stopped the Nazi offensive, continue to surge forward in a counter-drive which is threatening the main enemy base in the strategic city of Orel in the central front south of Moscow.

In the southwest Pacific the Allies have continued to weaken the Japanese air and naval power. Troops are drawing in about the strong base of Munda. We are getting ahead with the job of loosening the enemy hold on that whole vast island area.

It's a highly interesting circumstance that Hitler and his illustrious predecessor in world-beating, Kaiser Wilhelm, arrived at crucial defensive positions at about the same period in their campaigns. Actually Adolf is a bit behind the emperor's schedule.

The first Great War lasted four years, three months and two weeks. The Fuehrer has five months to equal that.

Having been all but knocked out, the Allies of the last war made a miraculous comeback with an offensive which in three months beat the Boche.

Hitler at this juncture would seem to be in a position similar to that of the Kaiser in the latter's final few months of the war. That is to say, the Emperor was terribly short of resources of all sorts, and he was being compelled to fight on too many fronts.

Allies Hold One-Third of Sicily

By LOUIS V. HUNTER—Canadian Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 19—(CP). — Canadian 1st Division troops have captured Piazza Amerina in the centre of the long Sicilian front, it was announced today as the Allied forces gained all along the line.

To the east, edging up toward the toe of Italy, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army burrowed relentlessly into local defences protecting Catania on the coast, pressing closer to that keystone of the enemy's position in all central and northeastern Sicily.

In the west the American 7th Army captured Caltanissetta, almost half-way across the mid-section of Sicily and 15 miles directly east of Piazza Amerina.

Meanwhile the fury of the powerful Allied air force turned for the first time on Rome, the seat of Fascist power, and bombed war and industrial targets in and around the Italian capital.

Gen. Montgomery's men wrested some of the most important strong points of Catania's defences from picked shock divisions of the German army and reached a point within three miles of the city.

Forging Ahead.

While these veterans were fighting the hardest battle of the Sicilian campaign against the hard core of Axis resistance, Maj.-Gen. Guy Simond's Canadian units, jabbing dangerously at the enemy's western flank where it is stretched in front of the roadless area of Mount Etna, were said in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique to be gaining important ground "with skill and determination in difficult country."

In this 10th day of the Allied invasion, the combined forces had taken from the Axis approximately one-third of all Sicily, the official war bulletin stated.

Yanks Head North.

Following the capture of Agrigento and Porto Empedocle on the south coast, American troops led by Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, were driving northward, widening the gap between the enemy forces in western and eastern Sicily.

The capture of Caltanissetta, eight miles north of the previously-reported northern point of American advance, was announced today at headquarters.

It is a highly-important town dominating a network of roads and railways running through central

Scorza Makes New Appeal Tells Italians To Resist

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS—Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, July 19—(AP).—Declaring Italy would be dismembered, her people enslaved and her treasures looted if she yielded, Carlo Scorza, new secretary of the Fascist Party, broadcast from Rome last night a frantic appeal for last-ditch resistance to the Allies.

The speech, obviously a reply to the Churchill-Roosevelt unconditional surrender demand which last week was conveyed to the Italian people by radio and leaflets dropped from planes, acknowledged, however, that the plight of Italy is desperate.

Italy, Scorza said, is "as never before in mortal danger," picturing her as "a little group of men" standing out against the two richest powers in the world who, he asserted, are "most avid to gorge and wishing to destroy her territorial and political unity and abolish her rights."

Although he made no direct reference to the Allied ultimatum he held that only through continued resistance could Italy survive. Recounting the country's gains under 23 years of Fascist rule he painted a stark picture of the fate in store for Italy in surrender.

"Resist! Resist! Resist!" he exhorted. "If the enemy should be victorious, what fate would befall us? The nation would be broken up; the people would be reduced to a mass of serfs and most of them would fall under the Russian whip. The stronger would be sent to toil in the Ural mines and in the Steppes; the less strong would raise flowers for the ladies or would sketch ceramics for English baronets. The Sacked museum, the schools subjected to the whims of the conquerors; the idle arsenals, the ports deserted of our ships; the closed factories, the abandoned fields would bear witness."

The speech also hinted at even more drastic regimentation for the already bomb-shocked population, and declared that although the Allies now held the initiative, the Axis would bide its time and seize the first slackening in the attack as the moment for a counter-blow.

Fraser Motion Dies In House

OTTAWA, July 19 —(CP)—By a vote of 71 to 33 the House of Commons today defeated a motion by Gordon Fraser (Prog. Con. Peterborough West) for production of censorship orders and regulations issued since the start of the war.

War Services Minister LaFleche opposed the motion because of "security reasons" which he said would prevent publication of many censorship regulations.

He was supported by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who suggested the order be passed subject to such reservations, because the United Kingdom and other Allied governments were involved in some orders.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, protested that this would mean "only a skeleton" return would be tabled.

Mr. King then said that if Mr. Graydon would not take his word the House could vote on the motion.

Immediately after the vote Mr. King said he would see that all censorship orders and regulations which could safely be published would be tabled in the House.

It was a straight party vote, all Liberals present against the combined opposition members present.

CLAIM RESIDENCES HIT

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The Rome radio said today that many residences were left aflame from the bombing of Rome but made no assertion that any damage had been done to church, cultural or historical structures.

Gas Groundhogs

GUELPH, Ont., July 19—(CP).—Chemical warfare on groundhogs is the latest thing developed by a district farmer. Ammunition being war-short, the new formula uses carbon disulphide fumes. Method is to stuff rags soaked in the chemical down groundhogs holes and set them alight, the deadly fumes doing the rest. Warning was sounded against the groundhog killer getting too close to his weapon.

Americans Bomb Reggio Calabria

CAIRO, July 19—(AP)—R.A.F. Beaufighters and American heavy bombers were over the Ionian Sea and Italian mainland Saturday and early Sunday, an Air Ministry communique announced today, raiding shipping and rail and port facilities.

British Beaufighters swept over the Ionian Sea, blasting at shipping and the jetty at the port town of Kyllene on the west coast of Greece. Bomb hits were observed on the bow of a two-masted schooner.

American bombers struck at Reggio Calabria on the Italian mainland across from Messina, their bombs landing in the railway sidings and munitions sheds where fires broke out. Observers saw one large and several small fires burning as they left the target.

The communique said all aircraft returned safely to base.

CANADIANS ARRIVE SAFELY

LONDON — A comparatively small body of Canadian troops has arrived in Britain safely after crossing the Atlantic.

The arrivals included reinforcements for various units.

16 Fighters Downed Along Coast

Week-End Forays Hit Amsterdam Abbeville And Dieppe

LONDON, July 19 (CP)—A strong force of Allied planes was reported heading across the English Channel this afternoon in the direction of Calais and Boulogne.

Observers on the southeast coast said the planes flew almost at sea level. Other planes were heard along the coast.

Earlier, the air ministry announced that R.A.F. bombers and fighters destroyed eight enemy aircraft and damaged two enemy vessels in attacks last night on Nazi air port facilities in France and shipping off the Netherlands coast.

Heavy explosions rumbled across the Channel from the continent a little later. Fighters ran a shuttle over Folkestone, one large group returning as another formation went out.

Swift Mosquito planes on intruder patrols over northwest Germany and enemy-occupied territory attacked and damaged 10 locomotives and bombed railway targets near Dieppe.

Two enemy fighters were knocked down as Typhoon bombers with fighter escort blasted the Abbeville airfield in France and two others were destroyed by Mustangs on patrol off the Dutch coast, the announcement said.

An additional four fighter planes were reported shot down in an attack on an enemy convoy by coastal command Beaufighters supported by Spitfires and Typhoons. Hits were registered on two units of the convoy.

Eight R.A.F. planes failed to return from the Sunday operations.

Pepper Railways

In similar raids Saturday night, R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. fighter planes swept over France, Holland and Belgium, ripping up railway targets and airfields and attacking shipping with the loss of one plane.

The Berlin radio also reported "nuisance flights" over Germany Saturday night by Allied planes.

In the latest of the major air attacks on enemy production centres in western Europe, Britain-based American heavy bombers pounded targets in the Amsterdam area by daylight Saturday. Two bombers were listed as lost. The Germans asserted 10 were shot down.

The air ministry announced yesterday that reconnaissance photographs had disclosed that more than 1,000 acres of the Rhineland industrial city of Cologne were devastated by the last three R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. heavy attacks there. Reconnaissance more than a week after the last raid, July 8, showed fires still burning in the I. G. Farben Chemical Works.

Two factories owned by Humboldt-Deutz, second largest producers of submarine Diesel engines in the Reich, were among those reported severely damaged.

35,000 AXIS PRISONERS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Axis prisoners taken in Sicily now exceed 35,000, an Allied headquarters report said today.

Precision Daylight Sweep Puts Ring of Bombs Outside Vatican City Walls

Fliers Ordered To Spare Cultural Sites

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP).—Military objectives in Rome, ancient centre of Mediterranean civilization, seat of the Roman Catholic church and capital of Fascist Italy, were bombed to-day by specially selected United States Army fliers.

American light and heavy bombers were specifcally instructed to avoid damaging religious and cultural monuments soch as the Vatican, home of Pope Pius XII, rained destruction on a railroad marshalling yard. The target was termed "of greatest importance to the Italian war effort and in particular for the movement of German troops."

The army said that prior to the release of bombs, Allied fliers showered the eternal city with warning leaflets. They told Italians that the target areas marked for destruction were strictly military and that every effort would be made to avoid damage to civilian areas. They also advised Romans that the Fascist government might itself arrange for damaging by bombs of homes of non-military sections in order to deceive them.

A successful attack on the railroad yards, in addition to destroying quantities of rolling stock, would strike a devastating blow at the Axis communication system and disrupt the flow of men and supplies to the Sicilian battlefields.

Vatican Is Distant.

As an added guarantee that the fliers blast only military objectives, the raid was carried out in the full light of late morning. While the railroad yards were the only target named specifically in the brief communique, other objectives in Rome and its vicinity were included.

These may have included the Fascist government offices, which are located only aboct 1,500 yards from the railroad centre, most of the city's great religious monuments, including the Vatican, are several miles away.

This was the first time since the start of the war that Allied air forces had attacked targets within the Italian capital itself, although military objectives in suburbs of the city have been bombed.

Whether Rome would be considered an "open city" because of the presence there of great cultural and religious treasures, including the Vatican, has been a question for some time. Officials said recently Rome would be attacked if military requirements made it seem necessary.

Bombs were away—dropped on their targets—in broad daylight at 11:13 a.m. (5:13 a.m., E.D.T.)

(The bombing was announced by the U.S. War Department in Washington at 5:29 a.m. before the bombers had time to return.

(An Algiers radio broadcast at 2 p.m.—8 a.m. E.D.T.—said the returning planes were just then coming back.

A CBS commentator, in a broadcast from Algiers recorded by The Associated Press in London, said "it may be assumed the attack was an

Canadians Meet Germans At Grammichele

WITH THE CANADIAN TROOPS IN SICILY, July 18—(Delayed—(CP Cable)—Canadian troops and German infantry came to grips for the first time in Sicily in the battle which preceded the fall to the Canadian 1st Division of Grammichele, northwest of Vizzini.

Canadian tanks knocked out at least one German Mark III tank and destroyed two half-tracks.

(Fall of Grammichele to the Canadians was announced Saturday. They had occupied Vizzini earlier last week in their drive up through the centre of the front from their landing beaches.

(Today the Canadians took Piazaz Amerina).

Port Hope Man

In an old garage in Grammichele, Lieut. Herb Long of Port Hope, Ont., told me the story of the fight around this town Friday.

A reconnaissance patrol of a tank unit and Bren carriers of an infantry regiment were moving up to the town at a fast clip when they ran smack into the enemy.

There was a small force of German tanks on a hill one-third of a mile west of the town, and German infantry of the Herman Goering division which had fought in Tunisia for a while, with Italian infantry in Grammichele itself.

This was the first time Canadian and German met in Sicily.

"We were leading the 8th Army up the road near this town when it happened," said Long. "German tanks and half-tracked vehicles with multiple pom-poms mounted, opened up on our carriers. Our men returned the fire. Germans and Italians in Grammichele were firing on us with machine-guns, rifles, mortars and even some artillery.

Raid Follows Warning From Churchill Calling For Surrender

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 19—(AP).—An all-American force of Flying Fortresses, Liberators, Mitchells and Marauders carried out the war's first bombing of Rome, it was disclosed tonight.

The fliers concentrated on military targets in the Eternal City. The San Lorenzo marshalling yard, one of the targets, lies four miles from Vatican City. The Flying Fortresses led the way, and while they were attacking the San Lorenzo yards Liberators bombed the Littorio railway freight yards.

Simultaneously hundreds of Marauders and Mitchells, escorted by Lightning fighters, began a lengthy attack on the Campino airdrome.

The fliers struck at the very heart of Fascist Italy in an emphatic follow-up to the Churchill-Roosevelt surrender demand.

The crews were specially trained to carry home a precision attack, pinpointing targets which supposedly were protected by their proximity to some of the most sacred symbols and monuments of Christianity. The San Lorenzo marshalling yards was the closest target to the Vatican.

Forty-five minutes after the first attack another wave of Flying Fortresses laid a new pattern of bombs over the same yards.

All the crews were carefully instructed to avoid historical and religious points by means of large aerial photographs on which such places as Vatican City, St. John Lateran and others were outlined in red with the legend nearby: "Must on no account be damaged."

Prior to the falling of bombs went leaflets telling why the Eternal City had to be attacked—because the Fascists capitalizing on hallowed precincts, had systematically concentrated their war machinery there and funnelled German troops as well as their own through Roman railways.

The Allies thus took the opening step in bringing home—emphatically—to millions who had found or expected to find refuge in the ancient city.

Allied commanders said they took "unusual risks" to carry out their mission without damaging those areas of the Italian capital where religious institutions or cultural monuments are located.

The communique declared the principal target of the raid was the Navy Rescues 157 Survivors

By J. NORMON LODGE

IN THE JAPANESE HELD SOLOMONS, July 16. — (Delayed)—(AP).—Steaming beneath a bright moon, units of the United States fleet rescued 157 survivors of the cruiser Helena from this island before dawn to-day.

The 9,700-ton light cruiser Helena was sunk in the first battle of Kula Gulf July 7. She was the only American loss in that engagement, which cost the Japanese nine warships, and most of the probably 600 to 800 men aboard her were rescued within a few hours).

The pre-dawn rescue was one of the most magnificent manoeuvres in the Pacific war to date, and the audacity of going into the enemy's own backyard through waters thick with submarines made itsq signal success the more remarkable.

Japs Fail To Supply Munda

Allies Shatter Shipping Resources

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 19 — (AP). —Allied airplanes and surface ships battered Japanese shipping in the Solomon Islands during the week-end as Allied troops increased their pressure on Munda with attacks on enemy positions near that key airbase.

Warships beat back two more attempts to run supplies to the besieged Munda garrison on New Georgia. Two Japanese destroyer flotillas, the first of three ships, the second of six, were intercepted west of Kolombangara Island and forced to retreat northward. One destroyer was believed to have been sunk and hits were scored on three others.

A powerful aerial force, described by a spokesman as almost as strong as the 200 - plane armada that sank seven Japanese ships and shot down 49 planes in the Buin-Faisi area Saturday, struck again at the remnants of enemy shipping in that harbor and pounded the nearby Kahili airdrome. Thirteen Zeros were shot down. A cargo ship was sunk and two destroyers and another merchantman were damaged.

The raid was made by four-engined bombers and torpedo and dive bombers with a strong fighter escort. Four Allied planes were lost.

Flying Accident Gives Simonds Break

R.M.C. Graduate Is Whiz At Staff Work And Well Known To Allied Leaders

By ROSS MUNRO,
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, July 19 —(CP Cable) — Steady promotion in a spectacular career with the Canadian Overseas Army—then a flying accident—led to Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., being given command of the 1st Canadian Division—the Canadian force taking part in the invasion of Sicily.

When the operation was being planned during the spring, Maj.-Gen. H. L. N. Salmon of Winnipeg and Toronto was in command of the 1st Canadian Division. He was to take it into action. Then as the final preparations were being made he was killed in a flying accident in southwest England in April.

At that time Gen. Simonds had been named commander of another infantry division after returning from Tunisia, where he had been with the British 8th Army gaining material for a report to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the Canadian Army commander.

Great Loss.

Loss of Gen. Salmon was a heavy blow. He had been on the inside of British and Canadian planning from the start and knew every detail. He had commanded the 1st Division since last Autumn, knew his troops and staff and had groomed them for this operation which would place the Canadians in the forefront of the Sicilian striking force.

He was killed when the preparations were nearing completion and his place was difficult to fill. Rapid decision was necessary as even then forces were being concentrated in preparation for sailing.

Gen. McNaughton, Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of a Canadian corps, and several other senior officers met to choose a successor. Several names were before them. Simonds, who had just returned from Africa with all the latest information on Allied Mediterranean plans, was the choice. There was not much debate. He was the logical man for a difficult spot.

So Gen. Simonds disappeared from the regular Canadian camps and headquarters in Southern England, was replaced in his old division by Maj.-Gen. E. L. (Tommy) Burns and went to work at his divisional headquarters in another part of Britain and at the War Office in London.

Big Job

He had an immense amount of work to do in catching up on all the planning and he labored night and day to become as conversant with all aspects of it as Gen. Salmon had been. This sort of staff cramming was something he could do. In all the overseas army there are few staff officer and commanders who have proved to have such capacities for staff work. When you looked around for officers with a big future in the Canadian Army you always put Guy Simonds high on the list.

He had been a marked man for promotion ever since he came overseas in December, 1939, as a general

Italians Welcome Canadians

Captured Town Makes First Demonstration

By ALAN HUMPHREYS

(Distributed by The Canadian Press)

WITH THE ANGLO-CANADIAN 8th ARMY, July 15 — (Delayed) — Our troops had their first real taste today of the pleasures of liberating a town from Axis domination.

Hitherto they had passed through politically unconscious areas where the apathetic, largely illiterate population was neither hostile nor welcoming and to whom the Allied troops meant little more than the Italian and German forces.

But a small town this afternoon provided a sample of the reception and demonstration awaiting the troops of the United Nations on the mainland of Europe.

The population from children to the aged lined the narrow streets and clapped, cheered, smiled and waved handkerchiefs as the British forces continued the chase of the fast retiring Germans towards Catania.

There was nothing sham about the welcome. This was not feigned joy.

The people smiled through tears and shouted "Viva Inglese" with emotion in their choked voices,

FAST MOVING 8th ARMY THREATENS TO ENVELOP SICILIAN PORT

Allies Reach Suburbs Of Catania City

Strong Defence Point Falls To Canadians-Britons

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 19 (CP).—Fiercely fighting British and Canadian 8th Army troops lunged against the outskirts of flaming Catania today after capturing one of the most important defence positions before that city which is the heart of Eastern Sicilian defence works.

A report relayed from an Allied Command post last night said this strong point fell only after the heaviest resistance yet encountered by invading Allied armies.

In the central sector Caltagirone and Gramachele have been taken by advancing Canadians, under command of Major-General Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., shoving back the Axis cross-island lines of communication some thirty miles.

Since the Sicilian campaign began the Canadians have penetrated more than 50 miles northwest from the beaches of Pachino peninsula where they first landed, going further inland than either the British or American forces. Their fighting ability has been praised by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the 8th Army, and they have captured many towns.

Well Equipped

Sources here considered it probable that the bulk of the German troops in Sicily were engaged in the still developing battle. These forces, once officially estimated at 60,000 are well equipped with giant Tiger tanks and smaller Mark IV's.

(The only Canadian regiment on the island known to be equipped with tanks was identified by Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent as being from Quebec.)

Observers here regarded Catania as one of the main pins holding together the defence framework, for there probably is no place between Catania and Messina, 55 miles to the north, where the Axis could make a determined stand.

Canadians Take No Chances In Pachino

Guns at ready, Canadian troops step warily through the Sicilian town of Pachino in a wopping up action against snipers. It was here that the B.E.F. made its first landing on Sicilian soil, taking the town quickly. A nearby airfield was an additional prize which went with the port capture. The invaders moved swiftly inland from that point and are now driving on Catania.

Lakefield Man Dies At Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont., July 19 (CP)—Montague B. Elkin, of Lakifield, died to-day in the Mountain Sanatorium here.

Born in London, Eng., in 1902, he as a graduate of the University of London as a radio engineer and had served with the British Broadcasting Company in various parts of the world before finally coming to Canada, where he went into private business in Lakefield, Ont.

He came to the Mountain Sanatorium as a patient in February, 1939, and throughout this period he was interested in setting up a course of radio instruction for the patients. In addition he prepared two textbooks, the first on radio theory and a second on radio practice. This has been the means of securing employment on discharge, for several patients and has also been a benefit to patients under treatment. In recognition of his assistance to the Sanatorium a private service is being held Tuesday in the chapel of the Wilcox pavilion. Interment will be in Lakefield, Ont.

Forestall Complaints

It was the first time in this war that a report on a bombing was released before attack actually started. Corespondents were given the information at 11 a.m. The bomb bay doors were opened in the lead flight of the Allied planes 13 minutes later and the radio operators on the flight informed headquarters instantly.

The reason was to forestall or discount a flood of Axis propaganda claiming Rome had been bombed indiscrimnately, with lurid and fantastic tales flashed to Roman Catholic countries over the world.

Rome is barely 350 miles from advanced Allied air bases and Mussolini and his Fascist chieftains are reported to have lived in a terror of a bombing of their capital since the turn in the fortunes of war in the Mediterranean.

The Fascist chieftain is reported to have had several different headquarters ararnged in various parts of Italy, but his main office remained in the capital.

The pilots, navigators and bomb-aimers who made the attack were hand-picked from among thousands, selected for special qualities in which their military efficiency was only one, and then went through intensive weeks of training by Allied intelligence experts who had lived for years in Rome.

Take No Chances

They memorized a large map of Rome to be sure of their targets.

They had to take all these precautions because Mussolini had built up a big war machine virtually in the shadow of Vatican City.

The Pope's residence is about five miles from the big Rome railway freight yards where bombs were planted, and the Roman forum is even closer, about three miles.

The Allied air forces also struck at mainland airfields of Italy at Monte Corvino and Pomigliano Saturday night, dropping explosives in strings across runways and buildings, it was announced. In direct support of the British 8th Army driving up the Sicilian east coast other fleets of aircraft blasted at Catania and Randazzo, a key communications centres across Mount Etna from Catania.

Vatican City lies in the hear of the city within a few blocks of the Ministries of War, Oir, Interior, and Finance.

The citys biggest freight yards are vital links in Italian communications to Sicily from the industrial north and the Brenner Pass route from Germany. The attack would thus be tied in closely with the Sicilian campaign.

These freight yards have been declared by the Italians themselves to be military zones. They are the type of targets that would be shelled by artillery if land forces were within range of Rome.

As a further testament to their sincerity, the Allies selected and trained special crews to undertake the bombing.

It was observed in London, however, that interference from enemy fighters might upset the aim of even the cleverest of pilots and bombardiers and no guarantee could be given that non-military targets would not suffer.

staff officer (2nd grade) with the First Canadian Division. He was only a major then, and in July, 1940, he was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel to command the first field regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery—his own regiment.

From there he went ahead rapidly and his appointments include commandant of the first Canadian junior war staff course in Britain, general staff officer (1st grade) of a division, brigadier on the general staff at a corps headquarters, and commander of an infantry brigade of the First Division.

Right-Hand Man.

Before his divisional command he was a brigadier-general staff at army headquarters and Gen. McNaughton's right-hand man. While he was at corps headquarters he became a good friend of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the combined British and Canadian forces in Sicily, and during his Tunisian trip he saw a great deal of this famed British commander.

Gen. Simonds is an Englishman, born at Ixworth Abbey, Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk. He went to Canada with his family as a child and received his early education at Ashbury College, Ottawa, before going to Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., from which he was graduated in 1925.

He went right into the army then, as an artillery lieutenant, atteinded a gunnery staff course in England in 1932 and later instructed in gunnery tactics at R.M.C. He also is a graduate of the staff college at Camberley, England.

This broad military training, combined with his own energy and talent he has demonstrated in the appointments he has filled with army in England, went a long way to fitting him for his present vital command.

Looks Like Eden.

Gen. Simonds is a tall, slender officer with black hair and a neat moustache. In general appearance he resembles Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, and even in battle-dress his attire is impeccable. He has the insistence of a Guards' officer on neatness, discipline and smartness among his officers and men.

When he is discussing questions with his staff and when he is talking with war correspondents, he speaks rapidly and easily, proceeding quickly and logically from one point to another. His speech is precise and his thinking clearcut.

Gen. Simonds is not as approachable as some Canadian leaders when you first meet hm. There's a reserve — almost a shyness—about him and it takes several meetings before you feel you know him at all.

Sicily. It is about 28 miles from the south coast, and about 37 miles from the north coast.

Twenty miles farther along to the northeast is Enna, described as the strategic centre of the big island. It was believed the Canadians and Americans would both converge on Enna.

The Canadians and Americans gained contact after their captures of Caltanissetta and Piazza Armerina and both forces then turned north in a rapid advance upon Enna, which has been called the "navel of Sicily."

Geographically it is almost the dead centre of the island and it is the focal point of nearly every main highway cutting through that area.

Evens Line

The general line of the advance of the whole front was now approximately even, from the left flank where the Americans were attacking, through the centre, where the Canadians were in action, to the right flank where the British were battling.

The line was an average distance of about 50 miles from the coast. Some Canadian units had advanced 20 miles in a single day.

Meanwhile, Axis prisoners captured in Sicily mounted to 35,000, or more than one-tenth of the entire German and Italian force with which it is estimated Gen. Alfredo Guzzoni started his defence of the island. Observers said the Italians were surrendering not as isolated groups but as organized army units. In one case an Italian company shot its German commander and gave up.

The most important moves were taking place on the eastern stretch of coast, where Gen. Montgomery's troops had battered back strong German units in the confluence of three large rivers across the Catania Plain, thrown strong briidgeheads over the southernmost of these and gained control of the estuary three miles south of their strategic objective.

"Some of our tanks came up and took on the German tanks and half-tracks on hills west of the town. They knocked out one Mark III and destroyed two half-tracks. I understand one of our tanks was knocked out.

"Then our infantry which had been reinforced by now, rushed Grammichele and cleared out the enemy. A few Germans were killed and a couple taken prisoner, but for the most part they cleared off as we attacked, leaving Italians. We got about 200 Italian prisoners."

From Millbrook.

Capt. Bernie Madden of Brockville, Ont., was with Lieut. Long in forward vehicles when they ran into fire. Sgt. Jack Whittington of Millbrook, Ont., was one of the N. C. O.'s in this action. Lieut. Ryckman of White Plains, N. Y., who went to England two years ago with a tank outfit, was commanding the Canadian tank reconnaissance patrol which was with the infantry carriers.

Ryckman and his men had to take cover when the shooting started, and they joined in the subsequent assault on the town, according to the lieutenant who told me of the tank action at headquarters later.

It was Ryckman who rounded up 15 French 11-ton tanks being used by Italians near Rosolini three days ago. He found them in the harbor guarded by a group of Italians, and captured the lot. The tanks were brand new.

C.G.E. Veteran Passes In 90th Year

The funeral of Mercello Mowry, who died Saturday morning at his home, 588 Charlotte street, took place this afternoon from Comstock's funeral home to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The service was conducted by Rev. C. C. Boyter, minister of Park Street Baptist Church, representing Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Church, of which the late Mr. Mowry had been a member for many years.

Pallbearers were: William Mantell, Reuben Mowry, Robert J. Martin, A. H. Mowry, Chas. Gardiner and Alex Sage.

Mercello M. Mowry would have been ninety years of age if he had lived until the next anniversary of his birth, "Trafalgar Day," October 21. He was born in Peterborough, son of John Mowry and his wife Selena Martin.

John Mowry and his brother Richard were among the early manufacturers in the old town whose activities at the middle of the last century and for many years afterward were centred about the water power of the Otonabee River. Elder citizens have memories of the factory area of that day, extending above and below Hunter street, with similar power sites and industries at Auburn and elsewhere within the old town limits.

Mowry brothers were among the first manufacturers of agricultural implements in this section of the province. Their shops were situated on the east side of the river, south of Hunter street and somewhere in that stretch of property that is now Riverside Park. Mercello Mowry was born in Ashburnham, and as he grew up through boyhood and into the succeeding years he was observer of all the industrial changes which began with the discovery and development of the practical uses of electricity. His own town changed before his eyes as the "raceways" of the old direct system of harnessing water power were gradually abandoned, filled in and obliterated.

Events happened with amazing swiftness through the years of Mr. Mowry's lifetime. Peterborough was only a crude town struggling out of the pioneer and bush stage when he was born in 1853. The full sweep of modern refinements in domestic and civic life changed all that old and crude scene to an extent that would hardly seem recognizable by these last few surviving contemporaries of whom Mr. Mowry is probably the oldest. He had lived here all his life, and his memory was a full storehouse of local events and people and all the other changes that accompany progress and the flight of time.

Hamilton's hardware store is a long forgotten name in the city's business district, but it was there Mr. Mowry first worked as a clerk. Eventually he joined the staff of the present Canadian General Electric Company, and was employed with them more than thirty-six years, of which twenty-two years were as foreman, up to the time of his retirement in 1928.

Mr. Mowry was one of the oldest members of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I.O.O.F., and was virtually the dean of Oddfellowship in this district. He had originally been a member of Aurora Lodge until he transferred to Otonabee. During his long association with the fraternity Mr. Mowry passed through the various offices and in 1887 was the Noble Grand of Otonabee Lodge. He was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Many floral offerings as last tokens of the esteem in which Mr. Mowry was held by his friends included a beautiful basket from the machines shop employees of Canadian General Electric Company and a wreath from Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F.

Betting Houses Hit In Code Revision

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 19—(CP). — The House of Commons today entered what many members said they hoped would be the last week of a session that began in January

During Saturday, a day usually spent in holiday, the House made good progress with business remaining on the order paper and which must be cleared before they can return home.

Several amendments to the Criminal Code, a number of them designed to facilitate prosecutions for operating betting houses, were given approval in sections of a covering bill.

Also approved was a bill amending the Unemployment Insurance Act. A leading provision in this measure raises to $2,400 from $2,000 the ceiling under which workers may obtain the benefit of this legislation.

The final act of the evening was passage of a bill authorizing the Canadian National Railways to issue securities not exceeding $6,046,300 in principal amount to meet moneys needed to cover capital expenditures.

Sets Up Committee.

Today, the House will discuss a consolidation of the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, and proceed to study of further war appropriation estimates. An hour for private bills discussion will be given in the evening.

The House on Saturday also passed Prime Minister Mackenzie King's resolution setting up a 24-man committee to sit during the recess to inquire into and report possible economies in war expenditures.

Mr. King said appointment of the committee had been delayed due to the pressure of other business before the House. There had been lengthy debates on the appointment of other committees, and the government had desired to get ahead with the most important war measures.

It was considered inadvisable to have a lengthy debate on the war expenditures committee until the

The Navy research men have devised inhalation apparatus for giving measured amounts of serum.

Institute Plans To Hold Garden Party

CAMPBELLFORD, July 19 (ENS) —Plans for their annual Garden Party at Connelley's School and an interesting program featuring an exhibit of the work done in the Home Economics Department at the high school here were the highlights of the July meeting of the Seymour West branch of the Women's Institute.

Arrangements for the garden party, which is the only one scheduled in this district, included the naming of a sports committee which will arrange for softball games and the grounds, booth and supper committees. A year ago the garden party yielded the branch $175.00 and was one of their chief sources of revenue. All of the money was used in war work and members voiced the hope that it would this year be regarded more as a community affair since all of the boys in the district in any branch of the service are provided with Christmas parcels, cigarettes and other items by the Branch.

The president, Mrs. R. A. Rutherford, presided during the business period and various committees for the garden party were named as follows—Booths, Mrs. Ray McCulloch, Mrs. Douglas Rutherford; Sports, Mrs. Gordon McCulloch, Mrs. Fred McCulloch; Supper, Mrs. Art Rutherford, Mrs. Harry Hoard, Mrs. Fred Hendy, Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Fred Rutherford, Mrs. Fred McCulloch.

As a part of their war work program the branch decided to fill at least ten ditty bags by October and to further this work they authorized Mrs. Fred McCulloch to procure a supply of wool from which a turtle neck sweater for each bag will be made, to be included with the various other items. Payment of $7.00 expense money to Mrs. Rutherford for her attendance at the Biennial Convention of the Institute in Toronto was also authorized. Some time was devoted to a discussion of prize lists for the Seymour Fall Fair and it was decided to again offer a $5.00 special prize, but the allocation of this was left with Mrs. James Waters and Mrs. Robert McCulloch, who are members of the Fair Board. In the hope of furthering the war effort the prize last year was offered for sugarless baking but not a single entry was made so the money this time is to be offered either in the preserving and fruit section or some other section dealing with the war effort.

Mrs. H. Clark, who with Mrs. Rutherford attended the Biennial Convention in Toronto, gave a report on this.

Mrs. Fred Hendy presided for the program which was featured by an address entitled "Hats off to the past, Coats off to the future," given by Mrs. George Elmhirst. The speaker expressed the view that in looking back over the years it seemed as though much had been accomplished but in looking at the future she wondered if this generation was doing all it could to improve conditions. Religious instruction in the public schools of the province was one thing the speaker felt might well be expanded and to prove this she pointed to recent tests conducted among member of the armed forces who when chosen at random and asked questions that any child attending Sunday School should should know, proved they were "deplorably ignorant" on religious facts. Mrs. Elmhirst felt greater attention should be given to religious subjects in the public schools.

Miss Betty McCulloch gave a demonstration of some of the work done by first year home economics students at the local high school and exhibited one kind of muffins and two kinds of biscuits, also her sewing and notebook. Only other item on the program was a piano solo by Miss Phyllis Elmhirst.

Drew Charges Timber Deals Secretly Made

FORT FORT WILLIAM, July 19 —Crowds at rallies at these twin Lakehead cities Saturday night left no doubt of their concern for the development and preservation of the vast natural weath of Northwestern Ontario when they voiced enthusiastic approval of the Progressive Conservative proposal for an independent Forest Resources Commission to take forests out of political control.

Extending Holdings

Mr. Drew charged at Fort William that, instead of declaring the timber companies in default on tracts, the Government was secretly rewriting the contracts to extend holdings now in company hands.

"Ask Nixon why he's doing that instead of taking back the resources belonging to the people of Ontario," he said.

High grading of timber, cutting only close to the mill, had caused shutdown of the Shevlin Clark plant, Mr. Drew said. That policy would put whole communities on relief, and must stop.

He assailed the Premier for dissolving the House 48 hours after the first meeting of the long-awaited Rehabilitation and Social Security Committee.

"That's how far social security got, and they have no real thought of planning it now," Mr. Drew said.

He challenged Mr. Nixon to address the Province by radio as other leaders have done and let the people hear what program he had.

For the Premier, who comes to Port Arthur Monday, Mr. Drew left several questions for answer, among them the conflict between Mr. Nixon's opposition to the removal of forests from political control through the sitting up of a commission and the approval of the Progressive Conservative plan expressed by a member of his own party, Mayor Charles W. Cox, Liberal member in the last Legislature for Port Arthur and lumber operator.

The leader's whirlwind trip through this district by plane, train and car, revealed at Kenora, Fort Frances and here that among the most popular planks in his reform program next to a forestry commission are assumption by the Province of 50 per cent of school taxes, now burdening real estate, revision upward of mothers' allowance and old age pensions and post-war security of service personnel.

Coal Shortage Pending

We are promised a coal shortage during the coming winter; indeed, we have been promised such a shortage for some time, but apparently it is going to be worse than was thought a few months ago. Mr. O. C. Sturdy, of the Department of Munitions and Supply, foresees that seventeen hundred Ontario and Quebec industries will be forced to close because of fuel restrictions; that anthracite coal will be very scarce; that schools will be restricted in their heating; and that some theatres and churches will be forced to close altogether. This is a gloomy outlook indeed.

In order to speed up production of coal, the Dominion Government may be forced to make concessions to miners in the matter of income tax. Many miners, like many workers in other branches of industry, are willing to work only until their income becomes taxable; they have not paid taxes before and they do not mean to begin in wartime. This is a form of privileged sabotage, and everyone recognizes it as such, but no sign has been given that drastic action will be taken to right the wrong. If the Government makes concessions to the miners on the matter of taxation it will have to prepare itself to make similar concessions to other workers, and the fat will be in the fire.

An order has been given that consumers must accept one-quarter of their winter's supply of coal in the bituminous product which, as it is dirty, is not usually favoured for use in residential districts. The order, however, is no guarantee that the other three-quarters of the winter's coal will be available in anthracite.

The situation, which is bad enough in Ontario, threatens to be much worse in Quebec and in the West, where the shortage was most keenly felt last winter. It is hoped that a solution to the coal problem will be found soon, but as yet no hopeful sign has appeared.

Vandalism In Victory Gardens

There are too many cases in the city of vandalism in Victory gardens. Last week great damage was done in the gardens on Barnardo Avenue; vegetables were wantonly pulled, and cabbages which were almost ready to eat were cut and left lying on the ground. And in the same week there was destruction in the seventeen lots on Monaghan Road, north of McDonnel Street; most of these lots are worked by men employed in the Dominion Woollens. Other cases of less spectacular damage have occurred.

We believe that at least some of this damage was done by children, to whom vandalism comes naturally when it is not checked by home training. Children begin life as mindless destroyers, and this attitude persists until well after school age unless steps are taken to educate the child in self-control and the value of property—their own as well as that of other people. A child's instinct in a garden is likely to be to uproot everything in sight, unless it has been trained to respect the results of hard work.

For it is not easy to make a garden, and it takes strength of character for a man who has put in a full day's work to spend his evening digging and weeding. Why should his hard work, and the money he has spent, be set at naught by children whose parents cannot, or will not, control them? And why, when we are assured that vegetables will be scarce this winter, should a child who knows how to cut a cabbage not know enough to leave one alone? If this were thievery it would be explicable on some sort of rational grounds, but witless destruction of foodstuffs is maddening precisely because there is no reason for it.

Good News About Hitler

A report from London says that Hitler has taken personal charge of German operations in Russia If this is true, the news could hardly be better For Hitler's record as a general in the Russian campaign has been made up of one black mark after another. He made the great mistake of his career when he attacked Russia in the first place, and he made one mistake after another when he tried to direct the battle there. Last year he took personal charge of the Russian campaign and so far as it is possible to learn, split his forces in two in an attempt to grab both the Volga and the Caucasus at once. Stalingrad was the price he paid for that mistake.

Russia is Hitler's jinx. His intuition has never served him well on Russian soil. On October 3, 1941, he vaingloriously said, "This enemy is already broken and will never rise again". But it did rise again, with as many heads as a hydra. On the eleventh of December in the same year he said, "With the return of summer weather there will be no obstacle to stop the forward movement of the German troops". But there was an obstacle, composed of stubborn Russian flesh and bone. On the fifteenth of March, in 1942, he dared the gods by saying, "The Russians will be annihilatingly defeated by us in the coming summer". And when the 30th of September came in that year he said that Stalingrad could not be wrenched from the German hands; "You can be of the firm conviction that no human being shall ever push us away from that spot". But human beings did it.

What better news could we ask for than a verification of this tale that Hitler once again has taken command on the Russian front? He will destroy himself more quickly in Russia than in any other quarter of Europe.

W.I.B. And Sicilian News

Although he has amplified his remarks made in the Commons on Tuesday last, we still do not understand why Mr. Brooke Claxton, the Parliamentary Assistant to the Prime Minister, thinks that the Wartime Information Board had anything to do with the excellent news stories which the papers have received from Sicily. The earliest and best account of the invasion came from Ross Munro, The Canadian Press correspondent; The Canadian Press has nothing to do with the W.I.B. Actually, Mr. Claxton referred to the W.I.B. as being "at various points in the background", in connection with the spread of this news. It was so far in the background that the newspapers were wholly unaware of its presence in the matter at all.

The Wartime Information Board is doing an excellent job in many ways. A recent report on its work in the U.S., sent to Canada by W. R. Givens, a veteran Canadian newspaperman and a former financial editor of the New York Times, makes this clear. We have said pleasant things about the W.I.B. in the past and will probably praise it again. But we think that its officials should armour themselves against any delusion that they constitute a Ministry of Propaganda and Enlightenment, and that they are "in the background" of all the important news. Nothing is so easy as to give the impression of being a power behind the throne, and nothing is so hard to prove. Mr. Claxton is now saying that he cannot reveal just in what way the W.I.B. was "in the background", as to do so would reveal deep and valuable secrets. Frankly, we think that Mr. Claxton was trying to include the W.I.B. in a very creditable piece of news-reporting with which it had no connection at all. That is a foolish waste of time. The W.I.B. is doing a good job in its own line of country, and does not need to be bolstered with false claims. And, by the bye, nothing will do it so much harm as a wholly illusory reputation for being "in the background" of things with which it has no connection.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THUNDERSHOWERS which covered the most of Ontario have helped to keep the Spring crop growing and helped the corn along. The Galt district had the earliest cutting of fall wheat I have heard of, about the end of the first week in July but there was very little wheat cut in Ontario on the 12th. It should be filled quite well as frequent showers prevented its ripening too rapidly. There has been abundance of grass in most places, hay got some rain when down, but the corn and roots will make up for any loss there. This is a year when we must make the best of things and keep an eye on what we may plan for 1944, because with Britain planning for 1947, we cannot afford to be behind in our production of food as Canada should plan an important part not only in feeding the world but also in re-establishing its agriculture when hostilites have ceased.

With shipments of feed grain coming in large numbers from the Prairie Provinces we naturally are deeply interesting in the whole production of grain in Canada, and just what acreage is under crops and what these crops are. Oats and barley are coming from the West in car loads at fairly reasonable prices because of the efforts made to take large areas out of wheat production on the Prairies, and turn it into the growing of coarse grains. These grains are better for most of our feeding problems in Ontario, they are also large yielders in bushels to farmers in the West and they also afford a good rotation of crops which is an important factor in dealing with land in any farming country.

Seeding being over long enough in the West to enable calculations to be made as to the approximate acreage of all these crops which have been planted it is of more than ordinary interest to find what these results are.

IT IS estimated that the reduction of the acreage of wheat seeded in the West this year, as against last year, will amount to some 3 and one half million acres, which will mean that we have about 17 million 200 thousand acres planted to wheat. As against this there will be one million one hundred thousand more acres sown to oats than last year, which should give us about 10 million, 750 thousand acres of oats. There is an increase in the barley acreage which should amount to almost 800 thousand acres, bringing the total acreage for barley up to about 7 and one quarter million acres. There has been a reduction of the acres seeded to rye of about 100 thousand, which means about one million one hundred and fifty thousand acres of rye.

Flax is the crop which shows the largest percentage of increase, being over 40 per cent so the acreage of flax this year will be some 2 million one hundred thousand acres as against a trifle less than 600 thousand acres last year. It is interesting and promising to know that in these three provinces some 21 million acres will be summer fallowed this year. This not only means resting the land and conserving moisture for the following crop, but it offers the farmer an opportunity to give the weeds at least some setback. It is sometimes asked, when a bonus is paid for summer fallowing, as to how well it will be done. That must depend upon the farmer and he is working for himself. If he takes some pains to kill weeds and conserve moisture, he will reap the returns in his next crop which is likely to increase in value as time goes on, if he fails to farm well he may lose the better part of a crop which he might otherwise reap. Farmers in the West have been very much alive in recent years, to new plans of cultivation and to handling of their land so as to increase its profit. Leading farmers in the West have made great progress in their methods of farming, and are on the alert to adopt each practices in cultivation as prove successful in their district.

A FARMER who has sod to break which he intends to seed to fall wheat should get it ploughed during this month. In Ontario, July is the best month to break grass land and if it has some weeds in it then by all means plow in July, fairly deep and turn it over flat, the flatter the better. This is no time of year to set sod up on edge. Set your coulters on a bevel to take a good edge off the furrow so it will fit down right when it is turned. If you have a tractor that will haul a packer, a good heavy one, after the plough, hitch it on, if not, stop the plough each evening early enough to run the packer over what you have just ploughed. Get it packed at once, sealed down, and if the field is fairly large double disc it as you go along. Pack first then double disc and follow this with the harrows to fine the surface and fill in any open spaces in your ploughing. This will rot the sod and give your wheat a good seed bed. If rains should continue and grass sprouts to show green, get on it with the disc again. Do not let any green braird coming up between the furrows, to furnish nourishment to roots underneath and so keep them alive. When grass is ploughed, kill the grass and so allow its decay to produce humus for your crop of wheat.

Your plans for future cultivation will likely include laying this field down to grass again after two or three grain crops, which makes it important to kill all the present grass in it so you can seed with what may be a better mixture when you make grass another step in your rotation.

In a grain producing country like Canada we are bound to have a good deal of discussion as to how our grain, and that of other nations is to be handled after the war. Already we have the opposing forces lining up. On the one hand we find the elevators and the Grain Exchanges and on the other the efforts to have the Wheat Board, in Canada, and similar organizations in other countries favoring a Government controlled organization to handle the world's crops of grain and give some direction to production. It is a very serious and important question upon which only those familiar with the grain trade are competent to give an opinion. The farmer has had for nearly fifty years to fight the handlers of grain for something approaching a fair deal and he, from past experience approaches this matter with a good deal of prejudice against the elevator companies and their handling of this part of the farmers business. The result will be that before this business is settled some chickens will have come home to roost and they will be pretty wary old birds.

I spent Monday morning on the Toronto Stock Yard and saw some cattle selling for pretty stiff prices. A few baby beaves I saw bring 13c and at the same time I saw some butcher steers, not too fat, bring the same price. This is doubtless caused by the greater demand at the present time for fairly good beef and a small demand for choice cuts. Just now with beef rationed it is quite difficult for small families, with only two or three ration cards, to buy a roast of any size and now that hot weather is on the demand for such is further lessened. Good beef with not too much fat is what is wanted and those who prize choice cuts and fair sized roasts will have to wait until the war is past and it is only fair that they should.

In conversation with some buyers and sellers in the yards I find their opinions mostly are that cattle are not being reduced in numbers in Canada. It is generally thought that farmers are raising more calves and are going to try to maintain the supply. This is a good plan for cattle raisers; there will be an increased demand for cattle later and those who have them will be in luck.

"ONE LAST FLING"

Are We A World Power?

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

READING the House of Commons discussion of External Affairs estimates, a thing that strikes us is the easy reference to Canada as a "world power." We wonder whether the description is accurate? Or whether it doesn't reveal us in a bit of juvenile vanity—strutting about in clothes that are far too big for us?

None of us need be ashamed of Canada's part in this war, nor ashamed of her place as a member of the British Commonwealth. What we perhaps need to feel dubious about is this business of pretending that we are a world power on our own—suggestions that in the future we should have our own foreign policy; perhaps go to the peace conference as a separate political entity with a policy of our own. That, we feel, could only bring bad consequences; land us in a position where we should be nothing more than just another "small nation."

Because we don't think the Great Powers take us at our "world power" valuation. In the House the other day, during this very External Affairs debate, Prime Minister King cited a list of leading war boards, and we noticed that with the exception of one all of them were United Kingdom-United States boards. Then, on June 10 announcement was made of a United Nations relief agency. It was an agency in which Canada is vitally concerned, being a large supplier of food, yet a Washington despatch telling of this relief agency set-up said:

"The real governing board, however, will be the central committee consisting of representatives of the Big Four — Britain, the United States, Russia and China.

"Although the draft agreement does not suggest Canada for membership on the central committee, despite the fact that Canada, next to the United States, will provide more relief food than any other country, there is one position of major importance that would seem to be ideally suited to Canada's unique position. That is the chairmanship of the supplies committee.

"It may develop that Canada will be selected at the Washington conference for this role, having been left off the central committee."

"Left off....the committee." That, we fear greatly, would be our inevitable fate if with this "world power" complex, and determined to go on our own, we decided to appear at the peace table as a separate entity. As a member of the British Commonwealth we could have a voice in its policy. Outside the British Commonwealth, we would be just one of some thirty small nations, kicking our heels outside of the Council room where the big decisions were being taken; picking crumbs from the Big Four table.

We have no need to be apologetic over our present status, and it is our duty to make it real, to see that it is respected. But this business of proclaiming ourselves a "world power," which we are not, and going about with a chip on our shoulder that tells little else but an inferiority complex, is foolish. The sooner we get over it, the better.

The Man Who Collected A Ticket

NEVER guessing the sensation it would soon cause, I bought a ticket at Pi-che-tchai. The branch line train stood waiting. I almost stepped over it, before I saw it. If the locomotive of the train I had just left had looked like a pony, this one must be called a St. Bernard.... Following this midget was a string of little wooden box-cars, like baby chicks adopted by a bantam mother duck. I leaned down and got into one that was marked "First Class." It seemed an exaggeration. The seats were hard benches, not cushioned at all; and the car was jammed with natives of the sort that ordinarily rides third class. Which was odd, because I had noticed that the third-class coach was virtually empty, and so was the second class. Everybody had crowded into my car.

The pigmy engine gave a shriek like the whistle of a peanut roaster. We went off down the hill at a terrific rate of speed. There were no springs under the cars. All the passengers mixed nicely. The conductor came in and started to wriggle his way between us. He reminded me of a small lizard. He had probably been given the job because of his lack of size. Squirming through the crowded car, he seemed to be having no luck in collecting tickets. Nobody seemed to have one. They just nodded and smiled, and he nodded and smiled, and that was that. Then he came to me, and I fished out the bit of pasteboard that I had purchased in Pi-che-tchai and held it out to him.

He looked at it in amazement. His mouth fell open. He turned it over and over in his hands. It was, without doubt, the first ticket he had ever seen in the coach marked "First Class."

I had caused a sensation. Everybody wanted to look at it. They peered over his shoulder at the thing. People in back shouted the Chinese equivalent of "Down in front!" and there were loud cries from those who wanted to see it and examine it. The conductor passed on, a new being. At last he was a man of importance in his own community. He had collected a ticket.

I took pains to find out, later, what the ruckus was all about. It appears that nobody needs a ticket, first class, on that branch line. The first-class coach is exactly as uncomfortable as the others; but it is the only one that is occupied, because a pass entitles its holder to ride first class, and everybody who uses the line has a pass. All the military, buck privates included, ride free; the government employees ride free; the railroad employees ride free; and that virtually covers the local travelling public.

No wonder the conductor's head swelled. He will go down in history as The Man Who Collected a Ticket.—From "Burma Road," by Nicol Smith. (Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill.)

Letter To The Editor

A CORRECTION

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Sometimes a change in the order of words in a sentence gives an amusing turn to the meaning. Such was the case in the last sentence of my letter to your page, in Thursday's paper.

Probably the words were crowded at the end of the page, but the sentence should have read, "They (farmers' wives) are not willing to board the high-priced extra help from the urban centres," and Sally Farmerette was intended as a signature. Farmers' wives know that girls who come to work as quite as good as the boys, but many of them think that all workers should board themselves just as they do in the cities and towns. The wages asked by those from urban centres seem high compared with the low incomes on the farms.

It would lead to a better understanding of farm conditions if city consumers knew how small a part of their dimes the farmers receive and what percentage of that amount is profit. It is only profit which yields income.

Shortages

Our armed forces are hammering the enemy. Our home forces are hammering each other. Our armed forces are playing the game. Our civilian authorities are playing politics. The quicker we tighten the lines and start to pull together, the better it will be.

The food situation is perhaps the worst it has been since the war. The pathetic part of it all is that there is really no serious shortage of food. There is a woeful shortage of ingenuity, sense, vision, courage and teamwork in the control, distribution and price of food.—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, in a radio address, June 27, 1943.

A Bible Message

Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.... Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death.

Then said the Jews unto him. Now we know that thou hast devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death. Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

Jesus answered, If I honour myself, my honour is nothing: it is my Father that honoureth me; of whom ye say, that he is your God.... Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad. Then said the Jews unto him, Thou are not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am. (John 8: 12, 51-54, 56-58.)

On July 22nd Peterborough BLOOD DONOR CLINIC Celebrates Its 1ST ANNIVERSARY

Donors prepare to sign medical forms before examination by doctors and nurses.

Nurse watches carefully as donor gives five-eighths of a pint of blood.

Mrs. E. McIntyre, float nurse, prepares and carries equipment to nurses for donations.

Trained nurses cut blood in preparation for shipment to Toronto laboratories.

It is a Proud Day because the Clinic holds the enviable record of having taken over 6,500 Blood Donations during its first year of operation

Few, if any, wartime services have so captured the imagination and won the support of local residents as the Peterborough Blood Donor Clinic. Opened on July 22, 1942, just one year ago, it has literally become "the talk of the town." Hundreds, yes thousands, of persons in Peterborough and nearby centres have experienced the thrill of personal participation in a vital war effort that comes with donating blood that will be the means of saving precious lives on the war fronts and in bombed civilian areas.

Knowing little of the miraculous new method of saving lives on battlefields by the use of blood plasma two years ago, the Canadian people have since been made aware of it through the activities of the Canadian Red Cross Society. This great organization of mercy and healing was asked to undertake the work of procuring 2,000 blood donors weekly in Canada at the start of 1942. Because the demand for blood plasma from overseas became more insistent, the quota was raised to 4,000 donations weekly in mid-year, and later was increased to 7,000 to be reached by December, 1942. All of these quotas were accepted and obtained. The Canadian quota for 1943 is 12,000 donations each week.

MEETING THE DEMAND

Blood donations from all Canadian clinics currently average only 8,000 each week; just two-thirds of the 12,000 weekly quota which the Federal Government, through the Department of Pensions and National Health, asked the Canadian Red Cross to undertake.

How much blood plasma is needed at the various war fronts and bombed areas overseas? Nobody can tell exactly, but with the invasion of Sicily and of Europe as our armies advance, the demand will be tremendous—practically unlimited — according to medical officers who have returned from overseas. On the beaches of Dieppe, in the North African Desert, on the heroic Island of Malta, lives were saved through the transfusions of blood plasma supplied by Canadian donors. Plasma shipped from Canada is being used with great success in Britain; endless true stories have been told describing how victims of wounds and shock in the Motherland owe their lives to emergency treatment made possible by the "blood bank" built up by the Canadian Red Cross Society. Victims of the tragic fire in St. John's, Newfoundland, were treated with plasma from Canada; unless it had been available many more service men would have perished in the disastrous fire. It is possible, even highly probable, that donations received at the Peterborough clinic have been the means of restoring desperately wounded service men to life and health. Donations from all across the Dominion go into a common pool, so that, while the individual donor does not know exactly where his contribution will be used, he may well feel intense satisfaction in knowing that it forms a component part of the "blood bank" whose life-saving possibilities are incalculable.

When Canadian and Allied forces go into full-scale attack, casualties inevitably will be heavy; therefore a big reserve of plasma should be built up ready for immediate use on the battlefields and in hospitals. To wait until thousands of casualties occur and then try to gather, process and ship blood overseas would be gambling with countless lives because the plasma may arrive too late. The only safe course is to gather as many donations in Canada as possible and ship them overseas without delay.

CONTRIBUTION.

In January, 1942, clinics were in operation in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton, Kingston, Halifax, Fredericton, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Since then, many more clinics have been opened in Canada until now there are 51 in operation, with several more in course of opening. In addition, there are a number of mobile units that visit smaller communities to gather the precious fluid from which life-giving blood plasma is obtained.

True to their tradition for showing an interest in all patriotic projects, Peterborough citizens are among the first in the Dominion to become enthusiastic over the establishment of a Blood Donor Service.

Since July 22, 1942, there has been a total of 6,550 donations given from 3,979 donors—of which 860 are women.

It is gratifying to the voluntary staff at the Clinic to note the number of donors who continue to come every 3 months—many of whom have given 3, 4 and 5 donations. The Red Cross appreciates this co-operation and asks that the assistance be continued and that many new donors will enroll.

NEW YORK, July 19.— (AP).— Interested in the "inside" of the ice game these hot days, or would you prefer to have some of the ice inside you?....Well, here's how we get it from a couple of guys who can be called "reliable sources"....The National Hockey League, which had plenty of rough going last season will be an eight club circuit with Cleveland and Buffalo added..It isnt that Al Sutphin and Eddie Shore want to give up that combination of minor league expenses and major league gates, but there won't be enough players for the American League to operate.

Washington, Providence and maybe New Haven will join the Eastern —lets not call it amateur—United States League and so will Atlantic City when the army moves out of the convention hall....The figuring is that there'll be enough kids available for the eastern circoit without cutting in on the psysically "unfit" and the married men over 25 who'll fil the big league rosters ....Of course there's the ticklish question of getting "clearances" for the athletes, but if necessary the National League will play only week-end games and the players will work at war jobs the other five days.

The Elkins Brothers, who got Montreal's Johnny Greco into big-tim fights, are bringing a new middleweight, Danny McQuire, down from Haileybury, Ont. George Metkovich, the Coast League whiz recently bought by the Red Sox, is likened to Ted Williams by no less an acthority that Lefty O'Doul, who taught Williams some of the tricks of the hitting trade....Paul Florence, the Birmingham Barons' president, claims to have the solution of the manpower problem. INGERSOLL —(CP) — National Selective Service regulations became a question for sport to unravel Saturday when Waterloo Tigers protested an Inter County Baseball game at Ingersoll, which they won 8-5 anyway, because the local Combines used Pitcher Ker whom the Tigers had previously signed at Waterloo. The defense of Manager Ralph Beemer was that the player had been transferred to Tillsonburg under the manpower draft and could turn out with the Ingersol team.

Pick Watson To Smear House Painter

Tonight's wrestling card here should be about the best thing offered here since the season opened. Housepainter Hogan, the grappling decorator, comes in for his first visit to Peterborough and while the U.S. Navy men are always welcome here, Able Seaman Hogan seems to be in for a warm reception because his opponent happens to be Whipper Billy Watson.

Watson has made a great impression on the fans here with his outstanding all-round knowledge about what to do on a mat. Whipper Billy shapes up as the greatest wrestler to be developed in Canada with the possible exception of Earl McCready.

When Housepainter Hogan tackles Watson Monday night he'll have to live up to every bit of the reputation he gained on the Pacific Coast or go down to swift defeat. Win or lose its a pleasure to watch as smooth an athlete as Billy Watson in action and in spite of Hogan's excellent standing in mat ranking; we think the Whip has too much on the ball either for Hogan or almost any of the rest of the big fellows.

A riotous thirty minutes, or less, is scheduled when Pat Flanagan comes up against the bull-like strength of Bunny Dunlop in the semi-final. Flanagan is as smart as they come anywhere these days and while giving away weight to the strong man his mule-like kick and other smart moves may be enough to discomfort even the burly Bunny.

Another fine wrestling match will result when Joe Maich of Brantford returns to trade tugs with George Tofalos the squat Greek.

Drafting Beaten By Watercraft

Playing errorless ball behind the steady four-hit pitching of Killingbeck, the Watercraft Sailors defeated the C.G.E. Drafting to the tune of 9 to 4 in a city industrial fixture at the Bonner field.

The game was a real battle, both squads playing real ball. The Sailors started the scoring in the first stanza, piling five runs across the plate and holding the lead throughout the game. The Blue Print boys couldn't get on the score sheet till the sixth inning.

Some great catches by the Sailors fielders and the infielders clicking just right gave the spectators some thrilling softball. The Drawing boys played great ball all through, batting some splendid clouts, but lacked the opportunity to make them pay dividends.

By FRED D. CRAIG

Soldiers who play their final game in the regular schedule tonight can make sure of at least being tied for first place by taking a fall out of the Cardinals whom they meet at Riverside Park in a regular City League game called for 7 o'clock. The Military Training Centre outfit will be favorites to do that very thing. They should win up their schedule with only three losses, two to the 4th Battery and the other to the Genelecs. But the Cards declare that they are long overdue and that with Bill Anderson coming through as he did against Genelecs the last time out they may explode a land-mine in front of the Soldiers and knock them out of first place. The Cards had their strongest team of the season in uniform against the Genelecs and they hope to be even stronger tonight. If they go down it won't be because they haven't tried, they argue. It will probably be Tom Parsons or Jack Wilson on the hilltop for the khaki team with Anderson slated to do the throwing for the Cards. The latter also have a game on Wednesday night with 4th Battery as their opponents.

* * * * * *

It looks as if the City League executive might have to make plans for a preliminary playoff before the regular playoff round is reached. The setup calls for the first four teams to meet, the first and fourth and second third to clash in the semi-final brackets. The outlook right now is that there may be two or possibly three teams tied for first place. If the Soldiers win tonight over the Cards they will be through with seven wins and three losses. Genelecs with one game to go have won six and lost three and Battery with three to play have won four and lost three. None of the three top teams meet again in the regular schedule so that indications point to all all three finishing with the same percentage unless the Combines with four games to go spill the beans by knocking off Genelecs when they meet for the second time this season Thursday night. By the same token the Combines will also be on the spot themselves tomorrow night when they clash with Switch Gear. Andy Delpellaro's boys will have to take that one or relinquish any hope of ending up a tie for first.

He'd Better Look Out

Whipper Bill Watson won so many friends by his clean-cut performance here last week against Pat Flanagan that the biggest crowd of the current wrestling season is expected at Brock Street Summer Gardens tonight when the British Empire champ takes on a new opponent. He is none other than the celebrated Houespainter Hogan who has put together a formidable record on the Pacific Coast and talks as if there were nobody in the east, certainly nobody north of the international line who stands a chance against him. The decorator-grappler rather fancies himself, and while he has an impressive list of victories to back up his boasts, this column has a hunch that the Housepainter will probably go out of the arena a wiser, if perhaps not a happier man. The Whipper has a lot on the ball and we will be surprised if there is not a worried look on the Hogan map around 10 o'clock tonight. Another bird who has been asking for trouble and will probably get it on this occasion is Al Bunny Dunlop, the ponderous Toronto roughhouse performer who claims to be a weight-lifting champ but usually tries to lift the face of his opponent instead. Dunlop is matched with the people's favorite Pat Flanagan and every mean move will be booed to the echo. That should produce a booing record for every Dunlop move in the ring is a mean one. And finally to round out the card the pompous-looking Greek mat artist George Tofalos will try to put the press on that fast-moving Brantford boy, Joe Maich, whose recent match with Flanagan was one of the best of the summer.

The return fo the Westclox girls to the softball wars after a holiday absence of more than two weeks will probably bring out the customers in droves when they meet the Electrics in a league game at the East City Bowl at 7 o'clock tonight. The Big Bens deservedly have a big following who like to watch them in action and their absence from the loop for a fortnight has left a sort of gap in the proceedings. The team, of course, hasn't had much practice but they will probably pick up where they left off. They did last year and Manager Pat Hayden is counting on them to repeat the performance. The Electrics with Mary Larmer, southpaw twirler, on the mound for them, may have something to say about that. They would love to be the first club this season to bump off the Westclockers and they will battle from the first ball pitched to turn the trick. It is expected that Marg Watson will do the tossing for Big Bens with Isobel Bullock behind the bat.

They're Pulling Away

The Yanks may have failed for the first time to place any players on the American League All-Star team but that is not keeping them from opening out a steadily widening lead in the league race. After coming through with their sixth win Saturday the McCarthyites took both ends of a double-header from the Athletics on Sunday giving them their seventh and eighth straight victory. Ernie Bonham won the first one in easy style 7 to 2 with Wolfe as his opponent but Spud Chandler who pitched the nightcap had to go ten innings to get the decision and for a few minutes it looked as if he might absorb a defeat. The A's got what looked like the winning run in the first of the tenth but the Yanks had kick enough left to come back with two in their half to win 4 to 3. Washington Senators also cleaned up a double-header at the expense of the Boston Red Sox who are slipping badly. Scarborough was the winning pitcher in the first game which Washington won 9 to 2 but Earl Wynn had to have some help from Alex Carrasquel to grab off the second 5 to 4. The Senators were outhit 12 to 8 in that one but still won. Another feature of the American loop games yesterday was the fact that Bobo Newsome made his first appearance in the uniform of the St. Louis Browns and was combed by the Cleveland Indians who drove him out of the game in two innings.

The St. Louis Cards after a losing streak that had expanded to four games swept back into the win column again by taking a double-header from the Pirates. Mort Cooper who couldn't move a wheel in the All-Star game picked up his 12th win of the season in the first game which the Cardinals took 7 to 4 and brother Walker contributed a homer that help grab off the second 6 to 5. Effective pitching by Passeau and Wyse enabled the Chicago Cubs to defeat the Reds 3 to 1 and 7 to 0. Johnny VanderMeer and Bucky Walters were the losing Cincinnati tossers. The Giants also were double winners over the Phillies with 10 to 6 and 3 to 2 victories.

Lex Robson, of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, came within an ace of grabbing off his seventh victory in the Millar Trophy tourney Saturday when he was beaten in the final by one shot by Bobby Gray. Lex who had swept through three victorious rounds on his way to the finals, had a chance even with his last shot on the 18th hole to have squared the match but just failed. It had been a nip and tuck struggle wtih Gray setting up a lead of two shots in the first eight holes and Robson cutting one off on the way home. The Peterborough pro has won the Millar Trophy oftener than any other player and was not far off increasing his lead on this occasion. He had to play brilliant golf to knock off three strong opponents on his way to the final round and he was not eliminated until the 18th hole of the last match, after a sparkling showing.

Peterboro Club Wins Cricket Match

The Peterborough Whitaker Club travelled to Oshawa on Saturday to play their old opponents the Oshawa C.C. and scored a win by 85 for 5 wickets (declared) to 78.

It was an unusual match. The local men had gone to very great trouble to make the trip and on arrival found Oshawa with only five men available. However to make a match it was agreed that each Oshawa player should bat twice. Peterborough batted first and lost Colbran and Adsom for 6. Smith and Roberts took it to 40 and then the latter and G. Dyer advanced the score to 72. Then Roberts was out for 27. Ten runs later F. Dyer was bowled for 34. This was a pleasing return to form. At 85 the innings was declared closed.

The duplicated Oshawa team fared badly against some fine bowling by Adsom and their 8th wicket fell with only 19 runs on the board. Then Bennett and Hobbs each batting for the second time made a fine stand which looked like winning the match until at 78, Bennett was bowled by Colbran. The pair had added 59 to score. Bennett put up a strong defence, his 13 being all singles but Hobbs in his 46 not out hit freely, hitting two sixes and five fours. The final score was Peterborough 85 for 5 wickets (innings declared closed) Oshawa 78.

George Adsom bowled splendidly for the winners. In three over he took 6 wickets for 4 runs but unfortunately had to give up bowling owing to a strain. It is fairly safe to assume that if he had been able to continue the last wicket stand would have been cut short. Dyer for once had an off day, his one wicket costing 52 runs and young Hobbs punished him severely. Colbran had 2 for 20.

The locals have no match for next Saturday. Following is score and analysis:

By The Canadian Press

"After the war, sport will be a great factor in bringing the people together again," declared Lord Burghley, former great English athlete, during a pause somewhere in the South Pacific where he is on an official tour as Controller of Supplies and Repairs in the British Ministry of Aircraft Production.

Lord Burghley, who was England's winner of the 400-metres hurdle event at the 1928 Olympic games at Amsterdam, Holland, predicted a comeback for the Olympic sports which, he said, would help bring about a better understanding among peoples because "the principles behind athletic competition remain the same." The Olympic games, he asserted, would be instrumental in holding the people of the world together. Lord Burghley, incidentally, had recently passed through Canada on his way to the South Pacific battle area aboard a British bomber which had flown across the Atlantic, then droned over the Pacific.

The triple entry of John Marsch Chicago turfman, failed to make a clean sweep of the $60,050 Arlington Futurity at Washington Park Saturday but did gain the first two places when Jezrahel streaked to the line half a length ahead of the more-favored Occupy with Alorter, the Cleveland horse, third. The time for the six furlongs on the heavy track was 1:16 1/5.

Suffers First Loss

His Excellency, favored to win the Goldsmith Maid Trot, value $2,760, in Grand Circuit racing at North Randall Saturday, could do no better than second to Scotland's Comet although it required four heats for the decision. His Excellency, world trotting champion of 1942, suffered his first defeat in three starts this season.

Posting a gross 154 for the 36 holes, Adjutor Dussault of the Royal Quebec Golf Club captured the 16th annual renewal of the Manoir Richilieu Shield comptition for amateurs Sunday, repeating his victory at Murray Bay in 1940. Gaston Amyot and Julian Blouin, both of Royal Quebec, tied with 158 but Amyot won the toss for second place.

A horse that had been left at the post in the $7,500 Fleetwing Handicap at Jamaica Saturday afterwards kicked the jockey, forcing the rider to cancel his mounts in the last two races. The boy happened to be Johnny Longden, the western Canadian, and the equine was With Regards, owned by Mrs. Josephine Grimes. Longden was unsaddling the horse at the finishing line when it suddenly let go for a near-KO. William Woodward's Apache won the race.

LEX ROBSON SHOOTS THREE UNDER PAR BUT LOSES TO BOB GRAY

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 19.—(CP) — A couple of weeks ago Vic Copps of the Timmins Press took his life in his hands by commenting, in print, that women sport fans are "nuisances." Snapshots has no desire to join Vic in his moment of peril by repeating his reasons. Suffice to say that the girls have a champion — Hal Cole of the Guelph Mercury—who says "male spectators can be a great deal more obnoxious than the femmes and probably the reason for this fact is that they generally know a little more about the ins and outs of the game they are watching than do the feminine members of the audience." But even Hal admits that the female fan can be a bit of a trial at times. He revives the story of a woman hockey fan heckling a referee at Guelph and winding up with: "Hey there, Soandso, you think you're a referee. If you were my husband, I'd give you poison."

"Yeah lady," replied the ref, "and if you were my wife I'd take it."

Let Butch do it:

A story is going the round about the Goderich, Ont., baseball manager who, lacking confidence in his veteran sluggers, sent his nine-year-old son "Butch" in to pinch hit in the ninth inning of a senior game with Chatham. Butch was so small pitcher Jim Bissett couldn't get a strike over and the youngster walked. The manager switched in a fast base-runner who stole second and third. A single scored the winning run.

Incidentally:

Pete Richardson, centre forward of the Vancouver pro-rec soccer team has been the hot-shot scorer on the coast this year. In 12 district leagues he scored 21 goals and added another 16 in 11 cup matches, giving him a total of 37 goals for 23 games .... Jack Park of the Cornwall Freeholder hasn't given up hope for hockey next winter even though the army has put the ban on service hockey there. Park says the famous old Cornwall Flyers name may be revived for a civiliain team which would include any available soldiers .... It's reported here that Lieut. Ralph McCreath, former Canadian figure skating champion, was the first Canadim to enter Tunisia during the Allies' seige in North Africa .... with the R. C. O. C. overseas, Ralph was attached to a United States tank corps for the occasion.

Millar Trophy Retained By Torontonian

By HAL WALKER

Bob Gray, the businessman-golfer, brought his best professional shots out of his golf bag Saturday at Islington and won the Millar Trophy for the second year running with a beautfiul exhibition of shots and a fine display of courage.

Bob at Peak Form

Gray has seldom turned in better games than he did in whipping Lex Robson of Kawartha Lake Club, Peterborough, in the final, one up, or in disposing of Normie Himes' stubborn semi-final challenge at the 20th green. He knew he had to win certain holes to get away from both Himes and Robson.

Robson, six times a winner of the Millar, and Himes, one of the most improved professionals in the country, made Bashin' Bob move his best shots off Islington's tees and along Islington's fairway before they conceded he was still the cream of our Canadian crop.

The Millar's $250 first prize was Gray's simply because his ability to take advantage of every break, a break forged either by his own hand or that of his rival, was still pre-dominant. It's a legend of local golf that Gray never gives a sucker a break. And the sucker can't give Bob a break because Robert will turn it to his own advantage. But fast.

Four Strokes Under Par

Bob showed a surprisingly good gallery a fine selection of shots as he went out in 33 and back in 36 to knock four strokes off Islington's par 73 but he had to have good shots and good temperament to edge Robson. Lex, steady as always, and playing as if he simply had no nerves at all, never did away at the seams. He kept pitchin' at Gray with everything he had, lost only because of a tee shot that strayed on the 15th and a penalty stroke on the 16th.

Robson's medal card was 70, 3 under par. But although Lex wound up with the loser's share of the swag ($150), it was he who created the truly spectacular shots of the final round.

On the 12th hole Lex played a running shot from 150 yards that rolled right up to the pin, hit it, and dropped two feet away. When he sank his putt it gave him a birdie three and lead in the match for the first time. It was a terrific iron shot and would have broken the heart of a lesser player than Gray.

Spectucular Shot

Bobby didn't know it then, he was in for an even greater shock on the next hole. Gray's tee shot went into a trap at the right of 13th green. Lex was short with his tee-er but played his second on to the green about 12 feet from the cup. Gray putted from about 15 feet and his putt stuck on the lip of the hole. Robson putted to within a foot of Gray's ball and was stymied. The hole appeared lost to Robson. After careful study of the shot, Robson couldn't find a way to edge around Gray's ball.

Lex then took a No. 9 iron from his bag, addressed his ball, and without a practice stroke, looped the pill over Gray's ball into the cup to halve the hole. The galleryites almost swooned. It was easily the most spectacular play of the three-day Millar tournament.

They halved the 14th but at the 15th the match was won and lost. Clutching a one-up advantage, Robson hit his ball off the end of his club and it strayed near a fence, well off the green. Bobby hit the green on this short number, got down in three while Lex scrambled for a four. That evened the match.

Gray Ousts Himes.

Robson's troubles weren't over the creek on the dog-leg 16th. Robson tried to reach out with the long hitting Bobby but his ball hit the bank and rolled down into the creek. He took a penalty stroke and it cost him a six while Bob earned a par five. They halved the 17th and 18th and Gray held on to his title.

"I knew I had to win the 15th or 16th," Gray said after the match. "If I didn't get one of those holes I wouldn't have won. But I won 'em and that's what counts," he said smilingly.

"The same thing happened when I was playing Normie Himes," said Bashin' Bob. "When we went extra holes I knew I had to win one of the long ones." The par-five second hole was his baby and he played for it. And how he played for it, men.

Bob was almost stymied by the cigar-smoking Normie's putt, had no visible clearance room. With the daring that has made him such a great player, Gray elected to gamble on clearing Himes' ball. He might easily have knocked Normie's ball into the cup and lost the match. But he went for the hole with his six-foot putt and the ball —somehow—rolled past into the cup. And it was in this manner he gained the final round with Rooson.

Robson gained the championship round by eliminating Dick Borthwick of Oakdale, one of the tourney favorites, 2 and 1.

Bob Cunningham of Royal York won the consolation event, 1 up from Gordon De Laat.

Cumming, Franks Honored.

This may be the last Millar Trophy for the duration. Hugh Borthwick, secretary-treasurer of the Toronto District Professional Golfers' Association isn't sure there will be one next year.

"The golf ball shortage, more than anything else, makes it extremely doubtful if we'll be able to carry on," said Hugh who worked so hard to make this year's tourney a success. "But we won't know definitely for some time yet."

Toronto Maple Leafs Split Twin Bill With Montreal

By The Associated Press

The dubious honor of shattering a 34-year-old record in absorbing shutouts may go to the tailend Jersey City Giants in the International League this season.

Held to five and three hits, respectively, by two freshman southpaws, Mike Schultz and Arnold Carter, the Little Giants yesterday suffered their 18th and 19th whitewashing of the year in losing a doubleheader to Syracuse Chiefs, 6-0 and 3-0.

Jersey City is now within striking distance of 26 runless defeats dealt Montreal away back in 1909. In any event Gabby Hartnett's club seems certain of being the first International team to get blanked 20 times during the season since Toronto was shut out 20 times in 1940.

It is not a new experience for a Jersey City club to be whitewashed so often. In 1909 and 1919 the Little Giants were blanked 24 times and in 1929 22 times.

Baltimore Loses

Montreal Royals whipped the first-place Toronto Maple Leafs 10-3 in the first game of a twin bill and seemed on their way to a double triumph by scoring five runs in the first inning of the nightcap. But the Leafs, sparked by Jimmy Ripple and Lee Gamble, who pounded out four hits apiece, exploded for six runs in the fourth and went on to a 15-5 victory and a split. Bob Chipman held the Leafs to seven hits in the opener.

Newark rapped five Baltimore pitchers for 16 hits and a 10-4 victory in the first game of a bargain bill, but Ed. Klieman gave the Orioles a split by winning the nightcap, 6-4, for his 17th victory of the season.

Buffalo and Rochester also divided a doubleheader. Buffalo outslugged the Red Wings in the opener, 10-6, but dropped the second game, 2-1, as the veteran Ira Hutchinson chalked up his 10th triumph of the year. Hutchinson was aided by Al Schoendienst's homer.

In Saturday's games, Toronto took a doubleheader from Buffalo, 6-1 in the first game and 6-3 in the second. Rochester defeated Montreal 6-2 and Syracuse won 4-2 over Jersey City. Newark turned back Baltimore 5-3.

New York Yankees Win Two From The Athletics

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

National League standings hung in abeyance today no feyer than four "suspended games" which must be played to completion at some future date. Two of them already have been entered in the standings as won and lost for the teams involved, the other two have not.

Yesterday Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew halted the second game of a doubleheader at Pittsburg after seven innings with St. Louis Cardinals leading 6-5. Because the National League passed an "Anti-Stalling" rule last winter which said that contests halted before the end of nine innings because of curfews must later be played to completion, the result will not be known until Sept. 1, when the game will be concluded.

Earlier in the day the Cards whipped the Pirates 7-4 for Mort Cooper's 12th triumph.

At Boston the Massachusetts Sunday curfew stopped the second contest between the Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers in the midst of a Boston rally in the sixth inning. The Braves had just scored three runs to tie the count at 4-4 and had the bases loaded with one out when play was halted. That will be the situation when play is resumed at an unspecified later date. The Dodgers bagged the first game 8-5 in 11 innings.

Yanks Surge Ahead

The other two games that must be completed were "suspended" as the result of protests after they presumably had been completed and already had been entered in the standings.

The American League has no such rule and everything showing in the standings today will count—very likely toward another pennant for New York Yankees.

The Yanks yesterday swept a doubleheader from Philadiphia Athletics to extend their winning streak to eight games and 12 victories in their last 13 starts. Bill Johnson's three-run homer helped wrap up the first decision 7-2 for Ernie Bonham and the Yanks struggled to a 4-3 verdict in 10 innings in the nightcap for Spud Chandler's 11th victory.

Washington's stout-hearted Senators, in second place, kept the pace by taking two games from Boston Red Sox 9-2 and 5-4. Cleveland Indians subdued St. Louis Browns twice 4-3 and 10-7 with Jeff Heath hitting a three-run homer in the first game and Louis (Bobo) Newsom making an embarrassed return to the Browns in the nightcap and getting belted out in the third inning.

Detroit Gets One

In the other American League skirmishing Detroit divided a doubleheader with Chicago White Sox, taking the first game 12-4 with an 18-hit attack and dropping the second 4-1 to Johnny Humphries' pitching.

In the National League Chicago Cubs crushed Cincinnati Reds twice 3-1 and 7-0 to vault into fifth place.

The Giants topped the Phillies twice 10-6 and 3-2.

In Saturday's National League games, the Giants and Phillies divided a pair, the Phillies winning the first 2-1 and the Giants the second 8-7 by virtue of a five-run rally in the ninth inning. Cincinnati nosed out the Cubs 6-5, Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 9-3 and Brooklyn headed off the Braves 7-5.

In the American League, Chicago White Sox 29, 5-2 over Detroit in the first game of a doubleheader bust lost the second 3-0, New York nosed out the Athletics 5-4, St. Louis defeated Cleveland 3-1 and Washington shut out Boston 3-0.

Welcomes Canadians In Sicily To Allied Command

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Commander-in-Chief of Allied forces in North Africa, is shown greeting Canadian officers on the Island of Sicily. General Eisenhower asks Capt. J. E. Moore, of Vancouver, third from right, to convey his compliments to the Canadian command and express his gratification that the Canadians have joined the Allied command in Sicily.

railway marshalling yard in the capital, which, it said, "is of the greatest importance to the Axis war effort and in particular for the movement of German troops."

The attack was carried out, the announcement said, by both heavy and medium bombers of the Mediterranean air command. Leaflets also were dropped over the Eternal City by the raiders.

Rome, a city of approximately 900,000, is situated on the west coast of the Italian mainland about midway of the long, narrow peninsula.

It is about 350 miles from the nearest point on the North African coast.

The Algiers Radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press in London, quoted a Rome broadcast as saying the raid was heavy and concentrated.

Algiers said leaflets warning of the impending raid were dropped over Rome Friday night. Text of the leaflets was given as follows:

Stymies Nazis

"Military objectives in the area of Rome will be bombed by Allied planes.

"When this will happen the Fascist government will try and tell you that we have attempted to destroy those ancient cultural monuments that are Rome's pride and the pride of the whole world.

"Furthermore it is possible that German and Fascists themselves might drop bombs over Rome and even over the Vatican in order to try and make you believe that the Allies aimed at and bombed them.

"Our only targets will be military and special objectives which have been selected for their special use to the German army. Our pilots have been trained and as far as possible all other targets will be avoided.

"It may happen that some bombs might be dropped outside chosen targets. This however will not have been done on purpose. Our raids will be carried out as far as possible in daylight and you yourselves will be able to check the accuracy of our pilots."

Allies Reach

Associated Press Correspondent Noland Norgaard reported from an Allied command post last night that the British and Canadian 8th Army had advanced well into the Catania Plain by crossing a bridge seized Thursday by parachute troops. An official statement placed the fighting 8th only seven miles below the port, and one report, not confirmed, said advance elements had penetrated to the city's suburbs.

City a Shambles

Offshore, British naval units continued to throw shells into the city and Axis positions. The city already was a shambles from shell and bomb and many fires were raging.

A headquarters' announcement said Catania's defences were suffering heavily in killed and captured. In all Sicily some 30,000 prisoners have been taken, 3,000 of them by Canadians, since the invaders landed nine days ago.

American troops on the western half of the line, meanwhile, battled forward in two main spearheads—one from captured Agrigento and Porto Empedocle on the extreme western flank and another in the centre toward Enna and Caltanissetta.

The central thrust drove to a point 22 miles inland, throwing back a German counter-attack in wild disorder near Barrafranca. Ahead lay two possilbe objectives — Enna, defence hub for all central Sicily 14 miles to the northeast, and Caltanissetta, important communications city 11 miles to the northwest.

Exploiting the tactical success won with the capture of Agrigento, American patrols pushed out north and west of this ancient hilltop city toward a new group of strategically-placed roads, the occupation of which would further hamper Axis transportation.

Agrigento capitulated Friday night.

In a flanking move around Catania, Allied forces striking inland from the coast were reported aiming at the Gerbini airbase network 12 miles west of Catania. The Gerbibi field and its nine satellites form a major bulwark in the enemy's scheme of defence.

Naples Knocked Out

Mighty Allied bomber fleets delivered a virtual knockout blow Saturday to Naples in an attack designed to shut off supplies to Axis forces in Sicily. An official announcement said the raid, carried out by some 500 bombers, was the heaviest concentrated aerial blow in this theatre.

The Messina ferry connection at the northeastern tip of the island already is virtually useless as a supply entry port because of steady Allied bombing attacks.

Thus, hour yb hour, the Axis position on Sicily was being steadily jeopardized by the relentless Allies, who already have over-run a third of the island.

(The Algiers radio broadcast a report that Axis headquarters had been moved across the Strait of Messina to Reggio Calabria at the toe of the mainland.)

Among prisoners falling to the advance was General Lavernote of the 207th Coastal Division — the third Italian general captured in the first week of invasion.

Three of Italy's defending divisions have been officially reported eliminated since the campaign began—the 204th, 206th and 107th coastal divisions and the 10th Bersaglierie Regiment.

Betting Houses

other matters had been dealt with.

Justice Minister St. Laurent withdrew a clause in the Criminal Code Bill providing that the Crown might be able to prove "intent" to place a bet as constituting a betting house. The Minister said the withdrawal would remove all possibility of there being any conviction on an intention without an overt act.

The law may be applied, however, in respect to places so opened, kept, used, outfitted or equipped as to be likely to be used as betting houses.

Under another section, permitting the Crown to prove that published information is likely to assist or be used in betting, Mr. St. Laurent had approved an amendment that the regulation should not apply to news published in newspapers concerning sports.

Radio Helps

The Minister withdrew a proposed amendment that evidence of a betting house should be possession of a device for displaying or announcing the results of a horse race, after A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) said announcements on sports could be heard by radio in numerous homes.

The House approved that in cases under the code involving road accidents, the word "highway" should include any road to which the public had right of access, including tunnels through which a road passes.

By an amendment approved by the House, a judge holding a trial under the speedy trials section of the code is authorized to try together several charges against the same accused.

In discussion of the Unemployment Insurance Bill, P. C. Black (Prog. Con. Cumberland) asked how the Commission decided between those insureable under the act and those not, when they were employed in an industry such as lumbering, which included men working in sawmills or planing mills.

Labor Minister Mitchell said decisions had to be made by the Commision on those who qualified under the Insurance Act.

"I think the cure is to take all under the act, that would be in the interests of industry and the employees themselves," the Minister said.

Some Are Missed.

The bill provides that in some cases a contractor may be made responsible for Unemployment Insurance contributions payable by a sub-contractor.

Mr. Mitchell said that on recommendation of a committee and the Commission, the Governor-General in-Council might extend the coverage of the act to some employments now excepted under power given in the bill.

"Of course, under the War Measures Act you can do anything, commented Mr. Graydon.

Paul Martin, Parliamentary Assistant to Mr. Mitchell, said that contributions of a total of $93,871,960 to the Unemployment Insurance fund were provided as follows: employers contributions $44,861.409 and employees' $49,010,550.

Angus MacInnis (C. C. F. Vancouver East) said the rise in the Unemployment Insurance ceiling to $2,400 was not sufficient, and it should be placed at a higher level.

Should Be Public.

Opposition members, led by Mr. Graydon said they protested the late date at which the war expenditures committee was being set up. They urged that as far as possible its sessions be public rather than in secret, and Mr. Graydon said publicity for such inquiries would have a salutary effect.

The Progressive Conservative leader said the representation of opposition groups on the committee was not sufficient.

Mr. King said that if Mr. Graydon had urged the committee be established earlier in the session action could have been taken by the Government.

In holding meetings in camera, the committee was following the example of a similar committee in the United Kingdom. The representation in the House had been decided by the people and representation of parties on the committee was on the same basis.

The resolution was approved without recorded division, and meetings probably will be held after the session ends.

Files Suit

Barbara Thompson, who charges Henry Fonda, film star, with being the father of a three-weeks-old baby girl in a paternity suit filed in Los Angeles, Calif.

Berry Prices Soar Skyward

Red raspberries at 50 cents a box on the market Saturday were another reminder of the value of price control in war-time.

Imagine what a rimming the consumer would be getting all along the line if it were not for that man at Ottawa, Donald Gordon. Berries are in the category that is evidently regarded as negligible, and the growers can do their own price-fixing, and they do.

Butter was 40 cents, young chickens 37 and 38 cents a pound, year olds 35 cents; ungraded eggs 43c up to 45c for the large size. Roasted chickens were 50c a pound.

Vegetables were plentiful: cabbage 15 and 25 cents; cauliflower 20c; white currants 20c a quart box, and red currants 25c. Red raspberries in the miniature sized boxes were 30c. Beets, carrots and onions were 2 bunches for 15 cents.

Russian Army

Red Army troops were advancing steadily if somewhat slower despite adverse weather conditions.

The war bulletin said that the Russians succeeded in breaking in behind the retreating Germans in several instances and that German prisoners reported that Nazi command, mindful of what happened at Stalingrad, is apprehensive of flank blows which will result in Nazi detachments being cut off and surrounded.

In other cases it was reported Rusian tanks were driving deep in the German rear.

The Soviet bulletin did not identify the exact locality of yesterday's gains, but Russian dispatches during the last two days have indicated the Red Army is within 15 miles of Orel in some localities and even closer to the Orel-Bryansk railway.

(CBS said it recorded a BBC report last night which reported that the Red Army is 10 miles north of the main highway and railroad between Orel and Bryansk and that supply trains are under fire of Soviet remonnaissance parties.)

Advised To Return

FLORENCE, N.S., July 19 (CP). —A Federal Labor Department spokesman last night advised striking miners at Florence colliery to "return to work immediately," and then place their wage dispute before the War Labor Board.

Rome Hints Of Change

BERNE, July 17 (AP). Informed circles in Rome hinted last night at unexpected political developments as the Fascist news agency reported the Churchill-Roosevelt appeal to the Italians to abandon the struggle.

4 Freedoms YOU CAN ENJOY Now!

The four freedoms implied in the Atlantic Charter framed by the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States represent a way of life which it is hoped will be achieved in the future for all peoples.

There are "four freedoms" inherent in Imperial Life policies, too . . . and, best of all, they can be enjoyed by the policy owner today:

1. Freedom from worry about the welfare of your family should anything happen to you.
2. Freedom from dread of a penniless old age.
3. Freedom from periodic problems of re-investment of the funds designed to provide for life's "rainy days".
4. Freedom from fear of lost equity in case payments cannot be kept up.

See Your Local Representative

Your first step to the enjoyment of these four freedoms is to have a talk with an Imperial Life representative. There is one near you.

CGE Donations Near $5,000 For War Victims

From the very outset when the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund began to operate on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain, various departments and groups at the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., and Genelco Ltd. hove taken a considerable interest and have demonstrated this in the most practical manner by sending in donations which by now have risen within a little less than $50.00 of crossing the $5,000 mark, with the total actually standing at $4,954.19.

In the same manner that people's interests are varied, so it follows that certain groups have shown a greater interest than others by their repeated donations, among whom one is listed today marking the third time their name has appeared since the beginning of this year, and the ninth time since the fund first started to function.

Only as recently as May 22, the Punch Press Dept., of which A. Griffin is the foreman, was listed in this column, and now again it appears today with a further $26.05, which again is on a rising scale from their previous contribution to express even a greater interest in a practical way to give aid to the sufferers from air raids in Britain.

This continued help for the fund from the employees of the city's largest industrial plants is a source of encouragement to the fund management, and must reflect the same in the hearts of the people which this support goes to give assistance to.

Children Hold Bazaar

In the southend of the city at 310 Braidwood avenue, the first effort by young boys from seven to ten years of age since holidays from school began has resulted in a sum of $8.20 being raised to help the fund along.

This group consisted of Billy Parry, 9 years of age, Morris Parry, 7 years of age, Reggie Curtis, 10 years of age, and a visitor from Toronto, Walter Dorrell, 9 years of age, who held a Bazaar, selling candy, lemonade, raspberry vinegar, popcorn, cabbage and homemade butter tarts and macaroons, with a side show in the form of a Bingo, for which prizes were donated by friends and neighbors.

This was a nice sum for boys of such an age to raise, and if one can interpret things aright they had a lot of fun doing it, besides the satisfaction of knowing they were doing something to help others in their need.

For the third time this year, Betty Mason, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mason, Bolivar street, has raised money by collecting grease, and then turned the proceeds over to the fund. This time the amount is $1.25, and the best part of it lies in the fact that by doing this particular thing she is serving a double purpose, for the collection of this kind of salvage is badly needed, and is a definite contribution to the success of the war effort in other directions.

Previously acknowledged	$61,101.39

SLIGHT MISTAKE.

COBOURG, July 19.—(ENS).—Cobourg police had an emergency call at three o'clock Sunday morning from a resident near the liquor store, who thought that the store was being broken into. Investigating, police found a car parked in the service station yard where the motorists were changing a tire by the light from the office window of the liquor store which is adjoining. The clanging noise as they changed the tire had sounded like a break-in to the citizen who put in the call. Last year the store was broken into when thieves sawed the iron bars from the back window.

At Picton, a search is being carried out in West Lake for the body of Leslie Weir, 22, of Toronto believed to have drowned Friday. His companion on a fishing trip, George Anketell, 60, of Toronto is in Picton hospital recovering from the effects of clinging to their overturned boat for 20 hours before being rescued.

At Plantagenet Springs in Ontario's Prescott County, the body of 35-year-old Stephen McCusker was found Sunday about 75 yards from a bridge spanning the Nation River. Officials said they believed McCusker was hit by a train.

Raging Flames Devour Lumber At Canoe Works

A fierce fire raged in the lumber yard back of the Peterborough Canoe Company Sunday afternoon for four hours, destroying 50,000 feet of first class new mixed lumber with an estimated value of $5,000 before it was brought under control. The cause of the fire is not known, although Chief Gimblett has stated that it may have been set by children.

Flames were shooting forty feet into the air when the Fire Department arrived and the smoke was so dense that everything was obscured. the Fire Chief declared. There were eight piles of lumber behind the C.P.R. freight sheds on the old city dump about 100 feet from the Canoe Company, and after surveying the situation the Chief sent for more equipment from the station.

Several alarms were turned into the station around 4:45 as passers-by viewed the flames. One alarm came from Box 112 near the Quaker Oats, a second one came from Box 6 at Queen and Simcoe streets and several telephone calls came in too. Two pumpers and the ladder truck answered the alarm first and then another truck and the A.R.P. pumper were sent for, manned by extra crews. There were 450 feet of hose laid from the Duffus Garage, 1,000 feet from the hydrant at the corner of Water and Charlotte and 1,200 feet of Simcoe. The A.R.P. pumper had 150 feet of 2½-inch hose.

Hundreds of spectators thronged the scene as firemen played water on the blazing wood. Although the heat was intense, none of the firemen were forced to stop work. A coach sitting on the C.P.R. siding was blistered and a steel box car loaded with grain from the Quaker Oats was blistered on one end. When the flames approached the grain car, some of the crowd got together and shoved it down from its position behind the burning lumber.

The Peterborough Canoe Company is one of the plants which has been geared for war production and the loss of 10,000 feet of new lumber is considered to be a serious loss, not alone in money value. Children were seen playing near the lumber shortly before the fire was reported giving rise to the suggestion that they may have been responsible. The matter has been turned over to the Police Department for further investigation.

Beer Bottle Thrown From Hunter St. Bridge Cuts Foot Of Child In New Wading Pool

Children are forbidden to use the wading pool now under construction at the Hunter street bridge on the Otonabee river, and the rule will not be relaxed until the pool has been completed.

This statement came from officials of the Peterborough Lions Club today when a small child was cut on the foot by broken glass. The glass is known to have gotten into the pool section when a careless citizen tossed an empty beer bottle off the Hunter street bridge. The act was noticed by another citizen who reported the bottle throwing incident but the idenity of the culprit could not be ascertained.

Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the wading pool committee reported small children refuse to stay inside the breakwater in the centre of the river and this influenced the Lions in closing the incompleted pool. The water beyond the breakwater becomes deep suddenly and there is danger of a drowning when the pool is not supervised. In brief anyone using the pool before it is officially opened to the public does so at their own risk.

The Lions plans to rush work on the wading pool so that it may be opened to the public later this summer, and an official opening will be held.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 20.

The auguries for this day indicate unusual activity, with probable agitation and excitement, incidental to major moves of sudden and surprising precipitation. While the attitude may be progressive, with sound ideas of promoting practical propositions, yet an inclination to the obscure, idealistic or unique might upset calculations unless firmly directed into workable channels. There are forces at hand of a devastating nature, possibly concerning financial, domestic, social, or love relations, all of which need safeguarding and solidifying. Work for permanency and stabilty.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of exciting activity. Although the mind may be capable, shrewd and sagacious, with sound and solid basis, yet tendencies toward the fanciful idealistic, and visionary must be turned to the practical and constructive. In finance, social, domestic and affectional relations there is danger through impulsive, reckless acts, or undue emotionalism.

A child born on thsi day may have many splendid talents, with ingenuity and skill, but may be carried into danger by its impulses and emotionalism.

MEN'S CLOTHES LIKELY TO PUT GIRLS INTO OLD MAIDS CLASS

Women Known By Dress, And Males Don't Pet Females Looking Like Lad With First "Longs"

There is much discussion at present as to whether the wearing of men's clothes tend to make women masculine in their characters. In my opinion it is just the other way about, and the reason that the women who pass up the frills and furbelows of their sex for the hard-boiled shirts and tubular britches of men do so, is because they are so naturally lacking in femininity that they try to turn themselves into imitation men as a compensation for not being the real thing.

Nothing else could account for their deliberately chucking their pretty frocks, which have always been woman's one best bet, into the ash can. For while clothes may not make the man, as the old proverb says, they certainly do a lot towards camouflaging sister's bad points and high spotting her good ones. Practically any woman in a glamorous white gown or a pink chiffon goes trailing clouds of romance and glory. But even the most ardent advocates of pants for women cannot claim for them that they are anything more than practical, or serviceable, or cheap, and easy to jump into, none of which qualities are seductive.

Girls Make Big Mistake

From time immemorial women have dressed to make themselves alluring to men, but they seem to have made a bad guess when they swiped the garments on which the maculine sex considered it had a priority. There is nothing about a girl who looks like a bad understudy of her little brother before he learned how to wear his first longs, that makes a man want to put his arms around him, or her, or it, and whisper sweet words in its ears.

And it is highly significant, and a fact no girl should miss, that in this he-man's army wherever the soldiers have been entertained they have cried out with one voice for the girls who came to dance with them to wear their prettiest and longest and frillest and fluffest dresses, and fowers in their hair. So, taking it all in all, the danger seems to be not that the wearing of men's clothes will make girls masculine in character, but that it will make them old maids.

Dress Best Guide To Woman's Character

No one will deny, however, that women do express themselves more definitely in their clothes than they do in any other way, and that there is no better guide to a woman's character than the way she dresses. It tips you off to what she really thinks and feels and is, for a woman takes her politics from her father, her religon from her preacher, but her taste is her own.

Look about among your acquaintances and see how true this is. There is Mrs. A. who always wears dark, conservative clothes that are trim and taut and that are as neat as a pin. No foolish ornaments. Even a bow would flatten itself out on her, no matter how flamboyant it started out. You don't have to be told that she is sane and sensible; that she keeps within her budget; that she feeds her family on wholesome food, without a grain of seasoning in it; that all of her ideas and opinions are those held by the right people, and that nothing ever changes them. A good wife. A good mother. But unexciting to live with.

There is Mrs. B. who is Mrs. A's reverse. She is fat and frowsy and her clothes always look as if her worst enemy had bought them. She wears what hits her fancy instead of what she should wear, and she can't resist a bargain table. Her house always looks as if a hurricane had passed through it. Her family subsist, for the most part, on stuff out of cans and out of paper bag. But Mom is such good fun and lets them do as they please that her children and husband adore her.

Ultra-Modern Keeps Husband Slaving

And look as Saly C. who dresses like a Daily Hint from Paris, when her income only entitles her to a basement bargain wardrobe. She always has the latest freak hats and the most exotic hair-dos and the last word in shoes, and she will keep her husband's nose to the grindstone as long as he lives.

And there is Mamie D. who wears so much junky jewelry she rattles when she walks. And Cornelia X. who comes to work looking as if she were on her way to a cocktail party. They couldn't proclaim more clearly that they are lacking in judgment and self-control, and that their husbands will be sold down the river to the specialty shops and the installment houses if they wore sandwich boards on which were inscribed their characters so that he who ran might read. And it would be a smart chap who ran.

Yes, undoubtedly women express themselves by the way they dress, but it is because they were that-away that they wear the kind of clothes they do. The clothes didn't turn the trick.

Striking Sweaters

By ALICE ALDEN

SINCE IT is going to be a suit Autumn, it's going to be a sweater season as well. The top sweater designers have come through with some grand new models, sweaters that look as good with slacks as with suits or a separate skirt. Henry a la Pensee, who is now established in New York after leaving Paris, where the firm has held a leading position as an accessory house for over 140 years, is famous for amusing sweaters. Here's one, a real "conversation piece," a hand-knit sweater with postage stamp and cancellation design worked into the black wool background.

THE cotton frock which has treated its fabric as if it were a substance far more precious is usually the one which gets off into the best wardrobes.

The shirtmaker sewed as meticulously as if made from pure rare silk, the peasant blouse and dirndl designed to fit and not balloon, are classics that keep us cool while dressing us well for the myriad chores of being a housewife or career girl. And it is hard to find well-made cottons that aren't both shrink and fade proof, too.

HERE'S HOW I MAKE COFFEE GO FURTHER

FIRST of all—buy coffee for flavor! I use super-rich Chase & Sanborn Coffee!

Then I make it a rule to keep coffee in an air-tight container. And to get the right strength, I always measure the coffee and water carefully. Of course, I keep the coffee-pot scoured clean, and make only the exact amount of coffee needed—never more. And I serve it as soon as possible.

But getting plenty of flavor in the first place is most important! So I say—be sure you get super-rich Chase & Sanborn Coffee. More flavor ounce for ounce. Remember—quality coffee goes further.

Toronto Unit Becomes Ack-Ack Reg't

TORONTO, July 19 — Toronto's 42nd Field Artillery Regiment was back today after two weeks' Reserve Army manoeuvres at Petawawa with the knowledge it had been selected from among reserve artillery units in Canada to become the first anti-aircraft regiment in the Reserve Army.

Saturday morning, as the unit broke camp, its commanding officer, Lt.-Col. E. B. Armour, announced the change.

The announcement, made originally by Army Headquarters at Ottawa, means the regiment will exchange its 25-pounder field guns for the heavier and more complicated 3.7 dual-purpose gun which sprung into prominence with its effectiveness in the 8th army's advance from El Alamein to Cap Bon in Tunisia.

Two of the regiment's three batteries will be changed into eight-gun batteries, equipped with 3.7's. The third battery will be converted into an eight-gun light ack-ack battery armed with 40-millimetre Bofors guns. The three batteries are Major Huycke's 207th, Major Lewis' 30th and Major Lockhart's 53rd.

The change has been accepted by all ranks as a mark of confidence at Military Headquarters the Toronto regiment has attained, a fact apparent to inspecting officers while the regiment was in camp.

The Bofors ack-ack gun pours a stream of shells into the sky at the rate of 120 a minute. The 3.7 inch monster can, in spite of its heavy shell and long range, move quickly and bring fire to bear on enemy tanks or ground troops as well as aircraft. The ack-ack function is its primary use.

Instruction to gun crews and other personnel will be carried on by the regiment's present officers and N.C.O.'s, a number of whom will be sent to take courses at special training centres.

C.C.F. Offering Inexperience Nixon States

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 19.—Not once to date has Premier Harry Nixon referred to the C.C.F. by name, and Saturday night, for the first time in the campaign, he made an indirect comment on this political party when he spoke of "those who have had no political experience whatsoever and yet wish to run this Province." The Premier addressed Liberals in the Technical School auditorium.

Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell, who relinquished the portfolio of Public Works in the Hepburn Government to enlist, is overseas and the campaign to re-elect him as member for Sault Ste. Marie, is in the hands of the local Liberal association. Opposing him are a Progressive Conservative and a C.C.F. candidate.

Northern Ontario is showing more interest in the election than most sections of Ontario, and this is re-

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 19—(CP).—It took a long time, but Fightin' Freddie Mills and Giant Jack London patched up their differences long enough to sign contracts calling on them to fight for the vacant British heavyweight boxing crown. The bout, likely to be scheduled for 15 rounds, will take place August 2 at venue yet to be decided.

After weeks of negotiations, the match was settled at a London conference. Details, such as the size of the purse, were not revealed, but earlier Ted Broadribb, hustling little Cockney who took Tommy Farr to America, said Mills had turned down an offer of $8,800 to fight London in Liverpool. He added he thought the bout would take place on the Aston Villa football grounds at Birmingham.

Mills, a tough-looking kid they call the "Bournemouth Bomber," has been chief claimant to the vacant title since he beat Len Harvey for the British and Empire light-heavyweight titles a year ago. London, biggest man in the British ring at 220 pounds and a veteran at 29, became the Bomber's logical opponent by bashing all other top-ranking mittmen into defeat.

Howie has gone and done it and that probably means an end to his boxing career. Howie, or more exactly Sgt. Howie Spencley, Toronto boxer member of the Royal Canadian Engineers, got himself married to a nice-looking English girl who wants him to give up the ring.

Former professional middleweight around Ontario and New York State in pre-war days, Howie rose to be heavyweight champion of all Gibraltar's armed forces when he was stationed there with a tunnelling company last year. He had a couple of pro bouts in London after his return from "The Rock," including a losing one against Cpl. Arnold Hayes of Montreal in the final of a heavyweight elimination tourney at the Queensbury Club.

Now Howie, at 25, thinks he'll succumb to the wishes of his bride and turn a deaf ear to the blandishments of promoters along bash boulevard.

The second threw in the towel and the referee threw it right back. It happened in the fourth round of a fight at Watford when Vince Hawkins was pummelling Trevor Burt of Brigend.

In the next round, Hawkins, unbeaten Southampton middleweight, kayoed Burt with a right smash to the face.

Lt.-Col. I. L. Ibbotson of Westmount, Que., received a medal from his former commanding officer, Brig. K. G. Blackadder of Montreal, when he led the Canadian Reinforcement Units' team to victory in the Canadian Army officers golf championship.

When Brig. Blackadder, commander now of an infantry brigade, was officer commanding the Royal Highland (Black Watch) Regiment, Col. Ibbotson was his second in command. The brigadier referred to this fact when he presented the awards after the golf championship.

For the first time since inception of the tourney, there was no individual championship play. Brig. Blackadder explained that the army commander, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, believed team competition more important than individual competition and for this reason no army titlist was declared.

Gunder Haegg Beats America's Best

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19—(AP)—Gunder Haegg of Sweden, world's greatest long distance footracer, failed in his attempt yesterday to run the fastest mile in history, but ably demonstrated to 15,000 spectators at Kezar Stadium why he holds most of the records from 1,500 to 5,000 metres.

Haegg clicked off the mile in four minutes, 12.6 seconds showing the way to America's 1,500-metre champion, Gil Dodds of Boston, and winning as he pleased. He set his own pace, moved into the lead after the third lap and raced home waving his hands to the crowd.

His long hair streaming in the breeze, the Swift Swede seemed almost to loaf in the final 200 yards.

Comparatively Slow.

Haegg's time was low compared with his own best mile race of 4:04, a time whichw as bettered by two seconds a few days ago in Sweden by his countryman, Arne Andersson.

Haegg's chances of establishing a new record for one mile were handicapped somewhat by lack of opposion.

Dodds was an active contender for the first two laps. He sprinted into the lead shortly after the start and maintained a two-yard advantage for the first 880 yards. Haegg started moving up slowly and after a third of the third lap had been passed, Gunder took command.

Thereafter, Haegg was on his own. Evidently he decided not to bear down. He glanced back frequently and loped home with seven-foot strides.

Only Dodds was able to give him a semblance of a contest. He finished some 30 yards behind, while Bobby Madrid, former Fresno, Calif., State College man, trailed Dodds by 100 yards, John Fulton of Stanford trailed the field.

LAWN BOWLING

Looking over our schedule book we find that the bowling for the season of 1943 is just about half over. Yes, believe it or not, it's true.

And as time goes on we are in doubt who will win the group honours.

Some time ago, in this column, we predicted that a "dark horse" rink would come through and win each group. That is still our story and we are stuck with it. True, there are one or two rinks that look to have the edge, but notwithstanding all that, we are sticking to our guns. However, time will tell, and if we are wrong, check us up some time in August.

As far as the ladies' section is concerned it is a wide open contest and anybody's guess is as good as ours. Well look in the crystal bowl and see what we can see—miracles have happened.

To-night the ladies are holding a tournament, it will be for men's spare greens. All ladies are invited. True, it is for schedule rinks but everybody is welcome. The committee will try and make room for all. The time for beginning is 7 p.m.

On Wednesday evening, instead of the mixed rink, milk for Britain tournament, it will be for mens doubles. Choose your own partner. 50c a pair is the fee, and please note the new time of beginning, 7 p.m. It is the intention to play three games. So please be on time and co-operate.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday!
by Martha Logan

Summer Lunch Boxes

In hot weather it is more than ever important to be sure war workers get the foods they need

Hot weather appetites need tempting. And when it is a question of keeping up the health and strength of one of Canada's war workers it is our job to see that the appetite is tempted . . . and tempted by the right kinds of food!

So, this week, I want to run over again what we already know about lunch boxes and see how these rules are affected by summer conditions.

Every lunch box should contain:

SANDWICHES: Two or three sandwiches made with Canada Approved bread. At least one of meat, fish or poultry and preferably another with egg or cheese. In making meat sandwiches, remember two or three thin slices of meat make a better tasting, easier eating sandwich.

RAW VEGETABLES: Could be used as a sandwich filling, or as a salad. If you supply a meat or fish salad in a container, plain bread and butter sandwiches might accompany it—or one with a little relish in it. Chopped cabbage and carrot are particularly valuable vegetables, so is watercress. Do not include lettuce in sandwiches if they are to be left in a warm place. Instead, cut the lettuce in a wedge and wrap in waxed paper.

FRUIT: Apple, orange, berries, tomato . . . one of these as a "must."

MILK FOOD: A hot cream soup in a thermos actually stimulates the appetite. As alternatives, iced coffee, half-and-half, with milk, or frosted cocoa are delicious cold beverages and give valuable milk nutrients. Ice cold milk alone is often best of all.

MEAT SALADS

Try one of these in a waxed container or covered glass jar.

1. ½ cup diced Savoury Loaf, ¼ cup diced celery and grated carrot, ½ cup dressing.
2. ¼ cup Bologna cut in strips, ¼ cup diced celery. ½ cup mixed leftover vegetables. Salt, pepper, mayonnaise to taste.
3. ¼ cup chopped cooked Franks. ½ cup diced cooked potatoes or kidney beans. 2 tbsps. chopped celery or onion. Mayonnaise or salad dressing to taste.

And do, please, "dress up" the packing and arrangement of the lunch box. Appearance and freshness makes so much difference to one's appetite. Wrap sandwiches, lettuce, devilled eggs neatly in waxed paper. Use paper cups, fruit jars or jelly glasses with fitted covers for packing salads. And remember, too, variety is the spice of life!

CREAM: Just the same as making coffee, eh?

POSTUM: Directions for making me in a coffee-pot or percolator or drip coffee-maker are on my package

CREAM: What about Silex glass coffee-makers?

POSTUM: If you use a Silex, after the water boils up into the upper bowl, leave it three minutes before removing from the heat.

CREAM: Have you got that invigorating Postum flavor?

POSTUM: You bet – and people who like a stronger flavor use rounded tablespoonfuls in measuring instead of level tablespoonfuls called for in the package directions.

CREAM: And you taste like coffee?

POSTUM: NO! I do NOT taste like coffee. I'm the great hot, mealtime drink in millions of homes because I have a grand flavor all my very own. And grocers have a supply of me on their shelves.

flected in large turnouts at meetings, despite the season of the year.

The Liberals are having their troubles in French-speaking ridings of the north, particularly in North Bay, over the selection of party candidates. Mines Minister Robert Laurier was rushed northward a few days ago to iron out the difficulties. Mr. Laurier made a special trip to Parry Sound last week for consultation with Mr. Nixon.

In his address the Premier spoke of Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell's fine war record and declared it was the Government's desire to have him re-elected so that he might once again become a member of the Cabinet.

"I can assure the people of Sault Ste. Marie that when Lt.-Col. Campbell comes back he will at once be invited to re-enter the Cabinet," said Mr. Nixon. "This should mean a great deal to a constituency in Northern Ontario."

The Premier said that for years nothing had been done by the Ferguson and Henry Governments to develop the iron ore deposits in Sault Ste. Marie. But under the encouragement of the Liberal Government, the great iron ore development was proceeded with, and today was playing an important role in the nation's war effort.

Want Ottawa Consult CCF On Labor Laws

TORONTO, July 19 — Consultation by the Federal Government with trade union representatives and C.C.F. members of Parliament should precede the passage of any further legislation affecting labor, a conference of the C.C.F. Trade Union Section decided yesterday. A delegation from the conference will approach the Ottawa Government to press this view.

More than 200 delegates from 58 A.F. of L. and C.I.O. unions attended the conference, held in the Labor Lyceum, Spadina Avenue. Appointment to war boards and controllerships of labor representatives was also demanded in the resolution which declared that the importance of labor's co-operation had been often stressed by a Government which has made no effort to place labor spokesmen in responsible positions.

"The Federal Government has, through the Department of Labor, seen fit to pass various Orders-in-Council affecting labor without consulting the C.C.F. members of Parliament who are representatives of the labor movement in Canada to which they are responsible," it was stated. "Approval or advice of both C.C.F. members of parliament and labor representatives should be sought for all such future legislation, it was contended.

A second resolution declared that affiliation with the C.C.F. of 40 unions during the past year "has proved that political action is beneficial to the labor movement." Workers can achieve maximum results "only through direct political action through a Farmer-Labor Party," it was held. Support of the C.C.F. during the coming election was urged on all workers.

Endorsation by all unions of the C.C.F. as "the official political arm of the trade union movement in Canada," was called for in another resolution.

Obituaries

ROBERT THOMSON-CURRIE

There passed away on Sunday morning after an illness of six weeks Robert Thomson-Currie, at the age of 77 years. Born in Orillia, son of the late William Thomson-Currie and Dorothy Wilson, he came to Peterborough over 50 years ago, and for more than 25 years was employed with the William Hamilton Company and the Peterborough Machine Company.

He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church and of the session. His church for the past 20 years has been his principal interest. There were few meetings held at which he was not present and he took a great interest in making minor repairs around the church. He was most regular in his attendance at church and his place on the session will be hard to fill.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C. R. (Dorothy) Hagerman of Peterborough, and a grandson, Robert. Also one sister, Mrs. W. Clements of Vancouver, B.C. His wife predeceased him in 1919.

The remains are resting at the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water street, until noon on Tuesday, when they will be taken to St. Paul's church for funeral service, conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart at two o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS J. McCONNELL

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas J. McConnell, formerly Jennie Elizabeth Petherick, was held Wednesday afternoon from her home on Victoria street, Norwood. Services were conducted by Rev. E. E. Pugsley, minister of Norwood United church, and interment took place in Norwood cemetery. The number of floral offerings showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

For many years a well-known and highly respected resident of Norwood, Mrs. McConnell passed away at her home on Monday, after a short illness. She was in her 84th year.

Born in Percy township on Aug. 17, 1859, she was the daughter of the late John Petherick and Alice Spencer. On Feb. 9, 1887, she married Thomas J. McConnell of Belmont and they farmed in that community for many years, later moving to Asphodel, and twenty years ago retiring to live in Norwood. Mr. McConnell predeceased his wife March 20, 1941.

She was a life-long member of the Methodist church and later of the United church of Canada. Although of a quiet disposition she endeared herself to all who knew her and made many friends.

She is survived by a family of three sons, Charles of Belmont, Gordon of Asphodel and John of Norwood; and two daughters, Mrs. E. R. (Mabel) Warner of Asphodel and Miss Ina McConnell at home. One daughter, Mrs. Simon Seabrook of Belmont, died in 1916. Also remaining are one sister, Mrs. J. K. Alley of Gilbert Plains, Man., and two brothers, Matthew and Wesley Petherick of Belmont. There are seven grandchildren.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Charles and Harry Petherick, Samuel Buck, Russel Thompson, Eugene McLaughlin and Charles Menzies.

against an all-star City League team in aid of the Milk for Britain fund has aroused a lot of interest.... The game will be played on Wednesday of next week and the biggest softball crowd of the year is assured.... Another coming sporting event is a soccer game between the famous Picton R.A.F. team and the crack Toronto King Edward Hotel squad.... This will be played here in the fall in aid of the British War Victims' Fund.... It is an unusual batting year with Stan Musial heading the hitters of both leagues with .338.... Nearly 35,000 fans, the biggest crowd of the year at Pittsburg saw the Pirates and Cards tangle Sunday.... Firemen Save Porkers

GODERICH, Ont., July 19 (CP) — An automobile wrecker rescued three 200-pound porkers from a watery grave Friday. The pigs had broken through the cover of a well into eight feet of water and when their plight was discovered they were clinging to a ledge paddling with their hind extremities. An S-O-S went out for firemen who summoned the auto wrecker. A large noose was prepared on the end of the rope attached to the derrick and each porker was lasseoed and hauled up none the worse.

Make Victory Garden

HAMILTON, Ont., July 19 (CP). Spacious grounds of Idlewyld, Col. Gordon J. Henderson's residence here, have been transformed from lawns and flower beds to an immense vegetable garden, looked after by neighbors to work their own victory gardens. The plow spared not an inch of arable land.

Wire Saves Machine

FORT ERIE, Ont., July 19 (CP) —Alfred Babo, 22 Fort Erie taxi driver, narrowly escaped injury Friday when a telephone guy wire held his cab from plunging into the Niagara River. Babo said he swerved to avoid a passing truck, left the road, and careened halfway down the steep bank before coming to a stop.

Western Grain Subsidy

OTTAWA, July 19 — (CP).— As an incentive to farmers in Eastern Canada to buy Western feed grains and store them on their own farms so next winter's live stock feeding requirements will be met, the Dominion Government will pay a per-bushel subsidy based on a sliding scale, the Agriculture Department announced last night.

"The Authority on Authorities"

AIDING PARTNER UNDULY

PRETTY clear-cut treatment is meted out by the latest Laws of Contract Bridge to a member of the defending side who does something irregular which is likely to aid his partner in deciding the course of action to be followed. Several quite definite and understandable provisions are the following:

1. Regarding premature action, if a defender (a) leads before his partner has played to the current trick; (b) plays, when fourth hand, before his partner has played (unless declarer has played already from both his hand and dummy, in which case defenders may play in any order); (c) before his partner has played, improperly directs his attention to the current trick in any way, as by pushing the cards toward him, or naming his own played card, or by saying it is already his—in any of these cases, declarer may require the other defender to play to the current trick his highest or lowest card in the suit led, or to play a card (subject to his duty to follow suit) of another specified suit. Failure to do as thus directed constitutes a revoke. In the case of (a), if the offender fails to win the current trick, declarer may also exact the penalty for a lead out of turn.

2. If a defender improperly suggests a lead or play, the declarer may announce that he will impose a lead penalty when next it is the other defender's turn to lead, at which time declarer may require or forbid him to lead a specified suit.

3. If a defender improperly makes a remark which discloses to his partner the nature of his hand, or his intentions or desires, or which locates an unplayed card as being in an unexposed hand, the declarer may announce that he will impose a lead penalty when next it is either defender's lead, at which time declarer may require or forbid the lead of a specified suit.

4. If a defender improperly exposes his remaining card or cards, the declarer may treat the remaining cards of either defender as penalty cards. The hand of the other defender may then be picked up. Declarer should avail himself of this penalty only to the extent necessary to protect his side from possible loss.

Firemen Save Porkers

GODERICH, Ont., July 19 (CP) — An automobile wrecker rescued three 200-pound porkers from a watery grave Friday. The pigs had broken through the cover of a well into eight feet of water and when their plight was discovered they were clinging to a ledge paddling with their hind extremities. An S-O-S went out for firemen who summoned the auto wrecker. A large noose was prepared on the end of the rope attached to the derrick and each porker was lasseoed and hauled up none the worse.

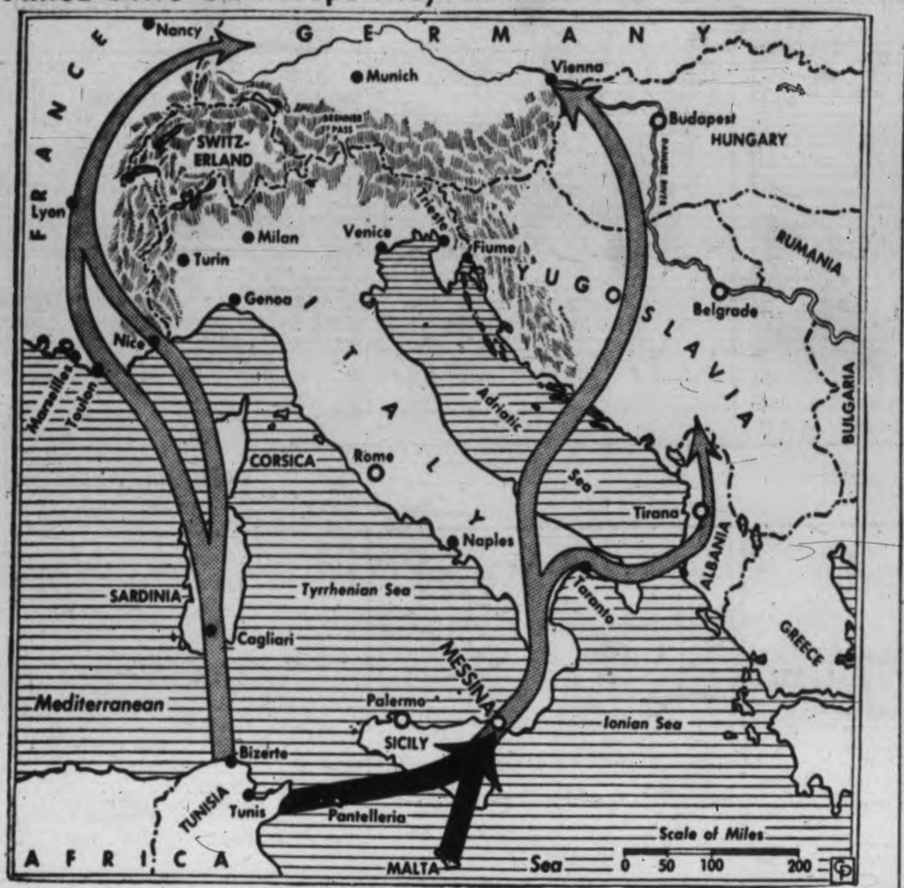
Allied Drive On Europe May Go Like This



With the invasion of Sicily a preliminary to the actual Allied invasion of the Axis-dominated European continent, military observers conjecture on what thrusts the onrushing Allies may take. This map shows possible invasion routes into continental Europe, aimed at putting the real "squeeze play" on the Nazis. The eastern drive may be through the plains and valleys of the western Balkans, to get away from the towering peaks and mountain barriers of the Alps. The western drive may be aimed through France, with loyal French welcoming a chance to go into action on the side of the Allies. Some observers believe an invasion of the Italian mainland could follow and then contact could be made with forces of Gen. Draga Mihailovich across the Adriatic from Yugoslavia.

Night Too Nice For Invasion, Army Not Ready, Italian General Achille D'Avet Explains

LONDON, July 19 (CP Cable)—Bulky 55-year-old Italian general Achille D'avet, sat in the wardroom of an Allied destroyer in the Mediterranean and said: "Suddenly, everything went poof."

It was his classic description of the Canadian landings on Sicily, on the beaches and headlands which his 206th coastal division was supposed to defend, and did defend in a desultory sort of way until, finally, he and his whole staff surrendered to the Canucks at Modica, 15 miles northwest of Ispica.

The story of D'avet, who was decorated in the last war by the Duke of Connaught, former governor-general of Canada, with the Military Cross, has been pieced together from cabled reports by Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent with the Canadians in Sicily, and Noel Monks, a correspondent for the London Daily Mail.

Fighting Qualities

Munro was at Canadian headquarters in southeast Sicily when the Italian general was brought in, a prisoner. Monks interviewed him later aboard the Allied destroyer when his main purpose seemed to be to convince everyone that "I fight lika da gentleman."

The story starts with the landing of parachute troops in D'avet's command area on a nice moonlight night which the Italian general had decided was no night for the Allies to start their invasion of Sicily. He decided it was merely a sabotage raid.

No Fooling

But it was the real thing, an invasion. Right behind the parachute troopers came the Canadians and "suddenly everything went poof."

Daylight revealed 1,000 ships anchored along the coast discharging troops and guns "and we felt terrible."

The Canadians, once landed, had practically no resistance from D'avet's division, town after town falling to them without major fighting. Finally, the Canucks prepared to take Modica, a small town of 50 houses, a church and an unimposing looking square with the resounding name of Piazzo Ciano.

Just before the Canadians were ready to storm the town, D'avet sent word he was prepared to surrender and asked for terms.

"Unconditional surrender" replied the commander of the Canadian 1st Division.

Accepts Terms

D'avet accepted with alacrity and Maj. Dick Malone of Winnipeg went into Modica to arrange the capitulation. He returned with the general and his whole staff, including a naval aide who, later, kept moaning of the uselessness of "a naval liaison officer without a navy at his back."

One thing the Italian general asked—he would like to keep his revolver as a gesture of military honor. Permission was granted by his Canadian captors—but his ammunition was confiscated.

War Relieves Overcrowding In Timmins

By EDWIN COPPS
Canadian Press Correspondent

TIMMINS, July 19 — (CP). — Different from most Ontario points now experiencing a wartime boom, Timmins is feeling a touch of recession instead.

Situated in the centre of the nation's biggest gold camp, the town—largest in Canada with a population of more than 28,000 — has given heavily in men and women to the armed forces and others have transferred from their jobs in gold mines to more vital occupations in plants elsewhere.

Some miners have gone to the job of digging nickel at Sudbury and others have headed for the Southern Ontario war plant jobs.

Thrive In Depression

The town, which during the depression when gold mining thrived experienced all the bustle which Ontario war centres are feeling today, now has settled back to a normal life — relieved of such worries as housing shortages, strained services and other complements of overcrowding. Generally rents have declined here and better living quarters and improved services are available.

Many of the poorer dwellings erected in the rush of starting a mining town have been vacated and most landlords have made improvements to their properties as house and apartment hunting is keener and people are "shopping" for places instead of grabbing the first place that is vacant.

War Helps Business.

Businessmen report that the war has brought a good effect upon business. Many miners, they say, who during pre-war days were inclined to overspend and charge the largest purchases, now are paying cash with the result most businessmen are about as well off financially now as before.

There are few shortages of products reported and citizens of this town have not felt the pinch of shortages as some other centres. There has been no hardship in buying either beef or potatoes and the rationing of beer has not been felt here.

In spite of its freedom from these home front difficulties, the war has ranked high in the minds of residents and enlistments have been especially high.

Many Enlistments.

The percentage of enlistments from the town's 40-per cent French-Canadian population has been cited in the House of Commons as an example for the Dominion.

Timmins has consistently held second place in all Canada for per capital purchases of War Savings Stamps.

The town has its war heroes too. Petty officer Arthur Powell won the D.S.M. for his gallantry in accompanying a superior officer on a two-man boarding mission when Canadians captured an enemy U-boat. FO. John Van Rassel won the D.F.M. in African skies. Pte. Harry Wichtacz, now of Galt, but a native of Timmins, was decorated for his bravery at Dieppe.

DREW 22-POINT PROGRAM BACKED BY HOUSE RECORDS

Constructive Proposals In Public Interest

Speaking over the C.B.C. network Friday night, July 16th, Leslie M. Frost, M.P.P. for Victoria and Haliburton, one of the outstanding Progressive Conservative members in the Ontario Legislature, emphasized the fact that the 22-point program recently enunciated by George Drew, Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, was the product of extended consultation with his followers; and that it was unanimously adopted at a largely attended meeting of party candidates and officials from all over Ontario held at the Royal York Hotel on Saturday, July 3rd.

Not only this, said Mr. Frost, the platform given out after that meeting was the natural sequence and outcome of constructive proposals made in the legislature by Col. Drew and his associates. Ever since the war began the Opposition, led by Mr. Drew, has at each session put forward a series of resolutions conceived in the public interest. These proposals, added the member for Victoria and Haliburton, have been either voted down at the instance of the Liberal Government or declared out of order by a Liberal Speaker.

On February 15th, 1941, the Opposition, submitted a resolution, calling upon the Government to move for a conference of representatives of the Dominion and of all the provinces for the following purposes:

To adopt such measure by inter-provincial co-operation as may be necessary.
(a) To assure the greatest war and post-war efforts.
(b) To meet emergencies created by the war.
(c) To assure adequate prices for agricultural products.
(d) To protect the established rights of labor.
And to devise plans for the rehabilitation of the members of our armed forces and for the re-employment of civilians who may be thrown out of work by postwar industrial readjustment; and to consider such other questions relating to the welfare and security of the people as may be deemed advisable.

Voted down by the Liberals including Mr. Nixon.

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING

The advisability of planning beforehand for postwar recovery was again pressed upon the House by the Opposition in a resolution which read:

That the proposed St. Lawrence development and other public undertakings throughout the province, in the opinion of this Legislature, call for the immediate creation of an Ontario Town and Country Planning Commission, with authority to recommend and supervise plans for the reconstruction, reclamation, and development of rural and urban areas.

This and similar Opposition proposals were voted down by the Liberals, including Mr. Nixon.

ECONOMY URGED

In the same session the Opposition, impressed by the need for economy in the administration of the province, brought in a resolution:—

That the estimates for the current year be referred back to the executive council with instructions to decrease the total amount of supply by $25,000,000.

This was turned down by the Liberals, including Mr. Nixon.

FOREST RESOURCES

Later on Col. Drew's followers offered a resolution demanding that the administration and control of the provincial forest resources be placed under the direction of a public body to be known as the Ontario Forest Resources Commission, after the manner of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Rejected by the Liberals, including Mr. Nixon.

RECONSTRUCTION PLANS

In the late session of the Legislature (1943) the Opposition kept up the pressure for action by submitting this resolution:—

This House regrets that the Liberal Government has introduced no legislation to provide for the re-establishment in civilian occupations of the members of our forces, for after war reconstruction, and for work, wages, and social security for our people.

The Liberals, including Mr. Nixon, voted this down.

Still on the same drive for action the Opposition proposed;

That the Government should undertake (with special reference to the constitutional relationships between the Dominion and Provincial Governments) a survey of existing social schemes here and elsewhere; and with due regard to the probable course of events after the war, make recommendations for a unified workable plan which will assure a proper standard of work, wages, health, education, and living standards, for all our people—with special reference to the re-establishment of the men and women in our fighting forces and the war industries.

The Liberals, including Mr. Nixon, killed this resolution.

HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

The Opposition renewed the attack with this further resolution:

The members of this legislature express their regret that the Government has failed to meet the critical needs of our agricultural producers; and they insist that the Government immediately take whatever steps are necessary to assure stability of prices, and an adequate supply of manpower and machinery for the rapidly increasing demands of war production.

This was a move on behalf of the farmers of Ontario which the Liberals were afraid to veto directly. The Liberal Government members, including Mr. Nixon, got around this difficulty by adopting a resolution praising the Government for the admirable work done by the province in assuring manpower, prices and machinery for the agricultural industry.

The Press Endorses Progressive Conservative Platform

DREW PLANS A DYNAMIC ONTARIO
(Essex County Reporter, Kingsville, Ont.)

Social security, full employment, and economic planning are prominent topics of the day. George Drew's approach to the discussions forms a stimulating contribution . . . Ontario's planning problem, according to George Drew, is not a static one, but is dynamic in character, designed to develop to the utmost our Nature-given potentialities . . . his view at first may sound like old-line thinking, but one must admit that his approach is more than an echo of Laurier and Macdonald. He adds something new . . . our planning for the future must be dynamic.

DREW APPEALS TO THE BEST IN ONTARIO
(Ottawa Journal)

For the Progressive Conservative Programme offered the people of Ontario by George Drew, one thing must be said at the outset. It is that here at least is a pronouncement by a public man who reveals understanding of the gravity, and the faith and hope, of our times . . . He (Mr. Drew) offers us a programme within the framework of freedom; a programme that must appeal to Ontario's tradition of individual independence and self-reliance. He would have government control and superintendence for the citizen; he would not subject men to the deadening hand of bureaucracy, nor plan us all into puppets under drill sergeants of the state. That he leaves as it should be left to the Socialists of the C.C.F. . . . No Ontario leader in years has advanced a more progressive, a more humane, or a more hopeful programme.

FORWARD WITH DREW TO BETTER DAYS
(Hamilton Spectator)

George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader in Ontario, presents an impressive platform that is statesman-like in its vision, constructive in breadth and capable of achievement provided there is both popular and Government will to carry it out . . . The scope of his manifesto is extensive and touches every element of Ontario's life . . . Mr. Drew believes profoundly in the future of Ontario . . . Its greatest days are ahead of it; all that its Government and people have to do to enjoy its blessings and advantages is to adopt constructive policies and make the best use of what is so bountifully within reach.

DREW'S GREAT SOCIAL DOCUMENT
(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Progressive Conservative Leader, George Drew has raised the present campaign far above the picayune things of the little politician. By it all the carping, all the sneers, the inuendo and the petty slander of his critics were swept aside. In that address George Drew has given the people of Ontario a great document, the finest social document in Ontario's history; one which should be read, studied and thought upon by every citizen . . . Point by point it is a massive thing. Even in the skeletonized form . . . it is a dynamic and constructive programme. Almost every point offers a practical approach to fundamental problems. . . It is essentially a programme of work, a series of well integrated steps calling for the creative use of all our resources and all our skill . . . George Drew is publicly pledged to these 22 points. What is more, he is pledged to implement them with the guidance and assistance of the chosen representatives of each group directly concerned. . . . If some concrete evidence of the genuineness of the Party were needed, there is the record. Many of the records of the points Mr. Drew itemized in his address are not new. He has offered them to the Legislature of the Province and as Opposition Leader offered to assist the Government in carrying them out.

DREW'S FORWARD LOOKING PROGRAMME
(London Free Press)

. . . The Forward Looking, optimistic and straight forward platform . . . justifies the new name of the Party . . . Originality and thought are shown in the formulation of the programme . . . Practical and far sighted . . . well rounded and balanced . . . Colonel Drew again demonstrated how provincial administration can affect the lives and well being of every citizen . . . The importance of provincial administration should not be minimized.

GEORGE DREW ON TEAM PLAY
(Hamilton Spectator)

His references to the labour situation have been of special significance . . . Capital and labour being a team engaged in a common task, and each member being indispensable to the other, it is crystal clear that the only way to make the team work satisfactorily is through loyal "teamwork". What Colonel Drew proposes to do . . . is strive to bring about good-fellowship in industrial relationships.

THE TREND IS TOWARD DREW
(Toronto Globe and Mail, July 12th, 1943)

The most recent poll published by the Institute (Canadian Institute of Public Opinion or Gallup Poll) shows a most interesting trend in view of the Ontario election of August 4 . . . The Progressive Conservative party in Ontario, under the leadership of Mr. George Drew is in the lead. Second is the King-Nixon party and in third place the C.C.F. Socialist group. Thirty-seven percent . . . would vote for . . . the Progressive Conservative party. Thirty-four percent would vote for the Liberal party and twenty-six percent for the Socialists. That poll was taken about two weeks ago . . . before Mr. Drew laid down his party's platform, which is probably the most constructive ever placed before the electors of this province.

UNIFORM RATE FOR HYDRO

The next resolution submitted by the Opposition asserted that the Hydro Electric resources of the Province belonged to all the people; and that it is therefore desirable that the Hydro Electric Power Commission Act be amended immediately to equalize rates for electric energy and remove the present service charge in rural areas.

TO MEET FUEL SHORTAGE

An Opposition resolution dealing with the current fuel shortage read:

In the opinion of this House a fuel committee should be appointed to inquire into the fuel situation and to recommend to the government measures to assure the greatest possible supply of fuel for the coming winter.

Despite the sufferings of last winter and the prospective sufferings of the coming winter on the part of the people, the Liberal Government of the day, including Mr. Nixon, unanimously voted down this resolution.

FINANCIAL PROTECTION FOR SOLDIERS

The next Resolution, introduced by the Opposition at the recent session of the House, proposed, that all members of the Canadian Armed Forces from Ontario should be given effective legal protection against the normal economic consequences of their service; and that all those, whose ability to meet their financial obligations has been materially reduced by such service, should be sheltered against the forfeiture of instalment contracts, cancellation of life insurance policies up to $10,000.00, and judgments or other legal proceedings for debts incurred before entering military service. The resolution stated that this protection should be extended on the express condition that those able to pay should not be encouraged to evade their obligations. The deferment rather than the cancellation of obligations was suggested so that justice might be assured.

Instead of voting down this resolution the Liberal Attorney-General stated that this proposal had been taken up with the Federal Government. But up to the present time no action has ensued.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

A further resolution introduced by the Opposition read:—

Resolved that in the opinion of this House the Government should take immediate steps to adjust the old-age pension payment in accordance with the present cost of living.

In supporting this resolution Col. Drew and others contended that old age pension payments should be raised immediately by at least $5.00 a month and that the practice should be abandoned of compelling old people with little homes to give up these homes before they can collect their scanty pensions.

This reasonable proposal of the Opposition was ruled out of order by the Speaker, Mr. James Clarke, who now favors union of Canada with the United States. On another occasion in the late session the Speaker ruled out of order a proposal for the celebration of Empire Day. Mr. Nixon is not on record as protesting against the Liberal Speaker's rulings.

LABOUR AND "TEAM-PLAY"

As far back as 1941 George Drew placed before the Legislature a proposal calling upon the Minister of Labour to arrange a conference to be known as the Ontario Industrial Production Conference to be attended by representatives of Labour Unions, Employers' and the public. The purpose of the Conference was to be the assurance of maximum industrial production, with effective protection for the workers.

The Liberal Government, including Mr. Nixon, have taken no action up to the present time, in regard to this proposal.

In keeping with its record in the Legislature, on the public platform and in the press, ever since 1939 the Progressive Conservative Party, as already indicated, is pledged to carry out the program outlined in the 22-points of its platform.

The only means of making sure that these forward looking commitments will be put into forthright practice is to vote George Drew and the Progressive Conservative Party into Office on August 4th.

The issue is in the hand of the electors who are under a patriotic and moral obligation to do three things:
(1) See that your name is on the voter's list. (2) Get out and work for the Progressive Conservative Party and its platform and a greater and more prosperous Ontario. (3) Talk to your friends and acquaintances and get them to the polls on the right side.
Make Ontario Strong. Work and Vote for the Progressive Conservative Candidate.

Strong Government will Carry out Pledges

In the statement of policy made by the leader, Mr. George Drew, the Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario proclaims its faith in the future. The Party's firm belief is that the natural wealth and productive capacity of the province are such as will provide steady employment at good wages for all industrious citizens together with economic and social security from the cradle to the grave. All that is required to make that vision come true is a strong, forthright Government in Queen's Park. The Party therefore pledges itself:

1. To do all in its power to maintain institutions and strengthen the British partnership as the best guarantee of Canada's spiritual and material welfare.
2. To co-operate fully with other Provincial Governments and the Federal Administration in fighting the war to a successful finish, and establishing social security for all citizens—without sacrificing Provincial control of Provincial affairs.
3. To encourage private initiative in every field of employment, to support farmers, factories, mineral and forest development and other activities by helpful legislation, tax reduction, and the removal of bureaucratic restrictions.
4. To set up committees of outstanding farmers in each county with authority to plan joint production and promote the processing and distribution of farm products. To take over all stock yards and operate them as public-owned agencies, thus cutting out speculation and manipulation, which have proven injurious alike to producers and to consumers.
5. To give workers and employers the fairest and most advanced labour laws. This is to be achieved by empowering an Ontario Labour Relations Committee to outline a plan based on study of labour laws of other countries—this with a view to adopting comprehensive and enforceable collective bargaining legislation.
6. To appoint as Minister of Mines a man who knows mining; to lighten the burden of taxation; to repeal nuisance laws which hamper the activities of prospectors and geologists.
7. To appoint a Forest Resources Commission; to cancel improper timber contracts; and to push policies of conservation, re-forestration and soil control extending to all parts of the province, and employing tens of thousands of men after the war.
8. To create an Ontario Housing Commission for the purpose of wiping out slums, improving home conditions in city, town and country and providing post-war employment on a large scale.
9. To encourage home ownership and home improvement by a sweeping revision of real estate taxation, commencing with the assumption by the government of fifty per cent of the present cost of education.
10. To give every child an education to the full extent of its mental capacity, together with vocational instruction for farm or city life.
11. To assure all children adequate medical and dental attention and health protection.
12. To prepare immediately province-wide plans for full post war employment.
13. To free the Hydro Electric Power System from political control; give rural Ontario the benefit of an equitable readjustment of power rates; and to remove the service charges for farms.
14. To reclaim unused land throughout the province for the settlement of returned men and their families on a sound, economic basis under the guidance of Veterans' organizations.
15. To reduce taxes by stopping Provincial Government services which duplicate Federal services, except where essential to the maintenance of constitutional rights.
16. To drive politics out of the Civil Service so that civil servants need no longer fear for their jobs,—thus increasing governmental efficiency.
17. To give every citizen the right to defend his person and property before the courts.
18. To increase mothers' allowances and old age pensions and to relieve old people from the obligation of parting with their homes before they can become eligible for their small pensions.
19. To assure the public of adequate supplies of fuel, milk and other necessities.
20. To assure priority of employment to men and women who have served in the armed forces.
21. To assure full legal protection to those in the armed services and their dependents against mortgage foreclosures, insurance cancellation and other unjust financial embarrassments; creditors to be reasonably protected by the court.
22. A rehabilitation and social security committee will be appointed immediately with instructions to draft plans which will assure social security for all our people, and also provide for the rehabilitation and employment of the members of our armed forces and munition workers after the war.

Red Advance Captures 130 Villages

Surround Germans On 3 Sides In Push On Orel

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 20 (AP)—Russian siege guns were blasting the pivotal Nazi bastion of Orel from three sides today as the Red Army tightened its semi-circle around the fortress, dispatches from the front said.

West of Orel a powerful Soviet column penetrated 30 miles into the German rear as far as Ilinskoye, scooping in 130 more villages, bringing to 240 the total taken since the Russian counter-offensive began.

While the Soviet communique reported only a modest advance of from four to six miles, it indicated how furiously the Germans are resisting with the disclosure that the Russians rebuffed 12 enemy counter-attacks during the day.

(The German communique said the Russians were beaten back in heavy fighting yesterday, with 562 tanks destroyed by Nazi land troops supported by units of the German air force.

(Heavy Soviet attacks on the Kuban bridgehead west of Krimskaya were frustrated, the Nazi communique said, adding that other drives on the Mius river and Middle Donets sectors were also halted after hard fighting.)

The Soviet midnight communique said the Germans were rushing reinforcements into the battle and were counter - attacking the advancing Russians as many as 12 times within a single day in some sectors without success.

To the north Red Army men were said to have regained 70 villages, while from the south came word that the Nazis had withdrawn from 20 towns.

The Russian communique said that counter-attacks were costing the Germans heavy losses. An additional 72 German tanks and 96 planes were reported to have been knocked out in the fighting yesterday, bringing the 15-day total to 3,516 tanks and 2,094 planes.

The Russians announced the capture of Ilinskoye 30 miles west of Orel. This represents the most westerly advance in the area north of Orel. From here the Russian line swings back east and then cuts south around Orel and runs west along the old line to Sevsk.

1,825 Casualties In Raid On Rome

LONDON, July 20 —(CP)—The Rome radio asserted today that buildings "sacred to faith and science" had been damaged with some of them partly destroyed, and 166 persons were killed and 1,659 injured in yesterday's raids on Rome by "hundreds" of American bombers.

The Italian communique listed as buildings partly destroyed the San Lorenzo Basilica, the Verano cemetery, University City and hospitals of the Polyclinic Institute.

Very great damage was done "by the American formations of hundreds of four-engined planes which attacked Rome for three hours," it said.

Oft-bombed Naples, Italy's largest port, was blasted again last night by Allied bombers which also carried the destruction of Italy's war supplies and industries into other localities in Campania, the Italians further acknowledged.

Agriculture Group Urges Bonuses, More Machinery

OTTAWA, July 20—(CP).—Final reports of the House of Commons Agriculture Committee, tabled today in the House, urged that consideration be given by the Government to providing greater encouragement to farmers so they might increase production of essential foods.

The reports, submitted by W. G. Weir (Lib. Macdonald), chairman of the committee, expressed gratification that to date Canada had been able to fill all its undertakings in supplying food products to the United Kingdom; but they said the demand was increasing both at home and abroad, and farmers should be encouraged to increase their efforts.

More farm machinery should be made available, the reports said. Bonuses were suggested to increase milk production, and several recommendations designed to assist grain growers and livestock producers were included.

Following are the committee's recommendations:

1. Reconsideration of the Government's policy in respect to marketing of flax;

2. Consideration of the advisability of paying farm storage on grain, in view of abnormal transportation and grain-storage conditions;

3. Further consideration by the Wheat Board of the policy of allocating cars to elevator points for the movement of producers' grain;

4. A close check on the spread between ceiling prices of feed grains and prices paid by livestock feeders in eastern Canada and British Columbia;

5. Consideration of the advisability of authorizing the Canadian Wheat Board to take control of the handling and marketing of oats and barley on a pooling basis, according to grade;

7. Continuation of the practice of referring the annual report of the

U.S. Admiral Warns Axis Collapse Unlikely Says War With Japan May Last Until 1949

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP). —Vice-Admiral Frederick J. Horne said to-day that the United States Navy is planning for a war against Japan to last at least until 1949.

The vice chief of naval operations, appearing at a press conference at which Navy Secretary Frank Knox strongly deplored current optimism over winning of the war in a hurry, saiad the Allies still have "tremendous distances to go in the Pacific and we have to build bases from the ground up as we advance."

Questioned about the time required to win victory in Europe, Horne said his opinion was "entirely a guess" and he gave no date.

He said, however, that there is a "good deal of wishful thinking in expectation of a collapse of Germany."

He predicted there will be no such "morale collapse in the army" as there was in 1918 because, he said, German soldiers have been trained in Hitlerism and have been separated from the family connections through which a spirit of defeat was transmitted in the First Great War.

Not Beer—Glue

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 20—(AP). — Thieves broke into a Springfield brewery, selected a barrel which they believed contained beer. They rolled the 600-pound barrel a block and a half away from the brewery, inspected the contents, decided they didn't want to be stuck with it, so abandoned it. The barrel was full of glue.

Long Range Bombers Hit Macassar

Troops Close In On Munda 179 Japanese Killed

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, July 20 (AP) — For the second time since the Japanese overran the Netherlands East Indies, Allied bombers have made a daring, long-distance attack on the enemy's major base at Macassar.

A great fleet of heavy bombers flew 2,000 miles, round trip, Sunday night and left many fires towering above the big harbor city on Celebes. There was no report on the extent of damage done but some of the fires, started along the waterfront, in the factory area and on the airdrome, could be seen 80 miles away.

At the other end of the long Southwest Pacific battlefront, Allied troops enlarged their beachhead with a limited advance at Lilio, about three miles east of the Japanese key central Solomons airdrome at Munda. The communique said 179 Japanese were killed. Allied losses were described as light.

Bombers pounded Japanese positions north of Munda airdrome and at Bairoko on Kula Gulf, while others machine-gunned the enemy on the beaches between Munda and Lambeti.

Wipe Out 82 Japs

On New Guinea, Allied ground forces cleaned out another Japanese strong point on the slopes of Mount Tambu, near Salamaua, wiping out 82 Japanese. Allied ground troops were supported by aircraft.

Heavy and medium bombers again pounded the Kahili and Ballale airdromes in the Buin-Faisi area, starting three large fires. Latest reports on the heavy blow struck there Sunday said 21 enemy fighters were shot down against a loss of 10 Allied planes.

The assault on Macassar caught the Japanese flat-footed. The town was well lighted and there was no anti-aircraft fire. The communique reported no losses.

Claim Russians Attack Norway

LONDON, July 20—(CP). — The Berlin radio claimed today that a Russian amphibious force had attacked the coast of Varanger Fjord in extreme northern Norway.

The broadcast said the Russians had attempted a landing on the coast south of Vardoe on the peninsula which juts out into the Barents Sea toward Fisher peninsula, the most northwesternly point of the Soviet Union.

The attack was beaten off, the Berlin account claimed, after Soviet landing craft were shelled by shore batteries which sank or damaged many of the vessels.

The Germans previously had reported the presence of Russian planes over the peninsula, which arcs eastward into the Barents just north of the Finnish border.

British Smash Tank Attack At Gates of Catania Canadians Attacking Enna

Parked In Courtyard Italian Officers Wait To Surrender

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, July 17—(Delayed) — (CP Cable).—Canadian troops have been helping to clean up Ragusa, Blackshirt headquarters and capital of Ragus province which takes in the southeast corner of Sicily.

About 200 Italians had persisted in sniping from buildings after Canadians and Americans took over the city so a company of tanks went into the town to straighten it up. They patrolled the streets, shot a few snipers and established order.

Air support is one-sided during the daytime, with the R.A.F. and U.S.A.A.F. sweeping the skies. We are getting careless about looking for aircraft while driving our jeep because we seldom see the enemy in the skies.

Snipers continue to be our worst worry. All along the front I hear stories of vicious sniping by Italian soldiers who lie in wait in the hills for small groups of men or lone vehicles. But only a small minority of the Italian forces the Canadians have met had enough fight to avoid surrender and continue as snipers.

Give No Trouble.

On three or four roads leading to the front I have seen hundreds upon hundreds of prisoners in gray or khaki uniforms. Sometimes there are sailors among them. One night we slept at headquarters established in a vacated nobleman's mansion and when we awoke 50 Italian officers and non-commissioned officers were sitting in the courtyard ready to surrender.

Prisoners are no longer a novelty. Some groups of them trudge back without escort. I saw an auxiliary service officer helping a couple of Canadians guiding 300 Italians down the line.

In Modica, a town of about 40,000 population high on the sides of an impressive gorge, I saw Italian soldiers wandering around the streets.

On the central square of the town which has three magnificent churches and winding streets creeping up the cliffside, there were piles of smashed Italian rifles and ammunition, littered with Italian helmets.

Frequently I talk with Italian civilians who say they have lived in New York, San Francisco, Toronto or Montreal. In Modica a crowd gathered around our jeep and a one-legged Italian said he had lived in New York for eight years. He said "the people here like you." They certainly are not unfriendly.

Italians who left their homes when the Allies landed now are returning with carts piled high with household goods, children, chickens. Food has not been plentiful in Sicily and now the major problem is feeding civilians.

Heat is becoming worse. The sun has a fierce glare. Dust on the roads piles up like a snowbank. Vehicles are chalky white. Flies, mosquitoes, fleas, sun, wind and dust make a disagreeable combination. It is hard to keep anywhere near clean.

We drink chlorated water now, while "compo" rations like those of the Tunisian forces.

Tire Every Second

LOS ANGELES, July 20—(AP)—F. B. Davis, Jr., board chairman of the United States Rubber Company, predicted yesterday that by the end of 1944 American production of synthetic automobile passenger tires will have reached the rate of one every second. However, rationing still will be necessary, even if military needs remain static, he stated.

Munitions Train Explodes In Rome Raid

CAIRO, July 20 —(AP)—Aerial photographs indicated today that the Littoria freight yards "were completely destroyed" in yesterday's bombing of Rome, a United States communique said today.

It said that a large force of heavy bombers of the U.S. 9th Air Force, based in the Middle East, dropped nearly 330 tons of high explosive for its part in the war's first raid on Rome.

"String after string of bombs criss-crossed yards and photographs indicate that an area of 400 yards by two miles long is a mass of twisted steel rails, gaping bomb craters and wreckage of rolling stock and buildings," the war bulletin said today.

"A locomotive shed and repair shops were shattered by direct hits while others pounded a railroad administration building, setting it on fire."

This was the second communique today issued here on the raid.

A British Middle East headquarters war bulletin, the first to be issued, said an ammunition train in the Littoria yards exploded during the raid.

Order Evacuation

BERNE, Switzerland, July 20 — (AP)—All persons not compelled to remain in Rome to carry on essential war work have been warned to get out immediately by the Fascist government, Swiss Telegraphic Agencies dispatches reported today.

Rome, the dispatches said, is without adequate air raid shelters, and last year's population of 1,250,000 has been about doubled because of the belief that the city would not be bombed owing to the presence of Vatican City.

For the past 12 months hundreds of thousands of evacuees from Italy's bombed industrial cities have poured into Rome until the government was forced to rule that only those persons whose business was imperative would be allowed to visit the overcrowded city, and to remain only until their business was transacted.

Rome's evacuation of surplus population, however, is regarded as an almost insoluble problem, according to the Swiss Telegraphic Agency, because there is literally no place where they can go.

Resistance Crumbles In Island Interior As Americans Advance

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 20 (AP).—American troops are stabbing deeper into western and central Sicily against weakening Axis resistance by Italians reported mutinying against German officers, and British forces in the vital battle for Catania have smashed back desperate German tank attacks, it was announced to-day.

Canadian and American troops were within artillery range of Enna — central Sicily stronghold commanding main roads and railroads east and west—and British forces were pounding at the gates of Catania, the prop of all eastern coast defences.

Front dispatches said U. S. troops had advanced 10 miles west of Agrigento on the southwest coast.

Many Surrender

Canadian forces advancing north of Piazza Arminera were confronted by units of the resuscitated German 15th armored division in strong opposition, but they "continue to fight their way forward," it was announced.

"There are many indications of muntinies by Italian troops commanded by German officers," and hundreds of Italians are surrendering to American troops striking ahead westwards, the Allied communique said.

On the smoke - covered Catania Plain, British 8th Army advance guards shattered a series of Nazi tank assaults launched in desperate defence of the great seaport.

With several bridgeheads established over the network of three rivers in the Catania Plain, British troop stolidly held a line running from the sea westward in the direction of Ramacca. They were within at least three miles of Catania.

Japan Proper Gets U.S. Bombs

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP).—The Navy Department announced today that heavy bombers, winging over the Japanese side of the North Pacific, had bombed the enemy base of Paramushiro Monday, starting fires and scoring near hits on shipping.

The big army planes were described as "a formation," which may have been a dozen or so. They apparently operated from the American base of Amchitka in the Western Aleutians. It is 861 nautical miles from Amchitka to Paramushiro.

This is the first raid in which bombers of the American North Pacific force have struck so closely to Japan proper.

Paramushiro is at the northern end of the Kurile chain, which runs south like an arrow pointing to Tokyo about 1,200 miles away. The attack puts pressure on Japan's northern defence positions in co-ordination with the offensive against New Guinea positions far to the south.

The communique announcing the precedent - setting raid also disclosed that in the central area of the South Pacific Japanese planes bombed Canton Island Sunday without causing personnel casualties or material damage.

8,500 Workers Remain Idle

Union Demands Increased Living Bonus

MONTREAL, July 20 — (CP).—Strikes continued today to tie up work at the shipbuilding yards of marine industries in Sorel and some sections of Canadian Vickers' yard here.

The number of strikers at Vickers, set at 3,500 yesterday was higher today. At Sorel some 5,000 men were idle. The Vickers' strikers, members of unions affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor and some non-union members, sought a full cost of living bonus of $4.25 instead of the present bonus of $2.70 weekly. Some of the Sorel strikers sought a five cent an hour increase and a full cost of living bonus.

Union officials said they were attempting to have the men return pending settlement of the dispute, and T. G. McLagan, general manager of the plant, said that the National War Labor Board would not consider their request until they returned to work.

Mr. McLagan said the company had joined with the men July 1 in asking the War Labor Board for the full cost of living bonus but that no reply to the request had been received as yet. The walk - out began Saturday and spread yesterday.

Humanitarian Motives Inspired Raid

Il Duçe Hopes For Refuge In Rome, But Allied Bombs Change Picture

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Anaylst

Notwithstanding the 'wild beast' propaganda twist the Axis is trying to give to the bombing of military objectives in Rome, the fact remains that the highest humanitarian motives inspired this first raid which the Eternal City has experienced.

The Allied object was to prevent unnecessary suffering from protraction of the conflict. A quick surrender would shorten the trials of the Italian people themselves. It would put a tourniquet on the casualty list of Allied and Italian boys who must die by thousands if the battle for Italy were protracted.

Had Mussolini seen fit to remove prime military objectives from Rome and declare it an open city, the bombing could have been avoided. He had fair warning. But he has chosen to use it as a sanctuary to protect himself and his main supporters from danger.

Plenty of Stabbing

Having cringed in fear of gunfire until Hitler had crushed France, the Duce stabbed his fallen neighbor in the back and then sent his warplanes to help finish off Britain. It may have been his bombs which tore at some of the world's most historic and hallowed places—Westminister Abbey, old St. Paul's, ancient Canterbury Cathedral and others.

Each time he has committed another crime against civilization he has crawled to security within the walls of Rome. There, too, he shielded his political organization of gangsters, marched his troops, maintained the central machinery of his transport system and created sinews of war.

The immunity of Rome was accepted as a certainy by many, despite warnings from the Allies. A million Italians from other parts of the country are said to have moved to the capital to avoid bombing of their home cities.

Probably never before has so great care been exercised by bombers as in the raid over Rome. The pilots, navigators and bombaimers were carefully selected from among thousands of prospects. They were chosen not only for their military expertness but for sterling qualities which would guarantee that only military objectives would be bombed. To make them letter perfect, they were trained for months and memorized the map of the Italian capital. The raid was in broad daylight so that mistakes wouldnt be made.

The assignment of bombing Rome surely was one of the most trying which could be given to airmen. The skulking Mussolini had built parts of his war machine close to the Vatican city. It was unthinkable that a bomb should fall within the Popes domains—and none did. The bombers appear to have done as skilful a job as ever has been recorded.

It's to be hoped that the people of Italy will understand what has happened, and act accordngly to ease themselves out of the plight into which Mussolini has thrust them. Judging from the enthusiasm with which the folk of Sicily are welcoming the invasion Allies, there's a chance that the inhabitants of the mainland will follow suit.

Canadian Bags 6 Planes

Empire Fliers Share In Sharpshooting

VALETTA, Malta, July 20 — (CP Cable)—A quartet of Empire nightflying sharpshooters, including a Canadian, shot down 29 Axis planes over Sicily in four nights of the past week,it was disclosed today The feat included the R.A.F. individual record of five destroyed in one night.

The Canadian member of the four is PO. Johnny Turnbull, onetime bank clerk of St. Thomas, Ont., who bagged a total of six, including three Junkers - 88's last Wednesday night. On that night aircraft based on Malta got 12 enemy planes.

The record-smasher was Ian Allan, a squadron leader from Glasgow who shot down five enemy planes in exactly 100 minutes for a total bag of 10 for the week.

The two others are Paddy Green an English wing commander, with a total of seven, and a South African wing commander, Jasper Reid, with six.

Turnbull, a Beaufighters pilot, participated in the North African campaign where he recorded a score of 1½ destroyed.

"Enemy planes were easier to find in Sicily than Africa because they are forced to fly higher and therefore are easier to find in the moonlight," he said.

500 AMERICAN BOMBERS TAKE PART IN HEAVY RAID ON ROME

Freight Yard Wrecked; Fires Started

Take Every Care To Avoid Historic Places

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 20 (AP) — More than 500 American bombers carried out the raid yesterday on Rome, and freight yards at San Lorenzo and Littorio railroads were heavily bombed with "a great deal of rolling stock and railroad installations destroyed," Allied headquarters announced today.

The Tabonelli Steel Plant and a large chemical works were also damaged, the communique added.

Five United States planes were lost, it said.

"Heavy attacks also were made on the Rome airdrome, where aircraft and hangars were destroyed," the bulletin added.

"Enemy aircraft and ground opposition was slight but our escorting fighters shot down two enemy aircraft."

"From this outstandingly successful operation, five of our aircraft are missing," the communique said.

Raids during Monday on the communications centre of Randazzo in Sicily and a new bombing attack upon Catania on Sunday night also were announced. Four Allied planes were lost.

Fliers and observers who took part in the first air raid ever made on Rome agreed that heavy damage had been inflicted on military targets and expressed belief that few if any historic landmarks in the Eternal City had been harmed.

Thanks to perfect weather and explicit directions given the crews, the objectives were easily spotted and the bomb loads were dropped with deadly accuracy, the returning airmen said.

Reporter Goes Along.

A graphic description of the raid was given by Associated Press correspondent Joseph Morton, who rode in a Martin Marauder bomber with two veterans of the Tokyo raid.

Morton's plane was near the tail end of the last echelon, he reported, and went in at an uncomfortably low altitude, giving him a chance to observe the results of the raid closely.

"I could see fires coming from three legitimate military targets—two railway switching yards and an airport," Morton said. "If the Axis can produce proof that our bombers destroyed anything but military objectives, I shall be very much surprised."

Crews of the raiding planes studied intensively in advance on the city's layout. They worked from huge photographic enlargements which clearly showed the objectives, and when they left they carried with them other photographs which spotted such points as the Vatican, St. Johns Lateran, St. Paul's Bas-

40 Hog Breeders Visit C.P.C. Plant

Forty boys from Peterborough and Durham farms will be supper guests of G. S. Matthews of Canada Packers at the staff house, Monaghan Road, Friday. They are members of two swine clubs which have been organized this year in the counties to encourage boys to take an interest in this branch of farming.

These junior farmers are meeting at Canada Packers at 2 p.m. and will be shown details of rail grading with prior emphasis on the ideal type of live hog for the British market. They will also see Wiltshire sides, and generally should spend a profitable afternoon at the packing plant.

This is the main feature of the program which will be concluded with supper in time for the early return of the boys to their homes in the evening.

Resistance Crumbles

thrown into the continuing battle and suffered heavily, it was reported.

Some headquarters observers did not view the British pause outside Catania as a temporary check, but as a buildup fo. a knockout blow to carry through that port to Messina 50 miles up the coast.

Nearing Palermo

Possibly explaining the wholesale Italian surrenders and reports of mutinies, it was stated that at least half the 35,000 Axis prisoners so far captured were born in Sicily.

The U.S. 7th Army was within 60 miles of Palermo, the leading north coast port of Sicily, and was cutting a wide swath through the heart of the enemy line, encountering "almost total lack of resistance" by Italians, an official statement said.

Mutinies among the Italian units led by German officers was one of the gravest signs yet reported of ultimate Axis collapse in Sicily.

Some Italian units reportedly have killed commanders who tried to prevent their surrender.

General Giulio Cessara Gotti Porcinari, commander of the 54th Napoli Division, has been captured, the fourth divisional commander to be taken. Gen. Porcinari had been sent back to Sicily as a failure as a field commander in Libya.

At Catania, 8th Army troops "are gathering strength and armored patrols are probing the defence" of Axis troops strongly established at the foot of Mount Etna to bar the narrow coastal route.

Thus in preparation was a mighty push which some observers said might reach to the Messina Strait almost as quickly at the 8th Army advanced from Cape Passero to the gates of Catania. Once Catania falls there is no strong place for an Axis stand short of Messina.

Catania was again bombed, with one raid starting fires over a square block. Randozzo northwest of Mount Etna and an enemy concentration point, were heavily pounded by 46 tons of bombs.

Lagging at least three days behind the actual events—and from one to three days behind first official announcements — to-day's Allied communique reported the fall of Caltanissetta, taken on Saturday, and Porto Empedocle.

Nowhere on the American sector was the enemy making a determined stand, tanks and troops poured steadily ahead beyond Porto Empedocle at a pace beyond the ablity of the official communique to report.

The shabby record of Italian leaders in the Sicilian invasion, it was reported, probably would continue, since among Italy's commanders still directing forces in the field were Gen. Zaglio and Chirieleison, both failures in the African war.

But the Germans were fighting with backs-to-the wall fury and for the present at least were disputing every inch of the Allied advance in their vicinities.

This performance is akin to their fiery resistance in April in Tunisia before the Allies suddenly broke through and transformed them into a retreating rabble. The original German garrison of 60,000 troops in Sicily has been seriously depleted in men and armor in the 10 days of battle.

The Germans are the backbone of the determined resistance to Gen. Montgomery.

News Carriers Sell 15 Depth Charges

Examiner News Carriers have sold up to and including July 19, $1406.25 worth of War Saving Stamps. This represents a total of more than 15 depth-charge posters completely filled.

The ranks of the Commando Army show an increase in numbers, and there are not a few whom a couple more sales will elevate into the select company with the privilege that goes along with it of being aboue to sport a Commando badge.

The Examiner has announced that it is going to present each of the first ten carriers with a fine wrist-watch, and on behalf of the City of Peterborough Mayor Hamilton will give the highest-ranking thirty a "Key to the City" as a memento of their distinguished service. S. D. Allies Slash Deeper Into Sicily

8th Army Crosses Three Rivers Hemming Catania

By LOUIS HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 20—(AP). — Canadian and American forces stormed into the heart of Sicily against tottering Italian resistance today while the British 8th Army, meeting more stubborn German forces, battered at the gates of Catania on the east coast.

(The Morocco radio last night broadcast an unconfirmed report that Canadian and American troops already had reached Enna, and both that source and radio France at Algiers said a general Axis retreat toward Messina in northern Sicily was under way.)

Canadian troops under Maj.-Gen. G. G. Simonds of Kingston, Ont., after taking captured Pizza Armerina, yesterday joined hands with Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's 7th American Army, that had just smashed into Celtanisetta, for the combined drive on Enna.

Italian forces falling back before the central drive were reported surrendering in numbers so large as to indicate the Axis central defence was collapsing rapidly.

3 Miles From Port.

On the east coast, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army was reported yesterday to have pushed within three miles of Catania against German troops who fought savagely to save that port half-way up the coast of Messina.

His forces aided by parachutists, had wedged into the confluence of the three rivers crossing the Catania plain and had thrown strong bridgeheads across the southern stream to gain control of the estuary three miles below the port.

The British troops were reported to be inflicting heavy casualties on the crack German divisions fighting desperately to avoid being pinned back against Mt. Etna but falling back under the blows of Montgomery's veterans.

(The Paris radio, in a broadcast recorded by Reuters in London, said that Catania had been almost captured several tmies during the last few days but that "desperate Axis counter-attacks have so far prevented the fall of the city.")

35,000 Prisoners

(London dispatches said advices from Allied headquarters indicated Montgomery's forces also had driven to the vicinity of Gerbini, on the

In the marketing of flax the Wheat Boarod pays the producer $2.25 a bushel but in order to keep down the price in Canada of linseed oil and oil cake used for livestock feeding the flax is turned over to processors in Canada at $1.64 a bushel, the Federal treasury absorbing the loss.

With the increase of flax production the Board has had suffcient flax to supply Canadian needs and yet export considerable quantities at around $3 a bushel and has therefore offset some of its loss.

It was urged by some members of the committee that, if production this year is large enough, the Wheat Board pays the producer on the transaction. This profit, they said, should go to the producers.

Nixon Favors New Deal For Labor Class

FORT WILLIAM, July 20.—(CP). —Labor Minister Peter Heenan of Ontario, predicting an extensive program of postwar public works, last night urged support for Premier Harry Nixon in the Aug. 4 provincial election.

The postwar works program "will call for large expenditures and I would suggest in all seriousness that the electors give consideration to that fact and elect a government headed by Harry Nixon who has Northern Ontario, tourists and the fishing business at heart," Mr. Heenan said in an address broadcast over a province-wide network.

There had been great improvement in Northern Ontario highways and roads in the last nine years. Northern residents had "the satisfaction of knowing that you can travel from one end of this coast to the other and practically connect up with the Alaska highway." It was possible to travel from any part of Northern Ontario to any part of Canada or the United States.

At another pont, the Minister discussed the Industrial Standards Act and promised that "now we can proceed to amend and strengthen the Act if needed." If the Liberal Administration were elected, Mr. Heenan said, he proposed to appoint a "strong" board to administer the Act. The board would be composed of men and women in "sympathy with the spirit of such legislation."

Elections Tomorrow

TORONTO, July 20 —(CP)—Elections will be the major feature of the 88th Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. of Canada in Ontario which will convene here tomorrow with Grand Master M. W. Bro. J. A. McRae of Kingston presiding.

Officials said that while there is a large amount of business to come before the meeting, it is more or less of a routine nature.

In the election several high officers will be named. Grand Master McRae will be succeeded by M. W. Bro. T. C. Wardley, Deputy Grand Master, of Elora, Ont.

Canadian Units To Be Named At Early Date

By ALLAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 20 — (CP Cable) —Prime Minister Churchill to-day told the House of Commons that despite some possible security objections, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower had agreed to a Canadian request that "at the earliest possible date" official referfence would be made to the Canadian Forces taking part in the invasion of Sicily.

Since then, Mr. Churchill said, "the fullest tribute has been paid in all public statements here and elsewhere to the valiant and successful part the Canadian 1st Division is taking in this enterprise."

The Prime Minister was replying to a question by F. C. R. Douglas, Labor, who asked, "whether his (Mr. Churchill's attention has been dawn to the statement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada on the lack of recognition of th part played by Canadian troops in the Sicilian operations."

King Wants Action.

Mr. Churchill said he had a "very agreeable exchange of teletelegrams" with the Canadian Prime Minister on the subject "and the misunderstanding for which no one is to blame can now be regarded as closed." He paid tribute to "the rest of the Canadian troops who for more than three years have guarded the centre of the Empire from invasion."

"As I understand it, the point of the Canadian Prime Ministel's remarks was that in the initial draft of the communique prepared by Allied headquarters in North Africa for issue as news of the landing in Sicily could be released, reference was made only to Allied forces.

"On seeing this draft Canadian authorities asked that at the earliest possible date reference should be made to the fact that Canadian forces were taking part in the landing. Despite some possible security objections. This was at once agreed to by Gen. Eisenhower and the initial communique when issued referred to United Kingdom, United States and Canadian forces.

"Owing to the great distance of London from Ottawa and the six hours difference in time between them, information to this effect reached Ottawa from Washington sooner than from London, but this was not due to any slothfulness or want of appreciation on the part of any British authority.

WHY AN ELECTION?

Democratic Countries require Democratic practises. This is the main reason an election is called in Ontario now. Ontario does not want a situation that has prevailed in Germany, in Italy and in several other countries of Europe where so-called elected governments perpetuated their power for the all here-after.

The Conservatives say "Of Course You Didn't Want an Election. Nobody Did, Except Premier Nixon." What a distortion of the truth. Col. George Drew, Leslie Frost and the entire Conservative Opposition in the Legislature along with Harry Nixon and seven other Liberals voted on April 12, 1943 in the Legislature against extending the life of the present parliament one year.

Does that look as if Col. Drew and his party wanted an election?

In accepting the position as head of Ontario Government, Hon. Harry Nixon stipulated that his job as premier of this province should be subject to the expression of the electorate. In other words he did not wish to appear as head of Canada's foremost province without the confidence of the public, he wished to have a clear mandate to carry out the policies which this government has inaugurated. That is only Democratic Practise in a Democratic Country.

ALEX ELLIOTT
Liberal Candidate For Peterborough

Elections have been held in South Africa when her boys were engaged in the North African Campaign. New Zealand voted; Australia is having an election, Northern Ireland had an election and United States had their regular election last fall. Just democratic countries following Democratic practises.

This is as it should be, war or no war, we must maintain those principles for which we are fighting or else lose ourselves in that sort of autocracy which is personified by Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo.

Our Ontario Government has been a good Government. At a time when taxes are mounting and government expenditures high the province of Ontario has blazed a trail in materially reducing costs of Administration and incidentally relieving the burden on your pocketbook.

Alex Elliott has served the riding of Peterborough well he deserves your confidence.

GORE'S LANDING

Dieppe Prisoner Well Treated In German Camp

GORE'S LANDING, July 20 — (ENS).—Captured at Dieppe, Capt. Tommy Archibald, youngest son of Dr and Mrs Archibald of Toronto, has written home some interesting facts of life as prisoners of war.

Mrs. Tommy Archibald and 2-year-old son Tim are vacationing at Lilac Lodge, summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Archibald at Gore's Landing. Mrs. Archibald said that when her husband was first made prisoner of war, he worked in a hospital amongst the wounded in France. Later, with brothers officers, he was transferred to Camp Oflag 7 B in Bavaria, not far from Stuttgart.

According to a Red Cross magazine, there are about 1,800 officers in the Camp Oflag 7 B Capt. Archibald wrote that the men have everything to make them comfortable. On Sunday, there are concerts of gramophone records. Other days they are apparently unshackled for periods of exercise when they play cricket and tennis. They also appear to have some knowledge of recent war news.

The prisoners of war receive a parcel from the Red Cross each week. The officers cook their evening meal themselves, using the contents of the Red Cross parcels. Breakfast and noon meals are provided by the Germans, he said.

For prisoner of war parcels, clothing, food and personal things are forbidden to be sent by outsiders, but games, cigarettes and scores of music, also certain reading material, the latter to be carefully selected, can be sent by people other than next-of-kin. Certain stores have the privilege of sending prisoner of war special articles.

Mrs. Archibald said that her husband was receiving both letters and parcels. In the beginning, she had sent him all clothing as they could not send food. This consisted of socks, sweaters, underwear and toilet necessities. At present, food is sent in the 11-pound parcels which now include tins.

Government regulations now allow 8½ pounds of food in each parcel.

All letters from the prisoners in this camp come airmail and they are allowed to write seven letters a month. The stamps have a large Hitler head engraved on them.

Capt. Tommy Archibald has two brothers overseas. Col. Roger Archibald has just returned to England and Col. Brian Archibald is in Tunisia.

GORE'S LANDING

Farmers Ready To Cut Grain

GORE'S LANDING, July 20 — (ENS) — It is reported that crops from this vicinity have been very good prospects for at least an average yield. Some rust has made an appearance.

Fields of grain along the Cavan Road and Rice Lake Drive are definitely golden brown and farmers are expected to be cutting this week. In spite of a late spring, the farms in the north end of Hamilton Township were nearly all seeded and a few fields in low-lying land were put in buckwheat.

Raspberries are just beginning to ripen and sold over the week-end at 50c a quart box. All gardens look flourishing but could do with some rain.

Personals.

Fishing continues to be excellent. A boatload of three people from Capt. Wilbert Harris's camp ground caught 14 pickerel on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Adams and family, Toronto, are at their home here.

The Guides are to meet on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock and the Boy Scouts also meet Thursday evening with the Sea Scouts from Peterborough.

Dr. and Mrs. Archibald, Mrs. Tommy Archibald and son Tim are spending a few weeks at Lilac Lodge.

Misses Ferris Cheyen and Jean Thackeray of Peterborough spent the week-end at their homes here.

Miss Marjorie Thackeray of Peterborough is spending two weeks vacation at home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. McGaw of Toronto have opened their summer home "Kittiwake."

Mr. and Mrs. Washburn and son John have returned to Akron, Ohio. Mrs. Washburn said that no report of friends in Java has been received.

Farmers' Credit Legislation Gets Revision

By FRANK FLAHERTY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 20—(CP)—Marital and financial difficulties of certain groups of citizens occupied the attention of the House of Commons throughout its long sitting yesterday.

On a bill to revise and extend the provisions of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, the House spent the greater part of the sitting discussing the financial problems of western farmers but broke off for an hour in the evening to consider private bills which mainly related to divorces for citizens of Quebec.

The new Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act rceived second reading and was considered in committee but at both stages it was condemned by opposition members from the prairies as insufficient to meet the debt problem.

70 Divorce Bills

During private bills hour, six measures relating to incorporation of companies and societies were passed through third reading while 70 divorce bills received approval and third reading in committee of the whole and 21 others received second reading.

Protests from opposition members at the summary disposal of these bills and at the fact that Parliament had to consider divorce bills at all came from opposition members.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said that responsibility for passing on petitions for divorce should not be "imposed" on Parliament.

Were it not wartime, he said, he would insist that every divorce bill be considered individually and passed clause by clause in order possibly to force the adoption of some other method of dealing with them.

Opposes System

His suggestion recalled that almost the same procedure was adopted some years ago by his predecessor, the late J. S. Woodworth and that action led to the establishment of a divorce court in Ontario. Now all applications come from Quebec and Prince Edward Island, the only provinces without divorce courts.

The revised Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act will apply to Manitoba as well as to Saskatchewan and Alberta. The original Act, passed in 1934 at a time of depressed farm values to keep large numbers of farmers from being sold out, applied to all Canada but as conditions improved its provisions were withdrawn until it applied only to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The new measure is designed in part to meet the situation created by a decision of the Privy Council which held the Alberta Debt Adjustment Act unconstitutional and threw doubt on the validity of similar acts in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Finance Minister Ilsley, sponsor of the measure, said it was not considered desirable in wartime to reopen the basic issues of the debt problem at a time when it was impossible to predict future conditions.

Under the new measure, the courts will act as authorities in the composition of farm debts instead of special boards of review as under the old Act.

The measure provides for revision settlements of debt made under the Act prior to January 1, 1939, and most speakers commended this as providing an opportunity for re-adjusting earlier unsatisfactory settlements made by boards when they had little experience.

Transport Minister Michaud, speaking for Munitions Minister Howe, disclosed that Canada came to the rescue of British farmers by providing binder twine for a bumper harvest.

Answering E. E. Perley (Prog. Con. Qu'Appelle), who wanted to know why stocks of binder twine shipped west were re-shipped to the east, Mr. Michaud said the British Government had asked for 4,400,000 pounds of twine from Canada and it had been necessary to requisition some from the west. There would be no delay in delivering harvest supplies to Canadian farmers as the manufacturers were producing more.

By a vote of 71 to 33, the House rejected a motion by G. K. Fraser (Prog. Con. Peterborough West) calling for production of all censorship orders and directives but Prime Minister Mackenzie King understood to produce all those which could be made public.

ROSENEATH

Burial Service Held For Ed. J. Counighan

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20 (ENS) —Funeral services for Edward J. Counighan, 45, veteran of World War I and a man who has spent practically his entire life in this vicinity, were held from St. Mary's Church Monday morning.

The late Mr. Counighan, who was widely known in this town and district, passed away at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary W. O'Sullivan, Church street, on Friday last following an illness of several months duration. He was born in Belleville, a son of Mrs. Mary M. O'Sullivan and the late Michael Counighan and came to this town a child with his parents. After attending St. Joseph's Separate School in Seymour Township and Campbellford High School he later went to St. Michael's College in Toronto.

Following several months spent as a clerk in the Bank of Montreal he enlisted as a Gunner in the 6th Battery, 1st Canadian Division and went overseas in 1916. While in France he was severely gassed in action, but after a period of recuperation in England returned to the front to take part in the big drive of 1918. Later he went into Germany with the army of occupation remaining there until 1919.

On returning to Canada Mr. Counighan farmed on the family homestead in Seymour till 1923 and from there went to Rochester where he was employed by the Eastman Kodak Company for several years. For the past nine years he has been employed at H. D. Atkinson's grocery store. His quiet nature and friendly disposition made him many friends and testimony of this fact was seen from the large number of floral and spiritual tributes.

Mr. Counighan is survived by his mother, also one sister, Mrs. F. R. Dennis of Campbellford and one brother, Anthony, formerly of New York City and now with the U.S. Army. A sister, Mrs. Dennis Doyle (Mary) also of New York, predeceased him about ten years ago.

The funeral service was largely attended and requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Joseph P. Collins while the graveside service at St. Mary's Cemetery was conducted in part by Legion members who attended in a body. Bugler Walter Lowe sounded the Last Post and Reveille. Pall bearers were Edward Waters, Kingston; Paul Waters, Norwood; Edward O'Connor, Marshall West of Seymour; Wilbert Ward and H. D. Atkinson of town. The following were honorary bearers, Major J. M. Bygott, C. B. Williams, Garnet Cassan, Bernard Kerr, Harry Redden, Walter Lowe.

Among those who came from a distance to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel LePalm, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waters, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waters, Sr., Norwood; Mr. Paul Waters, Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shannon, Mr. George Dennis, Marmora; Miss Lena Gallagher, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. James Kerr, Mary Kerry, Miss Betty Blute and Mrs. Hugh McGill of Trenton; Mrs. A. Kieran, and Miss Katherine Kieran, Peterborough; Mrs. Agnes Dunlay, Hastings.

Gillis Flays Tories, Grits At C.C.F. Meet

TORONTO, July 20—Any man or woman who says he or she believes in the capitalistic system is either a fool or a faker, Clarence Gillis, M.P. for Cape Breton South, told about 200 persons at a C.C.F. meeting in Danforth Technical School last night.

The Nova Scotian representative at Ottawa addressed the meeting on behalf of three C.C.F. candidates in Toronto ridings, Bertram Leavens for Woodbine, Gordon Ferguson for Beaches, and Flt. Lt. Leslie Wismer for Riverdale. Later he spoke in Maurice Cody School on behalf of Russell Gee, Toronto-Eglington candidate of the C.C.F.

Flaying both major parties, Mr. Gillis told his audience that if they wanted a war every 25 years they should back the present "system." He said that the C.C.F. intends to restore the resources of this country that were stolen from it. The war should be looked upon as the most important issue at present, he continued, and asked those present to produce to the maximum.

HOW TO RELIEVE

PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

"That $60. of yours, Mr. Evans, certainly gets around"

YOU say, Mr. Evans, that you put about $60 a year into life insurance premiums.

Perhaps you've wondered sometimes what becomes of your money.

There's no secret about it.

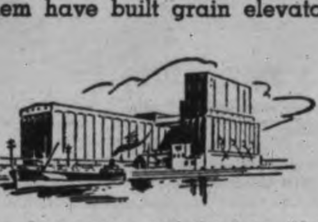
Here's the story, Mr. Evans.

THE assets held by life insurance companies in Canada are the common property of yourself and four million other Canadian men and women.

These assets certainly get around.

Some of them have built docks in the Maritimes.

Some of them have built grain elevators on the prairies.



Some of them have gone into highway building on the Pacific Coast.

For three years, now, most of them have gone to war.

YOU also have a share in Victory, Mr. Evans.

Your insurance companies have put a large percentage of your premium dollars into Victory Bonds for you:

They have just bought 160 million dollars worth of the 4th Victory Loan . . . making a total of 600 million dollars invested in these bonds—because they know that you and everybody else in Canada believes that Victory is the immediate business of the whole nation.

Protection is the people's own business.

You, and four million other policyholders are investing in the security that only Victory will bring.

We hope you have bought some bonds, too.

Worth holding on to, aren't they?

IT IS GOOD CITIZENSHIP TO OWN LIFE INSURANCE

Greetings Between Two Peterboroughs

In our third column today we publish the first of two articles about Peterborough, the English city in Northamptonshire, which have been especially written to convey the greetings of that city to Peterborough in Ontario. The writer is Mr. G. T. Vawser, the Editor of the Peterborough Standard. Mr. Vawser is well known in the Midlands of Britain, for he is Chairman of the Northamptonshire Public Health Committee, and the Soke of Peterborough Public Assistance Committee; (what a "soke" is you may learn from his articles). He is also a member of the Advisory Committee and the Management Committee of the Peterborough and District Memorial Hospital, and is a co-founder of the Peterborough Rotary Club. He is deeply interested in local government, particularly as it affects social services, and his writings on this theme have had a wide circulation.

The relationship between our Peterborough and Mr. Vawser's Peterborough is one of name only, for this city was not founded by settlers from Northamptonshire, and was given its name in order to pay a compliment to its founder, Peter Robinson. But we do not think that anyone will make this an excuse to neglect the friendly gesture which the Peterborough Standard has made. Possession of the same name has often been the pretext for establishing a friendship between individuals; why should it not be equally helpful in drawing cities closer together? Mr. Vawser describes the English Peterborough as "A Go-Ahead City With A Medieval Story"; our own story begins in 1825. But as Mr. Vawser says that the Peterborough of today is a creation of the last century, taking on its industrial bias about 100 years ago, we may not be so far behind it after all.

We hope that our readers will be interested in what Mr. Vawser has to say. In time we shall send an article back to him on Peterborough in Ontario, which we hope will find interested readers in the English city. We have great faith in the effectiveness of such exchanges as a means of increasing friendship and understanding between the various parts of the British Commonwealth. The majority of Canadians have not visited England and will never do so; but that is no reason why they should not take a keen interest in British affairs, and the easiest way to begin is by learning something about a city which has the same name as that in which one lives. The same reasoning, of course, applies to the people of Great Britain. We hope that in publishing these articles of Mr. Vawser's we are starting something which will give pleasure and perhaps profit to both Peterboroughs.

Needless Secrecy

In wartime there must be secrecy about many matters, because if they were generally known the enemy would benefit. But there is always a tendency to extend this secrecy to matters which do not need to be kept secret. The sort of men who achieve minor official positions delight in secrecy, because the possession of secrets increases their importance; there is no good reason why they should be indulged in their folly.

For instance, what reason can there have been to conceal the fact that Canadian troops were in the Sicilian expedition? Why refer to the invaders as "an Anglo-American force"? The instant they met them in battle the Italians and Germans would know that there were Canadian troops in Sicily; no doubt they knew it before we did. What was to be gained by such concealment? And yet it was proposed that the participation of the Canadians should be kept secret.

The Prime Minister protested against this so effectively that the news was released, and although a part of the press has jeered at him for his action we are sure that most Canadians are glad that he acted as he did. Why should London or Washington decide what news we are to have in such a case?

We should not like to see Canada become boastful about her war effort, but we are equally opposed to any attempt to play that war effort down, for any reason save that of military security. It is apparent that in this case there was no matter of military security involved, and the Prime Minister was entirely justified in insisting that the news of Canadian action was given to Canadians.

Mr. Wallace And Mr. Jones

President Roosevelt has made a public example of the Vice-President, Henry Wallace, and of the Secretary of Commerce, Jesse Jones; it is a novelty to see a President spank a Vice-President in public. But Mr. Wallace asked for it; his jangling with Mr. Jones made the administration look silly. He accused Mr. Jones many times of directly obstructing the war-effort; Mr. Jones countered by saying that the Vice-President talked nonsense and sometimes knew very well that he talked nonsense. The press made the most of their antics, and at last the President dissolved the Board of Economic Warfare, thereby depriving his Vice of a job, and took all Mr. Jones' foreign responsibilities from him; he combined the jobs which Tweedledum and Tweedledee had been doing and gave them to Mr. Leo T. Crowley. He also made it clear that if any other departmental heads wanted to complain about the actions of their colleagues they could either do so to him directly or they could prepare themselves to lose their positions. In fact, Mr. Roosevelt made a good job of his clean-up.

It is interesting, however, to notice the way in which the anti-administration papers have taken this move. The President should have acted soner, they say, and he would not have acted when he did if public clamour had not forced him to do so. They claim that although he has cracked down on one section of a governmental tangle, the tangle still exists, and can only be resolved by the establishment of a War Cabinet, containing men of the stamp of Herbert Hoover and Bernard Baruch. In fact, they say of President Roosevelt all the things which a section of the press in this country says about Mr. Mackenzie King. Nothing will satisfy them unless he destroys the party which elected him and finds offices for men who have consistently and bitterly opposed him. The lot of a wartime leader is much the same in any country.

Allusions To The Bible

The Cape Times, of South Africa, writes pessimistically about modern ignorance of the Bible. Certainly it is true that people nowadays do not seem to know their Bibles very well, just as they do not know their Shakespeare very well. A few generations ago culture was confined to fewer people, but it was deep; now it is spread, and it is painfully thin.

But our African contemporary fears that soon references to "Egyptian darkness", "Massacre of the Innocents", and allusions to Rechabites, Laodiceans, Ichabod and Mizpah will be completely lost on hearers and readers. It quotes the case of the lady who thought that Dan and Beer-Sheba were man and wife, like Sodom and Gomorrah. In fact, the Cape Times takes a gloomy view of the situation. We do not entirely share that view.

We do admit that ignorance of the Bible is widespread. How many readers, for instance, know that "the land of Nod" is a quotation from the Bible, and not from a nursery rhyme? How many of our labour orators, who talk of "grinding the faces of the poor", know that they are quoting Isaiah and not Sam Gompers? Does the sergeant who shouts "Rise and shine" at his men know that he is misquoting from Holy Writ? When we speak of "gall and wormwood", "the signs of the times", "sour grapes", and "old wives' tales" (which should be "old wives' fables") can we place our quotations?

We have been rebuked before this for commenting on the literary excellences of our Authorized Version, and omitting to mention its spiritual beauties, but we can only say that literature is our business, and spiritual affairs are not. Therefore we shall urge the Bible upon you as a book of mighty phrases and thunderous cadences. A thousand ring in the mind. "I have been a stranger in a strange land". "But the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot". "The wife of thy bosom". "A dreamer of dreams".

And what book can speak with equal, bitterness of bitter things? "My desire is ... that mine adversary had written a book", cries many a politician, unaware how petty his afflictions are compared with those of Job, who first uttered that cry. And "As a dog returneth to his vomit, so a fool returneth to his folly".

If for no other reason, the Bible must be read for its educative value. Many people neglect to read it, but they will learn in time what they are losing, and will mend their ways.

Peterboro, England Greets Peterboro, Ont.

By G. T. VAWSER
(Editor of the "Peterborough Standard" England)

PETERBOROUGH, England, welcomes the opportunity to greet Peterborough, Ontario, and to enhance, by an exchange of articles, the natural bond of a common name. Several people of our Peterborough have personal acquaintance with your Peterborough but it is probable that the war has had the effect of weighing in your favour the number from your Peterborough who have been to see us. Some have been guests at our Rotary Club luncheons, and it is to be hoped that all have felt themselves to be among hospitable and helpful friends.

The purpose of this article is to tell you something about our Peterborough here in England—something of the main lines of its long story, as you might like to hear it if you were here on service or on a quick visit. Well, to begin with, our Peterborough is not a big place as populations go. The census of 1931, the last taken, credits the municipal borough with a count of 43,558.

We number many more than that today.

HAPPILY for us, we are not overshadowed by any big, or bigger, town. Standing astride, as we do, the boundary where the East Midlands of England end and the great Fenland of East Anglia begins we are well and truly clear of the encroaching tentacles of suburban London. Norwich is 80 miles away to the East, Leicester 40 miles to the West, Lincoln 50 miles to the North. All the immediate intervening places are very much smaller than our Peterborough and we can thus look abroad in any direction with an assured feeling of easy predominance in population to which we add a conscious sense of superior importance, territorially and industrially!

One finds by contact with visitors what tenacious persistence there is in the traditional idea of the general make-up of a Cathedral city. It runs something like this—you have your Cathedral and round about it narrow streets, quaint byeways, old houses full of a bygone atmosphere, and many other kindred legacies from distant days. Well, that doesn't fit our Peterborough of 1943.

OUTSIDE the area of the Cathedral and its precincts we can just about muster a dozen buildings which carry the mind back beyond the middle of the nineteenth century. The old Town Hall, poised on pillars, on the Market Place belongs to the days of James I, and in the open space under the assembly chamber a butter market was held from that time until the present war shepherded nearly every food commodity inside the stockade of Lord Woolton's control. There are, besides, the fine parish church of St. John, the old Customs House on the river bank near the town bridge (and now most fittingly the headquarters of our local unit of Sea Cadets), the old parish workhouse of pre-Reform Act days (now almsrooms), a house of wood reputed to have been built of materials marketed from the demolition of a five-miles' distant camp for French prisoners-of-war captured in campaigns against Napoleon, and here and there remains of period domestic architecture.

Generally, however, the Peterborough of today, apart from the Cathedral and its precincts, is a creation of the last century. After the Dissolution the external features of the monastic establishments crumbled and, in the course of time, there grew up another type of community, freer and more individual. Peterborough emerged as a small market centre for the increasing agriculture which, on the Fen side, derived great impetus from wonderful drainage schemes initiated in the sixteenth century—and still imperatively essential.

IT was when the railways came rather less than 100 years ago that Peterborough took on an industrial bias. It became then a railway centre of national importance with two stations, one on the East Coast route, King's Cross to Edinburgh; the other linking up the Eastern Counties with the Midlands. Main lines fanned out in no fewer than five, and many more, subordinate directions and large marshalling yards and locomotive departments were established. This brought a new element of population: a sturdy body of railway men progressively minded and politically conscious. As time passed railway facilities tempted engineering firms to settle here and in one form and another engineering is, today, the largest individual source of employment. In general it is engineering of medium weight, precision standards, and great diversity. This makes for stability and equilibrium of employment and Peterborough does not experience either extreme booms or acute slumps.

It may not be thought that agriculture has been ousted or even deposed. Quite the contrary is indeed the welcome fact. It still is a constant and enormous mainstay in our business life and the three-day summer show of the Peterborough Agricultural Society, the Foxhound Society, and the Harriers and Beagles Society is the paramount combination of its kind in this country.

There you have the fiscal components of the Peterborough of today: agriculture, railways, engineering, the attributes of a lively marketing and distribution centre, and the professional classes which go with diocesan, local government, scholastic, and hospital administration. We are, in a word, mainly an industrial centre with illustrious tokens of great mediaeval glory to be proud of but today standing detached and apart from the general run of life.

British Falling Behind

The racial composition of the population of Canada, as shown by the census of 1941, revealed that one out of two persons was of British Isles origin, roughly one person in three was of French origin, one out of six was of other European descent, one of every hundred was Asiatic, and a similar proportion, Indian and Eskimo. Compared with 1931, the distribution showed a slightly lower proportion of persons of French racial origin. Actual percentages of the total population in 1941 by groups, with percentages for 1931 in brackets, were as follows: British Isles races, 49.7 (51.9); French, 30.3 (28.2); other European, 17.8 (17.6); Asiatic, 0.6 (0.8); Indian and Eskimo, which included half-breeds on reserves in 1931 only 1.1 (1.2). A comparison of the net changes during the past decade showed that persons of British Isles origin increased in numbers from 5,381,071 to 5,715,904, or by 6.2 per cent. The population of French origin increased from 2,927,990 to 3,483,038, or by 10.8 per cent, and other European races rose from 1,825,252 to 2,043,826, a gain of 11.9 per cent.—Brandon Sun.

Letters To The Editor

PUBLIC LAVATORIES

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—Would you be generous to allow me a small space to say a few words for the benefit of the long-suffering public?

Is there any good reason why the public lavatories at the Ball Ground should be kept closed while there is ball games in progress, and not only at such times but during the progress of semi-religious and political meetings, and apparently at all times when most needed. This condition places a mother with a small "Bambino" in a rather serious position when she has to take her baby back into the swamp to avoid public gaze.

Why not place a man in charge for the summer months? I heard an American lady say she never saw such a condition except in Peterborough.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

ANSWER TO MRS. BARRIE.

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—Allow me to write your paper to comment on Farmer's Wife's letter of last week. Now just why did you pick on the price of milk? Why not on something else, say—apples for instance. I paid 20 cents for four apples, and apples should be cheap, and you don't have to get up at 5.30 in the morning to grow them; and berries, of which there is an abundant crop—50c a box; and the farmer's wife is always harping about not having enough sugar for canning, and you get 5 lbs. per person more than we do, and there should be more farm stuff to substitute with, and can do with less sugar. And ask most any farmer's wife how she is getting along on the butter ration, and the answer is, "Oh, alright; I have plenty. I churn." Sure she hasn't any fault to find with the Government there. And about the cream off the top of the milk bottle—why shouldn't the city folks have it when they pay for the milk; and besides I have yet to go to the country that I didn't get a good meal, thanks to the farmer and his wife, and that I didn't have cream in my tea and lots of it. And for fuel he won't need to worry this winter as there is lots of forest. And don't lose any sleep over the city folks making a lot of money as we have to work hard for what we get.

There is plenty of gold on the farm if the farmer will just dig down far enough and get it, and in conclusion I would say, I don't dare to class all the farmfolks in one category as the majority of them are good, honest, hard-working people, but there are the few who are always complaining; if they had the world they still wouldn't be satisfied because there wasn't a fence around it. And now when the world is at war, why don't the discontented farmer, who can find fault with everything but himself, get into the game and pitch and don't bring a pinch-hitter in to bat and expect him to win the game for him. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your paper. I am,

CITY DWELLER.

Sandburg, The Experimenter

SANDBURG'S first appearance before a college audience was in January, 1920, when at the invitation of Clude Tull, head of its English department, he went to Cornell College, Iowa. Sandburg admits now that $100 fee offered for the engagement "looked big as the moon." On that trip he took his guitar, and after reading his poetry for nearly an hour, he said, "I'm going to sing for you now. That's what I would be doing if I were at home this evening, and if the whole audience walks, out, I'll be at home." He strummed a few notes and began to sing about a race horse named Bill, such a song as the staid old chapel at Cornell never had heard. His audience loved it, and he went on to "Jesse James" and other old-time favorites, Negro and steamboat songs and songs of the harvest fields.

Students who had come expecting to find a pale and fragile poet were astonished, then delighted. Here stood a tall, rangy man with iron-gray hair and with a deep weather-lines in his face, a man in a blue serge suit a bit baggy at the knees, a light-blue shirt with a frayed collar and a nondescript cravat, a man whose shoes could have used a shine. He looked a little ill at ease, exactly as the students would have felt had they been in his place, and more important, he spoke a language that every corn-fed son and daughter of Iowa understood. The next week the college paper said, "He stood before the people, calm, serene, recognizing their brotherhood ....no tricks of the entertainer....vigourous, stimulating...."

The singing as well as the reading was a tremendous success, and thereafter Sandburg always sang folk songs for the latter part of a program....

All through the 1930's, program committees squabbled and searched their souls, deciding which of his three lectures to ask for: "An Evening with Carl Sandburg," "American Folk Songs and Folk Tales," or "Romanticism and Realism in American Life and Letters." The committees wasted their time. For they were arguing about the man who once had written an essay on "good fooling" in his first Lombard University book. They were arguing, too, about a journalist to whom the present fleeting moment at any hour of any year is always the most important in all history. For Sandburg admits now with a grin that, no matter what the title, he always delivered very much the same lecture.

Of late, too, Sandburg, the tireless experimenter, has been trying his hand at a new kind of "platform appearance," or a variation of an old one. He calls it "the living book" and envisages in it a combination of the human voice reciting poetry with symphonic light effects and special music—not incidental music, but music that plays a major role. He sees this work performed against stage settings in shapes and colours that create moods, illusions, and play upon the emotions of listeners.—From "Carl Sandburg: A Study of Personality and Background," by Karl Detzer. (New York: Harcourt, Brace.)

Balanced Balderdash

In the welter of muddied political thinking which prevailed before the war an exasperated reader once intervened in a correspondence on appeasement running in The Times to ask in effect what the devil it all meant. Confronted with the pompous advice that we should lose no opportunity for coming to terms on a reasonable basis, he wanted to know where was the opportunity, what were the terms and what was the reasonable basis. Advised to re-draw the map in accordance with the legitimate claims of political and social justice, he asked for the exact meaning of "legitimate," "political justice," and "social justice." The effect of this intervention on the output of empty phrases and formulae was nil, and the case went to the arbitrament of the sword.

It cannot be said that four years of war have done anything to lessen the obscurantism which expresses itself in popular catch-words, shallow platitudes, hollow principles, unverified assumptions and facile conclusions. Not long ago The Times solemnly advised that what was required for the solution of a particular problem was a balanced consideration of the relevant factors. Only the extremely philosophic or extremely addle-pated can stand this sort of thing at breakfast-time. The ordinary sentient being with average control of his feelings is apt to stalk the room demanding wildly who the blazes ever advocated an unbalanced consideration of the irrelevant factors, whilst an agitated spouse says, "Yes, dear. Yes, dear, but sit down and drink your coffee."

"Balanced" is an operative word with these phrase-mongers. They are continually calling for a balanced order, a balanced economy, a balanced agriculture, a balanced distribution of the population, under the firm impression that this statement of the problem is equivalent to a solution of it, the task of filling in the concrete details being one that can be left to menials.—(G. L. Schwartz in the Nineteenth Century.)

"Did you see the pleased expression on Mrs. Thorne's face when I told her she didn't look any older than her daughter?" said Mr. Morse after the reception.

"No," said Mrs. Morse. "I was looking at the expression on the daughter's face."

A Bible Message

In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you....

Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?

Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. (John 14: 2, 5, 6.)

These words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee: as thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him.

And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent. (John 17: 1-3.)

And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life. These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that we have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God....

And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given him that is true, and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and eternal life. (I John 5: 11-13, 20.)

Reg. Johnston, technical expert of the Department, says in a preliminary report: "Our requirements were that such a unit must operate the 95-horsepower motor at 60 per cent of the quality and quantity of gasoline. Actually it is developing better than 70 per cent."

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ETGLAND, July 20 — (CP). — Chances are that the Demon Squadron in the Coastal Command is going to be credited with another submarine "probably destroyed." It was a big one, overtaken and attacked with depth charges in the Bay of Biscay early in June.

Pilot for the attack was FO. Casey Walsh, Victoria, B.C. His navigator, extra important in the Coastal Command, was FO. Benny Goodman of Edmonton. Other crew members were Flt. Sgt. Mike Wright of Kenton, Man., Flt. Sgt. Chuck Cohan of Toronto, and Flt. Sgt. Hal Cordell of Russell, Ont.

"We were about 300 miles out when we sighted the sub," said Goodman. "It was surfaced, but I think they saw us first and it started to dive when we were a mile away. We saw it through a hole in the cloud at 1,100 feet. We dived and dropped our depth charges over the sub at 60 feet."

The boys went over the spot to take pictures of oil and air bubbles on the water.

Goodman used to be a laboratory assistant at the University of Alberta. Wright drove a truck back home, and Codell and Cohan were both bakers' boys in civilian life.

Sgt. W. M. Cowie of Rosetown, Sask., and Sgt. F. Lovelace of Winnipeg fly together as gunners in a Marauder assigned to attack shipping off North Africa. They both have a giant six-engined German transport aircraft to their credit, result of a single flight in which they attacked three of these ME323 north of Corsica.

Cowie, turret gunner, trained his guns on the transport flying on the starboard side of his Marauder formation. The enemy was practically a sitting target and Cowie said "I saw the tracers bouncing off the engine." In 15 seconds the plane started to crash to the sea.

Meanwhile Lovelace had opened fire on the leader of the transport formation and set some of its engines ablaze. It too crashed on the water, and a few minutes later the Marauder crew saw 30 survivors in the sea.

A North Africa-based Marauder squadron of the R.A.F. in which many Canadians are serving has its motto taken from the Koran. It says: "I spread my wings and keep my promise." So far they have kept their promise to the extent of destroying eight enemy aircraft, and damaging several more.

The Canadian air training establishment soon will have new members of the Indian Air Force as pupils, the first to be trained in the Empire plan. They include Sikhs, Hindus, Moslems, Parsees, and Anglo-Indians.

WESTCLOX GIRLS CONTINUE WINNING WAYS WITH 33-9 VICTORY

Watson Defeats Hogan In Wild Melee

There was more fighting in Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling show at the Summer Gardens Monday night than the Italians have done since the Allies landed in Sicliy.

The semi-final bout between Irish Pat Flanagan and the rowdy Bunny Dunlop wound up in a battle royal with Flanagan and Referee Phil Lawson ganging up to slug it out with Dunlop and toss him out of the ring after the Toronto bad man had been disqualified for attacking the referee.

And Housepainter Hogan almost caused a riot by atacking Whipper Billy Watson after the British Empire champion had climbed into the ring preparatory to start the battle for the second fall. Watson was still wearing his bath-robe when the Coast grappler plied into him and he was knocked down and kicked repeatedly before Referee Lawson could get into the ring and pull Hogan away. The unexpected assault weakened Watson badly and he was an easy victim when the bout was resumed. But the Housepainter's action in starting hostilities before declaring war cost him dearly in the long run for Watson was a ball of fire when he came back after the second fall and he lost no time in winding up the battle.

The Whipper took the first fall in eleven mniutes, Hogans' premature burst gave him the second in 2:30 and it was all over when Watson floored the rowdy sailor in 4:30 minutes.

The fans saw a different Watson last night. There was no chance for the fast, clean stuff that he showed against Flanagan for the Housepainter was out to make it a dirty brawl and the Whipper was quite willing to meet him on his own ground. The result was a thriller-diller of a bout.

There was action all the way during the eleven minutes that preceded the first fall. Both grapplers had a turn in putting on the pressure and Hogan complained that Watson's shoulders were greased when the Whipper easily broke a full Nelson. At one stage the two battlers forgot wrestling altogether and exchanged elbow slams and rabbit punches. Hogan kicked the Whipper out of the ring once and when he tried to climb back punched him out again twice. Watson finally jumped from the ropes and almost floored the rough-house artist from the coast. He managed to get away from that one but a little later Watson got a chance to apply his famous whip and he tossed the Housepainter around with two or three of his Sunday pitches before flattening him for the fall.

A Surprise Attack

The storm broke when the Whipper came back to the ring ready to start the battle for the second fall. Hogan was standing just inside the ring at the top of the steps and as the Whipper, clad in his bathrobe, climbed through the ropes and started for his corner the Housepainter suddenly sailed into him with both fists flying, knocked the champ down and proceeded to kick him repeatedly. Referee Lawson came down the arena on the run, climbed into the ring and pulled Hogan away from the prostrate Watson. The Housepainter claimed that the bell had rung to start the round and got away with it despite the statement of official timer F. C. Scates that the starting bell had not been sounded. Watson was in difficulties when the bout resumed and Hogan after flooring him hard with a series of body slams had no trouble in taking the fall in 2:30 minutes.

When the warning bell sounded for the final bout Hogan was again first back in the ring and complained because Watson was slow in responding. "I am not going to wait here all night" the coast grappler shouted. When the Whipper did appear he took no chances. Instead of using the steps to get into the ring he walked around to his own corner and climbed in. Hogan tried to rush him before he was ready but Watson swung around in time to floor the Housepainter with a hay-maker to the jaw and that was the beginning of the end. The Whipper was out for the kill and he gave Hogan a rough passage for the next minute or two and finally got a chance to use his new Canadian avalanche hold for the fall that meant victory. That cartwheel finish to a step-over toe hold flattened the Housepainter in a hurry.

Goes To Toronto

PITTSBURGH, July 20—(AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday optioned Frank Colman, 25-year-old rookie outfielder, to Toronto of the International League under a 24-hour recall agreement.

William F. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh club, said Toronto has asked for an outfilder to replace Maurice Van Robays, whom the Pirates recalled last week.

Colman hit .276 in 30 games with the Pirates. He is scheduled to report to Toronto Thursday.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Both the Combines and Switch Gear will be on the well known spot when they meet tonight at Riverside Park in a City League game. The two outfits both need a win. The Combines have to come down in front or find themselves out of the running for the top berth. On the other hand the Switch Gear must win if they are to have a chance to make the playoffs. Both teams will be at full strength tonight, with so much at stake. The last time out the rivals battled to a tie and there is no doubt that tonight's affair will be a torrid tussle. The cheques are down now and with the playoffs in sight it is a case of cooking with gas for both teams if they hope to get anywhere. While nothing official has been given out from either headquarters it is believed that Freddy Elliott will do the throwing for Andy Delpellaro's Combines while Manager Murphy Chambers will probably pin his faith on Bert Harrison. The game is billed to start at 7 o'clock sharp. Tomorrow night the 4th Battery and the Cardinals will clash, with the former needing a victory to keep pace with Soldiers and Genelecs in the battle for the top run.

One of the best battles of the season in the Girls' Softball League is billed for Wednesday night when the old rivals the Westclox and Aircraft teams will clash for the fourth time this season. The Big Bens defeated the Aircrafters in the first two battles of the season but in the third meeting between the two they battled to a 7-7 draw and the fans are still talking about that struggle. The Big Bens who signalized their return from their holiday layoff last night by defeating Electrics 33-9 have not been beaten this season but Aircraft made it decidedly close the last time out and the girls from the C.G.E. are hopeful that they will be able to hand the Westclockers their first loss of the campaign on this occasion. Norma Srickland will be the pitching choice for Aircraft with A. DeCarlo behind the bat while the Big Bens will probably start Marg Watson against the second-placers, although Manager Pat Hayden may decide to use Isobel Bullock on the hilltop with Beryl Dobbin catching. Both clubs will dig up their strongest battle arrays for this argument and it looms as the best girls' loop attraction of the year.

Plaudits For Robson

Although Lex Robson failed to grab off the Millar Trophy for the seventh time Saturday, the superb shot-making of the Kawartha Club pro has earned him plenty of favorable publicity. For example Bobby Hewitson in the Telegram pays Lex this tribute: "It's always mighty nice when the favorite comes through and wins. So it was mighty nice when Bobby Gray, who has given up a lot of his golf time to sell coal—but still has enough time to keep his golf mighty sharp—came through in the Millar Trophy final at Islington Club on Saturday by one up over Lex Robson, Kawartha Club, Peterborough. But in singing the praises of a winner, the praises must also be sung for the loser. Lex Robson is not as young as he used to be when he was master of all he surveyed hereabouts in pro golf. The "dogs" that carried him around Islington for three days must have been burning when he started that afternoon final against Gray. And burning still more as the afternoon went on. Every inch of the way he held his own with Gray. That is every inch until they left the clubhouse at the 15th tee and headed out toward the northwest and territory that would settle the 1943 honors."

* * * * * *

And says Gordon Walker in the Star: "Ironically, it was Robson, the methodical man from Peterborough, who supplied a large gallery with the highlights of the match. It was Gray, big, husky and colorful, who found himself playing in the shadow of the master-golfer—after and to, certain points in the most exciting final in the history of the tournament. We were told that ice-water flowed, instead of blood, in the Robson veins. It's not hard to believe after seeing the way he came back after going two down in the first eight holes. Four holes later, Lex was one up and the pressure, which was considerable had shifted to Gray. Although the decision didn't swing Gray's way until later, most gripping drama of the day was unfolded in Robson's wizardy from the ninth to 13th."

Two Wild Brawls

Frank Tunney's wrestling card at the Brock Street Summer Gardens produced two of the wildest brawls of the season. Whipper Bill Watson won the main bout by taking two falls against one from Housepainter Hogan but the Pacific Coast battler, a seasoned and sturdy performer turned the tussle into one of the most torrid seen here when he jumped Watson as he came back into the ring after the first fall. That surprise attack enabled the Housepainter to square the match but it also paved the way for his downfall for the usual smooth Watson left all the fancy stuff in the dressing-room and turned killer. He sailed into Hogan at top speed and the Housepainter must have thought he was turned loose with a wildcat. It was soon over for Hogan had nothing to meet that kind of an attack and he fell victim to the Watson specialty, the Canadian avalanche. And Al Bunny Dunlop was meaner than ever in his clash with Pat Flanagan, so cantankerous indeed that it finally lost him the decision. Incidentally Peterborough fans are hoping that Promoter Tunney will send the rowdy Dunlop into a bout soon with someone big enough and clever enough to give the rough-house artist a real ride. He has lost his last couple of bouts by being disqualifed but the fans want to see him taken apart. Earl McCready might be the boy to do that very thing if Tunney will match the Aurora farmer with Dunlop.

The veteran Connie Mack modestly admits that his Athletics are the only club in the American League that has no chance to lift the pennant this season. He has been talking to Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star and here are his views: "There are seven teams in the league right now who have a chance of copping the flag," he said. "Mine is the only club which is out of the race. We are in last place and that's probably just where we'll finish. I've some pretty good young ball players but they are spread too thin to make us a threat. Admittedly the Yanks are the team to beat. They have been out in front almost from the start. McCarthy has a pretty good pitching staff and the club isn't too bad defensively. But what the Yanks of this year lack is power at the plate. Charley Keller, just fresh off the injured list, is the only really good distance hitter they have. True, Joe Gordon may start to swing in the groove again one of these days and Bill Dickey can be dangerous even if they have to take him up to the plate in a wheel chair. But they are feeling the absence of such fellows as DiMaggio and Henrich and Selkirk. For the first time in years the Yanks are not getting their runs in clusters and the pitchers are knowing for the first time how it feels to have to pitch under the pressure of trying to hold on to a one or two run lead."

Electrics Make Many Costly Errors

Westclox girls came back to the softball wars Monday night after two weeks vacationing and started in about where they had left off, walloping Electrics 33 to 9. The Big Bens were a bit shy of practice but soon got rolling and the score piled up.

Marg. Watson started the pitching duties for the winners and a new addition to the pitching staff, Viola McLean took over after the fifth and finished the game.

B. Stinson went the route for Electrics and stayed by her guns in spite of the hard hitting of the Westclockers and costly errors by her supporting cast.

Westclox got three in the first half of the first but Electrics came back in their half to tie it up. Marg. Watson's control was shaky in that frame and a single by V. Martin and passes to Jean Edgar, Thirza Romanoff, Phyllis Sullivan and Elsie MacKenzie, with an error, gave Electrics a trio of runs.

However Westclox struck back hard in the second when a walk to Aggie Anderson was followed by singles by Viola McLean, Isobel Bullock and Marg. Hawthorne, a triple by Eunice Armstrong and a one-baser by Beryl Dobbin for a total of five runs.

They were blanked in the third but took the game wide apart in the fourth when they pushed eleven runs over the plate. In that hectic frame both Marg. Hawthorne and Beryl Dobbin scored twice, the former having a double and a triple in the one inning. It was a disastrous session that left the Electrics down 20 to 3 by the time they finally retired the Big Bens.

Thirza Romanoff came through with a homer with Jean Edgar scoring ahead of her in the Electrics half of the same inning, but that was the last scoring for the losers until they produced four counters in the ninth on singles by Thirza Romanoff and Ruth Oakley, an error and a homer by Elsie MacKenzie.

Westclox were quiet in the fifth after their big scoring splurge but they came back with another big inning in the sixth to score seven more runs, added a single in the eighth and wound up with five markers in the ninth.

Marg. Hawthorne sparked the Westclox attack with seven hits and as many runs while Thirza Romanoff had a homer and a single in three trips to the plate for the Electrics.

Stan Musial, Card Outfielder, Leads National League Parade To Batting Crown

(By Central Press Canadian)

St. LOUIS, July 17—Once a star southpaw pitcher, young Stanley Frank Musial, now an outfielder with the St. Louis Cardinals, is on his way to the National league batting crown.

Musial, who won't be 23 until next November, always has been noted as a hitter and once led three leagues in batting, although he failed to get official recognition because he didn't stay long enough in any one of them to merit consideration.

Currently leading the National league parade, the Donora, Pa., star of the world champion Cards appears a good bet to carry on until the end, for he has demonstrated he can't be fooled consistently by any type of pitch. Baseball observers claim he has no weakness at the plate, treating all pitchers alike.

Musial has proven he isn't a flash in the pan when handling the stick. He had a terrific year in the minors in 1941; hitting for a hefty .379 for Springfield in the Western association in 87 games, then socking the ball for a .326 clip with Rochester in the International league and finally belting the sphere for a .426 average in 12 games with the Cardinals late in the season.

In his first full season last year, the Polish lad from the Pennsylvania coal fields hit for a respectable .315 average in 140 games.

Musial began his career in 1938 as a pitcher with Williamson, W. Va., in the Mountain States league, embarking on a pro career right out of high school. He won six and lost six his first year and came back with nine wins and two losses in 1939.

He next moved to Daytona Beach in the Florida State league and became the star of the club, winning 18 games against five losses. In addition he hit .311 at the plate.

In 1941 he was put in the outfield at Springfield and he began to murder Association pitching. He blasted 26 home runs besides hitting for .379.

Musial is a lefthanded batter and thrower. He stands an even six feet and weighs 175 pounds.

SOLDIERS MAKE SURE OF PLAYOFF BERTH BEATING CARDS 7 TO 2

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 20 —(CP) — A couple of weeks ago this corner solemnly told its readers that sport is dead in Canada. Edwards promptly had his ears pinned back by a couple of writers who jovially tossed him to the lions. Now, like little Albert Ramsbottom, Edwards is back from the lions' den and ready to see what the tigers can do.

The "sport is dead" column had its moments— good and bad. Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star labelled the writer "the cassandra of the CP." Jim Burns of the London Free Press admitted most of the big International and National Classics are gone but countered with "we've revised our values of sports competitions during the war, chiefly due to the fact that there's more local competition going on than there has been for years ....And we kinda think the music of local contests is much more beautiful to hear than the clicking of the turnstile.

Speaking to the affirmative, Bill (Moncton Transcript) Hutchinson dubbed the "sport is dead" column "a bit of sport wisdom" and Edwards could have cried on Bill's shoulder—he was that happy.

Moncton, apparently, was one of the first to feel the "kiss of sport death." Hutchinson says sport died there immediately after the outbreak of war and that the death rate throughout the Maritimes was something terrible to see.

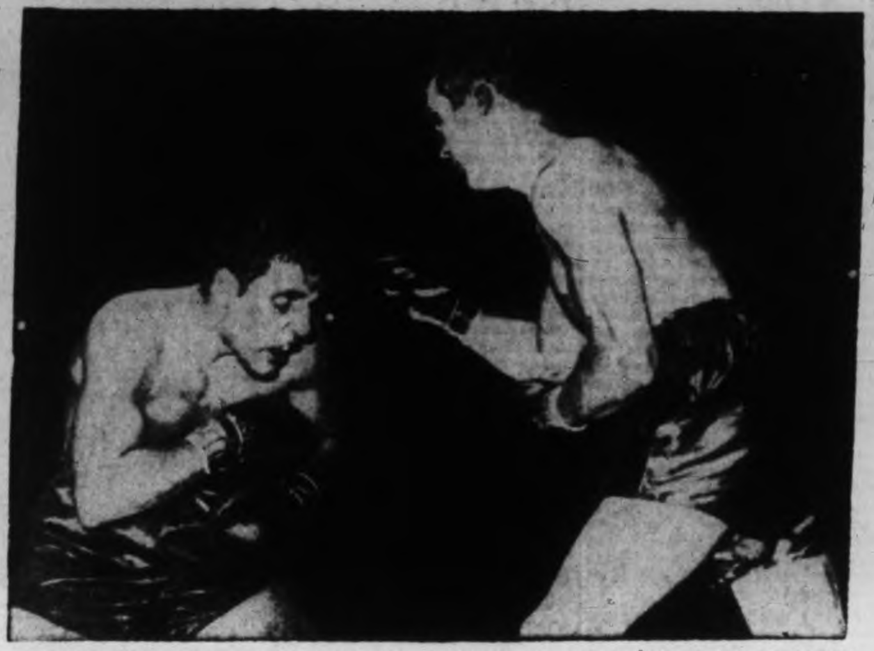
Ken Johnson of the Owen Sound Sun-Times commented: "Sport has been dying on its feet in this land of ours for a long time and not just due to the war either. One suggestion made to us was that this is due to the fact that men and women are preferring to participate in sporting activities themselves rather than watch other men or women working their heads off to entertain a crowd."

Herb Manning of the Winnipeg Tribune trod the middle road, conceding Edwards was half right. Herb agreed the topline attractions of sport have been shelved "but the little leagues, the general purpose games are booming"— Sports like softball, soccer, cricket, boxing. These games have seen a revival in Winnipeg.

So there you have the reactions. In claiming sport is dead, or nearly so, this column referred only to those major spectacles— the box office attractions— which are generally considered to be the sports one writes about or goes to see.

Edwards now goes on vacation for two weeks. Perhaps friend Basil will remark: "and it's about time."

Zivic Wins Return Bout With Jake Lamotta



Snarling like an angry panther, Jake Lamotta carries the fight to Fritzie Zivic in a 15-round return bout at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa. Zivic, who lost a decision in their first meeting a month ago, was declared the winner this time.

Victory Gives Soldiers Seventh Win

Soldiers wound up their City League schedule Monday night by outscoring the tail-end Cardinals 7 to 2 and thus the Military Training Centre made sure of at least a tie for first place in the standing. Monday's night's win was their seventh in ten starts.

Both outfits were short-handed Dalton, McKerringan and Taylor were missing from the Soldier lineup and Tony McIlveen had to do the catching, Anderson looked after third and Lenahan took over short. Cards were without Bill Anderson, their new pitcher and Kay who played second the last time out. The result was that Don Isaacs had to shift from shortstop to do the hurling and two gaps in the infield had to be filled up.

The Cards, nowever, managed to make a game of it despite a shaky start. Isaacs who was not hit hard except by Sandulak who had four for five, was wild on the go-in and the result was the Soldiers were 5 to 0 ahead at the end of the third. The youngster settled down after that and blanked the winners for the next four innings only to yield two more runs in the eighth.

Jack Wilson pitched for the Soldiers and although he issued five passes he kept the Cardinals' six hits well scattered, no two to an innings and might have had a shut-out if it had not been for a two-run wild pitch in the sixth.

The fielding feature was a running catch of a pop fly in short left field by Quigley, Cards shortstop who dashed out and made a neat grab.

Tom Parsons, Soldier centre fielder was chased out of the game by Umpire Batley for crabbing over a decision at first base.

Soldiers started with two in the first. With one away Sandulak beat out a tap and McIlveen and Parsons walked to fill the bases. Huck Herrick's single over short scored Sandulak and McIlveen but Mason struck out and Wilson rolled to Isaacs.

With one out in the second Morgan doubled to left and after Anderson had hoisted to Quigley for the second out Sandulak got a pop fly double back of first to score Morgan.

In the third, passes to Herrick and Mason with a series of passed balls and wild pitches gave the Soldiers two more. After that they were blanked until the eighth.

In that frame Lenahan walked to the difficult corner. Sandulak beat out a roller to Quigley for a hit, Lenahan scoring. McBain dropped McIlveen's fly to centre. Sandulak held second and McIlveen also pulled up at that base.

In the rundown that followed Anderson scored but McIlveen was caught between first and second and Sandulak was doubled trying to go to third on the play.

Cardinals only runs were scored in the sixth. With one away Doughty drew a pass and Greatrix singled to left, Doughty going to third and the hitter to second on the throw-in. When Wilson uncorked a wild pitch Doughty scored and Greatrix also registered when McIlveen's toss after fielding the ball was dropped.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 20 —(AP) — Senor Don Forrest Cox— better known as Frosty Cox, Colorado U. basketball coach—recently received this letter, written "with some intrepidation" by Jaime Muruci, a recreational director in Barcelona, Spain .... "I should be very happy if you could find time to send me any magazine, periodical, or rule book which, in your esteemed judgment, might help me in my work or attempting to popularize basketball of which I am a fervent admirer."

Stark madness.

It wasn't in Brooklyn but in Charleston, S. C., where a 14-year-old batboy set a record of some sort recently by getting himself bounced from the ball park a-la Leo Durocher .... President Nolly Sams of the Charleston Municipal League reports that batboy "Nellie" Strong of the Stark Hospital team became so peeved at a decision that he rushed the ump, pounded his chest protector with his fists and then backed off and challenged the arbiter to come on and fight.

To-day's guest star.

Johnny Mooney, Sale Lake Telegram: "President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers doesn't believe in playing baseball on Sunday, but from the way his bums are floundering, it appears the flatbush flock does not believe in playing baseball any day of the weeks."

Service Dept.

When Shortstop Eddie Mart of the 170th Infantry team at Fort Sill, Okla., tried to twist out of the way of a fast pitch the other night, the ball struck his hip pocket .... "Ouch," shouted Eddie, "they bit me." .... and sure enough it was his own crockery molars, parked there for safety's sake, that put the bite on him.

Prefight gossip gave the Welshman little chance against the Detroit Negro, but Farr crossed would-be critics by staying 15 rounds although he lost the decision.

New York Yankees Are Hot; Johnson Tops Sluggers

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Yankees are not the old-time Bombers but they're up to their old-time tricks — trying to break the back of the American League in the middle of the season.

When they swing back into action tomorrow after the usual two-day layoff that precedes intersectional series in the major leagues this year they will be nursing an eight game winning streak, the longest of the topsy-turvy campaign.

An eight-game string in itself is not overly important but it is worth noting because at this time last year the Yanks were in the midst of an 11 game streak that quashed any question about their finishing on top of the American League.

They now have won 12 of their last 13 games and this has been sufficient to stand of the ambitious Washington Senators, who won five of their last six games and still lost ground.

Aside from the very creditable pitching, the biggest factor in the Yankees' mid-summer heat wave has been the slugging of Rookie Bill Johnson.

The young third baseman hit a three-run homer and four singles Sunday to climb right into the middle of contention for the runs batted in laurels in the American League.

Nick Etten, in the best first-base tradition of the Yankees, has been at or near the top in run production all along and now is leading with 58. By batting in four Sunday, Johnson bounced into second place with 57 and may be the first rookie to drive in over 100 runs since Ted Williams broke in with 145 in 1939.

If he touches this peak Johnson will rate consideration for the ephemeral honor of rookie of the year.

The major leagues will resume play tomorrow with a heavy program of 11 games, including three doubleheaders, but the Phillies and Pirates in the National League will get a jump on their rival tonight with a night game at Pittsburgh.

Bisons Wallop Wings 6 Times

(By The Associated Press)

If Buffalo Bisons could play Rochester Redwings often enough they would have a good chance of being first instead of seventh in the International League.

In their last eight games the Bisons have beaten the Wings six times and they usually can count on help from the Wings, too.

Last night, in the only game scheduled in the circuit, Buffalo came up with a 4-2 triumph with the combination of three singles, a wild pitch and an outfield error that produced three runs in the fourth inning.

The wild pitch was made by Kemp Wicker, the losing pitcher, who also suffered from a bad throw by Earl Naylor.

Mike Roscoe was the winner and after a shaky start when the Wings scored twice in the first three frames he settled down to pitch two-hit no-run ball over the last six stanzas.

The only Rochester player who apparently wasn't awed by the Bisons was Red Schoendienst, the league's leading hitter. He obtained a double and a single.

Combines Lace Lakeshore Team

MIMICO, July 20 — Mimico-Brampton Combines won an exciting senior lacrosse game, 21-8, over Lakeshores at Mimico last night. Bill Brunskill was the leading scorer, notching seven of the winners' tallies. George Graham, five; Bill Arthurs, three, and Scoop Hayes, three, were other leading scorers for the winners. Norm Gair was held well in check and was only able to gain two of the losers' goals. Tommy Love also got two goals with the remainder divided among the forwards.

Combines held a 5-2 lead in the first priod and increased this to 10-4 at half time. Combines continued the attack in the third period and increased their lead to 18-5. In the final quarter Lakeshores took on new life and gained three goals, but the Combines also gained three to give them a well-earned win.

Drew Demands New Head For Health Dept.

MIDLAND, July 20—"Drastic and sweeping reorganization" of the Ontario Department of Health, with a doctor at its head instead of a lawyer, as at present, was promised here last night by Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew, speaking in the Midland Arena Gardens at the party convention which nominated Dr. John McPhee as candidate. This Simcoe East riding was represented in the last Legislature by the Progressive Leader himself, who in the coming election will contest Toronto-High Park.

Mr. Drew pointed to the high ratio of rejections of men for the armed forces because of physical defects as a stern warning of the urgent need for protection of the health of Ontario's children, the citizens of tomorrow.

Health insurance for all people, dental and medical supervision for those of school age were promised. "Surely the figures of army rejections should constitute a stern warning that in this country of limtless opportunities for assuring health, one-third of all those examined for the military forces have been registered as physically unfit.

100,000 Turned Down

"In Ontario alone more than 100,000 young men have been turned down because they were below the minimum physical requirements for military service. If that figure is reduced to dollars and cents it will be seen that we can save hundreds of millions of dollars by the expenditure of a few millions on a real health program which will build the health of our children so that they will be fit for the job of life.

"In the light of that situation let us examine the present Department of Health. There is no department of the Provincial Government so in need of drastic and sweeping reorganization as the Department of Health.

No Medical Experience

"The present Minister of Health has had no medical experience whatsoever. He is a lawyer. We might just as well have a doctor as Attorney-General. The results, however, would not be nearly so serious. The strange fact is that a man who is completely lacking in the essential qualifications for this highly specialized task does not bother to consult the great medical specialists we have in this Province.

"As an example, he introduced a bill creating a new cancer fund during the last Legislature although cancer research foundations are in existence in different parts of the Province.

Effective Direction

"This is the sort of thing which has been going on at a time when effective direction of the Department of Health has been shown to be one of our most urgent requirements.

"That situation will be corrected immediately when we come to power. The Department of Health will be placed under a doctor who enjoys the confidence of the medical profession, and will immediately organize our health measures upon a basis that is governed by the welfare of our people, and not by political expediency.

plain 13 miles west of Catania and one of the most important island air bases still in enemy hands.)

Thus in 10 days since the initial Allied landings, the invasion forces had brought a third of the island under control from Porto Empedocle to the southern coast of Catania on the east. Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, also reported that prisoners taken by the Allies now number 35,000, with Canadians holding at least 5,000 and probably 7,000. The Americans have taken 23,000.

The capture of Enna would split the enemy's front, since that ancient city is the hub of all railway and highway communicatoins in Central Sicily. It would be a tremendous step toward exploiting the advance in the centre.

It would top off the Canadian advance that to date has rolled through many towns, including Pachine, Rosilini, Ispica, Modica, Ragusa, Palazzolo, Vizzini, Grammichele and Caltagirone.

Praise Canadians.

Rewarding their efforts, yesterday's Allied communique praised the Canadians for the manner in which they had fought their way north with "skill and determination in difficult country." One unit had pushed ahead through the mountainous region at the amazing pace of 20 miles in a day.

Examples of Italian capitulation were witnessed by Jack Barnett, veteran movietone news cameraman, who wrote in an article for The Associated Press the Italians simply could not face the smashing combined infantry-artillery assault. He said he saw hundreds of Italian soldiers streaming down from hillside villages and vineyards where they had been hiding, waving their arms frantically in surrender.

In a tour of the front, Barnett reported, he encountered thousands of the surrendering enemy at road junctions, all trying to be friendly and asking for rations and cigarets.

The Italians want to live, he wrote, and have no desire to die either for Mussolini or Germany.

Red Advance

Ilinskoye is only eight miles north of the important Orel-Bryansk railway and only 18 miles northeast of Karachev, an important railway junction which has been heavily bombed in the past, the Russians said.

The Russian drive around Orel was being assisted by guerilla activity. The irregulars, the communique said, launched a surprise attack on one German garrison and captured a large village. A company of Germans was annihilated in the fighting and the guerillas seized a number of guns and other war material.

Blow Up Tanks

The bulletin also credited Soviet engineering units with playing a large part in the present advance. The detachments have blown up hundreds of tanks and about 200 motor trucks in the Orel section since July 5, it said.

The communique reported continuation of light scouting activity in the Belgorod sector at the southern end of the 165- mile battle line.

Northeast of Novorossisk in the Caucasus the Russians said they blocked a German counter-assault launched in an attempt to gain a hill captured by the Red Army. One German battalion involved in the battle lost 300 men in the machine-gun and hand-to-hand fighting.

On the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow the communique reported that reconnaissance detachments attacked German positions after artillery preparation, capturing prisoners and war material.

Action on the Leningrad front was confined to artillery and mortar fire, resulting in the destruction of German guns and blockhouses. The bulletin added that Red Army snipers killed 73 Germans.

Robber Enters General Store In 2 Villages

ROSENEATH, July 20—(ENS)—A double robbery occurred in Roseneath and Fenella early this morning when a thief stole about $25 from Brown and Welsh's General store, Roseneath, and then proceeded to Fenella where the General Store operated by Gordon Jewell and the Post Office were ransacked, the latter losing $40.

L. E. Downs of Roseneath, who was up at 2 o'clock because of sickness, heard a car and went outside. He watched the thief in the store saw him come out and take keys and work at the gas pump. Then his wife came out and frightened the man away. The store window had been cut with a glass cutter in what is reported to be a professional job, and Mr. Downs watched the robber drive away in a grey coupe. The money taken at Roseneath was not in a safe and represented the receipts from the sale of radio licenses. One report indicates that this coupe may have been stolen from Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock on Friday night.

At 4:15 this morning a man believed to answer the description of the one who made the break-in at Roseneath entered the General store and Post Office at Fenella by means of cutting a hole in the plate glass window. No one heard the glass go and the thief forced open the cash drawer in the Post Office and took $40. The robbery was discovered by Stanley Hutchinson who heard the man driving away. He put a call through the Telephone Exchange which is operated by Mrs. Jewell and thus sounded the alarm.

The thief abandoned the car he used at Roseneath in Fenella. Constable Adair of Cobourg was called to investigate the break-ins.

Nixon Opposes Radical C.C.F. Program

PORT ARTHUR, July 20 — Turning his attention to the C.C.F. for the first time in the campaign, Premier Harry Nixon last night told Port Arthur and Fort William audiences that the C. C. F. would seek to socialize land if elected to office in Ontario. They would not be able to socialize the mines, because Provincial jurisdiction is limited. But they could go ahead with their plans in connection with land.

"I am absolutely opposed to radical socialism," Mr. Nixon said "These newfangled ideas, which sound fine in theory, may prove disastrous in practice. I believe there is an important place for private initiative in our system, and I will fight to my last breath against those who would wipe it out. The next five years are going to be the most important in our history. You need experience at the helm, and the record of the Liberal Government is proof of that experience."

Premier Nixon spoke in the interests of Mayor Charles Cox in Port Arthur and Campbell Hanna in Fort William. He addressed a noon luncheon gathering at the Prince Arthur Hotel, and later spoke to Fort William Liberals. At night he addressed meetings in both cities

"Having had good government in Ontario for the past nine years, why change for some fanciful, socialistic party which has had no experience?" queried the Premier. "The C.C. F. has never had a member in the Legislature, and its candidates are without experience in administration. Surely it is a poor time to change horses in midstream."

Capt. H. A. Oaks, D.F.C., is the Progressive Conservative candidate in Port Arthur, and Fred O. Robinson is the C. C. F. candidate. In near-by Fort William, Mayor Garfield Anderson is running under the C.C.F. banner, and Roy Kirkup is the Progressive Conservative candidate there.

Parliament To Meet Next January 26

OTTAWA, July 20 (CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today gave the House of Commons notice of a motion providing that when Parliament adjourns at the completion of the present session it will stand adjourned until Jan. 26, 1944.

The motion makes provision, however, for parliament to be summoned at an earlier date if it is considered necessary in the public interest.

Expectations are that the sessional business may be concluded this week.

Wants To Go Back Into It

Flight-Sergt. George Calver of Grandview, Man., who though he lost both legs in a giant raid over Cologne, has only one ambition—to get back into service. He is pictured here, LEFT, with Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, when they appeared recently before a large group of Canadian aircraft workers, who make Mosquito fighter-bombers. The air marshal told how Calver had even tried to cash in on his handicap by having his new legs made four inches longer. Doctors had compromised by giving him an extra inch.

ilica, the Formum and the Coliseum. The maps were marked: "Not to be bombed in any case."

"With a specially-prepared targetchart in front of me it was very easy to locate Littorio, San Lorenzo, the marshalling yards and other objectives," Morton said. "I could also look across the Tiber river where the Vatican basked under the warm afternoon sun, well out of the danger zone."

Lieut. Marion D. Jones, flying his 50th mission, said his formation found no difficulty in keeping away from the forbidden points.

Many Catholics.

"We thought we'd have to be very careful to hit only military objectives," he said, "but there was nothing to it. We saw Vatican City about five miles across the river from the railroads and the industrial regions."

Many of the airmen who participated were members of the Catholic faith. Some acknowledged they were worried about the religious angle, but others saw the city as a perfectly legitimate target.

They reported there was evidence that the Italians had taken steps to protect some of the landmarks against a possible raid. The columns of the Trajan Arch of Titus and the Cascades which are ornamented by Bergini sculptures appeared to be encased in heavy concrete.

Anti-aircraft fire was moderate to heavy, pilots said, but inaccurate.

2,000 Reservists In M.D. 3 Get No Vote At Camp

TORONTO, July 20. —(CP) — Members of reserve units in Military District No. 3, with headquarters at Kingston, who leave for camp at Connaught Rangers on July 25, will not have the opportunity to vote in the coming Provincial election, Major Alex Lewis, Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, declared last night.

About 2,000 men are affected. Date of the Provincial election is August 4.

Major Lewis said the situation is caused by reason of the fact that official nomination day in Ontario is not until July 28 — three days after the reserve units have gone to camp.

Ballots cannot be printed until after the official nominations, Major Lewis said, and it is therefore impossible to allow the men to vote in advance polls.

Reserve units from Military District No. 2, with headquarters in Toronto, and Military District No. 1, in London, may vote in advance polls on July 31. On the following day they leave for camp.

"Prior to July 28, nobody will have been nominated officially," said Major Lewis. "The so-called nominations which they already been held are just selections by political parties of candidates who will be nominated on July 28. On that date we can begin to prepare the ballots with the names of the candidates printed on them. Members of the reserve units from Toronto and London will be able to vote in the advance poll on July 31, because the ballots will have been prepared by that time."

Although he could give no detailed estimate, Major Lewis said that several units were involved in the Kingston military district.

To date the boys and girls, in three Saturdays' time, have sold a total of $323.50 of War Savings Stamps, which is more than enough to fill 3½ "ashcan" posters. Their work, colorfully supported by the old fire truck, will continue till the end of the drive.

Refrigeration Solves Army Supply Problem

The important part contributed to the war effort by refrigeration and by dehydration was pictured for the benefit of members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel, Monday, by W. Smallwood of Toronto, member of the C.G.E. Engineering staff.

Introduced by Rotarian Roy Girven, Mr. Smallwood told Rotarians that refrigeration had to be called up on to a great extent in the invasion of North Africa where the matter of feeding the Allied armies was a problem. The speaker told how special refrigeration rooms, gasoline-powered, had been constructed and placed on every ship of the convoy, filled with frozen foods. The apparatus was kept running all the way over with the result that the United Nations had their food in perfect condition when they arrived in Africa and the refrigeration rooms could be used on shore afterward because they were independent of power plants.

Mr. Smallwood stressed the fact that electric refrigeration was being used in many phases of war work, with the result that production was increased and the number of scrapped parts materially cut down. For example it had been found that aluminum rivets used in aircraft manufacture soon became hard but the problem had been solved by keeping them in cold storage by refrigeration with the result that they remained soft indefinitely. Refrigeration had also been used to remove the bottle neck caused by hot shell cases and in many other industrial processes. It was proving especially valuable in testing war material. Internal stresses in shells were detected by exposing the shells to 40 below zero temperature, then placing them in a hot steam bath and quickly back again to the 40 below temperature.

In regard to dehydration of foods, Mr. Smallwood said that the process was attaining a huge development in Canada. Production in 1942 had been four times as great as in 1941 and the indications were that the production this year would be sixteen times as great as last year. These dehydrated foods were practically all for export and the result was that where 50 per cent of the ships in a convoy used to be loaded with food, dehydration cut the percentage down to 10 per cent.

"Five tons of dehydrated orange juice," said the speaker "would take care of the needs of the people in the British Isles for two weeks."

One factory in Ontario alone was dehydrating two million eggs a week, the speaker said.

There was a great difference between dehydrated foods and the old time dried or evaporated foods. The former were foods from which practically all the water was taken under a controlled process; the latter were foods from which part of the water was driven under a process that was not controlled. The result was that the old-time dried apples still contained 25 per cent of water. Army specifications for dehydrated foods called for 3 per cent water content, Mr. Smallwood said.

"Dehydration is a war baby," said Mr. Smallwood "but there is no doubt that it will be heard from after the war."

In conclusion the speaker declared that the next development of refrigeration may be the heating of houses through refrigeration machinery. Experiments alo tion machinery. Experiments along that line, he said, had already been worked out.

Rotarian W. R. Morris expressed the thanks of the club to the speaker. President M. H. Riddle was in the chair at the luncheon.

By JEAN STENTON

GEORGE FYFFE, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fyffe, who formerly lived on Murray street here, covered himself with glory during the Allied invasion of North Africa when he shot down two enemy planes. Fyffe is with the R.C.N.V.R. and was serving aboard a merchant ship taking supplies into the Allies when they were heavily attacked by enemy planes. During the battle his Oerlikon gun brought down two of the machines. But this did not end the gunner's exciting experiences. Just as they were putting into port an enemy torpedo hit them amidships. There was a bad explosion and four men were killed and several injured, but the ship was brought into port.

More than a year ago, A.B. Fyffe was torpedoed in the North Atlantic. It happened just as he was getting into bed and the shock of the torpedo threw him into a corner of the room. When he opened the door, a gush of water pushed him back to the wall. After he finally made his way to the upper deck he was washed overboard. He swam back and was one of the last to leave the ship.

This sailor has been at sea for 28 months and his mother is living in Ottawa at the present time while his father is working for the Post Office department in England. Fyffe has an older brother serving in England too. While the family were here, they made their home with Mrs. F. Redpath, who now lives at 641 Water street.

Maybe you've seen airmen wearing red cap flashes similar to the white cap flashes which designate aircrew around here lately. Here's what it's all about. Men posted to a manning depot awaiting posting to initial training school for aircrew training have been issued the flashes. Many of the boys have been doing ground duties in the R.C.A.F. for a couple of years, now are remustering to air crew. They wear the red flashes.

Air Cadets awaiting posting to a manning depot are wearing them too. Those are the lads who have enlisted for aircrew, but who haven't actually entered the R.C.A.F. yet. They're waiting for an opening at manning depot.

It isn't difficult to distinguish between an R.C.A.F. man and an air cadet. Cadets have no lapels on their uniforms, instead they wear tunics which button right up to the neck. Instead of the albatross shoulder badge, air cadets wear the number of their cadet squadron.

Another boy safely arrived overseas is P.O. AUSTIN HUYCKE, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Huycke of Norham. He received his education at Warkworth Continuation School and Campbellford High School.

P.O. Huycke joined the R.C.A.F. in June, 1937, taking a course as a mechanic. In the spring of 1942, he remustered and trained as a pilot. He received training at Camp Borden, Trenton, Yorkton, Sask., Winnipeg, Regina and at Dauphin, Man., he received his wings and commission.

The Canadian Legion is doing fine work in bolstering the morale of the men overseas in the opinion of CPL. WILLIAM WHEELER, who said that none of the boys relished the prospect of facing a post war era such as existed for untrained service men at the end of the last war. The education program which the Legion has been sponsoring has made a decided appeal to the soldiers, he said, and they feel, that like the Russians, they have something very worthwhile to fight for. Actions such as this are preventing bread lines in 1950, Cpl. Wheeler wrote.

Life overseas holds plenty of interest for the girls of the C.W.A.C., according to L-Cpl. GRETTA PEEL, whose sister, Mrs. A. A. Cummings, lives at 639 Gilchrist street. One of the biggest events of recent weeks was when ALICE PRUNER, also of Peterborough, was married. The girls may be serving in the Army, but they still retain their feminine interests.

"Mrs. Pruner sent Alice her wedding dress and cake and the girls said it was a pretty wedding. I did not go as I had to take over her week-end duty. She was married in white satin and it was an all Canadian wedding. It was the first in the little country church where she was married. Some of the C.W.A.C.'s formed a guard of honor and they managed to make her husband almost a nervour wreck before she appeared. Her brother, who was best man, eased the situation by telling him he was sure she was not going to come.

"Alice had a bouquet of cornflowers, bluebells, forget-me-nots, blue iris and pink carnations, roses and tulips. The bridesmaids were all cream, yellow and variegating to red. The bridegroom was so nervous that he wouldn't trust the best man to carry the ring to the church for fear there would be a slight hitch. He gave it to him there and of course the girls got quite a kick out of it."

L-Cpl. Peel mentioned meeting GORDON LANGTON of Peterborough while he was on a leave. She said that in spite of her duties they managed to visit Madame Taussaud's and the Hammersmith Palais de Dance. She said that Gordon was champing at the bit to get into action and he belongs to a crack squadron, and when both of them get boasting of their respective units they are "out of this world."

"We had quite a few raids from Jerry a few weeks ago and with my usual luck I was on Fire-picquet. Picture to yourself a peaceful silent room—broken only by the sound of 16 different snores (there are 17 in our dormitory). Then comes the shrill wail of our minnie and I am on my way to the corridor complete with greatcoat and steel helmet, to defend the second floor front. There three of us sat on the floor and took turns saying things about Hitler, and the girls in the dorm say we were in good form.

Also mentioned in her letters are ELMER CUMMINGS, a brother-in-law of Mrs. A. Cummings, and JOHN FAWCETT of Buckhorn, and she said they were well and enjoying their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tompkins, 483 George street, were advised today that their son, LIEUT. TED TOMPKINS, had been granted his captaincy. Captain Tompkins enlisted with the 4th Anti-tank, went overseas, and returned to take his officer's training course at Brockville. He graduated last August 8, and his progress since that time has been rapid. Before enlisting for active service he received a long service medal for service in the reserve army. H was formerly employed in the C.G.E. machine shop, and has now been posted to another anti-tank unit in Canada.

Court Puts Boy On Probation

Wearing the uniform of Canada's reserve army, a 15-year-old Havelock boy stood in the docket in juvenile court this morning and pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a Havelock residence and stealing a gasoline ration book.

The accused had been arrested on Monday night as he was preparing to attend a parade of his unit.

Provincial Constable Archie Grayling said that in addition to the gasoline book, a beer ration book and 22 cents in money had been stolen. However, neither the money nor the beer ration book had been found on the accused when arrested.

D. F. Miller, Havelock, who appeared for the boy, urged suspended sentence. Magistrate Langley pointed out, however, that breaking and entering cases were not the kind of cases for suspended sentence.

However he finally agreed, with the concurrence of Acting Crown Attorney F D. Kerr, K.C., to let the boy go on probation of good behavior for two years, his mother going on the bond.

Yonge St. Bazaar Nets $9.14 For War Victims

Saturday seems to be the biggest choice of the young folk on which to hold outdoor events on behalf of the Peterborough and District War Victims' Fund, for almost each week-end since the school holidays began has seen such an event by some group or other of school children.

This Saturday past, a Bazaar was held in the southend of the city at 637 Yonge street, by Joyce Mein and Florence Phillips, where they sold canned goods, orangeade, soap, pudding powders, and books, and had two other side features in a fish pond and a bingo game, all of which realized the sum of $9.14, which is credited to them today.

In the earlier days of the fund, this neighborhood took a considerable part in raising money to help the people who had suffered through air raids over Britain, and both these girls had a hand in similar previous events, which is all the more to their credit, since a good cause such as this deserves a continued interest until the need no longer exists.

Young as these folks may be, this is the day and opportunity when they can do something to help along the war effort particularly in this manner, and in the years to come, from the experience they have thus gained they must indeed profit themselves, besides then being able to say they had taken a part in helping overcome this great danger that had threatened the whole of our present day civilization.

Each Saturday also is usually marked by some effort or other on the market and from this source there are two donations to record, first of which is the proceeds of a draw held on a coffee percolator donated by Harold Coleman, which netted the sum of $5.20 through the sale of tickets by Annie Blackburn, Gwen Cooper, Mrs. V. Sweeting and Patsy Martyn. The draw for this was made by Air Woman Louise Spriggs, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), who was in the Examiner Office at the time, and resulted in ticket No. 912 held by Mrs. George Beebe of Bailieboro being the winner.

Then, this week, Annie Blackburn, Gwen Cooper and Patsy Martyn acted as sales clerks at the stall for a few small variety of articles, among which were some eggs donated by Mrs. J. E. Parker, which added another $1.75 and included 25 cents handed over by Mrs. F. W. Gray for a few flower plants she had disposed of from her garden. The secretary of the fund would be glad to hear from any individual or group who would like to utilize the stall on this next or any other Saturday for the purpose of raising money for the fund.

Hospital Plan For Community Has Approval

The current campaign sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, to introduce the Plan for Hospital Care to the Community of Peterborough has the whole hearted support of the Board of Trustees and officers of the Nicholls Hospital. Those associated with the work of hospitals know that the cost of hospitalization is very great when considered in the light of the average person's ability to pay although it may be small considered in the light of the contribution the hospital makes to the life and well being of the individuals who need hospital service.

The Plan for Hospital Care is an attempt to establish on as broad a basis as possible a scheme whereby the average person may provide against the contingency of a hospital bill for himself or herself (and also for his or her family if desired) by paying a small sum monthly. The Plan does not attempt to supplant schemes already in existence but merely offers a service to individuals and families not covered by these schemes.

Groups as low as five in number may include themselves in the Plan. The cost for the individual for a contract covering public ward care for 21 days is 50 cents per month or for his or her whole family including all children up to sixteen $1.00 per month. The cost for a contract covering semi-private ward care is slightly higher, 75 cents per month for the individual or $1.50 for the whole family. These contracts cover not only room rates but nearly all etxra charges except X-rays.

There is no physical examination. All diseases are covered. There is no disqualification for pre-existing diseases. Maternity care however, is only covered to the extent of one half the hospital bill after a twelve months membership. Otherwise there is no waiting period. The only requirement is that the member be one of a regularly organized group of five or larger who wish to join the plan as a group. In groups over 25 only 40 per cent need join to make the group eligible.

The Plan was established in March 1941 by the Ontario Hospital Association and now covers over 200,000 people in Ontario. Similar Plans cover over 10 million people in the United States. The rates and benefits of the Plan are approved by the Department of Health for Ontario. These benefits cover hospitalization in any part of the province and also in other provinces or States up to the level of the cost of hospitalization in Ontario. The Board of Administration serves without pay. Hospitals are paid at their regular rates only for those members of the Plan who receive its services. The Plan has shown itself to be sound financially and is prepared to take care of a more than usual incidence of hospitalization.

"City Slickers" Visit Farm To Pitch Hay

Warden P. J. Mather of Otonabee drew two temporary helpers whose willing spirits were ready to fortify sinews unaccustomed to the steady toil of harvesting.

One of them was H. H. Graham of the staff of the Collegiate Institute and Ronald Acres, a foreman of the Canadian General Electric Company, separately decided to devote holidays to helping some farmers get in their crop.

Warden Mather happened along when these two recruits were available, and they went out early this morning with Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, for a few days on that farm and then on to some other.

If there was a full corps of capable civilians like Mr. Acres and Mr. Graham willing to spend some of their spare time helping farmers bring in the heavy harvest there would be a sharper rural inclination to believe the urban affirmations of interest.

Hang-Over Of Hay.

Farmers are busy cutting fall wheat and things are getting out of hand, especially with substantial remnants of the hay crop sticking out here and there when it should be all cut and tucked away in barns or at least in stooks.

The job was big and tough enough for normal times with the accustomed hired help, but in this season of block-busting treatments of Mussolini and Hitler farmers raked up as much as they could and then drove on to the next chore, cutting and binding of the fall wheat.

A little rust is reported here and there in these stands, and the crop is generally satisfactory, not quite so large as was expected a few weeks ago, but, quite a substantial yield Combines will probably not be called into action for another week or so.

Nineteen Helpers

G. A. Gillespie reported this morning that he had lined up nineteen men for evening work Monday, but found work for only seven.

"Some farmers that might have used their service for a few hours did not have any work for them," Mr. Gillespie said. "They had cleared up everything on hand late on Saturday and there was nothing left over for Monday. Then, a few others didn't want to work in the evening However, we apprecaite the response of the nineteen, and their willingness to help."

Several of the seven who were placed for the evening, helped bring in six or seven loads of hay and did not get back to the city until 11 o'clock. They enjoyed a substantial lunch after their evening's work, were delighted with their reception at that farm, and said they would be glad to go anywhere if they could be of help.

Ask Information On Request Of City Council

Before the Police Commission will take any action on the request from the city council that the accommodation in the city lockup be refused to prisoners from outside the city information will be sought from other cities as to the practice followed there.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the commission yesterday. Members seemed to be at a loss to understand the purport of the city's request. It was pointed out that locking up outside prisoners in the police cells involved little or no expense and any meals that were served were charged to the prisoner or if he had no means to the outside municipality.

It was also pointed out that county jail governors would refuse to accept prisoners without a warrant of commitment.

Magistrate Gee said that the practice was in Lindsay to allow outside officers to lock up their prisoners over-night in the town police cells.

At the suggestion of Judge S. L. Smoke, who said traffic conditions at the corner of Park and Charlotte Streets should be improved, the attention of the Chief Constable will be called to the fact that southbound drivers on Donegal Street are making a practice of crossing Charlotte Street against the red light, and action will be asked for by the police to stop this careless habit.

Chicken Thefts Result In Jail Terms

Six weeks imprisonment in the county jail was the sentence imposed on Amos Lindsay, Burleigh township and his brother Leslie Lindsay, Wilberforce, Haliburton County by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. for stealing 14 chickens and a turkey from Hiram Terril, Chandos township. The two had previously pleaded guilty to the charge.

Provincial Constable Lloyd A. McClure gave evidence in the case of Leslie Lindsay today. He said that Lindsay had been arrested by Provincial Constable Wallace Hendren of Minden in a wood camp in Haliburton and that the officer had found a considerable amount of chicken meat at Lindsay's home as well as a quantity of chicken feathers and bones burning in a home-made incinerator. The tires of Lindsay's car corresponded with tire marks found near the scene of the theft.

Officer McClure said that Leslie Lindsay lived about 60 miles away from where the poultry had been stolen and that his brother lived about ten miles from the scene.

John A. Bradshaw, counsel for the accused, called Morley McDonald, Apsley store-keeper, to give character evidence in the case against Amos Lindsay. The witness said that Lindsay had a good reputation for honesty in the community and that the accused had been a hard worker.

Mr. Bradshaw asked for suspended sentence for Amos Lindsay, remarking that although he had gotten into trouble thirteen years ago he had rehabilitated himself since then and had been living a straight life. He reminded the court that there was dire need of man power in the country at the present time.

"This chicken-stealing must be stopped," remarked Magistrate Langley. "It boils up every two or three years."

His Worship announced that he would sentence Lindsay to six weeks in jail to date from July 10.

When the case of Leslie Lindsay was being dealt with a previous conviction in 1939 was shown.

"I think the two should be treated alike," said Acting Crown Attorney V. J. McEldery, K.C., and accordingly six weeks imprisonment to date from July 12 was ordered.

Restitution of $24 was made to the owner of the chickens, the money being made by the wife of Leslie Lindsay.

Lions Purchase 2 Depth Charges

Billy Edgar, outstanding War Savings Stamp salesman among Examiner carrier boys added new laurels to his selling record on Monday night when he was guest at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Lions Club, and sold the members sufficient stamps to purchase two depth charges, each costing $90.00.

Introduced by Fred Cripps, the young fellow explained the campaign that is now underway in Peterborough and added that Examiner newsboys hoped to sell 34 depth charges. Each member volunteered to purchase $5.00 worth of stamps and as there are more than 40 members in the club, this salesman should collect in excess of $200.00. The thanks of the club for the talk on the stamp drive was voiced by Ed. Bent.

Hurrell Dodds reported on progress being made at the Wading Pool and stated the club was indebted to A. L. Killaly of the Trent Canal and Royal S. Spicer, manager of the Ontario Marble Company for their interest and cooperation in facilitating the work.

Stan Darling reported that a new feature, namely pony rides would be added to the Lions' Carnival at the end of the month, and this innovation should find favor with the children. Fifteen draw prizes will be given this year, and five will be drawn on each of the three nights of the carnival.

VOTE FOR A NEW DEAL FOR ONTARIO

There is only one possible vote for thinking electors in this election.

To vote Liberal in Peterborough means to throw away a vote on an absentee candidate for a puppet edition of the Mackenzie King government.

To vote C.C.F. means to throw a vote on a candidate whose party announces an All-This-and-Heaven-Too policy, so vague in its details and so wide in its promises that its own exponents cannot explain it, a policy that if it means anything at all means regimentation and the killing of individual enterprise.

A Progressive-Conservative vote is a vote for an all-out prosecution of the war so far as Ontario is concerned and for immediate planning for the post-war period to take care of the thousands of Ontario men and women in the armed services and the thousands more who will be released from war industries.

YOUNG FOLKS SHOULD PRAY FOR SPOUSES WITH BRAINS, HUMOR.

Yet College Quiz Shows Most Want Money Beauty Above All Else for Matrimony.

In an effort to find out something about the matrimonial ideals of the younger generation, a questionnaire has just been sent out to the students of a large co-educational college asking them what qualities they will demand in the men and women they marry.

Of course, in these hysterical war days, when everything from the cradle to the grave seems matrimonial material and boys and girls are rushing to the altar with strangers they scarcely know by sight, the choice in husbands and wives seems to be the old maids prayer: "Send me anybody, good Lord, anybody."

But given a chance to sit down quietly and think it over, the yonugsters' expression of their hearts' desire in a mate as shown by this quiz would be alarming if one did not remember that practically no one marries according to previous plans and specifications. Some girl with a come-hither look in her eyes, or some lad with a way with him comes along, and all the fine practical theories are gone with the wind.

Youths Rate Money High in Marriage Quiz.

Anyway, it is disconcerting to find that apparently the modern youths and maidens are more concerned about the state of their pockets than they are of their hearts, for almost without exception both sexes rated money as the most desirable quality in a husband or a wife. The girls all wanted to marry millionaires, preferably young and handsome ones, but anyway millionaires. They also wanted their husbands to be good dancers and to have a taste for night clubs and stepping out, but the main consideration was the bank roll.

The boys also considered marriage from the financial standpoint and considered that the most alluring charm that a girl could have would be to possess a father who had worked so hard his son-in-law would not have to work at all. But they were a trifle more demanding than the girls and wanted their Miss Moneybanks to be not only rich, but beautiful and glamorous, a happy combination, as it were, of the banker's daughter and a cinema starlet.

Curiously enough, so far as this survey went it showed that not one of the young people of either sex demanded brains in their mates. Nor did they take into consideration the temperament and disposition of those with whom they were proposing to spend the balance of their lives. Neither did they apparently give a single thought to the matter of congeniality and whether they had the same tastes and habits and would be able to coo together like turtle-doves, or be predestined to fight like cats and dogs.

Youths Ignore Most Essential Qualities.

But the qualities that these boys and girls in their blindness overlooked as nonessential in a husband or wife are, in reality, the only ones that are important, while the things that they propose to marry for are the ones that soonest turn marriage into cinders, ashes and dust.

Take money, which the girls believe will secure their felicity, yet the one thing that money will not buy is happiness. It will not buy love, nor tenderness, nor understanding, nor consideration. No woman is satisfied with a husband who is nothing but a meal ticket and a charge account. Hearts break under brocade as well as homespun. Some of the most homeless women in the world own a dozen houses. Look at the number of divorces among the multimillionaires and you will see how far money will go in purchasing domestic bliss.

And look at the men who marry for money. Not even the grace of God can keep the poor husband of a rich wife from looking and acting like a pet pup. And feeling like it, and from wanting to bite the hand that feeds it. Also the man who marries for beauty makes an equally foolish bargain because he is bound to lose out in a few years. And when his wife has lost her looks, what has he?

The girls did not ask that the men they marry have intelligence, nor did the boys look for that in their wives, yet if a girl marries a man with brains, he will get her the money she craves, and if a boy marries a woman with intelligence, she will have charm left after her beauty has fled.

Nor did the youngsters consider congeniality, yet nine-tenths of domestic happiness consists in husbands and wives being able to yes-yes each other instead of being in a perpetual argument. The people whose society we enjoy, with whom we can talk endlessly, who double our every joy and halve our sorrows, are those who are sympathetic with us, not those who rub our fur the wrong way.

If young people were wise, instead of asking for money and beauty when they marry, they would pray Heaven to send them husbands and wives who have plenty of grey matter in their heads, who have a well developed funnybone, and who like the same kind of pie that they do.

For Wednesday, July 21.

An auspicious time for seeking the substantial approval as well as influential support of those in place and power for the purpose of putting over original or audacious plans. Although this co-operation may be secured yet there may be many obstacles to overcome, not only by practical and sound efforts and push, but by resistance, and shrewdness and demonstrating the constructive worth of past performances and experiences. Be alert to duplicity and peculiar snares.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a desired opportunity of cashing in on past performances. These may have merit and worth enough to impress those whose influence and substantial support are imperative for promotion. Be vigilant and work with all worthy resources and sound principles for lasting success and security. Safeguard intimate ties and obligations.

A child born on this day may have much sound ability as well as unusual skill, ingenuity, and keen mentality, attracting the support of those in power against obstacles and frustration.

Laabs Changes His Mind In Larcenous Attempt

Chet Laabs, St. Louis centre fielder, hurries back to first after wide-awake Walter Cooper threw the apple to Fletcher on first but not before Laabs. This was the second inning in which Laabs later scored on Doerr's four-bagger, which brought in the only three runs the National League scored. The American League took this contest, the eleventh annual all-star game played in Philadelphia, Pa.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Imagine Sgt. Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, socking the little pill on a golf course! Well, it happened yesterday in the All-American Amateur Golf Tournament at Chicago. Most of the large gallery turned it into a boxing show by following the battler and ignoring the more-famed golfers, but Joe was knocked out in the first round with a 44-43—87 count. As a golfer, Louis is still a good prize-fighter.

The big names of golfdom—those who are left from the war—were practically left by the wayside when Dick McCreary, 26 year old bakery salesman from Indianapolis, carded 36-36—72 to take the lead for medalist honors, matching par on each half of the qualifying heat. He scored four birdies to even up for two bogeys and a double bogey when he got himself into traps. Those who shared 7v's included a fairly well-known amateur, Bob Cochran of St. Louis, and a former caddy, Frank Kovack, Chicago; Frank Perpich, ex-college enthusiast, and Bill Chambers, a storekeeper at the Great Lakes training station.

Among the favorites, Chick Evans of Chicago, could do no better than a 79, Gus Moreland chalked up 80 and Sonny Ellis of Columbus, Ga., was no Georgia peach at 81. For turning in the day's lowest score, McCreary won a $100 war bond.

A problem in golf has been created as a result of a freak "hole-in-one" on the course at Yorkton, Sask., when two members of a foursome combined to put a ball into the cup. Using a No. 5 iron, Ernie Jacques sent his ball to within two inches of the 184-yard hole. The next player, John Woods, raised a high shot which knocked Jacques' ball into the hole. Does either player get credit for an ace? Does Woods score an 'assist?' Is it a hole-in-one?

The bruising linesman of the Hamilton Tigers in the old "Big Four," Brian Timmis, has been appointed coach of the Hamilton Wildcats for the forthcoming season of the senior O.R.F.U., it was announced at Hamilton last night. Len Back, former Tiger official, has been named club manager. Since his retirement as a player, Timmis has been handling teams in the interscolastic circuit in the ambitious city.

The annual tournament of the Western Ontario Lawn Bowling Association, opening July 28, is expected to attract upwards of 100 trundlers to the London Bowling Club, of which Sid Belmont is president. T. Y. (Tom) McKay of Shelburne, once a stalwart of the old-style game of lacrosse, has tossed his cap into the ring to start a revival of field lacrosse—in the wide open air and with 12 men a-side just as they used to play it before big crowds. McKay declared in an interview that field lacrosse will come back in the cities and towns of Ontario when the boys come home from war.

Watson Defeats

for unorthodox tactics in the semi-final bout and the people's favorite Pat Flanagan was given the works before he finally won the argument when the weight-lifting champ was disqualified after 18 minutes of near-murder. Dunlop started in by tossing Flanagan a couple of times with body slams that didn't do the Irishman any particular good. Then he kicked him out of the ring and when Flanagan got back again proceeded to blind him temporarily by repeatedly rubbing his hands over his opponent's eyes. The infuriated Flanagan gave him a taste of the same medicine shortly after and then used his mule kick to topple the big Dunlop through the ropes. It was hot and heavy for 18 minutes until the obsareperous Dunlop managed to get the ropes around Flanagan's throat. When Referee Lawson tried to release the helpless Pat, Dunlop swung two punches to the referee's head and then kicked at him. Lawson promptly disqualified the big fellow and released Flanagan. Then the both the official and the Irish grappler rushed at Dunlop, with fists swinging down and Flanagan shoved him through the ropes for a wild finish to a bout that hadn't a dull moment.

In the prelimnary bout the speedy Joe Maich of Brantford and the Greek mat artist George Tofalos had a strenuous half-hour, winding up in a draw. Maich was the aggressor most of the time. He had the Golden Greek in trouble with a double self-strangle hold at one time and on another occasion pushed him right out of the ring. Both grapplers favored arm holds and neither was able to cash in on the punishment grips for a fall, although they made it a real argument, and the draw decision about met the situation.

LAWN BOWLING

It was left fo the ladies to put on the highlights in last night's bowling. True Group No. 2 of the men's section played their games as per schedule but with the entire east square occupied by lady bowlers, they naturally held the stage.

It was a sort of a consolation tournament, kind of making up for the one rained out last Wednesday. The committee decided to play three 8-end games and prizes were to go to the four highest rinks. Strange to say there were three—three game winners: Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Staunton and Mrs. Doughty—but stranger still Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Staunton were tied for first place—so the committee went into a huddle and decided that these two rinks should go out and play four ends to break the deadlock. The playoffs were good and in keeping with the rest of the night's games, with Mrs. Martin coming out on top.

It was a good tournament, short, snappy and all over shortly after 11 o'clock.

And now, men, how about your entry for the men's open tournament on Wednesday, July 28th? Cooperate with the committee and just notice the results.

AT THE SCOUT GROUNDS

Your scribe was out at the grounds on Saturday to look over the work that has been done to date and also to do a little shingling. Bill King and I were on the roof whilst Mr. Shiner and Scouter Ingham were at work on the windows. We understand that Bill has been out there twice before during the past week and that "Hank" was also on hand. There has been a lot of work done on the building but there is still a great deal to do, one side of the roof to be boarded in and the balance of the roof to be shingled, also the floor to lay, windows and doors fitted and painting to do.

I feel that some one should be appointed to organize parties to go out and finish the job. One or two Saturday afternoons and some evenings would soon put a finish to it. Not just two or three, but a goodly gang armed with saws and hammers. Two or three good men like Fred Ford, president of the Scouters Club and Mr. Buckland, chairman of the building committee with Commissioner Ernie Wolff would be just the men to see that these parties are organized. What about it?

St. John's Wolf Cub

St. John's Pack met outside the Sunday School on Friday and proceeded to Nicholls Oval where an evening of games and jungle dances was held. Three boys were awarded jungle names for there ability in tests.

Billy Cummings is Kaa the Python for tree climbing.

Bob Rogers, the great War Eagle for running will be known as Kenou.

Harold Vallos is Mysa, the Wild Buffalo for good hearing.

In Friday next the Pack will again meet outside the Sunday School and will be told about arrangements for a hike on Saturday.

Here, There and Everywhere

We received several letters this week. Frank Pammett states that some of his regiment saw our commissioner, John Hornsby lately and he was mighty pleased to see them. They state that the Commissioner looks well.

Word also comes from Charlie Jefferries, better known as "Judge" to his many friends. He meets many former Scouts and loves the talks on Scouting.

Got word from Ed Pinn, another one of our boys. He is doing well Ron Gynane is now at H.M.C.S. York going under training for special instructor. Tom Littlefair, Pete Dominik and Jim Hooper are in town this week-end. Gordon Best is the latest recruit to the forces from our Scout Ranks and is now in Brandon, Manitoba with the Air Force. Good hunting Gord.

Flt. Sgt. Dalrymple Ward, former boy Scout of Cupar, Sask., has been decorated with the "Flying Boot" an award given to airmen who have to bail out of their planes over enemy territory and who find their way safely back to their own lines. Ward, shot down in Libya travelled through enemy territory for five days and six nights to return to his base.

In one of the letters received I learned that I could not tell my correspondent any fresh news about Scouting as he gets this paper and often knows what I am writing about before I write it. May be former members of your Pack and Troop are also receiving the Examiner regularly, so why not just send in your reports so that they too will know just how their old unit is getting along. We know that the Sacred Heart Troop went camping last week but how many went and what was accomplished has not been learned. We know that the Park Hill Community Troop and the St. James' troop are both going out of town for a week or so and trust that at the end of the trip they will give us something to write about.

Obituaries

PATRICK BURKE

The funeral of Patrick Burke who passed away on Wednesday was held on Saturday from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where Requiem Mass was offered by the pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, who also delivered an appropriate address to the relatives and friends.

The many floral and spiritual tokens presented to the family as well as the gathering of old acquaintances and friends was a fitting tribute to the deceased, who had resided in this district for over sixty years before going to Toronto to take up residence about twenty years ago.

Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rev. Dr. Grant conducting the services at the graveside.

Pall-bearers were F. P. Burke, C. J. McKeane, Joseph Burke, Leo Burke, Joseph Meagher and John Burke.

Friends and relatives were present from Toronto, Indian River, Douro and Midland.

CHARLES JAMES JOHN TANNER

The funeral of Charles James John Tanner was held from the J. J. Duffus Funeral Parlors to St. George's Anglican Church, Chandos on Monday at 1:30 p.m. with services conducted by the Rev. Mr. Preeston and the Rev. Mr. Spence of Apsley, who preached an eloquent discourse on "Indifference" and referred to Mr. Tanner's exemplary life.

Mr. Tanner died in St. Joseph's Hospital after a very short illness in his 76th year.

Born in Manchester, England, he came to Canada when about 6 years old, and his whole life was spent in farming in Chandos Township. He was a lifelong member of St. Stephen's Anglican Church and for many years a warden. He was also for nearly forty years the school trustee of S.S. No. 8, Chandos.

His first wife predeceased him 37 years ago, and he remarried in 1920 the widow of the late Harry Roberts.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, three sons, William of Ottawa, Edward of Bexley and Isaac of Dryden, Ont., and two daughters, Mary of Toronto and Marian at home. His second oldest son was killed in action in the First World War in 1918. There are also two brothers living in Chandos, Philip and Francis Tanner, and two in the West, George and Victor, as well as a large number of nephews, nieces and grandchildren.

Pall-bearers were Ernest and Victor Tanner, Leslie McColl, Stanley Windsor, James Downing, George Johnson.

Interment was in St. George's Church Cemetery.

Doctor Blames Diet For Cancer Growth

By GLEN ALLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, July 20.—(CP).— Dr. J. R. Davidson, 73 year old Winnipeg physician, whose experiments in cancer treatment and research were disclosed in the Canadian House of Commons last week, said here yesterday he would welcome provision of a research laboratory and medical assistants to aid him in his work.

Pleas for assistance to Dr. Davidson were made by Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib. St. Boniface) and Rev. Daniel McIvor (Lib. Fort William). Dr. Howden said nearly 20 cancer cases had been cleared up by Dr. Davidson using injections of blood serum from cancer-resistant mice.

Dr. Davidson said his experiments have been mainly in his home, with facilities and equipment he had improvised.

His theory is that cancer is caused by nutritional deficiency and that if children received proper diet from early life or even if the parents received proper diet before the birth of the child, it would go a long way in preventing the development of the disease.

Learn to Weave and Make Lovely Things

MAKE A BASKET

How useful your hands can be and how artistic if you train them! You could weave a strong useful basket as pictured above, or perhaps a lovely paste cloth for a gown, or maybe a smart rug.

Weaving is an art that has been considerably revived in recent years. Particularly since the war began, people are reverting back to making their own materials because of a scarcity of the finer wools on the market.

Fingers are rediscovering weaving as a pleasant and useful pastime. Not so many years ago it was a necessary skill in the home. With the development of industrial machinery the craft was taken from the home. Years have passed, and war, more than anything else, has brought it back to the home again.

If you want to learn how to weave, our 32-page booklet will help you greatly. It tells you what materials you need and then explains clearly how to weave various articles from rugs to baskets.

The booklet avoids the complex. It tells what can be done on the more advanced looms but it really gets down to cases with such simple looms as pieces of cardboard, embroidery hoops, breadboards.

For your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

A GIFT FROM THE GODS

IF YOU ARE fortunate enough to have the theoretically ideal situation for a singleton lead against the opponent's suit contract, you should treat it as a gift from the gods. That ideal combination comes when you have (1) the ace and one or two other trumps or the king and two others, so that you can stop the dropping of your trumps if the declarer leads them after winning your singleton, and (2) a weak enough hand otherwise, so that there is a good chance your partner can then be put in the lead to return your now blank suit.

How much sounder was South's rebid than 3-No Trumps would have been! Unless East made the unthinkable lead of a heart, when a club was correct to preserve the heart A as a side entry, North could get only eight tricks in the minors. When he tried for his ninth in spades, West should switch to a heart and beat the contract.

But this deal is really an example of leading against 4-Spades, which gets made after anything but the correct opening. Ralph Reed Richards, world famous Detroit expert, who died recently, gave a very clear-cut lecture to those at his table after this deal. He led the diamond 3, pointing out first that his partner would be sure to know it was a singleton, since North had bid the suit. Second, he had the trump A, so that he stopped the trump dropping effort immediately after South won the diamond. Third, he had a spot in which his partner probably could gain the lead, when he put forth the heart Q. The K and A went on, and the diamond return brought the crucial ruff, the heart J then furnishing the setting trick.

South made 4-Spades where West led the heart Q, losing only two hearts and the spade A. Where West made the worst of all leads, on that bidding, of the spade A and then the 9, South took all but one trick, discarding his heart losers plus a club loser on diamonds.

Steel Output Forces Plant Expansion

By E. ROSS MACKAY
Canadian Press Correspondent.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 20 — (CP). — The population of Sault Ste. Marie has increased by almost 4,000 persons since the outbreak of the war which is a good indication of how its industry has expanded to meet wartime demands for steel and metallurgical products.

The home of one of Canada's three basis steel-producing plants, this has been a very busy community and the output of its mills has been substantially increased while the plants themselves have been enlarged by the expenditure of millions of dollars under the Dominion Government's expansion program.

At the plant of the Algoma Steel Corporation, for example, new coke ovens, a new blast furnace and new rolling facilities have been undertaken and much of the work has been completed. A statement issued from Ottawa when the work was first announced said that when it was completed Algoma's steel capacity would be 1,100,000,000 tons a year, an increase of 67 per cent from its pre-war figure. Most of the expansion, it is indicated, is of a nature to fit into a peacetime program.

Housing Shortage.

The influx of workers to the city has created a housing shortage which is still acute although 200 temporary dwellings have been constructed by Wartime Housing Ltd., and in 1941 and 1942 a large number of privately-owned dwellings were erected.

However, the war has brought a curtailment in some other industries in the district. The newsprint mill of the Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., has reduced operations because of the impossibility of obtaining adequate pulpwood supplies in view of the shortage of bush workers.

On the other hand such plants as the Chromium Mining and Smelting Corporation and the Northern Foundry and Machine Co. have been swamped with war orders.

Through the St. Mary's Falls Canal—with one lock on the Canadian side of the St. Mary's River and several on the United States side—flows millions of tons of war-vital iron ore from the rich Mesabi Range of the Lake Superior district for the great blast furnaces of the United States industrial east.

It is estimated that there are 2,000 or more men and women from the city and Algoma district in the Armed Services.

Women Taking Mine Jobs For First Time

Written for The Canadian Press
By ALAN B. BAKER

SUDBURY, July 20 (CP). —Although the centre of the world's greatest nickel industry from which pours millions of pounds of the most war-vital metals—nickel and copper—in ever-increasing tonnage, Sudbury has perhaps felt the impact of war less than any other industrial centre in Canada.

This is largely due to the super-optimism of many of its early civic leaders who, during the early expansion booms, visualized Sudbury as the great metropolis of the north with a future population of at least 50,000 and planned accordingly. Today Sudbury is the seventh city of Ontario, having zoomed to its present position in the last decade as confirmed by the latest Dominion census.

Because of its early over-expansion, Sudbury's municipal services have held up well under the greatly increased industrial activity which has seen the city almost double its population to 35,000 since a few months before the outbreak of war. There has been no housing shortage, while the transportation spstems have been adequate to transfer 15,000-odd workers.

Loggers Active

The two great nickel companies in the district—International Nickel and Falconbridge Nickel—have spent huge sums on plant extensions to meet the demands of war. Inco has spent about $35,000,000 and Falconbridge $1,500,000. Thousands of new workers have been engaged while more than 700 women now are employed in many departments for the first time in mining history in Canada.

The war has brought fresh life also to the Lumber and Logging industry—once the mainstay of Sudbury's industrial life. More than 200,000,000 board feet of lumber as cut in the district last winter, virtually all being used for war purposes.

While expanded industrial activity has brought thousands of newcomers to the city, enlistments in all branches of the service have made great inroads into labor ranks. The district is justifiably proud of more than 3,000 men and women who have joined the army, navy or air force. About 60 have lost their lives, some at Dieppe, one at Hong Kong, several at sea with the Navy or the Merchant Marine, but the majority on service with the R.C.A.F.

Every Sudbury resident is proud too of the exploits of the city's two D.F.C. winners—Wing Cmdr. Clarke (Knobby) Fee, who is missing after a daring raid over occupied France, and PO. Theo Doucette, recently reported killed in a raid over Germany. In naval circles, Lieut. Herb Browne has been mentioned in dispatches. He was the navigating officer who plotted the course for the corvette Moose Jaw as it raced in for the kill against a German U - boat, first submarine to be sunk by the Royal Canadian Navy. He was in the chart room when the Assiniboine battled it out successfully with a surfaced enemy submarine.

Aussie Soldiers Given Ballots

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH

SYDNEY, Australia, July 20 — (CP Cable.)—Writes for the election of the 17th Commonwealth Parliament were issued during the weekend when the electoral rolls were closed. The election takes place Aug. 21.

It is estimated 4,500,001 are eligible to vote and under Australias compulsory voting legislation for the district in which they reside and for a team of three members of the Upper House for their State.

Special provisions have been made so that members of the armed services can vote, no matter in what part of the world they are stationed.

These and all members of the forces, numbering several thousand, in Australian camps, will vote as absentees for the constituency representatives they choose in their own district and for a Senate team for their own residential States.

Under special legislation passed in the closing stages of the last session, all members of the forces now serving or who have served overseas will be entitled to vote, regardless of their age. This means they can vote under the age of 21. But other service men who have only served in Australia, will only be entitled to vote, like civilians of both sexes, if they have reached the age of 21.

Commonwealth returning officers will be appointed in London and at Canadian and other overseas headquarters where Australians are serving. They will supply a list of candidates and ballot papers to all commanding officers, who will arrange for members of the forces to vote before specially designated officers, and for the return of the votes to the returning officer for the area, where they will be counted and the figures cabled to divisional returning officers throughout Australia.

Editor Demands Due Recognition

LONDON, July 20 (CP Cable)—The Daily Express said today "no 'security' considerations should have been permitted to stand in the way of full and immediate recognition" of Canada's part in the invasion of Sicily.

The newspaper was commenting on a statement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in Ottawa last Thursday, outlining his efforts to obtain mention in early communiques of Canadian participation in the assault.

(Mr. King said British military authorities had held there should be no reference to Canadian participation., He said he could obtain "no satisfaction" from replies to his requests that he be allowed to announce in Canada, as soon as the attack was made known, that Canadian troops were taking part.

(He said he approached President Roosevelt and that the President's personal intervention had ensured that Canadian participation was mentioned in early communiques.

"It should have been plain to all that this was an occasion where security must be over-ruled by higher factors," said the Express.

It said "The need for his (Mr. King's) expostulation should never have arisen. This is a view which will be held as firmly in Britain as in Canada."

PLASTICS

in the War... and in the Future!

PLASTICS are on the march! Today, few airmen, soldiers or sailors go into combat without the use of one or even hundreds of plastic parts. They are on duty as fuse caps for shells and grenades. They are serving in aircraft instruments and secret weapons. They are sailing the seven seas as equipment in warships and cargo boats.

With their unique inherent properties—toughness, lightness, transparency, high dielectric strength—plastics are finding hundreds of war uses. They are easily and quickly moulded. They save skilled labour, critical metals and rubber.

Out of the developments of this war, new miracles will be built in plastics for peace. Plastics for airplanes, homes, furniture, industry! And Canadian General Electric, with the longest experience and large processing facilities, is geared for leadership in the field of new plastic products.

Approve Plan Soldiers To Aid Farmers

Leave For Harvest To Be Granted Under New Scheme

OTTAWA, July 21 — (CP). — An arrangement by which soldiers may be permitted to help farmers with the 1943 harvest has been approved and will be announced shortly, Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons to-day, answering a question from J. G. Diefenbaker (Prog. Con. Lake Centre.)

The Minister expressed objection to suggestions that men in "the home defence army" be released for farm work.

"There is no such thing in Canada as a home defence army," said the Minister. "There is the active army which has in it certain men who were called up for service in Canada and the territorial waters thereof."

There were also general service troops but they were serving together in the same units.

All Are Busy

"These so - called home defence troops are part of the active army," he said. "They are serving on the coasts, on the searchlights, on the anti-aircraft guns, in Newfoundland, in Labrador, in Alaska, in the Bahamas."

The suggestion that these men be released meant to break down completely the units which now are engaged on duties which the chief of the general staff, in consultation with the chief of staff of the United States, considered essential to the defence of this continent.

There were no soldiers "walking around doing nothing." All were on duties or in training. They were on active defence duties or in the home war establishment, servicing the units on active duties and servicing the training establishments from which men proceeded overseas or to the coasts.

Some 50,000 or 60,000 home defence troops were required under the Army program to release general servicemen from duties in Canada for overseas service.

Col. Ralston said there are two provisions for farm leave from the Army, compassionate leave where there was hardship on the farm, and agricultural leave which was available to certain classes of soldiers for seeding.

Rome Railroad Yards Blasted By Allies

When tons of bombs were dropped on the city of Rome, the railroad yards were so badly hit that rail traffic was stopped and large fires broke out on the sidings and in freight yards. One ammunition train exploded. So carefully was the bombing executed that no nearby religious landmarks were hit. Here is a picture of part of Rome's important railroad yards. It will look very different now. The city's rail centre was of the utmost importance to the Axis war effort.

Canadians Man Landing Craft

A SOUTH COAST BRITISH PORT, July 21 — (CP). — "Send us Canadians every time." That brief sentence, spoken by a Royal Navy engineering officer at a combined operations training base, tells of the high regard in which Canadian men are held for this hazardous and exciting work—a role they now are playing in the Sicilian campaign.

A Canadian Navy press release says that intense training prepares them for their gallant action in the front line. Their job was to go in, under enemy fire, and put the troops ashore. "Assault landing craft" they call their little ships—and it's a good name.

"Canadians are just about ideal for this work," the British officer said. "They've got imagination, initiative and dash. There's a certain recklessness about the job which appeals to them. We can use as many as you send us."

These young Canucks already have proved their mettle under fire. In the November landings in North Africa, three of them—Lieut. Judd Whittall, R.C.N.V.R., of Vancouver; Sub-Lt. J. D. Donaldson, R.C.N.V.R., of Toronto, and PO. (Motor Mechanic) E. Whelan, R.C.N.V.R., of Montreal and Saint John, N.B.—won mention in dispatches.

Lieut. Whittal singled out four men of his flotilla for special commendation "for initiative, devotion to duty and courage under fire"—Sub. Lt. Lloyd Williams, R.C.N.V.R., of Vancouver, AB. John P. Delves, R.C.N.V.R., of Winnipeg, Leading Seaman C. D. Grimmon, R.C.N., of Melford, Ont., (later lost when his ship was torpedoed); and Leading Seaman Angus J. Boyd, R.C.N.V.R., Lakevale, N.S.

Experience gained in that action is being used in the training of increasing numbers of young Canadians who proudly wear the special insignia of the "Combined Ops" on the left sleeve of their uniform—a pair of air force wings a tommy gun and an anchor.

In special demand are motor mechanics, and one party of 52 now is undergoing advanced training on marine engines at a Royal Navy training centre. While in the United Kingdom they are subject to R.N. discipline, travel and leave regulations, but are paid in accordance with Canadian Navy rates of pay.

One group of Canadian ratings which arrived recently in the United Kingdom for advanced training, all of them stokers first class, included France McParlan of Perth, Ont., Arthur Patrick of Kingston, Ont., Leonard Ellis of Brantford, Ont., and Eric Keir of Georgetown.

Picture Taken On Yonge St. Decorates Sicilian Home

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, July 15—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—Jottings from a war correspondent's notebook:

War has taken one group of Canadians from the Arctic bleakness of Spitsbergen to the scorching heat of Sicily. During Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's inspection of the Canadian forward troops here I met a group of men of the Royal Canadian Engineers whom I knew in the Spitsbergen raid in the late summer of 1941.

They included Sgts. Alex Kerr, Owen Sound, Ont.; Joe Kennedy, holder of the D.C.M. and the Croix de Guerre, Toronto; and Sappers Gerald McCurdy, Toronto; Bill Dickinson, Kingston, Ont.; Bert Gray, Victoria, and J. R. Whelan and Ernie Beard, both of Ottawa.

Laugh of the day: Rear headquarters moved into a farm and took over a hovel of a house. A man, his wife, three children, a donkey, a rabbit, chickens and guinea pigs were all living together in this squalor. The first thing the Canadians noticed on the wall was a photograph of the man and his wife, taken at Queen and Yonge Streets, in downtown Toronto.

After the Canadians had taken one of the beaches in their initial landings on Sicily July 10 two flags were flown—the White Ensign of the Navy and the Netherlands flag. The Dutch skipper of our boat gave the flag of his country to a naval officer asking him to plant it on Sicilian soil, and this request was duly carried out.

The Italians held a few Canadians prisoner for a short time and one I met at Modica was Pte. Jack Werner of Glaslyn, Sask.

Must Explode Superman Claim

By JAMEs F. KING

LONDON, July 21 — (CP). — The German general staff can be expected to eliminate Hitler when Germany's complete collapse appears inevitable, a high source whose job inside Germany for years was to keep tabs on the Reich military predicted today.

But getting rid of Hitler, this observer said, would be only the beginning in breaking Germany as a war-maker forever.

The big job — and the big danger, if it fails, he said — would be wiping out the legend of the "undefeated German army"—a legend that the German military clique—the Junkers — sold to the German people. The theme was that the German army never surrendered in 1918—it was the German government which quit.

The army, the Junkers argued, "was stabbed in the back" by Communists and Social Democrats in and outside of the government.

The Junkers won't give up easily, this source said, even though beaten in battle. They will try to find a way again to keep the door open for them to retire behind the smokescreen of gentlemen officers while they plot another war.

When the time comes, he added, the German General Staff—not Hitler—will decide to call it quits. They may be already playing with

Dutch Bombers Hit Timor Isle

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, July 21 —(CP).—Carrying out the biggest assignment since its establishment six months ago, the Netherlands bomber squadron has struck at three points on Timor to harry the Japanese on the western flank of the Allied offensive line, it was disclosed today.

The activities of the Netherlands and Indonesian airmen, flying from a base in Northern Australia, have been intensified to synchronize raids on Timor with the American-Australian push in New Guinea and the Solomons.

Today's communique said one of the medium bomber units raided Dili, capital of Portuguese Timor, before dawn. It was later stated that small fires had been started. A second group executed a night attack on the town area at Lautem, starting fires near the jetty.

The third force struck at the airdrome at Cape Chater, causing more than 30 fires which "gradually merged into one huge conflagration," the communique said. Ammunition dumps were exploded. Anti-aircraft fire was encountered during the raid.

Reds Extend Gains Toward Orel

Move Forward Along 400-Mile Front Capture 20 Towns

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 21—(AP)—Fighting along the Russian front spread to the Southern Donets and Mius River sectors yesterday as Red Army troops recaptured town after town in their drive to encircle the Germans at Orel on the Central front, the Russians reported today.

Russian armies thus were on the move on a front extending some 400 miles south from Orel to a point southwest of Voroshilovgrad, where the Soviet midnight communique said Russian forces had crossed the Mius river, improving their positions.

Heaviest fighting still raged, however, in the vicinity of Orel, where the Soviet Army was closing in around the German supply base. Advances of from four to six miles were reported during the day's fighting which saw the Germans hurl 10 futile counter-attacks in an effort to halt the Russian advance.

Shaping Pincers

Among the towns captured by the Russians, said a special bulletin, was Mtsensk, 31 miles northeast of Orel. The same Russian column was reported pushing on to the west.

The Red Army force operating directly east of Orel meanwhile, the bulletin said, captured 20 villages in the day's fighting, including the railway town of Voroshilov. On the southern flank a Soviet force took the city of Malo Arkhangelsk, 39 miles from Orel, the communique said.

Russian advances were met by stubborn resistance all along the line, the war bulletin declared. Nazi counter-attacks were launched constantly. Red Army men routed one, only to have the Germans reform their shattered tank units and infantry for another, the communique said.

Losses Heavy

Russians reported the desperate Nazi thrusts were accompanied by the same heavy loss of life and armored equipment which has marked the battle of the central front since its beginning 16 days ago.

The Russians also reported action at the southern end of the Kursk salient in the vicinity of Belgorod. Here the Red Army has been busily engaged erasing the gains which the German army made in the opening days of the battle.

The Germans were hurling armored forces at the Russians and the communique said that in one engagement Soviet troops killed 400 Germans and disabled 17 tanks and three self-propelling guns.

The Russians gave only meagre details on the fighting in the Donets and Mius river areas. The midnight communique minimized the significance of the battles and referred to them as "engagements of local character," adding, however, that "they have a tendency to grow into serious battles."

REDS REACH ERMOLAEVA

LONDON — A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow said today that the Red Army had reached Ermolaeva, which is located seven miles east of Orel.

Fall of Enna to Canadians Starts General Retreat; Catania Almost Surrounded

Vital Airfields In Ruins Following Raids

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 21—(AP).—Allied air attacks were on a somewhat reduced scale yesterday after the previous day's giant effort by more than 500 planes against Rome, but there still was enough reserve power to leave vital enemy airfields in southern Italy and Sardinia strewn with flaming wreckage.

Canadian and R.A.F. Wellington bombers from North Africa heavily attacked Aquino Monday night, starting at least 30 fires, of which six or eight were of huge proportions. After getting their bombs away the Wellingtons returned to shot up the field and damaged a number of grounded planes. Returning crewmen said enemy night fighters and ground batteries offered little opposition.

6 Planes Destroyed.

Six enemy planes were destroyed and six Allied craft were missing from widespread attacks yesterday against the air bases of Vibo Valentia and Monte Corvino at the toe of the Italian boot, Aquino and Capodichino near Naples and Decimomannu in Sardinia.

Two waves of American medium bombers struck Vibo Valentia, studding hangars and blanketing a number of parked aircraft with hot steel. R.A.F. bombers from the Middle East had attacked the same airdrome the previous night.

American mediums repeatedly raided Monte Corvino, setting at least 12 enemy planes ablaze on the ground. Crewmen said fragmentation bombs splintered among 20 to 40 Axis aircraft in the dispersal areas and that numerous fires broke out in hangars. Fighters escorted both American missions.

Eisenhower Confident.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared emphatically today he was confident of a complete Allied victory in Sicily but said the task facing Canadian and British forces was one of bitter fighting with a generally slow advance.

"Due to the nature of the terrain and the location of the enemy forces, the task facing the 8th Army, including Canadian forces, is one of bitter fighting with a generally slow advance," the Allied commander-in-chief said.

"The (American) 7th Army is making a more or less rapid advance through weaker resistance, thus over-running substantial portions of the island and confining the enemy to progressively smaller areas."

Reach Turkey

IZMIR, Turkey, July 19 (Delayed) — (AP). — The first Allied shipping to reach Turkey directly through the Mediterranean from North America since the North African campaign has arrived in this southern Turkish port without incident.

The vessels were three medium-sized freighters which sailed from the Atlantic seaboard with military and civilian supplies for Turkey, mostly lease-lend goods.

Efficient Fellows

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., July 21 — (AP). — San Quentin prison workers, turning out ration books for 8,000,000 Californians, thought of everything. One applicant, sending in blanks for herself and her husband, added a note: "Baby expected in July." Back went an extra ration book—with a two-way name, Mary Joseph. And on the father's book the convict wrote: "Congratulations."

Shore Batteries Engage British Ships

Aboard a British Cruiser Off Catania, Sicily, July 20.—(Delayed)—(AP).—The fight for Catania has developed into the biggest Sicilian battle for the Allies who are throwing in the weight of naval artillery along with reinforcemeits of men and guns against the stubborn Herman Goering division and other German and Italian troops.

The fighting line is visible from the bridge of this cruiser and runs just north of the Simeto river mouth.

As this cruiser moved to bombardment position this morning the constant thunder of field artillery ashore made a loud and insistent undertone to all ship's noises.

Artillery flashes ashore were easily visible and the never-ending rumble seemed to make the ship quiver even at a distance of five miles.

A misty haze of battle smoke covered the whole coast and drifted seaward, increasing steadily as the day wore on. At 8th Army request, this ship accompanied by British destroyers and Netherlands gunboats shelled German infantry and artillery concentrations miles inland southwest of Catania.

Bombs On Job.

Simultaneously, planes out of sight heavily bombed the Germans along the coastal road about a mile south of Catania. The smoke of bombs could be clearly seen.

Two gigantic explosions indicated enemy munition dumps had been destroyed.

Guerilla Forces Start New Drive

CAIRO, July 21 (AP) — A new wave of guerilla fighting is reported here to have broken out in the Balkans, with patriot fighters taking full advantage of softened Italian morale to strike at the occupation troops.

News from Yugoslavia told of severe fighting in eastern and central Bosnia between Axis troops and guerilla forces of Josip Broz, the Montenegrin insurgent also known as "Tito." The latter's band was reported to have taken the offensive and to have captured a number of towns and villages from Axis garrisons.

The renewal of resistance in Yugoslavia was reported to have been closely linked with the Allied invasion of Sicily through close British military liaison with Gen. Draja Mihailovic's guerilla forces.

Axis Troops Cut Off May Fall Back To Messina Port

By BELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 21—(AP)—Canadian and United States troops have seized Enna—defence prop of all Central Sicily—cutting off large numbers of Axis forces and forcing a general withdrawal as resistance on the island weakened hourly almost to the point of collapse.

To the east, British 8th Army units hammered at the doors of Catania—last bastion protecting the entire east coast—shattering another Nazi counter-assault with heavy casualties and advancing on the seaport, it was officially announced.

Half of Sicily now is in Allied hands, for all tactical purposes.

Enna's fall cut off Catania from Western Sicily except for one long, rough northern coastal road.

Prisoners Bitter

Allied observers reported a general retreat along all roads leading up from the centre of Sicily and Italian prisoners declared bitterly that German forces in the central sectors were speeding eastward for a quick getaway.

The withdrawal appeared intended for a last stand or possible evacuation in the Messina area of North-eastern Sicily, or between Catania and Messina.

Italians complained against their own government as well as the Germans. The Nazis, they declared, were repeating their African tactics of abandoning them every time the situation became hopeless, fleeing in all available transport.

They asserted their own Fascist government had given them too few guns and food, and issued obsolete transports, armor and ammunition.

The Canadian and United States troops were spearing deeper into Sicily beyond Enna in a swift powerful advance. They are only some 40 miles from the north coast of Sicily and they are rapidly splitting the Island in two.

(The Italian communique announced earlier Enna had been evacuated, and the German war bulle-

Reservist Vote Assured—Ralston

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP).—Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons that arrangements will be made to enable reserve army men going to summer camp to get away in time to vote in the Aug. 4 Ontario Provincial election.

Col. Ralston said there was no provision in the Ontario Election Act for taking the vote in reserve camps. It was impossible to postpone the camps because it would throw out of schedule long-planned arrangements by some 2,700 reservists and others associated with the camps.

Col. Ralston was replying to a question asked by T. L. Church (Prog. Con. Toronto Broadview) who said the camp period should be postponed.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, asked Col. Ralston if his department was ensuring that Ontario election proxies were placed in the hands of Ontario voters in active service army camps outside Canada.

The Minister said the department was co-operating in every way and possibly was putting the proxies into the hands of the soldiers but he believed it would be sufficient if the proxies were made conveniently available and the soldiers so advised.

Russian Drive Cuts Mussolini's Chances

Orel Push Prevents Hitler From Sending Reserves To Sicilian Front

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The meeting in Northern Italy between Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini could have brought little solace to the harassed pair, and indeed may well have savored of a not too fond farewell to partnership in brigandage.

D.N.B., the German news agency, has indicated that this parley concerned the invasion of Sicily and the 'desperate onslaught" of the Russians on the eastern front. That would seem to be a certainty, and the issues involved are so clear that one can almost hear the conversation.

"I need more help, and need it quick,' says Mussolini, trying to square his wabbly jaw and play the strong man. "The alternative is a separate peace."

'I'm much afraid, Benito," replies the Fuehrer, "that I can't provide any additional aid. The damnable Boshevists have precipitated a crisis by their drive on Orel. As a matter of fact they're on the offensive from the Arctic to the Black Sea. You'll have to fight your own battle with what you have."

Save Me, Save Me.

'But Adolf," quavers the soft underbelly of Europe, "the only thing that keeps my people from revolting against me now and making peace with the enemy is their fear of reprisals by you. My troops are in mutiny in Sicily. Without your help I can't stand off disaster. Surely the might of Germany hasn't lost control of the Russian front. You can spare me something more."

"I can spare you nothing, my friend," replies the Ace. "Strictly off the record my armies in the East are in a nasty hole. When we started our belated drive against Kursk on July 5 I thought we could smash the Red lines, envelop their great body of reserves and annihilate them. With luck I could knock the Bolshevists out. That would give me a chance to help you and face the stupid pigs of Yankees and British who are destroying my resources by bombing.

"But the unspeakable Communists stopped us. Then they counter attacked and the counter attack has developed into a great offensive. Orel may fall at any moment."

A Real Threat

The Nazi chief's concern about Orel is justified. The Reds are bombarding this strategic fortress with heavy guns from north, east and south. A powerful Bolshevist column has driven 30 miles into the enemy rear and captured the city of Illinskoye.

Thus the Russians threaten Orel with complete encirclement together with the forces of Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge. There are the makings of disaster in the situation.

Today we hear that the Russians have extended their offensive southward clear to the Black Sea. Hitler's whole right flank is in danger—a position of the utmost anxiety to him, in view of the Allied threat of invasion up through the Balkans against the area behind this right flank.

News sources agree that imme-

J. L. Lewis Wants Free Hand

Workers Return To Fold Hinges On Deal

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP).—Return of the United Mine Workers to the American Federation of Labor hinged today, it was reported, on a deal whereby U.M.W. president John L. Lewis would be given free hand in the coal belt provided he gives up organizing in other fields.

Labor spokesmen, emerging from the U.M.W.-A.F.L. conference on the proposed merger yesterday, disclosed this plan was in the winds:—

1. Lewis and his U.M.W. would be given jurisdiction as virtually the sole craft union for coal diggers. This would, in effect, freeze the charter and in time abolish the Progressive Miners, the A. F. L.'s mine union.

2. In exchange, Lewis would drop his so-called "District 50" unit which was set up to organize all kinds of workers, including farmers.

2nd Rome Raid Said Farce

Believe Report Merely Axis Propaganda

LONDON, July 21 — (CP). — Rome suffered its second air raid of the war last night, the Berlin Radio claimed today. However, the report, recorded here by Reuters News Agency, was not immediately confirmed by any other sources.

The German announcer said details of the reported raid were not yet known.

Nothing was known of such a raid here and observers considered a night attack on the Eternal City as highly unlikely, pointing out that leaflets dropped by Allied airmen during Monday's raid said specifically the attack was being made by daylight to guarantee accuracy.

Observers also pointed out that the leaflets mentioned the possibility that Axis planes might be used to drop bombs and lend credibility to propaganda claims the Allies were deliberately destroying cultural monuments.

McNaughton Visits Canadians On Sicilian Front

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 21 (CP) — Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army overseas, has made a personal visit to the Sicilian front where he found the co-ordination and correlation of all forces was "particularly impressive."

Gen. McNaughton's presence in the Mediterranean theatre of the war was not disclosed until after he had returned from Sicily where the Canadian 1st Division, his own command at the start of the war and now under Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., is engaging the enemy.

He called the landings "the most perfect example of combined operations the world has ever seen" and said the Canadian part had been a "marvellous achievement."

Troops Very Fit

Gen. McNaughton said the success of the Canadian Army was due to two things, the youth of the troops and their peak of physical fitness.

The chief lesson of the landings he said, was the evidence it afforded that the Allies now are capable of striking with tremendous efficiency and force on any front. The invasion of Europe, begun so auspiciously by the Sicilian operation, would be certain to damage the morale of the Japanese as well as of the Germans and Italians, since the Japanese now knew the Allies could marshal overwhelming pressure to bear on any place at any time.

Gen. McNaughton spoke highly of the quality of equipment and of the work being done in Washington and Ottawa by the National Research Councils in developing new methods of waging war. He cited the Sherman IV tank as an example of United Nations co-operation. It was produced in the United States with co-operation of Canadian engineers and fitted with a British-type turret.

He said the Sicilian operation as a whole involved the co-ordination of four forces—the land, sea and air forces, plus the civil administration which makes occupation work.

Reserve Voting Engages House

OTTAWA, July 21 —(CP) Defence Minister Ralston Tuesday told a questioner in the House of Commons that offiers of his department have asked the Ontario Chief Electoral officer what arrangements are being made to enable the reserve soldiers in camp to vote in the Aug. 4 Provincial Elections, but that no reply has been received.

He said the Defence Department had offered to cooperate n any way possible in this respect.

The question was raised by Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, who said it was apparent many reserve army men would be in camp on Election Day and might lose their vote.

G. J. Tustin, (Prog. Con. Prince Edward-Lennox) said between 600 and 700 men from his riding would be in camp on Election Day.

Col. Ralston said his department had apprehended the possibility of the men not being able to vote but it was really a responsibility of the Chief Electoral Officer of the Province.

diate events in the battle of Sicily had prompted the conference, which apparently was held as Allied bombers pounded Rome, but most of them felt the situation in Italy itself was the main topic of discussion.

A Lost Cause

In reaching this conclusion they pointed to recent Axis statements hinting that both Germany and Italy already regard the defence of Sicily as a lost cause.

The observers reasoned that if the Axis has given up hope of holding the island the next line of defence must be on the Italian mainland and that ways and means must be found of withdrawing the remnants of the Sicilian force and reorganizing to resist an Allied landing.

Obviously, informed sources said one of the big problems of effective resistance to the Allies is air power. They pointed out that even the Axis press has acknowledged Allied air superiority in the Sicilian theatre, while the Allies have reported only negligible resistance to their aerial assaults.

Speeding Program

Leave for harvest would be granted under the same conditions as for seeding.

In addition, said the Minister, for the last four days the Army had been discussing further arrangements with the labor department's selective service officers. There were two proposals: leave for additional men and use of army detachments.

This morning he had approved a plan but he preferred not to announce it until all details were settled.

Some people seemed to think the Army "an inexhaustible pool of men" Col. Ralston added. There were no demands made on industry for the release of men for farm work like the demands made on the Army.

Use Prisoners

Actually the only men the Army had in Central Canada were in training centres. It was not easy to find many men for farm work even if it were decided to release them from units on active duties.

Some 5,450 men were already on leave from the active army for farm work.

The Army was also co-operating with the Labor department in making the services of prisoners of war available for farm work. In some cases the Army was taking responsibility for the security of prisoners placed on farms.

"We needn't be surprised if we hear of the odd escape," he said. "If so, I hope it won't be treated as a major international incident, with members asking questions in the House."

It was considered necessary to employ prisoners and the risk of escape was inevitable.

Shore Batteries

With several units ashore eager to have our supporting fire, the cruiser moved less than two miles from shore. As we swung north of Catania towards a little inlet the shore batteries suddenly opened up on us.

The shells, mostly four - inch, splashed so close that fragments rained as high as the bridge, but we were not harmed.

Twisting and turning at high speed which nevertheless seemed like a tortoise pace, the cruiser replied with all her heavy armament.

Aim Is Poor

The two nearest shore batteries of four guns ceased to fire but due to the great smoke it was impossible to tell whether they had been hit or merely feared to disclose their positions to us. The other continued to shell us. Destroyers engaged them as we pulled out of range.

The Navy's instructions were to shell indicated army targets first and to ignore shore batteries if possible. The captain of the destroyer flotilla signalled inquiring about the batteries' accuracy. Our captain gave this cricketer's reply:

"Their bowling was varied with one or two inside swings."

Translated into baseball terms, this might read: "In and out pitching with some right over the plate."

Fall Of Catania Believed Near Germans Repulsed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 21.—(AP).— British 8th Army troops have battered closer upon the seaport of Catania, Allied Headquarters announced to-day, and inland powerful Allied forces stabbed forward again in a mighty drive from Enna, defence key of Centarl Sicily.

(The Italian communique declared Enna had been evacuated, a step throwing the whole Axis defensive system in Sicily into jeopardy.

(Enna controls main highway and rail lines east and west and its fall partially splits Axis forces. Its capture not only exposes the German flank at Catania on the east coast, but will force Italians in western Sicily to stand alone or attempt a withdrawal along the north coast for a stand in the Messina area.)

The Allied communique declared only that Canadian troops had continued their plunge northward in the direction of Enna despite strong enemy resistance and "many demolitions."

American troops it added, continued to advance rapidly in the western sector.

the idea of writing off this war, he thinks, even though there's long and bitter fighting ahead.

Two things, he said, would lead to the final decision—when the bombing reaches a point where the German people are beginning to develop a horror of war they'll never forget; when fighting on German soil becomes inevitable.

Then watch out for their campaign to maintain the myth of the "undefeated German army."

This observer said they probably would operate this way:—

1. Eliminate Hitler—even at the risk of civil war with the Fuehrer's own SS. troops and the Gestapo.

2. Begin a campaign to win sympathy, arguing they were forced into waging war.

Later, if the chance came to sow the seeds for another war, they would revive the same old tune—invincibility of the German army.

Duce Sends Urgent Plea For More Aid

Hitler-Musso Talk Believed Far From Cordial

LONDON, July 21 (CP)—Military and diplomatic circles expressed the view here today that if the purpose of the Hitler-Mussolini meeting Monday was an Italian plea for additional help, Il Duce probably did not get very far.

Since Germany's war resources are straind already, these sources said they doubted Hitler could rush very strong reinforcements into Italy even if he wished.

They also noted that Axis communiques reporting the meeting made no mention of decisions being reached and failed to sound the usual note on "cordiality" of discussions and "unanimity" of decisions.

It was considered significant, too, that Hitler flew to the meeting—indicating perhaps it was called hurriedly.

The conference coincided with reports from Sicily that Italian troops were revolting against their German commanders and with rumors of increasing uneasiness in the Balkans.

Bulgaria Uneasy

The Moscow radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Soviet Monitor here, said that the Bulgarian parliament met in extraordinary session yesterday and that all army leaves had been cancelled and soldiers already on leave had been ordered to report to their units immediately.

The Moscow radio also reported that the Governor of Banja Luka region in Yugoslavia had been killed by guerillas and Tass, official Soviet news agency, quoted an Itanbul dispatch as saying that the assassination had resulted in the declaration of a state of emergency in the area.

The German radio reported from Budapest that the Hungarian government had authorized the Minister of the Interior to establish an auxiliary police force to protect public security as a supplement to the regular service.

Military observers estimate the Axis has 5,000 to 6,000 planes in combat on all European fronts. Of this approximately 1,800 to 2,100 are said to be fighter planes, backed up by a reserve of unknown quantity.

They agreed that if the Allies are to be quarantined on Sicily and the Italian mainland saved by an effectin said that "in the western sector of the Sicilian front, German and Italian forces unmolested by the enemy executed ordered movements according to plan." British attacks at Catania were repulsed, it claimed.)

Road Junction

Enna controls the main highway and railroad lines running east and west across the mountainous island, and it thus cuts the German defenders of Catania off from contact with Italian forces in the west.

These Italian forces have been yielding ground rapidly and rusrendering in huge numbers. Most of the German troops apparently are concentrated in the Catania area, battling desperately to hold the 8th Army from sealing off the entire east coast of Sicily by plunging through Catania up toward Messina.

With Enna's fall, the only contact between Catania and western Sicily is by a single, roundabout road from Palermo and Termini on the north coast down around Mount Etna through Paterno, or by a still longer way along the coast to Messina and down the coastal road through Taormina.

Paterno itself is reported threatened by British troops, and the entire Messina-Catania coastal road is vulnerable to aerial and sea bombardment.

The Canadian and American troops had thrown a powerful pincers upon the town by advancing from Caltanissetta, taken by the U.S. 7th Army units, and from Piazza Amerina, which fell to the Canadian 1st Division.

Enna is 34 miles north of Gela, and lies 30 miles below the north coast of Sicily. It is some 45 miles west of Catania.

3 Jap Warships Sunk Near Munda Base

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, July 21 (AP)— Allied bombers were credited with sinking a cruiser and two destroyers of a Japanese convoy attempting vainly to run the Allied sea and air blockade around the big Munda airbase in the Solomons.

A force of three light cruisers, six destroyers and two transports, undoubtedly seeking to aid the hard-pressed garrison at Munda, was spotted by Catalina Flying Boats shortly after midnight yesterday in Vella Gulf just west of Kolombangara Island.

A third destroyer was listed as probably sunk, and a transport and yet another destroyer were damaged.

Four bombers were lost.

Maintain Pressure

The action, described in today's communique from Allied headquarters, served to maintain steady pressure on Munda, big airbase on New Georgia Island, which has been hi corded by the Associated Press. It gave a Vatican City dispatch of the Italian agency Stefani as authority for a purported partial text of the letter. Nothing concerning such a letter was available immediately from any other source.

The broadcast quoted the Pope as recalling his efforts, as Bishop of Rome, to ensure the safety of the city and then saying:

"But alas our hope was vain. And now what we feared has happened. That which we foresaw now is a reality, for one of the noted Roman basilicas, that of San Lorenzo outside the walls, venerated by all Catholics for its antique memories, is now in great part destroyed. Upon seeing the ruins of this noted temple the words of the prophet Jeremiah come to memory."

Previously the Vatican City had reported that the basilica of San Lorenzo had been badly damaged in the raid and that the Pope visited it late Monday afternoon.

American Leader Seeks Sicilian's Aid

LONDON, July 21—(CP).—A proclamation by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean Sea, appealing to the Sicilian people for quick help in "the destruction of the Nazi yoke," and promising them liberties of religion, speech and press was broadcast from Algiers today.

Eisenhower's proclamation, as recorded here, repeated the statement of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander last Sunday that the Fascist Party and all of its connected associations would be dissolved. The Allied commander went further, however, in promising to "restore Italy as a free nation."

"The Allied forces are occupying Italian land," Eisenhower said. "They are acting, not as enemies of the Italian people, but as the ineluctable consequence of their war, which has the aim of destroying the dominating force of Germany in Europe.

"Their goal is to free the people of Italy from the Fascist regime, which dragged it into war. And, once this is done, to restore Italy as a free nation.

The Allied forces do not have the intention of changing or minimizing the laws and the traditional customs of the Italian people."

Port Hope Man Dies During Operation

COBOURG, July 21—(ENS).—No inquest has been decided upon yet in connection with the death on the operating table at Port Hope General Hospital of Bruce Anderson of Port Hope. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman stated last night that until he received the autopsy report from Dr. H. MacKay, Belleville pathologist, he would not be in a position to say whether an inquest would be held.

It is reported that Anderson was being operated upon to remove his tonsils when he suddenly died before the operation was finished. Dr. R McDerment and Dr. F. Diamond of Port Hope performed the operation, it is stated, on Monday morning.

COBOURG

Farmers Co-operation Needed To Win War

COBOURG, July 21 (ENS)—Agricultural Patriotism was the theme at the July meeting of the Ladies' Red Cross of Salem. R. C. Banbury, county agricultural representative, pointed out in his address at the meeting, that there were at least three factors in winning a war, namely, fighting men, adequate ammunition and food.

The largest contribution to the Empire was food, because af the national resources available for this purpose. While the fighting man was the instrument, the farmer was essential to supply the food, and his part, well done, was of equal value to the cause, he said. There was opportunity everywhere to help the farmer with his crops and it was an unpatriotic person who had time to devote to useless efforts when he was so badly needed on the farm, stated Mr. Banbury.

Town Sponsors Ship

COBOURG, July 21—(ENS)—Cobourg will "adopt" the corvette, "H.M.C.S. Cobourg," it was decided at a meeting held in the town hall wiht Mayor Jack Burnet presiding. Some time ago the minister of the navy wrote the town council suggesting the town sponsor the corvette. The matter was left to a committee to decide. Judge J. C. M. German and Captain David C. Dick were appointed last night as a committee which will look into the financial aspects of the matter.

Kidnapped

Jimmy Dimaggio, three, was kidnapped, kept three days, then released in an automat in New York. MARMORA

Helen Jackson Drowns Near Cordova

MARMORA, July 21—(ENS). — Helen Jackson, fourteen years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson of Deer River fish hatchery, was drowned in Deer River at the High Rollway about 2½ mile above Cordova.

The girl decided to ride her bicycle to the river for a swim. Not conscious of the risk she was taking, she got into an eddy which bore her to a deep hole. Her mother and sister, Mrs. Ethel Forsyth, arrived at the river's edge to witness her coming up for the last time. Her sister waded out a little ways, but knowing of the deep hole, realized she was powerless to be of any assistance.

The mother then went to the residence of Mrs. Edward Bowen, some distance away, to get help. Ray Bowen, 18, who returned with her, rescued the body, upon which artificial respiration was tried for about an hour without success. Dr. Donald Holdcroft, of Havelock, who was called, decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Helen is survived by her sorrowing parents; two brothers, Lloyd of Simcoe and Nagel at home; and two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Forsyth of Simcoe and Mrs. Harry Barrons of Cordova. The remains were taken to Normandale for burial, Rev. W. E. McMillen, rector of Simcoe, officiating.

The bearers were Bruce Guller, Reginald Card, Raymond Ferris, Glen Ferris, Ernest Post and Harry Thompson.

There were many floral emblems, showing the respect in which the deceased girl was held.

CAMPBELLFORD

Allied War Not Won Sacrifice Yet To Come

CAMPBELLFORD, July 21 (ENS) —Harold N. Carr, M.P.P., was the speaker at Monday's Rotary Luncheon held at Woodlawn Inn. He took his material from an address delivered before the Empire Club in Toronto by Ralph Carney, Vice-President of the Colman Lamp Co. of Kansas, who had clearly disclosed the part big business had played in the re-arming of the United States.

His talk brought home to listeners the fact the war was still far from won and that there was a vast difference between inconvenience and sacrifice. Dr. H. B. Longmore voiced the appreciation of the Club to Mr. Carr for this contribution to the meeting.

Guests at the luncheon included Thomas Nelson, Oshawa; Wesley Vanblaricom, Picton and Roy Smith and Alfred Potts of town.

Uninjured In Battle Reporter Hit By Truck

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST IN NORTH AFRICA July 19 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Roderick Macdonald, war correspondent of the Sydney (Australia) Morning Hearld, landed in Sicily with British glider troops, went through battles with them, was captured and later freed when British patrols shot up the Axis guards, and finally flew back to North Africa—all without injury.

Today Macdonald went for a casual auto ride. The car was hit by a United States army three-ton truck and he suffered painful head injuries, cuts and briuses and landed in an R.A.F. base hospital.

More than 2,000 worn-out tires had to be replaced daily during the Eighth Army's advance in North Africa, it was disclosed at a Salvage Exhibition in London.

Worth It—Maybe

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 21 — (CP). — Late for a date with a gal who wouldn't wait cost a St. Catherines youth $10 and costs. He pleaded guilty to passing three red lights in an effort to keep a date with a girl in Port Dalhousie.

Western Feed Cheaper For Eastern Farmers

COBOURG, July 21 — (ENS). — Northumberland farmers can obtain feed wheat from the west cheaper than they can produce it here and are in an excellent position to increase livestock in the county. W. P. Watson of the Ontario Livestock Brand visited the county recently and pointed out the value to all concerned of carrying the maximum of livestock on Northumberland farms.

When the probability that granaries of this county will only be two-thirds filled this fall, was commented upon by R. C. Banbury, county agricultural representative, the O.L.B. representative drew attention to the various aids now available for the bringing in of western feed.

The recent assistance of the Provincial Government of $1.90 per ton, in addition to the freight subsidy now makes it possible for farmers to secure excellent feed wheat at $30 per ton; barley at slightly less and oats at about $32. It is doubted that the average farmer can produce these in Ontario, with present labor costs, at such low figures, and feeders are urged to secure sufficient supplies to carry their hogs, hens and cattle through next winter. Every sign points that it will pay both in dollars in the farmer's pocket and in patriotism to the national effort at this time to keep the livestock and purchase some grain, states Mr Banbury.

No Jap Beetles

LONDON, Ont., July 21.—(CP).—Latest communique from the Japanese beetle front in this district indicates that no enemy activity has been disovered this season. F. J. Dudson, district inspector for the plant protection division, Ontario Department of Agriculture, said Monday no sign of the pest has been found in traps set out a month ago here.

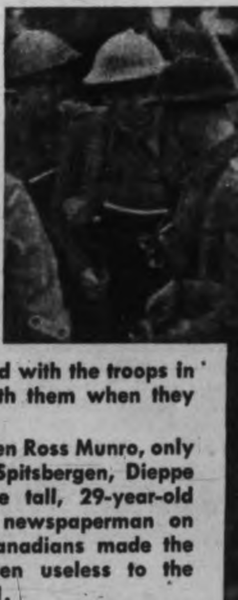
then INVASION!

MUNRO IS ON THE JOB:



When Canada's 1st Division, cheering their first sight of Britain, sailed up the Clyde into a misty December dawn in 1939, a Canadian Press Correspondent, the only newspaperman with the convoy, stood at the rail with the troops.

Ever since, a CP war reporter has lived and trained with the troops in Britain, gone into action with them when they were called upon to fight.

Most of the time it has been Ross Munro, only Canadian to see action at Spitsbergen, Dieppe and in North Africa. The tall, 29-year-old Torontonian was the only newspaperman on the expedition when the Canadians made the Arctic Islands of Spitsbergen useless to the Germans in September, 1941.

He was one of three newspapermen to step on French soil when the Canadians raided Dieppe last August.

When Canadians were sent to North Africa last winter to gain battle experience Munro went with them—for the same reason.

Now he leads a Canadian Press invasion staff of six war correspondents, trained and ready to cover the troops on their greatest task.

Bombing The Eternal City

If the Italian people seriously thought that Rome would never be bombed they must be even more sanguine of disposition than they are usually painted. Anthony Eden made it clear to the British Commons that Rome was not going to be exempted from the bombing list. Mr. Churchill said that Rome would be bombed when military necessity demanded it. President Roosevelt informed the Pope that the Vatican City would be most scrupulously avoided in any bombing of Rome. And yet there are reasons to believe that the Italians preferred to disregard these clear warnings and to cling to their notion that the Eternal City would not be bombed. As a result, the population of Rome has been trebled since the bombing of Italy began.

The Axis seems to mingle deep guile and ruthlessness with a childish simplicity. The Italians and also to some extent the Germans seem to have imagined that the holiness of Rome could save it. Now if Rome is holy in any special sense, several other cities are holy for precisely similar reasons. If it is sacrilege beyond all belief to run the risk of bombing the tomb of St. Peter, is is not also sacrilege to bomb the tomb of St. Thomas a Becket and Saint Alphege at Canterbury? Cities can only maintain a reputation for holiness if their inhabitants behave in a holy—or at least a decent—manner. The bombing of a few railway stations in Rome will do no harm to the holiness of the city. Indeed, it is guaranteed to improve the general standard of conduct of the Italian people.

The Italians apparently counted on holiness to save Rome. The Germans relied on "culture", a word of almost equal power as a shibboleth. "The man in the street feels that Roosevelt and Churchill have decisively proved their contempt of culture", screams the German press. Nonsense! For centuries Rome has been one of the loveliest cities in the world, and it has been cherished by the British, and somewhat less by the Americans, as a symbol of a great empire and a great culture. That is why, when the raid on Rome was made, the flyers were instructed to take unusual risks in sighting their targets and bombing them. No United Nations flyer wants to hit a church or a storied ruin; those things are his as much as they are the possessions of the Italian people. Roman culture inspired no such scruples in the breasts of those Italians who butchered the hapless Abyssinians, when they were carving out an empire.

The Italians may thank Mussolini for the bombing of Rome, for it was he who brought war industries there, impudently trusting that the holiness of the city would cloak his villainies. It is those industries, and the railway yards, which have been bombed. We would be willing to bet that when the war ends it will be found that not one building or ruin of historic importance in Rome has been injured by Allied bombs. The Rome which the civilized world loves will remain, but the Rome which Mussolini has built may suffer heavily.

Pop For Kingston

The city of Kingston is having trouble with its water supply, and for two weeks all water there has had to be boiled before drinking. The intake pipe in the harbour has been damaged and as Kingston harbour, like all harbours everywhere, is full of muck, the water is dangerous. The Kingstonian may now lament with a modern poet:

And if from man's vile arts I flee
And drink pure water from the pump,
I gulp down infusoria
And quarts of raw bacteria,
And hideous rotatorae
And wriggling polygastricae,
And slimy diatomacae,
And various animaculae
Of middle, high and low degree.

But some relief has been given. Extra sugar has been granted to the soft-drink manufacturers in Kingston, in order that they may have an extra supply of their wares during the dirty-water days. At present the soft drink industry has to manage with 70 per cent of its normal supply of sugar, and the special grant to Kingston is for the duration of the water crisis only.

Soft drinks are extraordinarily popular in this county with the armed forces, workers, and people who are simply looking for a little mild indulgence. All soft drinks are made with sugar, and are consequently sweet on the palate. Now here is a suggestion which will make the fortune of any soft-drink manufacturer who will take it, and we offer it without any desire for recompense, unless the maker wishes to send us a case of the new product: why not make a soft drink that is not sweet? Many people do not like sweet drinks, and at present they must either drink water or beer in order to avoid them. Water is good, but it palls quickly, and it is no drink for a festive occasion; beer is so hard to get that many people have given it up altogether. Now is the time for a really good soft drink with plenty of sparkle and a characteristic, non-sweet taste. Those who like sweets will be faithful to the old drinks, and thousands will welcome the new one. In Kingston at this moment such a drink would sell by the hogshead. Who will be the first to produce one?

Death Of Duncan McArthur

The death of the former Minister of Education for this province, the Hon. Duncan McArthur, robs us of a man of first-rate ability and an educator of unusual attainments. Dr. McArthur had been in poor health for several years, but of late months it was thought that he was well on the way toward a complete recovery. His death will come as a shock to all who knew him.

Duncan McArthur combined in a rare degree executive ability and scholarship. Before he entered academic life he was estates manager for the Canadian Trust Co., and later became Assistant General Manager of the London and Western Trusts Co. From this work he went to Queen's University as a professor of history, and shortly afterward became head of the department in that study. He was the author of many widely-used textbooks, and was a frequent contributor to the better historical periodicals. Perhaps his most lasting work will be found in his contributions to the Cambridge History of the British Empire.

At Queen's Park Dr. McArthur made a number of valuable improvements in the educational system of the Province, and would have made many more if sudden illness had not cut his capacity to work in two. He was 58 years old, and if he had lived for another ten years he would have added materially to his career and very possibly he would have made striking changes in Ontario education.

Canadian General In Sicily

At last we have been vouchsafed the information that the Canadian forces in the Mediterranean are led by Major-General Guy Simonds, and that he is at the head of our men in Sicily. General Simonds was born in England, but he was educated at Ashbury College in this country and graduated from the Royal Military College at Kingston. He then went into the permanent force artillery, and he has always listed Kingston as his home, so that we may fairly claim him as an Eastern Ontario man. He is now 39, and is the youngest major-general in the Canadian army.

Officers of high rank in this war are, upon the whole, younger than they were in the first great war. The demands upon them are greater than they have been for a century or more, and they see more actual fighting than was formerly the custom. In the days of Marlborough, and even of Wellington, high ranking officers were in the field with their troops, and stood a good chance of being killed or taken prisoner. It is the same now, as the heavy casualties among Axis generals has shown. A man advanced in middle age, or even beyond it, may be a good planner and organizer, but he cannot stand the strain of days in the field. This is a young officers' war, and Major-General Simonds is one of the best young officers which we have contributed to it. Good luck to him.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When peace comes again will we have learned the folly of buying wars on the deferred payment plan?

The Consolation Of Philosophy

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

RECENTLY a small book came my way in which were reprinted three remarkable documents—"The Consolation of Philosophy," by Boethius, "The Imitation of Christ," by Thomas a Kempis, and "Religio Medici," by Sir Thomas Browne. They were printed together, presumably, because all three were confessions of faith, and because all three hovered somewhere in that misty ground between philosophy and religion. Philosophy, considered as pure reason, has nothing to do with religion; and religion, considered as pure faith, has nothing to do with philosophy. But there have been many men who have sought to reconcile the two, and to bolster their faith with philosophy while ameliorating their philosophy with faith. Boethius, Thomas a Kempis and Thomas Browne fared better in this difficult task than most who attempt it, and they have left us books which will always be treasured by those who seek to reconcile the flesh with the spirit.

TO many people the word philosophy means a sort of wisdom too hard for them to comprehend. None of the works included in this small book is of that sort. And to others philosophy is a matter of cliches—"Every cloud has a silver lining," "It takes a heap o' living to make a house a home," "Care for the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves" and that sort of thing. In the hands of men like Immanuel Kant or Leibnitz philosophy does, indeed, become a puzzle too hard for most of us, but Boethius, Thomas a Kempis and Thomas Browne spoke to anyone who had ears to hear. To them, philosophy was a means to an end, and the end was living to the utmost of their abilities. Thomas a Kempis was a monk, and it may be argued that by removing himself from the world he made it easy to live a good life; the argument will not bear too close inspection, for a retired life may easily degenerate into the most useless and selfish sort of existence. But Boethius was a statesman, moving among men as a leader and counsellor, and Thomas Browne was a physician, regularly practicing his profession. Their philosophy is derived from the world.

BOETHIUS found himself in prison in the year 524, convicted of treason against the emperor Theodoric; the following year he was executed. The gloomy interval he passed in writing the book with which his name is associated. In it he describes how, as he lay in prison, Philosophy came to him in "a woman's form, whose countenance was full of majesty," and reasoned with him about his fate. Those who seek for Christianity in Boethius will seek in vain, for although it seems probable that he was a Christian in his belief Philosophy does not address him in orthodox Christian manner. She does, however, lead him through a fascinating maze of argument which at last reconciles him to his fate. It must be said that the means which Philosophy uses to argue Evil out of the world are not convincing, but a man at the point of death may be more willing to yield a point than one who has plenty of time before him. What astonishes about this book is the freshness of its thinking, as compared with the admired philosophers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

THE work of Thomas a Kempis is well known to anyone who reads devotional books, however desultorily. It is less philosophy and more devotion than the book of Boethius, but it has the same crystal quality. Its second title is "Musica Ecclesiastica," and it is music indeed. Its counsel is vigorously compressed. Thomas was a scrivener himself, and knew the weariness of copying prolonged and wordy disquisitions on expensive parchment. In parts the "Imitation" is almost a book of maxims; in others it is a chain of great prayers. It may be that a reader who approached the book with an open mind, and lacking the reverance which the years have attached to it, might think that Thomas was unduly hard on this life (which we have to live) and excessively sanguine of the life to come (which may be anything at all and is scarcely likely to be anything which we expect). But the book has found its readers through the centuries among those who seek guidance along a chosen path, and not among those who have to be persuaded to that path.

THOMAS BROWNE'S "Religio Medici" is just what the title implies—a physician's religion. It is an astounding mixture of deep wisdom, religious feeling, wit, thunderous declamation and superstition. Many people read Browne for his style alone, and, certainly it is the mirror of a soaring and glorious spirit. If one had to meet one of these philosophers in the flesh, neither the statesman nor the monk would tempt me from Browne; the reason of the former and the sweet faith of the latter are pale beside the courageous humanism of the Norwich doctor. It would be possible to live with Browne, but Boethius would argue any man silly, and Thomas a Kempis would be both too good and too useless for daily company. As each man must choose his own friends, so also he must choose his own philosopher.

Like An African Legend

It was market day. The road was crowded with small donkeys carrying sacks of groundnuts across their backs. The buses and station wagons of the local contractors, who would buy the nuts, were all parked together on a square. We made our way slowly, cutting through the strong of black Mohammedans wearing white robes and flat fezzes, of black women draped in a splendid, dark blue material that they wove themselves, and of dusty, naked little Negro children with shiny eyes, who gathered silently to look at us, wherever we stopped. The deep red mud houses of the native town, which dated back to the fifteenth century, were, in their excess of the picturesque, so much like an African legend that it was difficult to believe they were true. The edges and corners of their flat roofs were bristling with sharp protuberances pointing to the sky, and complicated carvings ornamented some of the doors. It was all very rough, savage, and virile—indeed beautiful. Paradoxically enough, the greatest event htat had recently taken place in this ancient decor had been a flying exhibition by R.A.F. pilots. It had been rated by the Negroes as the most thrilling show they had seen in their lifetime.—From "Journey Among Warriors," by Eve Curie. (New York: Doubleday, Doran.)

MORE GOOD NEWS FROM "DOWN UNDER"

A Ducal Home Coming

WHEN Lord Randolph Churchill brought home his American bride, it was not a fashionable event alone. A page in contemporary British history was turned.

The young couple first visited Blenheim, which, under the patriarchal rule of His Grace George Charles, Seventh Duke of Marlborough, and under the considerably more rigid regime of Her Grace, the Duchess Frances Anne, was a silent and rather secluded monument of British tradition and history; its gates were not yet open to streams of sight-seers.

Blenheim Palace is an Italian castle, surrounded by an English park. It embodies in stone all the remembrances of Woodstock, Oxfordshire, the soil of the oldest English culture. Here the Roman generals built their winter villas two thousand years ago. For a thousand years and more Woodstock had been a focal point of English life; it was noted before the Norman conquest. Here Saxon, Norman, Plantagenet kings held court. Blenheim was already a borough when the Domesday Book was being compiled. The park housed the wild beasts of Henry I. In the Civil War, Woodstock House was held for King Charles until it was ravaged by roundheads. Queen Anne presented John Churchill, the greatest of England's soldiers, with Blenheim Palace, the estate of Woodstock (the town was later to become the Oxfordshire capital of glove making), and a dukedom. Thus the House of Marlborough was created.

On a beautiful spring day in May, 1874, Lord Randolph and his lady arrived in his ancestral home. They came in a hand-drawn car. Some of the Duke's tenants, who were, by the same token, Randolph's constituents, had welcomed the couple at the railroad station and had insisted on taking the horses out of the shafts and dragging the newlyweds through the town to the castle....

Blenheim Castle lay basking in sunshine. Its magnificent aspect, probably combined with heart-warming memories, induced Randolph to the proud statement: "This is the finest view in England."

The couple was passing through the entrance archway. The lake, the bridge, the miles of magnificent park, studded with old oaks, "burst" as she later expressed it upon the new Lady Randolph. She was awe-stricken. Of course, she would not admit to being awed. Her American pride, she explained smiling, when she recalled the incident, forbade such a feeling.—From "Young Lady Randolph, the Life and Times of Jennie Jerome, American Mother of Winston Churchill," by Rene Kraus. At the Centre of Empire

(By FOSTER BARCLAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 21 (CP)—You can't get away from the war in London, Dover, Liverpool or Glasgow, but there are places in Britain where it is hard to realize the country is in the midst of history's greatest conflict.

War is written on the faces of people of the big cities and coastal areas, the favorite target for hit-and-run raiders, for these people, war is their job, whether it be in a munition factory or a government office. On top of that there are civil defence units, fire-watching, alottments and sundry other volunteer jobs to be done in spare time. At night war plagues their dreams.

But the war seems part of another world in secluded districts of Wales, Scotland, Cornwall, Lincolnshire or the Isle of Man. Take a spot like Budleigh Salterton, a sleepy Channel town fo 3,000....

It's mostly a town of old folk, retired men and women living in flower-decked cottages and minding their own business. Everything is peaceful and quiet at this beauty spot built on red chalk cliffs and hills which glitter in bright South Devon sunshine.

Anybody stopping at this sea-side resort for a day, a week or a month, can almost forget the war—but not quite. Barbed wire coiling about the coast, rationing, the comforting roar of R.A.F. planes heading toward France or coming home after completing their mission, serve as reminders.

Sometimes, too, the serenity is broken by the distant rumble of heavy coastal guns as German batteries open up on a passing British convoy. But these things have become part of the atmosphere. They might have been going on for centuries for all the interest they arouse.

German bombers have passed overhead, on their way to more important targets, but only a few have stopped to machine-gun or bomb the area.

Occasionally Canadian soldiers on leave find their way to this haven, living at sea-side hotels populated by persons too old to find a niche in the war effort. These people also mind their own business and the soldiers find it difficult to break down their natural British reserve.

What do Canadians and British people talk about when they meet for the first time? It depends on how long the Canadian has been in the country.

One of the first questions a Briton asks is: "How long have you been here?" If the answer is only a few weeks the new-found acquaintance will most likely talk about Britain's peacetime beauty areas and holiday resorts.

But if you say a year or more he will want to hear and talk about Canada. He figures that anybody living here more than a year has heard just about everything there is to tell. The appetite for Canadian news, however, seems insatiable.

Our Living Language

There are roughly 200,000,000 people speaking the English language. Situated in many diverse lands and continents they speak the tongue with their own peculiar idioms. When they choose to sit down and write their thoughts in something approaching classic English they are all on common ground. But when they meet in conversation, on board ship, at clubs, in hotels, and here and there on the many war fronts they fall back on the vernacular which differs with each group. The Australian, the New Zealander, the South African, the Canadian and the American have their own pet phrases and uses of words. As for England itself there are a score of idioms and a multitude of differing uses and meanings of words.

The war, by mixing up the various groups of English-speaking people, will bring about an interchange of this idiom. Every day the American, the Englishman, the Aussie, the South African, the Canadian and the New Zealander are exchanging words and pet phrases. They are finding that each of the other groups has interpretations of words, and pronunciations, which belong exclusively to itself. After the war the general language pattern for all will be enlarged; we shall be the richer in our mutual language. All of which proves how vital and living a thing is this language of ours and how foolish it is to be dogmatic about such things as spelling, meaning or pronunciation. Shakespeare's English is not our English and the speech we use today will not be entirely the speech of the next century. But we do know that English will be spoken then, probably by millions of people to whom it is how a foreign language, for it is not a dead tongue but a quick and sensitive speech, admirably fitted for the strenuous and exacting years ahead.—London Free Press.

Mother of Corn and Men

A Latin scholar's tribute to Canada is cited by The Times (London) in its obituary of the late Dr. T. R. Glover, who was public orator in Cambridge University for 19 years and once, 45 years ago, professor of Latin in Queen's University, Canada.

This tribute, in Latin, was contained in the words in which Dr. Glover presented Mr. Mackenzie King for an honorary degree at Cambridge. This is The Times translation:

"First of all Britain's colonies, strong in the bond which unites two races, renowned in peace and war, noble mother of corn and men, possessor of mountains, rivers, lakes and prairies of rare beauty, lovely with all the loveliness of sun and snow."

"Noble mother of corn and men!" It is praise and tribute of rare felicity of speech and, much more, it is an invocation of a spiritual greatness in Canada to match this northland of ours, "lovely with all the loveliness of sun and snow," which spans a continent from sea to sea.—Vancouver Province.

A Bible Message

The preparations of the heart in man, and the answer of the tongue, is from the Lord.... Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be established....

By mercy and truth iniquity is purged: and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil. When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him....

A man's heart deviseth his way: but the Lord directeth his steps....

The highway of the upright is to depart from evil: he that keepeth his way preserveth his soul. (Prov. 16: 1, 3, 6, 7, 9, 17.)

This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart....

But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus. (Eph. 4: 17, 18, 20, 21.)

From the moment she had started school till years later, when, with a sigh of relief, she heard its doors close behind her, Emma Sheepshanks had suffered under her ridiculous name. The poor girl had writhed under her disadvantage, and lived for only the day when some man would marry her and change it.

At last! Emma Sheepshanks knew immediately that she had met her soul-mate! He dispensed with an introduction. He had begged for a dance, several dances, and asked permission to call.

Trembling, she heard his ring. Eagerly she seized his card from the maid. One glance at it, and her eyes blazed with indignation.

"Tell Mr. Ramsbottom," she said, "that I am not at home today nor upon any future occasion."

Hand-Picked Crews Begin Bombing Of Rome

Allied hand-picked air crews have begun the bombing of Rome, in a follow-up to the Churchill-Roosevelt ultimatum for Italy to get out of the war or suffer the consequences. They are avoiding all religious landmarks but are bombing military targets fiercely. Here is a view of Rome from St. Peter's Square.

Germans Rant, Say Allied Raiders Bomb Churches

By The Associated Press

Axis propagandists pulled out all stops to-day and proclaimed loudly that Allied air raiders had indiscriminately bombed church property, historic landmarks and educational institutions in Rome yesterday, but their charges were largely belied by reports from neutral sources.

The Berlin radio took the lead in painting a black picture of the destruction wrought in the Eternal City, describing the attack as 'criminal and lacking in military purpose, ignoring the fact that the San Lorenzo railway yards—one of the principal objectives—is a vital cog in the Axis war machinery.

Basilica Damaged.

Both German and Italian propagandists dwelt heavily on damage which they said had been done to the fourth century Basilica of San Lorenzo Fuori Le Mura—situated on the Via Tiburtino near the San Lorenzo yards and on the same street where military barracks are located.

Axis reports of damage suffered by this ancient edifice were confirmed by advices from Stockholm quoting a dispatch filed through Italian cenorship by the Rome correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

The Swedish correspondent failed, however, to substantiate sweeping German and Italian claims that the bombing was indiscriminate. Damage, he declared, was limited to the San Lorenzo and Tiburtino districts, adding that the centre of Rome had been spared and that well-known monuments and historic ruins had been left "as peaceful as ever."

Pope Visits Ruins.

Destruction in the bombed areas was described by the Swedish writer as heavy, and he said that all residents of the Italian capital not engaged in essenital occupations had been urged to leave the city as soon as possible.

"Buildings of the medical clinic, orthopedic clinic and institute of public health either were damaged or destroyed by bombs," said a Rome broadcast heard in London. "Devastation caused by the enemy in workers' quarters in San Lorenzo, Tiburtina and Prenestino is horrible."

A Swiss telegraph agency dispatch from Rome said the Pope spent 70 minutes yesterday visiting damaged localities, including "important damage to ancient structures which enjoyed extra-territorial rights."

The dispatch followed almost word-for-word an account by Stefani, Italian propaganda agency, of the Pope's tour of the damaged area.

SWITCHGEAR TEAM SQUEEZES 8-7 VICTORY FROM HOTEL COMBINES

Saints Win Thriller By One Run

In the most thrilling game this season in the C.S.L. loop St. Peter's came from behind to snatch a last minute verdict over the hustling Cubs. The game was marked by two rallies by the Cubs in the sixth and seventh inning which almost tied the count.

Hank Gordon started for St. Peter's but was relieved by Bas. Murphy who went in in the sixth with the bases loaded and retired the side without a run. R. Garvey hurled steady ball for the losers being nicked for six safeties.

For the winners Tompkins and Murphy led with a triple and single. For the losers B. Donoghue led with three singles. E. Sullivan hit a homer and double and R. Garvey had a triple. R. Fitzgerad made two good running catches.

The game was exciting throughout and the issue was in doubt until the final pitch.

The battle tonight between Westclox and Aircraft in the Girls' Softball League has the fans all talking. The Big Bens are unbeaten this season with nine wins and a tie but Aircraft, looking better every time out held them to a draw the last time the two clubs played and might easily have won the decision. Tonight's battle should be a hummer all the way, with both clubs fielding their strongest possible lineups and both set on a victory. There is little doubt as to the Aircraft pitcher on this occasion. It will undoubtedly be Norma Strickland who has been going great guns in recent games. The chances are that Manager Pat Hayden will follow his usual custom and start Marg Watson for the Westclockers. She has been the choice in practically every Big Ben game in the last couple of seasons. Of course the Westclox pilot might cross up the opposition by using Isobel Bullock on the rubber. With Beryl Dobbin ready to go in behind the bat and Verna Patterson available for short he is able to use his catcher-pitcher this season without weakening the lineup in any other respect. Whoever starts it should be a battle royal from start to finish and this tilt between the two leading girls' teams will attract the season's largest crowd.

Fourth Battery, at present holding third slot in the City League race but hopeful of winding up tied with the Soldiers for first place meet the Cardinals for the first time this season tonight at Riverside Park. While the Artillery club is naturally favored to win the fact remains that the Cards have played good ball in their last two starts, against Genelecs and Soldiers and the Gunners better not play them as a bunch of pushovers. The Cardinals have got tired of being kicked around and they are battling all the way, determined to break into the win column before long. And what a kick they would get doing it at the expense of Eddie Starr, Jim Ellis and Company. Battery will be without the services of pitcher Dave Wilson tonight and the hurling chore will be taken over by Ted Naish or Bob Crowe. Cardinals will likely use Bill Anderson or Don Isaacs in their first clash of the season with last year's champions. Tonight's game is called for 7 o'clock and should be interesting all the way.

The Season's Classic

One of the outstanding sporting events of the summer season will be the clash a week from tonight of the Toronto Tip Tops, leaders of the Major Beaches League and an all-star club picked from the Peterborough City League. This match, arranged as a benefit for the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund should pack in the biggest crowd of the season. Tip Tops, of course, are one of the strongest softball clubs in Canada and their appearance here will be regarded as the major softball feature of the year, particularly as the Petes will import a senior pitcher, possibly Cam Ecclestone for the occasion. Outside of the pitching it is felt that the City League can field a team quite capable of making the crack visitors extend themselves to the limit. The Kinsmen report all kinds of co-operation to make the financial side of the game a success. The Tip Top management are sending their team here at their own expense so that the cost of the visiting team will not have to come out of the gate receipts while the Y.M.C.A. is helping out with free dressing-room accomodation, showers etc., for the Tip Tops during their visit. It will be a gala sporting event in aid of a great cause.

Switch Gear's win over the Combines last night added a lot of spice to the City League battle for playoff positions. The loss killed off any hopes the Combines might have had of finishing in a tie for first place in the loop. As a matter of fact it may have prejudiced their chances to land in the playoffs at all, for it put Switch Gear back into the running. They have another game coming up with the Combines and the whole question of which team will cop fourth place may depend on that while Cards with four games left to play still have a mathematical chance. Here is the standing:—

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Soldiers	7	3	.700
Genelecs	6	3	.667
Battery	4	3	.571
Combines	3	4	.429
Switch Gear	2	5	.286
Cardinals	0	6	.000

Games this week: Tonight, Cardinals and Battery; Thursday night, Genelecs and Combines; Friday night, Battery and Switch Gear.

McCready A Changed Man

According to Johnny Fitzgerald in the Telegram Earl McCready who may be matched against Bunny Dunlop in the main bout of next Monday's show in answer to the popular demand for some one big and skilful enough to take the bad man to town, is a changed man. Wrestling fans will enjoy his comment. Here it is: "One of the most noticeable changes around the wrestling circles is the vastly different attitude towards the opponents of one, Earl "Moose" McCready. Earl is no soft-hearted gent, as far as his spirit in the ring was concerned, but he lacked the killer pressure and drive. That is, he DID lack it. Today the Moose is just as he is tagged, a big, rough and somewhat careless gent with his strength. Whether this was brought about by some of the brutal actions of his opponents or the fact that he has been needled so much by those who have wrestled him, is still somewhat of a mystery. Many of the older matmen around these parts figure it was the late Stanley Stasiak who caused Earl to be just a little easy on his opponents, which led to his sustaining far more punishment than was necessary.

* * * * * *

"The name of Jack Taylor is not new to mat fans," continues the article. "Taylor was Earl's first coach and the one whom Earl later defeated for the British Empire and the Canadian titles. It was also Taylor who sustained a broken leg in the Mutual Street Arena during a bout with the same Stan Stasiak. Earl saw the bout and the accident, caused by the large Stasiak applying the tremendous pressure of his arms and body on Taylor who was locked in an inside Japanese leg-lock. It started McCready thinking of his own size and strength and how it compared with the huge Stasiak. He often thought of what would happen if he put on the full pressure while applying some of his favorite arm and leg locks. McCready never used his full strength after Taylor's leg was broken. That is, he stopped using it until the past few weeks. Today he is a different man. Earl is getting along, though 36 is still young for wrestling, actually considered about the prime of life for matmen. He sees a chance to do what many figure he should have done years ago, win the world title. But he has had to get mad to get the chance."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: A softball veteran got back in the game last night when Walter Crary appeared at shortstop for the Combines, after an absence of years....He played good ball in the field and came through with two hits....Manager Harry Morgan of the Soldiers hurt his leg in Monday night's game but expects to be O.K. for the playoffs. ....Some of the United States sports writers have been cracking wise because Gunder Hagg has broken no records on this side of the ocean.... They'll have to admit however that they have been unable to dig up anybody to beat the Flying Swede....Rip Sewell's blooper ball is still pointing toward new records. The veteran Pirate pitcher shut out the Phillies 1 to 0 last night, and that was his 14th win of the season, his eighth straight, against two defeats....Frankie Zak made an error last night that cost four runs and as a result the Montreal Royals defeated the Leafs 5 to 2. It was a loss for Luke Hamlin.

Combines Lose Chance Of First Place Tie

Switchgear eked out an 8 to 7 win over the Combines in a City League battle at Riverside Park Tuesday night after a tussle that was loose but exciting. It was so close that the Delpellaro outfit had the tying and winning runs on the bases when Manager Delpellaro himself popped up for the third out in the ninth. The loss killed the Combines chances of finishing in a tie for first place.

Combines were without Pat Calladine, Cal Nicholls and Girard but they cashed in on Switchgear errors to make it an exciting argument all the way.

Bert Harrison went the route for the winners and might have had an easier task if his support had not fallen to pieces in the seventh when Combines scored five runs on two hits. Switchgear made four errors in that frame and they were decidedly costly.

Sid Craig was starting pitcher for the losers and after Switchgear had bunched hits on him for four runs in the second he got by without much trouble until the sixth, when Lionel Holmes nomered behind a safe bunt by Jack Carpenter. With the score tied starting the eighth Craig was relieved by Freddy Elliott after the first batter had reached second on a scratch double. Then the Switchgear proceeded to win the game at the expense of the relief pitcher.

Outstanding fielding play was a running catch in right centre by Stan Murduff, who ran far to his right and grabbed a hard smash by Barney Ashmore while travelling at top speed. The circus catch robbed the Switchgear catcher of a homer.

Combines took the in the second half of the first frame. Currie led off with a single but was forced at second by Brockley, who was in turn forced by Caccavella. McCormick's single to centre and Whitehill's high throw sent Caccavella home. Delpellaro popped up to end the inning.

Switchgear roared back with four in the second. Maloney walked and stole second. Holmes flied to Brockley, Robertson bunted and Maloney was safe at third. A passed ball scored him. Whitehill rolled to Currie, Robertson being held. Harrison singled to send him in. Art Pagett tripled over McCormick's head, scoring Harrison, and Jamieson slammed a single over second on which Pagett trotted home. Carpenter rolled to Coursey to end the inning.

There was no further scoring until the sixth when Switchgear made it 6 to 1. Carpenter beat out a bunt down the first base line to start it off. Murduff's circus catch robbed Ashmore of a potential homer and Maloney popped to Coursey. Lionel Holmes, however, came through with a line homer over McCormick's head, sending Carpenter in ahead of him. Robertson flied to Crary.

That was all until the sudden Combine uprising in the seventh. Crary started things with a single to short, and went to second on a wild pitch. Murduff popped to Harrison. Coursey hit to Maloney who threw high to first, Crary scoring and the batter reaching second. Craig was safe on Pagett's error. Currie lifted a fly to Carpenter in left and the left fielder dropped it, Coursey and Craig scoring and Currie completed the circuit when the throw got away from Maloney. Brockley was tossed out by Harrison but Caccavella scratched a hit, went to second on a passed ball and came home on McCormick's single to left. Delpellaro flied to Carpenter for the third out but Combines had tied the score.

However Switchgear came back in the eighth with a pair of markers that meant the ball game. Robertson started with a scratch double along the left field foul line which Crary nearly nabbed on the dead run. Elliott succeeded Craig and tossed out Whitehill on a bounder to the box. Harrison beat out a roller to Caccavella, Robertson going to third. He came home on a passed ball. Pagett rolled to Caccavella and Harrison scored on the play, Jamieson flied to Crary.

With two out in the ninth Combines made a bid for the ball game that threw a scare into the Switchgear camp. Brockley started the rally by beating out a roller to Jamieson. Caccavella drew a walk and McCormick singled to centre, scoring Brockley, sending Caccavella to third and going to second on the throw-in. The tying and winning runs were on and it was all up to Manager Andy Delpellaro. A hit would have meant the ball game but he popped weakly to Maloney and it was all over.

White Sox Continue To Climb In Tight American Race

Wally Moses — Threat to Case — Buck Ross — Orval Grove — Six in Row

The Chicago White Sox have come up with some new stars and here they are now threatening the pennant leaders. To begin with, the Pale Hose are hitting and fielding better than most of the other clubs. The Sox are getting good pitching and some surprising hitting help from to rookies. And, in addition, Outfielder Wally Moses has been staging the riot act on the bases, threatening Georgie Case for the league leadership. Swatting of Guy Curtwright, rookie from Schevport, has been the talk of the league. Ordinarily a .275 average hitter, Curtwright has been belting the ball at a near .350 clip. Jimmy Grant, rookie third baseman from St. Paul, also has been batting around .300. On the slab side, Orval Grove, big righthander who could win only four games last year, has won seven straight without a defeat. Lee (Buck) Ross, a Connie Mack castoff, has been pressing Grove for team pitching honors. He already has equalled his 1942 victory total. Thornton (Lefty) Lee, once the ace of the White Sox staff, has begun his comeback this year and already has contributed more victories than he turned in all of last season when he was plagued with a sore arm. Johnny Humphries, leading twirler of the club in '42, has turned in several fine performances, and Edgar ("Hand Luck") Smith, the southpaw who won oply seven against 20 losses last year, has pitched better baseball this year, although he now has been reported suspended by Manager Dykes for not keeping in training. The Sox haven't won a pennant since 1919. The team finished sixth last year.

Bagnato Wins Tough Session

NEW YORK, July 21—Joey Bagnato, much improved Toronto lightweight, won a unanimous eight-round decision at the Queensboro Stadium here last night after being nearly knocked out in the first round.

Bagnato got up off the floor after taking an eight and nine count in the first round in his fight with Jimmy Cool of Worcester, Mass., and went on from there to win a rousing scrap, which had the fans standing on their seats. Bagnato had a pull in weight at 136, Cool weighed 131½.

The Toronto scrapper more than got even with Cool for the rough treatment he got in the first heat, decking the lanky Worcester boy in the sixth round with a murderous left hook. From then on in he swarmed all over Cool and was well on top at the finish.

Bagnato is in line for a shot at Lulu Constantino, but before he gets this young smoothie to mix with he'll fight for Mike Jacobs in the Polo Grounds, Aug. 26, in an eight-round semi-final to the Ray-Robinson-Henry Armstrong fight. His rival will be Al Guyda. Bagnato is managed now by George Sheppard, former Toronto boy.

RUMOURS CAUSE SHORTAGES

We all know the people who pretend to be "in the know" and warn us that this or that will be rationed next. Those people are dangerous! By frightening others into panic buying they cause shortages that need never have existed. Decent people buy only what they need, confident that if rationing does become necessary, they will receive a fair share.

NEW YORK, July 21—(AP)—The Philadelphia - Pittsburgh Eagles-Steelers are starting a bit of pre-season football practice tonight, which brings a resounding razzberry from pro football folks in this town. . . . Steve Owen reports that the Giants have good prospects of lining up a full squad to bring drills in mid August—his club already has about 25 players signed.

One Minute Sports Page

Mel Ott tells scribes travelling with the Giants that Bobo Newsom had been waived out of the National League before that Brooklyn rookus even started . . . Umpire Hinko, who worked the Dodgers-White Sox exhibition at Cooperstown, N.Y., makes the most of his opportunity. His chest protector carries an ad for a local taxi company . . . Carrying the idea to its extreme, an ump in Brooklyn could advertise "See Memphis." . . . George Chip, the old-time middleweight champ, now a watchman at a tire plant near New Castle, Pa., walks a dozen miles a day and entertains himself en route by laughing at folks who can't get along on a gallon and a half of gas a week. George never owned a car.

Royals Finish Series Beating Toronto

By The Associated Press

Rosters of some of the International League clubs are undergoing a complexion treatment that may change not only their appearance but the standings.

In recent days Pittsburg Pirates have recalled two star outfielders, Maurice Van Robays and Al Rubeling, from the league-leading Toronto Leafs, who a short time before had sold pitcher Dick Conger to Philadelphia Phillies.

Yesterday Jersey City Giants had to give up Pitcher Tom Sunkel to Montreal Royals to complete the National League deal involving their parent clubs, New York and Brooklyn, by which the Giants got Joe Medwick.

And last night Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, appeared before Montreal sports writers and told them Brooklyn was planning to send the Royals additional pitchers in exchange for Luis Rodriguez Olmo, the slugging Cuban outfielder.

The Royals stepped out and beat Toronto 5-2 in the deciding game of their series. They had to use three pitchers and needed the help of a critical error by infielder Frank Zak of the Leafs to bag the victory, but they nailed it, nevertheless, with four runs in the seventh inning—two of them on Olmo's second triple of the struggle.

The other action in the International League last night was limited to a pair of doubleheaders, each of which was divided.

Baltimore Orioles beat Syracuse 6-5 with a nine-hit attack in a twilight tussle and then the Chiefs came back in the night-cap to win 6-1 with Tom De La Cruz pitching a four-hitter.

Buffalo battered Rochester Red-wings into submission 5-1 in the first game and then the Wings staged a 14-hit uprising in the second game to win 7-5.

Red Schoendienst made two errors in the opener.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Revised ratings of the National Boxing Association, announced at Washington last night, included Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland for the first time as a contender for the heavyweight championship held by Sgt. Joe Louis, Bivins being ranked third behind Billy Conn and Melio Bettina, both of whom are in the army. Special mention was also made of Tami Raurirello of New York; Lee Savold of Des Moines and Turkey Thompson of Los Angeles.

No one was listed as champion in the lightweight division by the N.B.A. but an effort is being made to have a title bout between Sammy Angott, former holder of the crown, and Philadelphia Bob Montgomery, recognized as the titleholder by the N.Y. Boxing Commission, to settle the issue. Chalky White, Beau Jack of Georgia, Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind., and Johnny Greco of Montreal figure prominently in the lightweight list. Undisputed champion of the featherweights is Jackie Callura of Hamilton and other feather ratings include Willie Pep, U.S. Navy, Wright of Los Angeles, Sal Bartola and Phil Terranova.

The N. B. A. formally lists Gus Lesnevich of the Coast Guard as the light heavyweight champion; Tony Zale as the middleweight titlist; Freddie Cochran of the Navy as the welterweight leader; Manuel Ortiz in the bantamweight division and Little Dado of the Philippines as head of the flyweights.

Montreal Royals gained a player yesterday in the acquisition of pitcher Tom Sunkel in a cash deal with the New York Giants who had called him from the Jersey City club.

Female Star

Helen Nicol, who went from Calgary to Kenosha, Wis., to play in P. K. Wrigley's All -American Girls' Softball League has, scored 12 victories against six defeats and leads the league in strikeouts with 113. Gladys Davis, Toronto shortstop with Rockford, Ill., is tops with the willow for a .372 average hitting safely in 45 out of 172 times at bat.

Philadelphia Bob Montgomery, recognized by New York State as the light weight champ, defeated Frankie Wills, veteran ringster before 12,000 at Washington last night, taking an unanimous 10-round decision. Wills claimed he had weakened himself by reducing his weight below 145 pounds. Montgomery tipped the beam at 137½.

Bowlers of Brantford, Preston, Walkerville, London, Stratford, Tillsonburg, Chatham and Welland gathered at Woodstock and Ingersoll today for the annual Scotch doubles under the auspices of the Woodstock Lawn Bowling Club.

Bobo Newsom Strengthen St. Louis Browns

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues are heading into the home stretch to-day with plenty of opportunity as well as determination to shuffle the standings before the end of the season.

More player swaps have been made in the last week than in any similar period since the 1942 campaign closed. Brooklyn Dodgers have undergone a house-cleaning that sent Pitcher Bob Newsom to St. Louis Browns, Outfielder Joe Medwick to New York Giants and Catcher Dee Moore to Philadelphia Phillies.

Many other clubs have dipped into the farm systems for additional strength and some more moves of this character probably will be completed before the week is over.

How all the changes will add up in the standings remains to be seen but both the Browns and Giants appear to be strengthened and hope to rise.

St. Louis now is just half a game out of the first division and with the acquisition of Newsom, who was one of the National League's leading hurlers until he became involved in the revolt of the Dodgers, may yet get into the battle for the American League pennant.

Nine Games Down.

The team is nine games behind the first place New York Yankees, but only three and a half games back of the second place Washington Senators. Manager Luke Sewell was given a new two-year contract yesterday and recently two of his star players, Vernon Stephens and George McQuinn, were turned down by the army, stabilizing the whole picture for the Browns. Their test will start today with the opening of a series against the Yanks.

Altogether 11 games are on tap to-day and to-night with the eastern clubs of the National League heading into the west and the western clubs of the American League invading the east.

The Phillies and Pirates beat their rivals to the draw with a game at Pittsburg last night which the Buccaneers captured 1-0 for Truett (Rip) Sewell's 14th victory against two defeats. His five-hit hurling was matched by Richard (Kewpie) Barrett of the Phillies, but the Pirates bunched three of their singles for the only run of the game in the second inning.

Two New Clubs Seek NHL Status

TORONTO, July 21.—Buffalo and Cleveland hockey interests met with a National Hockey League committee here yesterday to discuss prospects of being included in the N.H.L.

No decision was reached, but Lou Jacobs and Eddie Shore of Buffalo and Al Sutphin of Cleveland gatherel what information they could at what one spokesman termed "an informal gathering" and then departed for home.

A special N.H.L. committee comprising Ed Bickle of Toronto, Art Ross of Boston and James Norris Sr., of Detroit, met the Buffalo and Cleveland men and discussed N.H.L. operations. If the two American League clubs desire to make application they can do so, but it is unlikely any definite decision will be made by the N.H.L. for two or three weeks.

Bill Tobin of Chicago and Frank Selke also were in attendance at the meeting.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 21—(CP).—Acting as ersatz snapshots while Charles Edwards is on holidays, and watch the popularity rating skid:

Athletes and chorus girls generally agree that legs are first to give way under strain of a strenuous career. But not Bill Cook, coach of Cleveland Barons. Walt (Saskatoon Star Phoenix) Riddell quotes Bill as saying he could skate as fast as any rookie in his last year with New York Rangers. "But my eyes did not focus as quickly as they did in my younger days to judge the distance giving and taking passes."

Get-rich-quick:

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara, noting the financial harvests reaped by such United States sport writers as Dan Parker, Bill Corum, Joe Williams and Stanley Woodward (all have country estates) remarks ruefully in a note to Andy Lytle of the Toronto Star that a Canadian sports writer rarely "leaves anything behind him except his posterior."

Paddock plum:

The sensation of the western Canada racing circuit is Jimmy Braddish, 23-year-old Medicine Hat, Alta., jockey who had never ridden on major tracks until this season. Discharged from the army, Jimmy decided to try his luck in the big-time although he couldn't claim the five-pound apprentice "bug" because of his age. He rode his first winner at Calgary Saturday, scored a triple at Regina Monday, booted two home on Tuesday and greeted the judges first three times on Wednesday.

Around the circuit:

Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, who waded through surf to take command of American troops in Sicily, used to be a steeplechase pilot at Pimlico. Somehow, we can't picture Andy McNaughton exercising horses at Dufferin . . . Bob Elson, known to Canadians for his Chicago hockey broadcasts and world series renditions, is a lieutenant in the United States Navy . . . John Sweeney, described as one of the most promising football players ever developed in Calgary, travelled 1,000 miles recently to enlist in the United States Marines at Butte, Mont. . . . Billy Hood, veteran North Sydney, N.S., reinsman, is accumulating a string of victories in Nova Scotia with Josedale Hoosier, imported chestnut trotter owned by Charles Walker of Halifax.

Sport Shorts From Britain

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 21 —(CP) — A leaping Lieutenant led a divisional troops team to the Sansom Trophy, emblem of the track and field championship of a Canadian armored division.

Considered one of the greatest exponents of field events in the Canadian Army overseas, Lieut. J. D. Crashley of Oakville, Ont., won all four jumping events to account for 20 points of a team total of 37. An armored brigade team finished second with 33 points while an artillery unit was third with 16.

Lt. Gen. E. W. Sansom took time out from official duties to present the trophy and a history-making featore was music by massed pipe bands of the infantry brigade. It was the first time that Irish and Scottish pipes have been combined into a massed band in the Canadian army. They were under Pipe Major George Pate of Toronto.

Crashley, member of the Governor-General's Horse Guards, jumped to victory in the standing broad running broad, running high, and hop, step and jump. Only other participant to take more than one event was Sgt. C. Bortolussi of Powell River, B. C., an outstanding speedster back home. Attached to the Westminster Regiment, he won the 100 and 200-yard dashes, and was a member of the winning Armored Brigade team in the 440-yard relay.

Winning marks in the various events were not announced but other winners included Tpr. J. McDonald of Minnelosa, Man., in the 440-yard run; Bdr. H. M. Goodman of Broadview, Sask., in the 880; Pte J. E. Clegg of Toronto in the mile, and Pte. L. V. Gerrard of Vancouver in the three-mile grind. Pte. J. Kcleta of Kenmora, Alta., placed first in the shot put.

Principal organizers of the meet were Lieut. F. C. Whyte of London, Ont., and Supervisor Bill Naylor of Windsor, Ont.

Soldiers from Canadian reinforcement units drew rounds of applause from hundreds of spectators, including many Britons, at a Dominion Day celebration that featured several events not on the ordinary grogram of a field meet.

For instance, a hard tussle between several competitors and a greasepole was won by Gnr. Frank Ostopowich (816 Selkirk Avenue), Winnipeg, while L. Cpl. Michael Wizbiski of Tyndall, Sask., and Gnr. Edwin Fielding of Truro, N. S., ended up as joint victors in a pillow fight competition.

An event billed as a team tumbling display fell little short of a high-lass circus acrobatic act. The team was headed by Sgt. Jack Jackson of Edmonton, and other members included Gnrs. Earl Moynihan (1490 Dundas Street), Toronto; Kowal (354 Elgin Avenut), Winnipeg; Art Ross (56 Osborne Street), Toronto, and Bdr. Charles Clarkson, (713 Dovercourt Road), Toronto.

Mrs. T. Jolliffe Graduate Of Toronto College

By Anita Freedman,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, July 21 — (CP. —It takes only a short conversation with Mrs. E. B. Jolliffee to learn that she insists on being known as a member of the C. C. F. in her own right rather than as the wife of the Party's Ontario leader.

Slight, young —in her middle thirites—and blond, she's proud that she joined the C. C. F. in 1934, a year before she married Ted Jolliffe. She's a veteran campaigner with active work in eight elections —four of them by-elections — to her credit.

"My husband and I have always worked together in political interests but just the same I'd prefer to be known as on individual worker," she says. "There's so much work to be done and I'd like to feel that I'm doing my share."

She was alert and poised after a day of work at party headquarters. Wearing a simple navy frock, she sat curled in a deep chintz-covered chair in her small modestly-furnished home in North Central Toronto. Quiet-spoken and completely feminine, she managed to convey a decisiveness and drive which makes you understand why her C. C. F. associates call her "the best little canvasser we have."

Woman Journalist.

Born Ruth Moore of Dundas, Ont., she graduated from the University of Toronto in 1930. She did publicity work and free-lance journalism and eventually became assistant editor and insurance editor of a financial publication. Keeping a fond eye on what she considered a promising political group, she studied with them, wrote publicity, served on committees. Yet managed to keep up her own journalistic work until as recently as five months ago.

Her bright-cheeked daughter, five-months-old Naomi— hasn't slowed down the political pace of this energetic young mother who maintains that while a woman must build a home "it's her duty to interest herself and her family in political life because as a Canadian citizen she has a part to play in the affairs of her country just as much as a man."

Successor Kneels At Bier

General Sosnkowski, the new Polish commander-in-chief, kneels before the bier of the man he succeeded, General Sikorski, who died in a plane crash at Gibraltar. General Sikorski's body lies in state at Kensington Palace Gardens, headquarters of the Polish government in exile, London, England.

but Headquarters reported "steady progress" by British troops with "very few casualties" inflicted on the Nazis.

With Italian defences fading and the Germans fighting only a desperate delaying action, the Axis position in Sicily appeared to be entering a critical phase.

Mutiny Continues

Italian soldiers, choosing between surrender and continuation of resistance which could serve only to lay more of the island in ruins, were reported officially to be mutinying against their German officers and giving themselves up in droves.

Only the Germans, thrown into the eastern coastal area in an attempt to halt the Allied tide rolling on toward the mainland, were fighting fiercely, but these battles were regarded as little more than rearguard delaying operations.

No Axis propagandist now dared a public prediction that Sicily would be spared from conquest and the alibi of defeat—by superior forces on land and sea and in the air—already had been prepared by Fascist leaders in Rome, who gloomily spoke of the prospects of an Allied invasion of the Italian peninsula itself.

But bitter fighting remained in Sicily, and bearing the brunt of it, reports said, was the British 8th Army's drive at the city's environs, but Nazi tank attacks were reported to have been shattered with bloody enemy losses and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces were gathering strength to smash that key city's defences, and continue on toward Messina, 50 miles away at the extreme northeastern tip of the island.

The United States 7th Army, which advanced 10 miles west from Agrigento yesterday, appeared to be delayed in its northward advance aimed at cutting the island in half only by the difficult mountainous terrain.

More than 35,000 Axis prisoners had been rounded up in the Allied drive, some 7,000 by Canadians, and evidence of the hatred the Italians hold for the Germans was mounting.

In some instances crowds had to be restrained from attacking German prisoners as they were marched through the streets and the inhabitants habitually broke into catcalls at the sight of captured Nazis.

by land, sea and air attack since the Southwest Pacific offensive started on July 1.

This fourth attempt to crack the Munda blockade brought to 17 the number of Japanese warships listed officially as having been sunk in the fast-spreading Allied offensive in the Solomons. Five more are considered probably lost.

Allied ground forces moving slowly in on Munda were aided yesterday by bombers which dropped 18 tons of bombs on Japanese gun positions along a perimeter about two miles east of the airdrome.

An enemy destroyer at anchor in the harbor of Sarong, Dutch New Guinea, and a medium sized cargo ship off the coast there were also bombed, with unobserved results, by wide-ranging bombers which also:—

Attacked the Kahili airdrome on Bougainville Island, starting numerous fires and explosions with 42 tons of bombs;

Set ablaze the fuel dump at the Alexishafen airdrome on New Guinea;

Started large fires among supply dumps and installations at Madang, New Guinea;

Bombed the airdrome at Cape Chater on Timor Island, setting more than 30 fires which "merged in one large conflagration"; and Struck the town and barracks area of Koepang on Timor at night, starting seven large and numerous small fires.

Dr. D. McArthur Dies Suddenly At Summer Home

TORONTO, July 21.—Hon. Duncan McArthur, 58, Minister of Education for Ontario, died at his Grand Bend summer home yesterday. In failing health for some years, Dr. McArthur nevertheless had participated in the Provincial election campaign and spoke only a few nights ago. His death came suddenly.

Regarded as one of Canada's outstanding educationists, Dr. McArthur rose to Cabinet rank from his position as Deputy Minister of Education—only Deputy Minister to so rise in the Province's history.

Dr. McArthur was not regarded as a politician, but rather as a close student of educational methods and facilities in all parts of the world. One of his strongest advocacies was that of flexible courses in elementary and secondary schools as encouraging initiative and self-dependence on the part of the pupil. Originally, he was a lawyer and estates manager, practicing for some time in Toronto. He was appointed Deputy Minister of Education in 1934 after being head of the history department of Queen's University, and in 1940 he succeeded the late Dr. L. J. Simpson, with whom he had worked closely, as Minister of the department.

Caused Many Changes.

He was credited with many changes in Ontario's educational system together with wide modernization of textbooks. For some years he headed a committee which investigated costs and efficiency of the Provincial system and recommended many changes in both administration and curricula,—several of which were put into effect.

He was the author of several textbooks and also made contributions to "Canada and Its Provinces," and "The Cambridge History of the British Empire." He was born at Dutton, March 17, 1885, son of James and Francis Dutton. In 1930 he married Floy Lawson, daughter of Frank Lawson of London, Ont. There are two daughters, Mary and Helen. Dr. McArthur attended public and high schools of Dutton, Queen's University and Osgoode Hall. He received the honory degree of LL.D. from the University of Western Ontario, Queen's and University of Toronto.

When Dr. Simpson died, Dr. McArthur went to the same riding of Simcoe Centre to contest the election. Usually, Simcoe Centre provides hard tussles for its candidates, but in Dr. McArthur's case he was given an acclamation on Oct. 24, 1940.

The funeral service will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 191 Cheapside Street, London, Ont., with interment in Woodland Cemetery, London.

Frost Promises Action For Reservists

LINDSAY, July 21 (CP). — L. M. Frost, Progressive Conservative member of the last Legislature for Victoria, said last night he has informed elections officials that mandamus proceedings will be started unless action is taken by 2 p.m., E.D.T., today to faciliate voting in the Aug. 4 Ontario election by members of the Reserve Army units attending military camp on that date.

Mr. Frost made public a telegram to Major Alex Lewis, chief electoral officer, saying Major C. G. Frost of the 2nd Midland Regiment (Reserve) would start mandamus proceedings against Major Lewis unless necessary steps for obtaining the vote had been taken by the 2 p.m. deadline. Major Frost is a brother of the Victoria member.

(Major Lewis said last night that members of Military District No. 3 (Kingston) would not have an opportunity to vote because they would leave for military camp at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa July 25, three days before the official nomination day. He said it would be impossible for the men to vote because ballots could not be printed until after the official nominations.)

In his telegram today, Mr. Frost said he was "shocked" to learn that Reserve Army men from M. D. 3 would be disfranchised.

"After a thorough study I am satisfied that all members of the Reserve Army are entitled to vote under the provision of the Active Service Elections Act, 1942, and I intend to see that every possible step is taken to give the various Reserve Army units affected the opportunity of voting Aug. 4," the telegram said.

Canadian Bill

LONDON, July 21 (CP Cable).— The House of Lords today gave first reading to the "British North America Bill 1943" which provides for postponement of redistribution of Canada's House of Commons seats until after the war.

Viscount Cranborne, government leader, said the Canadian Government had particularly requested the British Government that parliament pass the bill before July 24.

Social Credit Names New Head

WINNIPEG, July 21 (CP)—Paul Prince, of La Broquerie, Man., was re-elected president of the Manitoba Social Credit party at the organization's annual convention here last night.

"We are enemies of prejudice and of those who think they can juggle the truth forever," Mr. Prince told the delegates. Politicians and the press of the country, he said, had declared the objective of Social Credit was "the creation of a fool's paradise through rubber money."

"The true answer is that Social Credit is not merely a system of monetary reform, but an organization based on a philosophy of life," he added. "It is a belief, a credo, that men in association can get the results they want."

C. A. Bailey, of Headingly, Man., newly-elected vice-president, declared he placed no faith in promises being made to men serving in the armed forces.

"It is the same gang of dollar-worshippers who betrayed them before," he said. "Social Credit will do all it can to make Canada a country worthy of the sacrifice being made for her."

SELL BASKETS.

Used fruit baskets, hampers and crates should not be destroyed or discarded, it was stated to-day by W. E. Foley of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. They are valuable for packing the current crop of fruits and vegetables. Most stores, peddlers and dealers will buy used containers at prices in keeping with their sizes and condition. To put them back in circulation, Mr. Foley said, is no small help to the war effort, saving as it does the labor and material that must go into the production of new containers.

Ontario Crops Showing Good Harvest

The farm program of work in Ontario is moving generally into the broad sweep of the harvest as recorded in the weekly crop of review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

A few fields of fall wheat were cut in Ontario County toward the close of last week with the expectation that machines would be operating in other fields this week.

Harvesting has begun in Peterborough, although not all of the hay is cut. Some of it will be so late that its feed value will be much reduced.

Haying is about half finished in Northumberland, harvesting of the rye crop is under way, and the cutting of wheat has been begun. Cherries are selling at $1 to $1.25 the six quart basket.

Durham farmers have about threequarters of their hay chore finished. Three or more loads to the acre are quite common. Several buck rakes have been in use, and farmers say they are well satisfied with this labor saving.

Prince Edward reports two cars of horses sold recently to an American buyer. Tomatoes are making excellent growth and corn is doing well.

Crop Is Heavy.

Early Frontenac lambs are coming to the market around $12 to $15 a hundred pounds. "Haying operations are continuing in favorable weather, but it is a slow job, due to the heavy crop."

Some of the counties reflect a decrease in the flow of milk caused by hot weather and flies.

Grenville says aftermath from early cut hay is good; many stacks of hay are being built throughout the county, as the crop is one of the most abundant in the history of the county. Barley and oats are heading out, and Duchess and Wealthy apples point to an excellent crop.

Wentworth potatoes promise a good crop. The cherry crop in Welland is about half the expected volume. Many farmers in Simcoe are facing considerable loss of hay due to lack of labor to handle the big yield.

Col. Drew Voted For Election Liberals Claim

In his radio address Tuesday, T. J. Carley, K.C., speaking in behalf of Captain A. L. Elliott, the Liberal candidate who is on active service overseas, discussed the objection raised by the Progressive Conservatives in the assertion "He Can't Represent Us."

"The Legislature you now elect will be entitled to hold office for five years, and will normally hold five sessions in that time," Mr. Carley said. "That Alex Elliott will be absent from the Legislature for at least one of these sessions is highly probable. No one can reasonably expect the war to end within the next six months, and you can be sure that Alex Elliott with his usual tenacity of purpose will remain a soldier until he finishes the job.

Charge Inconsistency

However, isn't it strange that our Conservative friends should condemn the Government for holding an election at the present time, stating that nobody wanted an election, and in the very next breath state that it is extremely important that Peterborough's representative should be in the Legislature and not in the Army. If nobody wanted an election, and if no election had been held, then Alex Elliott, though overseas, would still be our representative. Surely if it were so important to have our member here and not in the Army, our local Conservatives would want an election.

They say nobody wanted an election. Surely the Conservatives must know that Colonel George Drew and every Conservative in the House voted against the bill to extend the life of the Legislature for another year at its last session a few months ago. In other words, Colonel Drew and his party voted for an election. At that time Gordon Conant was Premier, having succeeded Premier Hepburn.

Showed Independence

Harry Nixon was then a private member, and he showed his independence by voting with Colonel Drew against the bill to extend the life of Parliament. In other words, Mr. Nixon and Colonel Drew and the Conservative party agreed that as Mr. Conant had not been endorsed as Premier by the electors of Ontario, but had been chosen by Mr. Hepburn, the electors of the province should say whether they approved of this or not.

Also the Legislature had been elected in October 1937, and as it was only elected for five years, its life had already been extended one year by its own act, and it was now proposed to extend it another year. Mr. Nixon showed the courage of his convictions—broke from his party and voted with the Conservatives in favor of an election.

When Harry Nixon was chosen leader of the Liberal party and later became Premier he announced there would be an election. He gave George Drew exactly what he asked for—an election, and now to his surprise he finds George and the Conservative party don't want it. In other words they were trying to fool the Legislature by asking for an election, and now they are trying to fool the voters by saying they didn't want it. Truly it has been said, "Consistency, thou are a jewel!"

Soldier in Nipissing

Mr. Carley said that the Progressive Conservative candidate in Nipissing is Col. E. G. Young, M.C., now in England. "If they don't want soldier candidates why shouldn't they go up to Nipissing and tell the electors there: 'Don't vote for Colonel Young; he can't represent you in the Legislature. He is overseas.'"

Another point stressed by Mr. Carley was the desirability of soldier representation in the Legislature when the war ends.

"When the soldiers return and resume civil life, would it not be the best gift Peterborough citizens could offer them, to say: 'boys we have not forgotten you in your absence; we have given our confidence to one of you; you have a powerful voice in the Legislative halls of Ontario; you have as your representative a man experienced as a parliamentarian, a man who knows your views and your problems. You have as your representative your old comrade-in-arms, Alex Elliott, a real man."

Stealing Auto Results 15-Month Term

Fifteen months in the Ontario Reformatory was the sentence handed out by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court today on Norman Robert Bookout, 22, of Castleton, a former member of the Canadian Army overseas who previously had pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile, the property of Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick of Peterborough.

Bookhout drove to Hamilton in the stolen car and was there arrested.

Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., produced the accused's record this morning. It showed that Bookhout had first got into trouble at Ashland, B.C. where he had been given suspended sentence and later at Cobourg where he got ten days for theft.

The dossier also revealed that the accused had been convicted of a number of cases of theft while in England.

"It looks as if this boy has been determined to go his own gait and never got what was coming to him," said Magistrate Gee and Mr. Kerr commented on the fact that he had not been representing but rather disgracing the army overseas.

"There are worse than me over there," said Bookhout. "After you had a year's civil detention and the army gives you an immediate court-martial and more detention you sort of lose your faith."

'A spoiled boy," commented Magistrate Gee when the accused said he was an only son.

"Even your family has given you up as hopeless."

"I was not spoiled," said Bookhout. "My father kicked me out when I was 16 and he was fined for beating me."

"I am not asking for any minimum in this case," said Mr. Kerr but when Magistrate Gee mentioned a two-year sentence the acting crown attorney suggested that it might be less than that. Finally Magistrate Gee made the term of imprisonment 15 months.

Dr. Kelly Finds Health Service In Good Shape

"Peterborough's health services seem to me to be in very good shape," said Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., as a general impression of his observations since beginning his work here early this month.

"I think we have a fine staff, keenly interested in the health of the citizens. Sanitary Inspector MacPherson is away on his holidays at present, but I have been getting around to many plants, and to the waterworks and filtration plant, which impressed me very much. Affairs are quiet at the Queen Mary Hospital, and generally things seem to be quite normal."

Dr. Kelly said he hoped that parents knew the Well Babies and immunization clinics were again operating. Attendance has already increased slightly, and the service is being continued from the point at which Dr. D. B. Avison left it.

Well Babies clinics are as follows: Wednesday, 2.30-4 p.m. at All Saints' Church; Friday, Central School, 2.30-4.

Immunization clinics are: Tuesdays, 9.30-11 at Immaculate Conception School; Thursday, 10-11.30, Queen Mary School.

Brinton Picnic Makes $15 For War Victims

An echo of the first start made by the employees of the Brinton-Peterboro Carpet Co., Ltd., to give aid to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund is to be found today in yet another of their many donations which really comes as a result of their picnic held on July 10 on the grounds adjoining the plant on Braidwood Ave.

Through the initiative of Reg. Kingdon and Walter Dyer, the former of whom was the very first to supervise a regular system of a collection among the employees, in which he was seconded by the latter, a Horse Race booth was set up, where for a very modest figure as low as one cent a game for the children, entertainment was provided, which through the generosity of H. Dodds who loaned his equipment as a contribution to the cause, has been made the means of raising the nice sum of $15.00 for the fund listed in today's receipts.

Supplementing the splendid work done in such a regular manner by the employees on behalf of the fund, the grand total has now risen to the impressive sum of $798, counting this, the latest example of their efforts to help things along, their being no finer example in all the annals of the fund of what steady work can accomplish when people have an objective for good to others before them.

By co-incidence, another very steady supporter of the fund also happens to be recorded again in to-day's list, for it has appeared almost on a weekly basis, and so the aggregate from the penny box at the Empress Hotel must be very considerable, much of which is due to the splendid interest taken in it by Chris Graham, who has made it a rule to place a daily deposit ever since the box was installed there.

PO. Carl Grose

PO. Grose enlisted shortly after his 21st birthday in May 1941 and trained as a pilot in Quebec and was at Oshawa for a time. He arrived overseas in April 1 of this year and had not been engaged on many flights over enemy territory as he was undergoing the preliminary training.

Before joining the Air Force, Carl Grose was employed in the Structural Steel department of the C.G.E. and he had attended Prince of Wales School and the Collegiate Institute. At the time of his death he was 23. He had formerly been an Examiner Carrier boy.

Peterboro Man's Mother Passes

OWEN SOUND, July 21 — The death occurred on Monday morning of Mrs. Alfred McCauley at her home, 601 Seventh street "A" East, following an illness of several years duration. She was in her 76th year and will be deeply mourned in the family circle and among many old friends.

The former Annie Mathern was born in Beaverdale, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mathern. She was married at her home there to Alfred McCauley 50 years ago this fall. They moved to Owen Sound five years later, and she had lived here ever since. In religion, she was a member of Knox United church.

Besides her husband, Mrs. McCauley is mourned by two sons, Earl E. in Alaska, and J. H. McCauley of Peterborough, and two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Ogg and Mrs. D. McAllister, both of this city. One sister, Mrs. Shore, at Edmonton, and one brother, D. Mathern, at Detroit also survive.

Her son, J. H. McCauley of Peterborough is general foreman of the composing room of the Examiner, and lives at 306 Margaret avenue. He was on a two-weeks' holiday and arrived home just after his mother's death.

93rd Veteran Dies Suddenly

Stanley Wilbert McCabe, 343 George street south, a life-long resident of Peterborough, died suddenly in Montreal Tuesday. He was in a dentist's office at the time and dropped dead. His family in Peterborough have not been advised of the cause of death, though it is believed a heart attack may have been responsible. A coroner's inquest will be held in Montreal.

Mr. McCabe, a member of the Veterans' Guard of Canada, was in Montreal on duty at an internment camp for prisoners of war.

He was born in Peterborough 53 years ago the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCabe. Prior to enlistment in the Veterans' Guard he had been employed with the National Groceries for 20 years.

He was a veteran of the First World War, having joined the 93rd Battalion here and been transferred on arrival overseas in England to the 21st Infantry Battalion.

Mr. McCabe was a member of Canadian Legion No. 52 and of the 59th Regimental Band, Barriefield.

His wife, the former Stella Duggan, survives and there is one son, Roy of Long Branch, Ont. Two sisters, Mrs. W. Wheeler and Mrs. H. Spargo, reside in Peterborough. A brother of Mr. McCabe's lost his life in the World War.

The body will be resting at the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, from Thursday morning, and announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Prices Bd. Case Causes Storm During Trial

There was a few moments turmoil in a Wartime Prices and Trade Board case in police court this morning when John Russell, father of a 14-year-old boy who was giving evidence for the prosecution objected to the manner in which Defence Counsel, W. J. Arthur Fair, was cross-examining his son.

"I am here to protect my boy," said Russell.

"I want that man put out of the court-room," demanded the defence lawyer but Magistrate Gee declined to act on the suggestion, advising the father to take a seat.

"It's nonsensical," said Mr. Fair, "three or four officials taking all this time about a matter of a few cents. Cherries are selling up in the Niagara Peninsula for $3.00 a basket and prices are up everywhere. Why don't they get busy over some of that stuff instead of bothering about peanuts."

The case being heard was one laid against Mrs. M. Hartley, Smith township of selling ice cream, soft drinks and peanuts at a price higher than was reasonable and just.

W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuted the case for the Wartime Prices and Trades Board.

Charlie Russell, 144, said that he had bought ice cream cones and bars at Nick's Camp last year for five cents, peanuts were five cents a and large bottle of ginger ale 19 cents. This year the witness stated that prices for similar articles had been for a while six cents for the ice cream cones and bars, six cents for peanuts and 25 cents for the large bottle of ginger ale.

A younger brother corroborated this evidence.

Grace Thompson swore that she had paid 7 cents for a package of toffee at Nick's Camp last fall and Bertha Moncrief testified that she had seen 12 cents paid this spring for two packages of peanuts.

B. W. McClennan, inspecotr for the Wartime Prices and Trades Board swore that he had bought an Eskimo pie from Mrs. Hartley's son in May of this year and had been charged six cents for it. He said that Mrs. Hartley had refused to give him a written list of the prices she was charging.

M. R. Sloan was called to show that Nick's Camp was located in the township of Smith.

Court adjourned for luncheon after the prosecution had completed its evidence.

Officials Check On Sale Of Beer In Peterborough

The retail sale of beer in Peterborough was investigated Tuesday by two representatives of the Liquor Control Board.

The supervisors of breweries and brewery warehouses were here to consider complaints from several local factories that were encountering considerable absenteeism which they knew was largely caused by some workers taking time off to get some share of the limited supply of the beverage that was once brewed from hops.

Alderman Swanston and a factory representative went to Toronto last Friday at the suggestion of some of the factory executives, and was promised an early enquiry into the local situation.

"The two supervisors discussed things with W. T. Hall at the warehouse," Alderman Swanston said. "He was very agreeable to help in any way that seemed possible. I don't know whether the Liquor Control Board can do anything about it, but they will have the report from the two men who were here, and we may hear from them before long."

Youth's License Is Suspended

"I was not afraid of the police but I didn't stop", admitted 21-year-old Kenneth McConnell in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident on Park street, Tuesday afternoon. Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer, giving a report on the accident, said that a car driven south on Rubidge street by McConnell had collided with a parked car in front of 125 Rubidge street and had continued on without stopping.

"I might venture the hope", said Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C. "that the accused car was badly damaged."

"No, it was not," replied Sergt. Puffer.

"I think this boy's driving license should be taken away from him," said Mr. Kerr. "Any person driving a car in broad daylight who can't avoid hitting a stationary car should not have the privilege of driving."

Magistrate E. A. Gee fined the accused $25 and $2.50 costs and announced that his license would be suspended for a month. "You can walk for a while," he told McConnell.

"I'll walk for the duration", said the accused. "I don't think I will bother to drive again."

GIVE OTTAWA IT'S ANSWER
Premier Nixon, who has chosen to throw Ontario into the turmoil of an election at a time when the attention of all patriotic citizens is fixed on events in Sicily, unodubtedly owes his position as the head of the Liberal government in this province to the pressure exerted by the Mackenzie King Federal administration.
It is his reward for standing by the Federal leader in the last Dominion election.
As the leader of a puppet government for the powers-that-be at Ottawa he hopes to grab off five more years of power and also test the water of the political pool for the benefit of the Federal Liberal politicians.
It's a case of thumbs down for any Liberal, patriotic enough to take a stand against Ottawa when he feels there is need of consructive criticism.
Col. Fraser Hunter, gallant veteran of the last great war was such a Liberal. He ventured to find fault with features of the war effort and he has been ousted out of the nomination in his Toronto riding as a result of his independence.
That kind of thing should be sternly rebuked by the electors on August 4.
Peterborough voters have made their minds up to give Premier Nixon, and through him, the Ottawa government its answer.
Their reply will be furnished in ballots marked for

Hot Weather Intensifies Housewives Food Problems

During this period of rationing the women-folk of Ontario realize that they have to utilize every available scrap of food. This is particularly difficult during the warmer weather. For those who have refrigerators, the problem is not so great but for the unfortunates who only have an ice-box, and the ice can only be delivered "if and when," and for the very unfortunate who haven't any ice at all, the problem is indeed great.

The problem? A nasty little microbe that is responsible for brewing a poison which causes most food-poisoning trouble. This microbe, according to Dr. G. M. Dack of the University of Chicago, is called a "Staphylococcus." The name is bad enough but the food-poisoning illness ensuing from the diseased food is worse.

Not all "Staphylococci" have the poison-forming power but let "Toxic Staphylococci" get into the left-overs, and the food will turn into poison in just a few hours. This invariably happens when the food is kept at the temperature of the ordinary kitchen. There is not the faintest hint of the poison's presence by odor. The poison can form in food that has been thoroughly cooked; and once the poison is formed, subsequent cooking does not destroy it. If food is to be kept for any length of time it should not be left around the kitchen but should be kept at the 40 degree temperature of the refrigerator, in the ice-box or the coldest room in the house. The Staphylococcus cannot grow and multiply in the cold air.

With refrigerators at a premium, those who have one should take care of it. Remember that free circulation of cold air inside the cabinet is necessary for perfect refrigeration. Overcrowding of refrigerator shelves hinders good circulation. Milk and other bottles goods should be arranged on the top shelf next to the freezer. A simple rule to follow is to cover all foods except those foods with their own natural covering, such as: lemons, oranges, and eggs.

Meats should be stored with a thin layer of waxed paper covering them. All strong flavored foods such as cucumbers, melons, etc., should be well covered. Hot foods should always be cooled before wrapping with a cover of wax paper. Paper holds the heat inside the food long enough for the microbe to produce the poison, and also, hot dishes when placed in the refrigerator cause greater current consumption.

Many housewives have had difficulty in getting ice this summer. A local ice dealer offers the following suggestion on the conservation of ice that we have—ice conserves ice; that is, keep your box well-filled but with the evident shortage, this is not possible, so another suggestion is—wrap ice in a newspaper. When buying an ice-box, always buy a medium or large box. Ice dealers also advise not opening the door of the ice box too often. This same warning may also be applied to owners of refrigerators.

Now when every man-hour is needed it is the duty of the housewife to check the spread of food-poisoning and the foregoing may be of some assistance in this respect.

CRISIS ARISES WHEN PARENTS DIFFER ON TRAINING OF CHILD

Tie That Binds Sometimes Appears as Stork Bearing Trouble For Everyone in Home

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: —With the arrival of my first baby trouble began between my wife and myself over family discipline. She had one theory of rearing children and I another, and this alienated not only my wife and myself from each other, but me from my children, who came to regard me as a killjoy and a tyrant.

I insisted on my right and duty as a father and the family combined to combat my ideas. For instance, I insisted that my daughters, under 18, should not be out after midnight, escort or no escort. Twelve o'clock was my deadline. But not with the mother and the girls. And as I defended my principles vigorously and often, we fought over it until all the girls were married.

Finally I left home, and later got a divorce from my wife. Since then everything has been quiet and peaceful and an occasional visit or letter has kept me informed of my family's doings, although we are a thousand miles apart. Recently a letter has reached me from my former wife asking me to come back. What should I do? Should I go back with an understanding that my authority is to prevail? Or should I forget the whole thing, as I have done so far?

FATHER

Conflict in Child Training Ideas Serious

ANSWER: Children are supposed to be the tie that binds husbands and wives closer together than any other bond. Fortunately this is generally the case, but there are many instances in which the stork drops trouble along with the baby in a home, and when Junior should be cited as the real co-respondent in the divorce proceedings, who is responsible for coming between a husband and wife and breaking up a happy family.

It is only when the father and mother can do teamwork and agree on the same plan of action in dealing with their children that they are drawn closer together. When they have different theories about whether their youngsters should be brought up according to the Spartan way that Father was or cuddled like Mama was, they have a fight on their hands that is good for a row from the cradle to the time their sons and daughters are married, and they turn over the job of managing them to their own wives and husbands.

This is bad for the children, because while Mother and Father are engaged in dealing each other body blows, the youngsters have their chance to do as they please. Wise people realize this, and so one or the other withdraws from the conflict on a sort of negotiated peace basis. Other parents com-

Howell-Shadgett Vows Made at Pretty Wedding

One of the loveliest weddings of of the summer season took place Monday evening at 6.30 p.m. in St. John's church, Peterborough, when Winojene (Bink) Shadgett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert V. Shadgett, became the bride of LAC. Walter Harold Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howell.

Standards of white delphinium and summer flowers formed a pretty blue-white setting for the service, which was performed by the Rev. Rigby. Fred Mann played the organ and oduring the signing of the register Victor Coleman sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white pointe d'esprit over taffeta, made on the Princess style with a sweetheart neckline and had short puffed sleeves. She wore long white lace mitts. The full-length Irish Point lace bridal veil fell from a coronet shape cap, and the bride carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses and bouvardia. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gife of her aunt, Mrs. George Keller of New York City.

Mrs. Don Hall, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Mrs. George Broadley, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Thelma Howell, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. All were dressed alike and wore full length gowns of sky-blue pointe d'esprit over taffeta, made along the same lines as the bridal gown. They wore halo hats of the same material and carried nosegay bouquets of garden flowers.

Roy Pitchford, R.C.A.F., stationed at Trenton, attended LAC. Howell as best man and the ushers were John Weeks, of London, Ontario, and William Shadgett, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at Hooper's Palm Room after the service, where Mrs. Shadgett, wearing a brown suit with beige accessories and a beige hat with a brown veil, and Mrs. Howell, wearing a dress of dusty pink sheer with white accessories, and a white hat with tiny veil, received the guests with the young couple. Both wore corsages of Briarcliffe and Johanna Hill roses and bouvardia.

For travelling the bride changed to a navy suit trimmed with white with which she wore navy accessories. Leading Aircraftsman and Mrs. Howell left for a trip to Montreal, Quebec and Victoriaville.

Reserve Army Robbed Drew Claims

GANANOQUE, July 21 (CP) — A denial of the right to vote in the Provincial election to men of the Reserve Army in camp at that time brought scatching denunciation of the Nixon Government last night from George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader.

The ruling about the Reserve Army troops in camp affects men in the Kingston military district.

Mr. Drew addressed an open-air meeting in the town park in support of Walter B. Reynolds, M.P.P. for Leeds in the last Legislature.

Particular interest centres in the contest in Leeds because of the presence in the campaign of Mrs. George T. Fulford, wife of the present Liberal M.P. She is running as the Liberal candidate for the Ontario seat. James Lawson is the C. C. F. candidate.

"The men in the Reserve Army are doing their military work on top of full-time jobs. Few are eligible for active service, but they are playing their part. The thanks they now get from this Government is to be put on the 'Indian list' and be denied the right of a vote which the act clearly gives to all members of the force in camp.

"It is clear now that there is no trick to which this Government will not stoop in its efforts to steal this elecion. The men and women in the armed forces overseas have been deliberately disfranchised. No real attempt was made to organize the distribution of proxies to those in Canada outside of Ontario. And now thousands of members of the Reserve Army, all who are under orders to go to camp at the time of the election, are told by this Government that they are not really members of the forces' and have no right to vote in camp as soldiers.

"Arrangements had already been made at the various camps to take this vote. There are no practical difficulties in the way, but this Government simply says that the members of the Reserve Army are not members of the 'forces,' and in that way, denied a vote to which they are clearly entitled by law. If they aren't members of the 'forces,' what are they?

"There has never been more dishonest rigging of an election than we are seeing right here in Ontario," continued Mr. Drew. "We see that in the voters' lists as well.

Nixon Cancels Meetings To Attend Funeral

CHAPLEAU, Ont., July 21.—(CP).—Ontario Premier Harry Nixon cancelled speaking engagements in Kirkland Lake, Timmins and North Bay, when he learned of the death of Dr. Duncan McArthur, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, Tuesday. He will arrive in Toronto to-day and will pick up the threads of his election campaign at a Saturday night meeting in Ottawa.

Sudden death of Dr. McArthur will not interrupt plans which he had initiated for public education in Ontario, Premier Nixon said. He described the Minister's death as 'not only the loss of a trusted colleague, but that of a close friend."

"Dr. McArthur had far-reaching plans for the development of education in Ontario,' he saaid. "These plans will not be allowed to lapse because of his death. Their realization will be a fitting memorial to a man whose life was devoted to the welfare of his province."

The Premier received news of Dr. McArthur's death at White River, en route from Port Arthur to Timmins by train, in a telegram from Dr. G. F. Rogers, Deputy Minister of Education.

Proxies Arrive Next Friday

TORONTO, July 21 (CP).—Maj. Alex Lewis, chief election officer for Ontario, said today that proxies from overseas are on their way to Canada by plane and should arrive Friday.

"I had word this morning from G. H. Ward, our agent in England, who stated that the proxies were on their way," said Major Lewis. "The reason for delay seems to be that the men are slow in completing and returning their proxies. Everything was done in England to assist the men in completing their forms."

When the proxies arrive they will be delivered directly to the persons authorized to vote on behalf of the servicemen and these people must then go before their revising officer to have the names of the overseas voters placed on the lists.

House Session To Adjourn Later In Week

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 21 — (CP). — Despite prolonged discussion on a revised Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act for the three Prairie Provinces, many members of Parliament are counting on ending the 1943 session this week.

Last night, the decks were cleared for adjournment by the introduction of estimates of all but one government department into committee of supply in the House of Commons. The bulk of the business remaining before the chamber is approval of the greater part of more than $500,000,000 in non-war estimates.

The importance of getting the estimates of different departments before the Committee of Supply is that on introducing estimates to tht committee any member has the right to air any matter he may wish to discuss.

By consent of all parties last night all departments except National War Services were entered. That department was left out to give members a chance to bring up new matters.

Farm Credit Act

The revised Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, designed to meet a situation created by a Privy Council decision invalidating provincial debt adjustment laws in Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, was under consideration in committee of the whole throughout most of yesterday's sitting and will be considered again today.

It received second reading on Monday. Most Opposition members from the Prairie Provinces argued the Act was insufficient to meet the farm debt problem but Finance Minister Ilsley, sponsor of the Bill, said debt adjustment laws must remain emergency legislation and a permanent measure for whittling down debts was without precedent in any country.

At the opening of the sitting, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, called attention to what he said were "grave irregularities" in the compilation of the voters' list for the Aug. 9 federal by-election in Montreal Cartier, where David Lewis, national secretary of the C.C.F. is a candidate.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King thanked Mr. Coldwell for bringing the matter up and promised an immediate investigation. He said any offenders would be dealt with summarily, regardless of their offence or the party to which they belonged.

650 Involved

Mr. Coldwell quoted from letter to the Montreal newspapers, affidavits and reports from investigators to support his claim that of 2,000 names on the Cartier list examined 650 were found to be improperly listed.

Babies, children, non-existent and dead persons were on the list, said Mr. Coldwell, estimating that of the 42,000 names listed at least 10,000 would prove to be there improperly, while others that should be listed had been left off.

There was evidence that some enumerators had admitted padding the list but their only punishment was to forfeit the $35 they were to have been paid.

He said impersonation was known to be common in Montreal and this system of "telegraphing" votes had been illustrated in 1935 when Bishop John Farthing, then Anglican bishop of Montreal, arrived at a poll only to be told his vote had been cast.

Incompetence

"The present lists are an invitation to dishonesty on election day, an invitation of which the election machines which have been developed are not in the habit of refusing to take advantage," said Mr. Coldwell.

He said the returning officer, Lazarus Bavitch, a nephew of the Liberal candidate, had "shown his complete incompetence in connection with this work," and suggested an assistant returning officer should be appointed by one of the candidates.

There should be two enumerators for each poll, representing opposing parties, and each voter should be required to show his national registration certificate, Mr. Coldwell suggested.

To make the guilty enumerator forfeit his pay was not enough — "those responsible for this corrupation should be prosecuted to the utmost extent of the law."

The Senate met last night and gave first reading to a number of bills passed last week by the lower House. It meets again today to consider the bills and second reading.

C.C.F. Proposals Lean To Fascism

TORONTO, July 21.—C.C.F. proposals to "take key industries and nationalize them" makes the C.C.F. "another name for fascism," Capt. A. Roy Brown, Liberel candidate in Woodbine, last night declared in an address, in which he also assailed The Globe and Mail.

When he was nominated a week ago he knew little about politics, Capt. Brown said, but since then he had "learned plenty." The Globe and Mail, he said, had reported him as having called George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, a "liar' in his nomination speech, and had changed a letter of denial which he had sent the paper. Since then, he said, another letter stating that a stenographer had recorded everything he said, with no record of his having used that word, had been ignored by the paper.

Capt. Brown proposed that Mr. Drew, who had done a fine job of fault-finding as Opposition Leader, should be left "to lead that party down the road' and should not be disturbed. On the other hand, he said, Mr. Nixon had been associated with the splendid service given by the Liberal Government and should be supported so that he could continue his good work.

LONDON, Ont., July 21.—(CP).—City Clerk Ken Crawford has a new job this season—rationing rifle ammunition and shotgun shells to district farmers, out to get the mischief-making groundhogs in their fields. 20 Millions Chopped Off Ontario's Debt

FORT WILLIAM, July 20 — (CP). — Premier Harry Nixon of Ontario indicated here last night that the completion of the highway along the north shore of Lake Superior, between the lakehead and Sault Ste. Marie, would be one of the projects to be undertaken as a post-war employment project.

Ontario's finances in recent years had been put in such good shape that "we can now assist the Dominion and other provinces in projects for the post-war period," he declared. The province had started to build the Lake Shore highway north from the Sault before the war, and also had been building the road eastward from the lakehead. The Sudbury to the Sault highway was of the highest standard with much of it paved.

Mr. Nixon estimated that as high as 75 per cent of the road had been built between Schreiber and White River.

The final link of the trans-Canada highway via Geraldton and Hearst had been built out of revenue of Ontario, he said.

Ontario's debt last year was cut by more than $20,000,000 and the net debt cut by $11,000,000 for a greater reduction in one year than in all the years since the first dollar was borrowed by a government in Ontario, said the Premier.

Cruiser Blows Roof Off Catania Station

By PAUL KERN LEE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ABOARD A BRITISH CRUISER SHELLING CATANIA, July 18 — (Delayed)—(AP).—This cruiser took the roof off the Catania main railway station this morning with six bulls-eye shots.

The target was cleverly selected as it was a point where the highway and the railroad intersect, and a route along which the Axis must move troops, either south as reinforcements or north in retreat.

Intermittent bombardments of such Axis key points and batteries continued throughout the day. Meanwhile, artillery fighting again was visible ashore as the 8th Army pushed into a zone of Catania, only three miles from the city.

The Axis evidently was throwing a large force into the defence of the Catania area, as it is the best-defended city between Augusta and Messina.

Farther north, the rugged mountain country crowned by Mount Etna, was considered likely more formidable than any fixed defences.

The conquest of Catalian airfields should give cover for an advance in that sector.

Chinese Catholics Ask Italy Heed Allies

CHUNGKING, July 21 — (AP). — The Chinese Catholic newspaper, Social Welfare, today expressed the hope that the bombing of Rome would stimulate the Italian people to "wake up and live for Italy and Roman civilization."

The paper urged that the Italians heed the call of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt for an honorable capitulation. It regarded the bombing of Rome as a forerunner of the invasion of the Italian mainland.

Irish Papers Suggest Keep Rome Open City

BELFAST, July 21 (CP).—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's newspaper, the Irish Press, declared today the bombing of Rome by Allied planes "will sadden many in Britain, the United States and in other nations."

"It is for us grievous tidings indeed," the newspaper said. "Surely it is possible even now to have Rome classed an open city."

The Irish Times and other Dublin papers suggested that De Valera ask the Italian government to declare Rome an open city and approach the British and United States governments at the same time with requests to cease raids on the city pending a reply.

Murray Endorses F.D.R. For 4th Term

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP).—Senator James Murray (Dem. Mont.) endorsed President Roosevelt for a fourth term yesterday with the prediction "he cannot escape being renominated and re-elected.

"I am sure he would gladly lay down the reins of government to any one the Democratic Party might offer as a wise and able leader to carry through to final victory," Murray told a reporter.

Murray said ne had not discussed the matter with the President, and had no idea of the President's intentions regarding a fourth term.

"But we are in the midst of a war that will require his leadership to carry us through to a successful conclusion," Murray said.

Union Goes To Court For Bargaining Agency

TORONTO, July 21 (CP) —Local 637, International Union Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, claiming to represent a majority of International Nickel's workers at the company's Port Colborne smelter, applied in the Labor Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday to be recognized as the collective bargaining agency for the workers at the smelter. The union was represented by E. B. Jolliffe. Mr. Justice Gillanders presided at the court.

Opposing the claim, International Nickel Co. of Canada, Ltd., represented by T. D. Delamere, claimed that it already had an agreement with its Port Colborne employees through "Port Colobrne 'Inco Employes' Welfare Association.' The latter organization, represented by E. Macauley, Dillon and William Crow of Port Colborne, also opposed the application of Local 637.

Both Mr. Dillon and Mr. Delamere, in opening preliminaries, contended the agreement already in force was valid and binding as being made with a collective bargaining agency within the terms of the act.

MONTREAL, July 21 — (CP). — Strike of 5,000 shipyard workers at Marine Industries, Sorel, Que., appeared ended last night, but that of 3,500 workers at Canadian Vickers yards here remained unsettled.

HOW CAN I HAVE MORE ALLURE?

PEPSODENT WITH IRIUM CAN ADD ALLURE TO YOUR SMILE!

You will have more poise...more charm...even more pleasing personality, if you can smile confidently...buoyantly. And you can, if your teeth are given their natural brilliance. Make sure that your teeth are bright and lustrous. Film on teeth collects stains, makes teeth look dull and dingy. Pepsodent with Irium removes that film...uncovers the natural brightness of your smile.

Remember : : : DON'T WASTE PEPSODENT
Help save for others, and there will be enough for you.

1. Pour Pepsodent Powder in your hand, not on your brush. Use only a spot the size of a nickel. It's enough.

2. Measure out ½-inch of Pepsodent Paste on brush. It's plenty. Always squeeze and roll tube from the bottom.

3. Buy the large size when you buy Pepsodent Tooth Paste. Save metal ...save yourself time. Get more paste at less cost.

promise and occasionally either the father or the mother is broad-minded enough to see that he or she is wrong, and that the party of the other part is right.

From your letter I judge you do not belong in the appeaser class and that you have the man-being-the-head-of-the - house complex, and that you refuse to recognize that manners and customs have changed since you were a boy. But you can no more deal with the youth of today successfully the way your father dealt with you than you could run a business on a fifty year ago platform.

Youth has been emancipated in the last fifty years. It does man things now as a matter of course that simply weren't done in your day. It doesn't cling to Papa's hand until it is 25 or 30. It stands on its own feet. Girls are out in the world supporting themselves at the age when they used to be considered trundle - bed trash. Boys still in their teens are flying the most awful engines of death the world has ever known and fighting the war for us.

So if you will be honest with ourself, Father, I think you will see that you were wrong in trying to apply the antiquated method of rearing children to your youngsters, and that you cut yourself off from a lot of love and companionship that you might have had with them but for your harsh methods, as well as breaking up a home that should have been a happy one.

I cannot, of course, advise you as to whether you should go back to your wife or not. That is a matter you must decide for yourself. But if you are still unreconstructed, I think you had better stay as you are and let well enough alone. Few patched up marriages are successful.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am deeply in love with a fine man, and we would have been married long ago except that I am a tall girl and he is several inches shorter than I am. My relatives and friends like him very much, but I have a feeling that if I were to marry him that they would talk behind my back and say that we do not make a handsome pair.

There is another young man who is tall, dark and handsome, and people always compliment us when we are out together and say how well we look together, but I don't feel the affection for him that I do for my short friend. Please tell me if the difference in height could became a handicap that would ruin our married life if I married the short man.

A TALL GIRL

Judge Man By His Head And Heart

ANSWER: You don't measure men by the yard stick to see if they will make desirable husbands or not. You judge them by their characters and what's in their heads and their hearts. If they are intelligent and honest and true and kind and are go-getters, they are worth taking, no matter whether they be short or tall. Some of the greatest men in the world have been small, and some of the most stupid and inefficient giants.

If you are going to guide your life by what you think people say about you behind your back, you are in for a hectic time of it, because no matter what you do you will never be able to please everybody, nor escape criticism.

Certainly the silliest reason I ever heard given for marrying a man is that you make a handsome couple when you walk out together. Just reflect that after marriage most wives do little public promenading. They mostly sit home, or push a perambulator alone, while their handsome husbands are out walking with some young girl.

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do about my mother who reads my mail before I have a chance to see it myself? When questioned about this, she says: "Yes, I do, and what are you going to do about it?"

H.H.P.

ANSWER: That's easy. Rent a post office box and have your mail sent to it, and don't give Mother a key.

Byron Nelson Favorite In Golf Tourney

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, July 21 — (AP). — Gold on a tremendous scale—three tournaments rolled into one— was presented with theatrical setting in the tam o'shanter extravaganza today.

The tournament became the biggest golf show in the United States of the year when the professionals and women joined the amateur ensemble which has held the stage since Monday.

There were 200 swingers in action— 105 professionals, 64 amateurs and 31 women.

While the surviving 64 qualifiers in all American amateur were sweeping through their first day of the match play, the pros battled for 71 places in the $10,000 All American Open and the women played for 18 positions in their tournament— both of which start tomorrow at 72 holes of medal play.

Byron Nelson of Toledo, twice winner of the Tam Open, was rated as a topheavy favorite to repeat while Miss Patty Berg, Minneapolis and Miss Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., were favored to dominate the women's tournament.

Windup of a qualifying round yesterday for amateurs installed Bill Chambers, a sailor from the nearby Great Lakes Naval Training station, as medalist with a 36-hole total of 145, lowest card in a field of 250.

Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., sizzled to a sub par 70 yesterday, the lowest round of the tournament and placed him along with six others in the 149 delegation.

LAWN BOWLING

Without fear of successful contradiction we are going to make this statement, that the Fulford-Burns game, played last night, was just about as fine an exhibition of Lawn Bowling as has been seen on our greens this summer. It was a draw game from the first end to the eighteenth. Both skips were at their best and the help given them by their players was all that could be asked for. Some of the spectators were somewhat sorry when the game was over.

It's funny how a game or two, and also a couple of hours can make such a shake-up in the schedule standing. At 7.30 o'clock there were two or three teams tied for the leadership—at 10.30 o'clock R. Payne's rink was ahead and all by himself—maybe the next time out it will all be changed again. Who knows?

E. Wall and H. Freeman had a real fight, close all the way, with Wall winning out on the last end.

The president himself came through with a tight win over T. M. Millan.

The Sackville-Coleman game was also close, two points separating them.

The remaining games were somewhat one-sided.

We are asking the bowlers to remember the men's doubles tonight at 7 p.m.—Note the time—Choose your own partner.

In the Ladies' Day section Mrs. H. Beatty is leading, with about three or four other rinks a bang up second. It looks like a real hot finish to the wire.

Don't Be a Wallflower—Learn to Dance

There is a right way and a wrong way to dance and there is a right and a wrong way to hold yourself while dancing. The illustration shows the correct position. A man should hold his partner directly in front of him, his right hand placed just below her left shoulder blade.

A girl should relax enough to follow readily, but she should keep her head up and avoid a dreamy pose.

Everyone can dance—it's simply a case of being completely relaxed but not sloppily so. You must not be tense while dancing. If you are you will never be a good dancer.

A woman must cultivate a sense of balance and keep herself pliable when dancing. She can build up self-confidence by practicing new steps by herself.

Our 32-page booklet is full of all the basic dance steps with all the smart variations of popular dances like the rumba and the tango. But if you simply want to learn how to waltz, the booklet will help you not only with instructions, but also with clear-cut diagrams.

For your copy of HOME COURSE IN NEW BALLROOM DANCES send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ONE DECIDING FACTOR

SUCCESS OR failure of a close contract depends often on one deciding factor. In some cases it is a move by the declarer. In others, it is one by a defender. Rich indeed, in bridge lore, is the player who generally can recognize these crucial points as they arrive. If he can be sure and dependable on these fundamental things in the run of the mill hands, he can afford to let his opponents be better in making the fancy plays which delight the admirer of the spectacular.

More profitable was the bidding where South started with 1-Diamond and the side wound up at 4-Hearts, which produces an extra trick if the clubs are guessed right and the contract anyway if they are not. But two tables where No Trump games were bid presented an interesting contrast in results, though at each West led the club 4.

South at both tables played a low club from dummy and, as it developed, the entire outcome depended on what East now did. In one case he played the J. South won with the Q, scored the heart K and finessed the J to the Q. East returned the spade 3 to the 8 and 10, then West led the club 3. The K was put on, East taking it with the A to block the dummy from running the hearts, but South put the club 10 under that. When the spade 5 was led then, South scored with the A, led the club to the 9, ran four hearts left in the dummy and finished with the diamond tops, making an extra trick.

At the other table, when dummy put the 2 on the club lead, East played the 8. He very carefully retained his J to "sit over" the 9, and his A to be ready to overtake the K. Now see if you can bring in that heart suit, or find any other way to take nine tricks in South's position. East saw that his single job was to block re-entry to the hearts and by concentrating on that crucial factor, he made defeat for the declarer certain

Oakes' Daughter Flies To Murder Scene

MIAMI, Fla., July 21 (AP)—Her face and upsweep hair-do obscured by a black veil, pretty 19-year-old Nancy Oakes de Marigny arrived by plane here early today on her flight to Nassau where her husband, Alfred, faces a murder charge in connection with the death of her wealthy father, Sir Harry Oakes.

Questioned about the purpose of her trip, she smiled quickly and replied: "Well, obviously . . ."

"Are you going to help your husband?" she was asked.

"I don't think I would say that," she said.

She was unaccompanied on the trip and after waiting at the airport went into Miami alone in a taxi.

The red-haired daughter of the late gold-mining millionaire who made a fortune through the Lake Shore Mine at Kirkland Lake, Ont., was poised but showed occasional nervousness. She was dressed in a simple black dress and carried an overnight bag bearing the name "De Marigny."

She said she was going to Nassau to represent the Oakes family. She came from New England, where her family owns a home and where she has been in school.

"We are pretty much in the dark," she said. "We know nothing but what we have seen in the papers."

She disclosed she had received a letter from De Marigny last week but written before her father was found bludgeoned to death in his Nassau home. She did not comment on the letter's contents.

She declared she had no opinion about the guilt or innocence of her husband, who was arrested shortly after Sir Harry was found dead in a room sprayed with an inflammable fluid.

De Marigny, who has steadily maintained his innocence in the case, appeared at a preliminary hearing in Nassau yesterday at which time witnesses described the scene in the bedroom where Sir Harry's body was found.

Before there was testimony to support the murder charge against the former count, the hearing was adjourned until next Monday at request of the prosecution.

Mrs. De Marigny said she was leaving Nassau later in the day.

She married last year, incurring the open displeasure of her family. Her father was one of the world's richest men.

By Remote Control

LAWNDALE, Pa., July 21—(AP).—Ann Schneider, 17, received her marriage proposal through her future mother-in-law. Radioman Sam Adams, serving somewhere in the south Pacific, asked his mother in a letter if she'd slip an engagement ring on Miss Schneider's finger and see what she said. The mother, Mrs. Pearl G. Adams, did as her son requested, and Miss Schneider said "Yes."

Council Fires Chief Of Police

KINGSVILLE, Ont., July 21—(CP)— Chief of Police J. C. Babcock, Chief here for about 12 year, was dismissed by the Kingsville Town Council at a special session last night.

Dismissal of the Chief occurred following complaints from residents. Chef Bobcock operates a restaurant here, in addition to his police duties, and council members declared themselves of the opinion that he was devoting too much to his private business and not enough to his police work.

For years, council members asserted, residents of the town have been complaining that Chief Babcock was not to be found when he was wanted. He has been warned by the council time and time again about his action and asked to attend to his duties more closely, it was stated.

During the evening the bride opened her gifts and thanked her friends. The hostess assisted by Miss Marion McCormack, cousin of the bride-to-be served a lunch.

Anti-Land Mine Detail At Work In Sicily

Dr. R. P. Vivian Charges Election Is At Critical Time

MILLBROOK, July 21 (ENS).—Dr. R. P. Vivian of Port Hope, Progressive Conservative candidate for Durham County, was the guest speaker at a meeting held on Friday night at the home of ex-Warden Percy Stinson, which was attended by a large representation of the party stalwarts from Millbrook and the surrounding territory.

Mr. Stinson welcomed the guests and the chair was taken by Russell Earle, president of the Cavan Progressive Conservative Association, who mentioned in his brief address that the Government's oft-repeated slogan: "To Produce, to Produce" urged upon farmers and urban dwellers as well, was somewhat offset by bringing on an election in harvest time.

"The people are ready to have the right thing done in Government Dr. Vivian stated, "but we have a sense of frustration, and hardly know how to get at it; and now we are faced with an election at a bad time, and a critical time and it is going to be for the better if we have a change now."

He expressed his conviction that 'the Liberal party is going out,' and that the Progressive Conservative party 'has a blue print to restore strong government, which must be efficient for our taxes are already too high.' He said it should be seen that the food and the material necessary for war are produced, so the people may have a someback to something that is really worth having. The candidate went on to strongly endorse the twenty-two points outlined in Colonel Drew's policy.

Long Plans

The principles of this policy, he declared had been enunciated at the Port Hope Conference, and were later adopted at the Winnipeg Convention, they were not of sudden growth, but had been three years in the making, beginning when Cecil Frost, of Lindsay, had gone out and talked with all classes of people, and in all kinds of employment, wherever encountered, and "from that we have gone forward and put down on paper the manner in which we felt it could be done ."

The various points of the platform were dealt with in some detail, the benefit to agriculture, to education, to the security of the home, to the prevention of juvenile delinquency, "which is increasing at an alarming rate partly as the result of both fathers and mothers being engaged in war work," improved health conditions proper care and renumeration for those engaged in hazardous occupations, including the hazards of the farm, and some of the financial difficulties to be overcome, were among the issues discussed.

In concluding his address, the speaker was emphatic in his assertion: "The issues are very real; the way may be hard but we are going to see this program carried out and put into actual practice, and do our very best to have these points become a thing accomplished."

Work Together

It was decided in organizing that since Dr. J. W. Wright, president of the Millbrook Association, is now on active service, to have the township and villages act as a for the present election campaign. Percy Stinson was elected secretary, taking the place of I. W. Larmer, resigning after nine years of faithful service. The ladies decided that they would not organize separately, a representative for each ward in the village and township, including a woman and a man, were appointed: Cavan: Ward 1, Howard Fair, Mrs. Reginald Armstrong; Ward 2, W. W. Brown, Mrs. V. Thorne; Ward 3, I. W. Larmer, Mrs. Allie Fallis; Ward 4, Herb Morton, Mrs. Tom McCamus; Ward 5, Robert McCamus, Mrs. Ira Lowe.

Millbrook: Ward 1, Douglas Sheppard, Miss Anna Fair; Ward 2, L. H. Winslow, Mrs. Percy Stinson.

The treasurer, George H. Hooton, made report showing $10.00 paid toward expenses of delegate to the Winnipeg Convention leaving a very small balance on hand, with the Durham Association fee yet to be met, it was decided to have the two treasurers, Messrs. Hootan and W. C. Thorndyke, receive the membership of 25 cents, two years due.

Mr. L. Graham, of Port Hope, was present to answer any questions regarding the voters' lists.

Guard's Bullet Wounds 10-Year-Old Boy

PEMBROKE, Ont., July 21—(CP).—Gerald Leblanc, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Leblanc of Cobalt, Ont., is in the military hospital at Petawawa Camp with a bullet wound in the head, said by police to have been suffered when a guard looking for an escaped war prisoner fired at the Leblanc truck as it failed to stop after being challenged.

The incident occurred late Sunday night, but details were not available until today because of the absence of Provincial Police who investigated the shooting.

Police said the Leblanc family, who had been in Cornwall, Ont., for the past year, were returning to Cobalt, the parents and daughter Muriel, in the cab of a light delivery truck and Gerald in the back.

Highway 17 runs through the Petawawa camp area. Police said the truck had gone about three miles from the camp entrance when it was challenged at a crossing by two members of the Veterans Guard of Canada who were stopping traffic through the area. They said that when the truck did not stop one of the guards fired a shot which struck the boy a glancing blow on the side of the head.

Search for Gauther Krebs, the missing war prisoner, is continuing. He escaped last week with another prisoner who has been recaptured.

Oakes' Daughter Flies To Murder Scene

MIAMI, Fla., July 21 (AP)—Her face and upsweep hair-do obscured by a black veil, pretty 19-year-old Nancy Oakes de Marigny arrived by plane here early today on her flight to Nassau where her husband, Alfred, faces a murder charge in connection with the death of her wealthy father, Sir Harry Oakes.

Questioned about the purpose of her trip, she smiled quickly and replied: "Well, obviously . . ."

"Are you going to help your husband?" she was asked.

"I don't think I would say that," she said.

She was unaccompanied on the trip and after waiting at the airport went into Miami alone in a taxi.

The red-haired daughter of the late gold-mining millionaire who made a fortune through the Lake Shore Mine at Kirkland Lake, Ont., was poised but showed occasional nervousness. She was dressed in a simple black dress and carried an overnight bag bearing the name "De Marigny."

She said she was going to Nassau to represent the Oakes family. She came from New England, where her family owns a home and where she has been in school.

"We are pretty much in the dark." she said. "We know nothing but what we have seen in the papers."

She disclosed she had received a letter from De Marigny last week but written before her father was found bludgeoned to death in his Nassau home. She did not comment on the letter's contents.

She declared she had no opinion about the guilt or innocence of her husband, who was arrested shortly after Sir Harry was found dead in a room sprayed with an inflammable fluid.

De Marigny, who has steadily maintained his innocence in the case, appeared at a preliminary hearing in Nassau yesterday at which time witnesses described the scene in the bedroom where Sir Harry's body was found.

Before there was testimony to support the murder charge against the former count, the hearing was adjourned until next Monday at request of the prosecution.

Mrs. De Marigny said she was leaving Nassau later in the day.

She married last year, incurring the open displeasure of her family. Her father was one of the world's richest men.

LAWNDALE, Pa., July 21—(AP).—Ann Schneider, 17, received her marriage proposal through her future mother-in-law. Radioman Sam Adams, serving somewhere in the south Pacific, asked his mother in a letter if she'd slip an engagement ring on Miss Schneider's finger and see what she said. The mother, Mrs. Pearl G. Adams, did as her son requested, and Miss Schneider said "Yes."

Council Fires Chief Of Police

KINGSVILLE, Ont., July 21—(CP)— Chief of Police J. C. Babcock, Chief here for about 12 year, was dismissed by the Kingsville Town Council at a special session last night.

Dismissal of the Chief occurred following complaints from residents. Chef Bobcock operates a restaurant here, in addition to his police duties, and council members declared themselves of the opinion that he was devoting too much to his private business and not enough to his police work.

For years, council members asserted, residents of the town have been complaining that Chief Babcock was not to be found when he was wanted. He has been warned by the council time and time again about his action and asked to attend to his duties more closely, it was stated.

During the evening the bride opened her gifts and thanked her friends. The hostess assisted by Miss Marion McCormack, cousin of the bride-to-be served a lunch.

Anti-Land Mine Detail At Work In Sicily

Members of an Allied anti-tank mine platoon in Sicily are shown at one of the most hazardous jobs in modern warfare—that of finding, uncovering and immobilizing land mines sown by the retreating foe to hold up the Allied advance. Thousands of such mines had to be found and rendered harmless as the Allies headed inland after landing on Sicily's beaches.

Dr. R. P. Vivian Charges Election Is At Critical Time

MILLBROOK, July 21 (ENS).—Dr. R. P. Vivian of Port Hope, Progressive Conservative candidate for Durham County, was the guest speaker at a meeting held on Friday night at the home of ex-Warden Percy Stinson, which was attended by a large representation of the party stalwarts from Millbrook and the surrounding territory.

Mr. Stinson welcomed the guests and the chair was taken by Russell Earle, president of the Cavan Progressive Conservative Association, who mentioned in his brief address that the Government's oft-repeated slogan: "To Produce, to Produce" urged upon farmers and urban dwellers as well, was somewhat offset by bringing on an election in harvest time.

"The people are ready to have the right thing done in Government Dr. Vivian stated, "but we have a sense of frustration, and hardly know how to get at it; and now we are faced with an election at a bad time, and a critical time and it is going to be for the better if we have a change now."

He expressed his conviction that 'the Liberal party is going out,' and that the Progressive Conservative party 'has a blue print to restore strong government, which must be efficient for our taxes are already too high.' He said it should be seen that the food and the material necessary for war are produced, so the people may have a someback to something that is really worth having. The candidate went on to strongly endorse the twenty-two points outlined in Colonel Drew's policy.

Long Plans

The principles of this policy, he declared had been enunciated at the Port Hope Conference, and were later adopted at the Winnipeg Convention, they were not of sudden growth, but had been three years in the making, beginning when Cecil Frost, of Lindsay, had gone out and talked with all classes of people, and in all kinds of employment, wherever encountered, and "from that we have gone forward and put down on paper the manner in which we felt it could be done ."

The various points of the platform were dealt with in some detail, the benefit to agriculture, to education, to the security of the home, to the prevention of juvenile delinquency, "which is increasing at an alarming rate partly as the result of both fathers and mothers being engaged in war work," improved health conditions proper care and renumeration for those engaged in hazardous occupations, including the hazards of the farm, and some of the financial difficulties to be overcome, were among the issues discussed.

In concluding his address, the speaker was emphatic in his assertion: "The issues are very real; the way may be hard but we are going to see this program carried out and put into actual practice, and do our very best to have these points become a thing accomplished."

Work Together

It was decided in organizing that since Dr. J. W. Wright, president of the Millbrook Association, is now on active service, to have the township and villages act as a for the present election campaign. Percy Stinson was elected secretary, taking the place of I. W. Larmer, resigning after nine years of faithful service. The ladies decided that they would not organize separately, a representative for each ward in the village and township, including a woman and a man, were appointed: Cavan: Ward 1, Howard Fair, Mrs. Reginald Armstrong; Ward 2, W. W. Brown, Mrs. V. Thorne; Ward 3, I. W. Larmer, Mrs. Allie Fallis; Ward 4, Herb Morton, Mrs. Tom McCamus; Ward 5, Robert McCamus, Mrs. Ira Lowe.

Millbrook: Ward 1, Douglas Sheppard, Miss Anna Fair; Ward 2, L. H. Winslow, Mrs. Percy Stinson.

The treasurer, George H. Hooton, made report showing $10.00 paid toward expenses of delegate to the Winnipeg Convention leaving a very small balance on hand, with the Durham Association fee yet to be met, it was decided to have the two treasurers, Messrs. Hootan and W. C. Thorndyke, receive the membership of 25 cents, two years due.

Mr. L. Graham, of Port Hope, was present to answer any questions regarding the voters' lists.

PEMBROKE, Ont., July 21 — (CP). —Gerald Leblanc, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Leblanc of Cobalt, Ont., is in the military hospital at Petawawa Camp with a bullet wound in the head, said by police to have been suffered when a guard looking for an escaped war prisoner fired at the Leblanc truck as it failed to stop after being challenged.

The incident occurred late Sunday night, but details were not available until today because of the absence of Provincial Police who investigated the shooting.

Police said the Leblanc family, who had been in Cornwall, Ont., for the past year, were returning to Cobalt, the parents and daughter Muriel, in the cab of a light delivery truck and Gerald in the back.

Highway 17 runs through the Petawawa camp area. Police said the truck had gone about three miles from the camp entrance when it was challenged at a crossing by two members of the Veterans Guard of Canada who were stopping traffic through the area. They said that when the truck did not stop one of the guards fired a shot which struck the boy a glancing blow on the side of the head.

Search for Gauther Krebs, the missing war prisoner, is continuing. He escaped last week with another prisoner who has been recaptured.

Nazis Unable To Halt Russian Push

Hitler Orders Army Hold Orel Regardless Of Cost

MOSCOW, July 22 —(AP) —German reinforcements, rushed into the Orel breaches by forced marches, counter-attacked viciously in desperate efforts to halt the Russian onslaught yesterday but were smashed back as the Soviet offensive roller on to within nine miles of the German stronghold, the Russians announced officially today.

In a battle of increasing violence which raged 200 miles south of Moscow, the Russians said they beat through masses of enemy tanks and infantry for gains of four to nine miles and overran 90 villages.

Must Be Held.

(The London radio said that Hitler had ordered Orel, hinge of the entire Nazi south-central defence line, held "at all costs)."

The three-pronged Russian drive which threatened to outflank the city of 110,000 from the north and south and menaced it from the east, held these positions:

Driving from the north, the Russians had reached Buky, about 40 miles west of the city and within five miles of the crucial Orel-Bryansk railway at a point 35 miles northeast of Bryansk. Another column from the north had toppled Optukha, nine miles northeast of Orel on the railway from fallen Mtsensk.

Soviet forces smashing frontally from the east had driven into Zolotarevo, 11 miles away.

Most Opposition.

The southern advance on the city was meeting the toughest German opposition and a Soviet communique said only that the Russians "continued to forge ahead." That column was last reported west of Malo at point about 30 miles south of Orel.

In yesterday's severe battles the Russians said they knocked out more than 77 tanks and 131 Nazi planes in the Orel sector alone, and announced that the day's fighting, which raged as far south as the Donets River basin, had taken a toll of 5,800 Germans.

Losses High.

Yesterday's Nazi losses brought the totals as announced by the Russians since July 5 to 3,393 tanks and

Canadians Launch Invasion

Carrying their rifles and equipment, Canadian troops jump from landing craft and wade waist-deep through the sea to launch their dawn assault against the Island of Sicily.

Peterboro District Men Serve In Sicily Campaign

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS BEFORE ENNA, Sicily, July 18—(Delayed)—(CP).—Approaching Enna, key city of Central Sicily, the Canadians battled the Germans in an all-day action, finally smashing through the forward line of enemy positions with heavy artillery concentrations, followed by infantry assault at the bayonet point.

(Canadian and American forces seized Enna July 20, it was learned since Munro wrote this story).

Fighting is still going on in the hills and valleys in front of Enna, but it seems likely that the Canadians are trapping the German battle group which has been holding up their advance for 24 hours. This is the Canadians' first major action in their 100-mile advance from Pachino Peninsula, where they landed at the start of the invasion, July 10.

Throughout the day I watched the battle from hilltop vantage points, seeing Canadian and British artillery plaster the enemy-held hills with hundreds of shells and then seeing the infantry sweep forward to finish the job. Batches of 20 and 30 German prisoners were coming down the dusty roads Sunday night under guard.

Advance Checked.

They were members of the Panzer Grenadiers and the Herman Goering Division that the Canadians bumped into south of Enna. The Canadians' amazing advance into Central Sicily slowed down to a walk on Saturday as this German battle group blew up the roads and then withdrew to strong positions in front of Enna.

Saturday night the Canadian attack was mounted. During the night a Canadian regiment prodded forward in the moonlight and engaged the Germans.

They continued these prodding tactics until mid-morning, and the brigadier in command told me of this unit's splendid job in preparing the way for big attacks. Another regiment went around on the enemy's western flank and then an

To Boost Power Of CBC Stations

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP) — The House of Commons radio committee, in a report tabled today in the Commons, recommended that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation should safeguard channels allotted to Canada under the Havana agreement, and, if necessary, consider increasing the power of all Canadian stations to the limit of the agreement.

The report, presented by the committee chairman, Dr. J. J. McCann (Lib. Renfrew) urged that control over private stations by the CBC be exercised "with fairness."

The committee recalled that last year recommendation was made for increased power for the corporation's nations to take advantage of rights under the Havana agreement. This year evidence had been presented indicating there might be a danger of losing the full use of channels assigned to Canada.

"We believe that the corporation should safeguard these channels and, if necessary, consider increasing the power of all stations to the limit of the agreement," the report said.

Japanese Admit Leaders Worried

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP). — The Tokyo radio broadcast to-day an address by a Japanese air force officer acknowledging that the war situation in the Southwest Pacific is "becoming increasingly dark" as a result of fierce and tragic air battles," the office for war information reported.

The officer, who was not identified, asserted Japan had achieved some "overwhelming victories" in air engagements but declared that the Allies "persistently come back time and again" with seemingly endless replacements, O.W.I. said.

"This illustrates that the enemy, too, is carrying out a counter-offensive with honest effort and with a power that we cannot ignore," the speaker added. "We must recognize that the South Pacific war has now entered a stage where a decisive battle must be fought to determine the victor."

Record Raid Shatters Bairoko Port

Munda Supply Base Blasted To Cover Advance

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, July 22—(AP).—United States bombers shattered Japanese positions at Bairoko Harbor, above Munda, on the north shore of New Georgia Island, yesterday in the heaviest air attack ever made in the southwest Pacific.

More than 150 bombers, operating under a strong fighter cover, pounded the area in a day-long series of raids.

"One hundred and thirty-three tons of bombs were dropped and the area was extensively strafed," the daily report from Allied headquarters said. "It was the heaviest air attack that has been executed by the Allied forces in the southwest Pacific area."

A spokesman added that it also surpassed anything the Japanese ever had done.

Troops Move Up.

The communique said the raid was made "in support of our ground forces." This might indicate American troops were advancing from Enogai Inlet, two miles northeast, where last week they destroyed the entire Japanese garrison.

Bairoko is the supply base for Munda, key Japanese defence point in the central Solomons.

(The Japanese, their artillery knocked out and their armed strength reduced to mortars, machine-guns and small weapons, were said to be contained in pillbox defences ringing the field itself.)

The majority of the enemy's artillery has been knocked out, and the Japanese are fighting chiefly with mortars, machine-guns and small weapons.

The spokesman said there was no sign the enemy could break through the ground, sea and air blockade of Munda and that no important Japanese forces have got through to relieve or reinforce the base.

Japanese opposition was said to be deteriorating steadily, but the spokesman was unwilling to estimate the time when a final break-through and capture is believed possible.

United States ground troops are within a "few thousand yards" of Munda airfield, which "now is in reach of capture," a spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., announced today.

The beleaguered Japanese, clinging tenaciously to the key New Georgia island position, are situated behind strong defensive positions ringing the field, but the Americans are making "very satisfactory progress," the spokesman said.

This dispatch indicated the American troops may have succeeded in moving closer upon Munda than the position two miles away which they have held for some time and which was their nearest approach previously reported. Although two miles and a few thousand yards are roughly synonymous, the statement that the enemy now is contained within the defences surrounding the airdrome itself and that its capture is in reach suggests a further advance has been made.)

Navy Bombards Crotone Port Without Losses

LONDON, July 22 (CP)—Reuters News Agency reported today from Allied Headquarters in North Africa, that the Royal Navy has bombarded the Italian mainland at Crotone in the Gulf of Taranto, on the inner heel of the Italian boot.

Desmond Tighe, a Reuters correspondent with the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean, reported cruisers hurled shells into the harbor area for five minutes in the early hours of yesterday, causing a number of fires.

The British warships suffered no damages in the raid, he said.

The object of the shelling, which had been foreseen in informed quarters in London, apparently was to cut one of the routes by which the Axis might send reinforcements to the toe of the Italian boot for transshipment to Sicily.

This shipment involves a circuitous route down the eastern coastal railway, and may be used more intensively since the bombing of Rome.

More Reinforcements

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a press conference yesterday in North Africa said the Germans were still sending reinforcements to Sicily.

The German radio said today a day and night shuttle service ferrying Axis troops across Messina Straits was using 38 fast motor launches.

The bombardment was the first of the Italian mainland since the invasion of Sicily and the second of the war. The first naval bombardment of the mainland was at Genoa on Feb. 9, 1941.

It was possible that some of Britain's newest and largest battleships participated. The Axis has reported the Nelson, Rodney, King George V and Queen Elizabeth in the Mediterranean. The King George V is of a type completed since the start of the war.

Crotone is about 95 miles southeast of the major naval base of Taranto.

Pre-Dawn Raid Sweeps Airbase

CASTELVETRANO, Sicily, July 22 (AP)—American infantrymen attacking in a pre-dawn charge have captured Castelverano and its strategic airport.

This key city of 25,000 population was the largest urban centre in southwestern Sicily to fall into Allied hands and cost the Axis one of its main air bases. From it Axis fliers used to harass Allied shipping.

Castelvetrano was captured after the Americans had fought their way more than 60 miles in three days through mountainous terrain and over roads where bridges were demolished and mines were thickly laid.

A Quick Reply

PORTLAND, Ore., July 22 —(AP).—Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, was asked at a conference of C.I.O. leaders: "If you were an American citizen, would you vote for President Roosevelt for a fourth term?" The quick reply: "You make me an American citizen and I'll tell you."

Canadians Rip Capodichino In Wellingtons

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 22—(CP Cable). — A large force of Canadian and British Wellington bombers from North Africa attacked the airfields at Aquino and Capodichino near Naples Monday night and large fires were started at Aquino, it was announced Wednesday.

Allied planes, while their attacks were on a somewhat smaller scale than those of Monday, when Rome was hammered by more than 500 bombers, nevertheless also struck at vital enemy airfields in southern Italy and Sardinia.

At least 30 fires were left burning at Aquino and six or eight of them were described as "really big."

Three Wellingtons after making their bombing run returned to shoot up the airfield and one pilot said he saw tracers entering a group of several enemy aircraft on the field. Another saw a plane explode on the ground and when the bombers left their crews declared they saw at least a score of aircraft in flames on the ground.

The attack was carried out with little opposition from either night fighters or ground defences.

The Capodichino raid was carried out entirely by Canadian Wellingtons. They reported the searchlight concentrations were stronger than they have experienced before in attack on this target and that anti-aircraft fire was heavy. The Canadian fliers said they could see the fires at Aquino while they were dropping their explosives on Capodichino.

Several Large Towns Surrender To American Troops

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 22. —(AP). — Fierce fighting continues between the British 8th Army and reinforced German troops near Catania, Allied Headquarters announced today, while on the western end of the front the American 7th Army has captured Castelvetrano and Sciacca on the Sicilian south coast.

In the centre, the communique said, "Canadian troops continue ther advance in the face of determined resistance."

With collapse of resistance in the western section of the island, the Americans captured these other places in their sweep:

San Stefano Quisquiana, about 30 miles south of Palermo on the north coast and 40 miles west of Enna;

San Caterina, seven miles northwest of Caltanissetta and 28 miles south of the north coast;

Menfi, between Castelvetrano and Sciacca;

Caltabellotta, the Sciacca airdrome;

The airdrome at Castelvetrano;

Ramacca, 22 mileh solthwestq of Catania, fell to the British 8th Army.

Retach Mountains.

The American columns now were approaching Palermo, the capital of Sicily, with a last mountain range guarding that vital seaport.

Castelvetrano is 50 miles west of Agrigento and Porto Empedocle, towns on the south coast captured last Saturday and Sunday. Sciacca is about 30 miles west of these two places.

The Americans were making swift progress in a drive toward Palermo on the north coast, herding panicky Italians and their German allies into the north-east corner of the island, and the Italian 26th Assieta division was said to be surrendering almost en masse as Axis prisoners mounted to more than 40,000.

In the continuing fighting along the east coast between the Simeto river and Catania, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army made some gains despite the heavy demolitions by the enemy and thick minefields.

The Germans were reinforced by fresh reserves, including a parachute infantry battalion. The communique said "heavy casualties are being inflicted on the enemy" by the 8th Army.

The German 15th Armored Division was reported in retreat toward the north-eastern part of the island from the Enna area. The Canadians drove on in the face of determined resistance, but the American sweep was said by the communique to be meeting only light and ineffective opposition.

British House Passes Bill; QuebecAngry

Redistribution Shelved Until War Is Over

LONDON, July 22—(CP Cable)— The House of Commons today passed through all stages the bill to amend the British North America Act so as to permit postponement until after the war of redistribution of Canada's House of Commons seats.

The Bill came to Commons from the House of Lords and now goes to the King for the formal Royal assent.

It passed Commons after M. P. Price, Labor, said the fact that the sovereign power in one of the Dominions had to bring this matter before the House in London was an anomaly which he hoped would be removed at the earliest opportunity.

Completion of Commons action in one day carried out Foreign Secretary Eden's expressed wish yesterday. Mr. Eden then said that the Canadian Government regarded the matter as urgent and for that reason he hoped it could be disposed of in one sitting.

A Strong Protest.

MONTREAL, July 22—(CP)—Jean Drapeau, secretary of La Ligue Pour la Defense du Canada, announced today he had cabled Prime Minister Churchill asking that the British Parliament postpone discussion of a bill to amend the British North America Act "to give the people of Quebec time to let you know by official means their opposition to the amendment."

The bill, which has received first reading in the British House, would amend the British North America Act to provide for postponement of a redistribution of House of Commons seats until after the war.

The cable said that the Ligue had been "astonished" to learn that the bill was scheduled to receive assent by July 24, and added that the amendment "violates the spirit of the Constitution and takes away the rights of the minority."

Drapeau said that he had gone to Ottawa by plane yesterday and visited W. J. Turnbull, secretary to

Burma Raiding Wrecks Railway

NEW DELHI, July 22 (CP) — Meeting practically no opposition, R.A.F. bombers continued their sweep against Japanese rail and troop positions in Burma yesterday, shooting up locomotives, trucks, water tanks and supply sampans, a British communique said today.

Beaufighters in an offensive patrol along the railway in Central Burma damaged seven locomotives, about 75 trucks and five water tanks. Pilots said an oil tank near Alon which they bombed on July 19 was still burning.

In the Arakan area Blenheim bombers strafed two Japanese-occupied villages while Hurricanes blasted enemy troop positions. Last night Liberators and Wellingtons bombed railway targets at Sebaw and Sagaing, near Mandalay, and at Tangup and Akybab. One British fighter plane was missing.

British troops on patrol activity a few days ago met a numerically superior Japanese force three miles east of Maungaw and gave them a decisive beating, the communique said. One Japanese officer and 20 men were known to have been killed, with at least 40 others either killed or wounded. British casualties were light.

War With Japs To Be Long And Painful

Nipponese Octopus In Pacific Weakened By Recent Big Raids

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

It certainly gives one a grateful feeling of security to hear Vice-Admiral Frederick Horne, Vice-Chief of United States' naval operations, say the navy is planning for a Pacific war 'that will last at least until 1949," but it's equally good to note that he doesn't specifically state he believes the conflict necessarily will run that long.

Six more years might not mean much to a tortoise which has an expectancy of 200 years of life. But it's a long time to the average citizen.

Anybody's Guess.

When James F. Byries, Director of War Mobilization, was asked about the Admiral's statement he replied: "If anyone else is planning on that basis, I do not now that they are." T. V. Soong, China's astute foreign minister, who is not in Washington, remarked that it's "anybody's guess" how long the fight with Japan will last — and that seems to be a fair assay of the situation.

One thing we're sure of is that whatever the duration of the war, it will be plenty long and painful. Its length and bloodshed and privations will depend mainly on civilian efforts in producing sinews of victory. We must neither allow ourselves to grow slack because of over-confidence, nor become despondent—and therefore inefficient—for fear of a long war.

Unfortunately the amount of striking power the Allies could turn against Japan has been largely dependent on the demands of the European conflict. However, things are looking decidedly brighter in the Pacific as industrial efforts begin to pyramid.

As witness to progress we have yesterday's great Allied air raid on Bairoko Harbor, New Georgia, when 150 bombers dumped 133 tons of grief on the Japs. This was a companion piece to last Saturday's huge aerial attack by 192 aircraft on Kahili, Japan's key base in the Solomons, when nine enemy ships, including a cruiser and three destroyers were sunk.

A Large Area

The field of Allied aggressiveness covers the whole vast Pacific area.

Daily we are tearing at the vital sinews of the Japanese octopus. In his efforts to cling to the vast expanse of islands which he grasped, he is expending resources which he can't replace and can't afford to lose.

Since the attack on Pearl Harbor the Allies have destroyed close to 650 Japanese ships of all types, including some 230 war vessels. The enemy air losses have been grave.

The cumulative effect of this will be great, when finally Anglo-American sea and air power is released from the European theatre and can be hurled at the Mikado.

Giraud Certain Of Victory

Unified French Army Will Liberate France

LONDON, July 22 — (CP). — Gen. Giraud, co-chairman of the French Committee of National Liberation, declared at his first press conference here to-day his "absolute certainty" that the Nazis would be beaten by the Allies with the united French army contributing to the liberation of France.

He warned, however, that a breakdown in German morale could not be expected soon, for two reasons:—

"Because certain things done socially by the Nazi regime gave satisfaction, and because the German mind has the spirit or submission to Nazi discipline.

"Only inside France can the future of France be determined, and we on the outside can only do our duty to liberate our country," he said.

There was an undertone of hostility in some of the questions asked the General and his eyes flashed when he was asked whether materials sent from America would be given to "de Gaulle's (Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the co-chairman of the committee) or to Giraud's army."

"There is no Giraud or de Gaulle army,' he answered. "There is only one army — the French army."

Allies Scoop Axis On Raid

Radio News 8 Minutes After 1st Bomb Lands

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP).— The United Nations beat the propaganda - minded Axis to the punch by telling the world about the Rome bombing eight minutes after the first explosives fell on the capital of Fascist Italy.

Recognizing the high importance of getting out first with the Allied story of the raid, minute arrangements were made which went off without a hitch.

Just as the first bomb left its rack, the plane flashed a signal to Algiers. That was at 5:13 a.m. (Eastern Daylight Time) Monday.

Algiers relayed the information by shortwave to Washington.

There the news was broken to reporters who had been routed out of bed.

At 5:21 exactly, before the bomb's debris had scarely settled, programs on American transmitters to France, North Africa and Central Europe were interrupted in New York for the bulletin. Simultaneously the United Nations station in Algiers was going full blast to Italy in the Italian language. Shortly afterwards, 16 transmitters in this country were beamed on Italy.

Caught flat - footed, Rome had no news for Italians until one hour and 40 minutes later.

GERMAN OFFICERS THREATEN TO SHOOT NAZI SOLDIERS IN SICILY

Panzer Division Veterans Become Panicky

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 18 (Delayed), (CP) — The morale of the German forces in Sicily is low and there has been panic among the troops, according to a captured Nazi order signed by Gen. Conrath, commander of the Hermann Goering Panzer Division which is fighting here.

"I had the bitter experience of watching scenes during these last days which are not worthy of the German soldier, particularly not soldiers of the Panzer Division Hermann Goering," the order said.

"Persons came running to the rear hysterically, crying because they had heard the detonation of a single shot fired somewhere on the landscape. Others believing in false rumors moved a whole column to the rear. In one instance supplies were senselessly distributed to soldiers and civilians by a supply unit that had fallen victim to a rumor.

"I want to state in these instances that these acts were committed not only by the youngest officers, but also by N.C.O.'s and warrant officers. Panzer fear and spreading rumors are to be eliminated by the most severe measures. Withdrawal without orders and cowardice are to be punished on the spot and if necessary by the use of weapons.

"I shall apply the most severe measures of a court-martial against such saboteurs of the fight for freedom of our nation and shall not hesitate to give the death sentence in serious cases. I expect all officers will use their influence to suppress such an undignified attitude in the Panzer Division Hermann Goering."

Now one week and a half old, Cobourg's municipal garbage collection system is working out satisfactorily, stated Dr. W. E. Wilking, local M.O.H. The system, after many delays, was inaugurated on July 12. The town is divided into three sections and the garbage collector has so far kept on schedule.

Shoot For Doubles.

Well over its objective in the "stamp out the U-boat" war savings stamp drive, Cobourg is shooting for the doubling of its objective. The quota was the equivalent of 14 depth charges. Cobourg Public Utilities employees bought $90 worth of stamps in the drive, stated R. G. Parker, of Cobourg, county chairman of the campaign.

C. C. F. advocates are holding a convention at Campbellford Friday to select a candidate for Northumberland riding. It was learned from an authoritative source that W. J. With a C.C.F. candidate in the riding the possible effect on vote in regard to William Goodfellow and John Callahan, Conservative and Liberal candidate in the riding, is the subject of considerable conjecture.

Canadians Serene As They Steam Into Battle

Progress Made In Restocking Lakes Outlined

Describing the great progress made during the past six years in restocking our lakes and rivers in Peterborough county Dr. E. M. Crough spoke over the radio in support of the candidature of Captain Alex Elliott, Liberal candidate.

Dr Crough told of how soon after the election of Mr. Elliott to the legislature he immediately busied himself with the securing of a fish hatchery built in Peterborough. One had been talked of for years but it remained for Mr. Elliott to get action. He secured the services of a Department surveyor and biologist. A site was chosen on Deer Lake north of Havelock. Hon. Harry Nixon was then minister of Game and Fish and the support he gave the Peterborough hatchery project enabled work to be started in 1938.

Dr. Crough mentioned of how the lakes and rivers in the Kawarthas were being depleted of fish for up until 1937 the greatest number of fry to be placed in one year was 909,500 and prior to 1933 the greatest number in one year was 115,000.

Lunge fingerlings were first produced in 1939 and these along with 2,795,000 fry were placed in the lakes of Peterborough County. In 1940 there were 2,300 fingerlings, 500 of which were five inches long and the remainder 9 to 11 inches and also 2,345,000 fry put in the lakes. In 1941 there were another 1,060,000 fry placed in the lakes and in 1942, 705,000 fry. In these past two years special reserve areas were also developed to propagate maskinonge. But according to the speaker this was only part of the story of what the hatchery is meaning to Peterborough lakes and rivers. In 1941 there were also 16,000,000 pickerel fry and almost the same number in 1942 placed in the streams of this county; and then there were the small-mouthed black bass which in 1942 totalled 100,000 fry, 19,000 fingerlings, 300 yearlings and 228 adults. The adult bass weighing from 3 to 4 pounds were all brought in from Lake Ontario and after they had spawned at the hatchery were placed in local lakes.

Speckled trout are also being produced at the hatchery, Dr. Crough said. The fry are kept at the hatchery until a year old when chances of survival are much better.

In 1941 there were 41,991 placed in streams and the next year 53,959. In all, for two years, 1941 and 1942, the Peterborough hatchery has provided nearly 30,000,000 bass, maskinonge, speckled trout and pickerel fry, yearlings and adults for the lakes and rivers of Peterborough county.

What better investment could possibly have been made for the tourist industry after the war than this, Dr. Crough asked. "For this achievement credit must go to Alex Elliott and the then minister of the department Hon. Harry Nixon," he declared.

Dr. Crough then outlined other achievements of Mr. Elliott in connection with publicizing Peterborough as Central Ontario's greatest playground. He arranged for distribution of 80,000 copies of the Examiner's Vacation number in four years to Americans wishing to come to Ontario for their summer vacation. He also arranged an American editors tour of the Kawarthas something which resulted in untold value from the publicity received on their return to their papers.

Britons Paste Stamps On Shells

LONDON, July 22—(CP Cable)—Britons dug into their pockets for £607,000,000 ($2,701,150,000) during a special Wings-for-Victory" drive to furnish the R.A.F. with more planes, bombs and bullets, Air Marshal Sir Richard Peck announced today.

Peck, who is attached to the air ministry, said the Spring and Summer campaign, which was featured by a savings week in almost every city and hamlet, gave the R.A.F. 'its first opportunity of getting really close to the people of Britain."

The amount was raised through sale of War Savings Stamps which are reedemable after the war. But thousands of them will never be cashed. They were automatically cancelled when the purchasers pasted them on bomb casings which were later to be filled with explosives and delivered to the Axis.

MORE ABOUT—

Peterborough

other regiment got ready to make a frontal attack. Meanwhile, Ontario regiments advanced on the eastern flank of the enemy.

The aim of Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian forces in Sicily, was to try to destroy this enemy battle group which blocked the speedy advance of the Canadians.

Driving to the front during Sunday morning, I passed dozens of our guns deployed in the fields by the side of the road. Every few minutes three or four guns let go rounds as they ranged on the enemy positions several miles ahead.

Big Day for Gunners

The Canadian gunners were having a field day in this, their biggest action so far. Stripped to the waist, they sweated at the guns, loading and firing, loading and firing.

For more than a mile the line of hills ahead of us was covered with the smoke from bursting shells and then at 1.35 p.m. the artillery barrage was lifted.

I saw Gen. Simonds on our hilltop, watching the effect of the shelling, and then he climbed into a tank for reconnaissance on the flank.

In a slight haze to the north I saw Enna, perched on a clifftop. This city controls road communications with the principal highways to Palermo, Catania, Syracuse and Messina radiating from it.

United States bombers flew overhead, heading in the direction of Messina. Spitfires and Mustangs were giving us air cover. There were no enemy planes around all day.

As the fierce gunfire became spasmodic and finally ceased, the Canadian infantry went forward. On my right there was the clatter of Canadian medium machine-guns. Bren carriers whisked along the road and more tanks rolled up to our hill, brown with dust and kicking up smothering sheets of dirt.

The sun beat down relentlessly and the sweat poured from the band of my steel helmet. I went further forward to another hill which commanded the whole valley and the hills half-a-mile away where the infantry now was in action.

Machine Guns Bark

There were bursts of machine-gun fire—first the Germans and then our Brens. Rifles banged and mortars crumped.

One regiment went in on the west flank of the Germans and another regiment went at them from the front, moving up through vineyards to attack pill boxes, fortified houses, strong points and trenches. There were some bayonet charges and there was plenty of work with Brens, Tommy guns, and rifles.

In one house the Germans fought for a while and then flew a white flag and came out to be captured. Others died fighting in trenches and pill boxes.

A number of Germans tried to run and fell, shot through the back.

There were French-Canadians also in this action. They advanced with Maritime regiments and fought sternly. There was one clump of trees I could see about a third of a mile away where machine guns were firing. The troops crept over a plowed field and attacked just after some forward guns had laid a couple of shells in the grove. The machine guns stuttered and became quiet. The Maritimers pushed ahead.

Three-quarters of a mile to my right I saw troops from Eastern Central and Western Ontario pressing onward in open formation across the brown fields.

Armor Ready to Advance

Behind me hundreds of vehicles, squadrons of tanks and batteries of artillery were ready to advance as the infantry gained more ground. More infantry were marching forward in a single column. Ambulances rolled back from the front with Canadian casualties. I saw jeeps fitted out with special stretcher racks and they were bringing back casualties, too.

Some infantry stopped by for a rest and smoke, and I talked to four men who had got in behind the enemy lines and shot up some German vehicles and infantry, withdrawing on Enna.

They were Privates Bill Beecher of Montreal, Cecil Woodcock of Bancroft, Ont., Albert Maudsley of Peterborough, and L. Cpl. George Forrest of Cornwall. With a company of an Eastern Ontario regiment commanded by Major A. A. Kennery of Owen Sound they had infiltrated into the German positions.

They ambushed some German troops coming along the road and then were cut off. The company split up and started to shoot its way out as another Ontario unit came up to help. The four I talked to were among the first to get back and they were preparing to go into the line again as soon as they had rested briefly.

The infantry meanwhile pressed forward along the road which curls through the hills up to Enna. Vehicles, tanks, supplies and ammunition followed. The field guns took on the odd target during the late afternoon, where the infantry was held up for a while, Ontario units made their way onto the hills dominating the battle ground.

Elliott Won Recognition In Legislature

Recognition in the Legislature of the ability of Alex. L. Elliott was recalled by F. D. Kerr, K.C., in his radio address over CHEX.

"In 1939 Mr. Elliott was chosen chairman of the Private Bills Committee, a position which had, up to then, been always held by a member of the Cabinet or a member who had served in the Cabinet," Mr. Kerr said. "This committee is the most important of all committees of the House, and the manner in which he guided its deliberations and the thoroughness with which he went into the private bills was acclaimed by members of both parties.

"In 1939 a Select Committee of the House was appointed to investigate the resources of the Department of Lands and Forests. The members appointed were: Hon. Paul Leduc (chairman), Colonel Drew, Hon. H. C. Nixon, Hon. Peter Heenan, Frank Spence, the late Dr. H. E. Welsh, A. L. Elliott, Hon. Farquhar Oliver, J. C. Cooper and Wm. Nixon.

"Mr. Elliott acted as chairman for a time during the absence of Mr. Leduc.

"This committee sat almost daily in the mornings throughout one session, and for about twenty days intermittently in the following year. It brought in a report dealing with all phases of the resources of this Department, including the handling of the pulp and paper industry.

"Before the committee appeared representatives of pulp producers, mill owners, lumbermen, including men from all over the continent, as many Americans have interests in our timber resources and deal with the Government. Mr. Elliott took an active part in the preparation of the committee's report, particularly as it applied to the handling and sale of Crown lands for agricultural purposes and for cottage sites. As a result of this report, the policy of the Department has been greatly changed.

"In 1939 Mr. Elliott was appointed with Ian Strachan of Toronto to act as government counsel for the Public Accounts Committee.

"In 1942 he was appointed on a committee of twelve by the Minister of Municipal Affairs to sit during an adjournment of the House to consider the revision of the Municipal and Assessment Acts and other legislation. As a result of the many changes that have been involved in the administration of municipal affairs it was decided to allow them to stand over until after the war."

Mr. Kerr also spoke of Captain Elliott's enlistment for active service resulting in his assignment for overseas in the fall of 1942.

Booty captured in the American advance at Caltanissetta was officially stated to include 14 locomotives and 100 freight cars, in good condition.

(An NBC broadcast from Algiers saiad the Americans were believed to be bringing up long-range artillery to pound Palermo and Termini on Sicily's north shore, and Marsala on Sicily's west coast, so rapid was their advance.)

Canadian airmen of the night flying Wellingtons who plastered targets in and around the Crotone airdrome and then finished up with more bombs on the railroads and marshalling yards in nearby Naples, said they found enemy anti-aircraft fire much reduced although cone searchlights caught a number of aircraft.

Sgt. James Easson of Toronto was one of those whose plane was thus spotted but emerged undamaged.

Canucks on the Job

"We flew right through the lighted area and unloaded our bombs on the target," he said.

Sqdn. Ldr. Joe McCarthy of Toronto described the raid as "a piece of cake."

FO. Ralph Long of Carlyle, Sask., saw a two-ton blockbuster splash in the very centre of his target. "What an explosion," he exclaimed.

All the Canadian planes returned safely.

The Italian debacle in central and western Sicily appeared to be on a scale comparable to Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's defeat at the hands of Field Marshall Lord Wavell's British Army in the Libyan desert in 1941.

Every spark of fighting spirit appeared to have been stamped out in the ranks of an apathetic and disintegrating Italian army and new batches of prisoners complained that their officers were deserting them, wearing civilian clothing in an effort to escape.

Capture Big Air Base

Castelvetrano, a city of 25,000 and one of Sicily's three biggest air bases, was captured in a pre-dawn infantry assault. An American armored column of medium and light tanks and halftracks exploited the gain, said an Associated Press dispatch from the newly-won city.

The city fell so speedily that the defenders had time to destroy only a few of the military installations.

It was disclosed that the often resuscitated 10th Bersaglieri regiment for the third time had been put out of action. It surrendered at Agrigento without firing a shot.

To Boost Power

In recommending fair exercise of control over private stations by the CBC, the committee said it had "no doubt" that new regulations respecting control of private stations would be administered in that spirit.

These regulations, announced July 3, prohibit, except under special circumstances, the granting of a commercial radio licence to a person already holding a licence for another station.)

The committee noted that many recommendations of the 1942 committee had been carried out.

"We believe that such changes have worked out to the betterment of the corporation and also the listening public," the report said. "We note the appointment of James S. Thomson as general manager, as also the fact that the board of governors has rescinded the by-laws whereby authority and control was divided."

(The 1942 committee objected to division of authority between the general manager and the assistant general manager.)

The report also mentioned that meetings of the CBC governors had been more frequent and that vacancies on the board had been more promptly filled.

National Service

"We are of the opinion that in filling these vacancies the government should choose men and women of outstanding ability, capable of commanding the confidence of the Canadian people and willing to devote a large part of their time to this national service....

"They should, if possible, include people representative of various points of view...."

The committee endorsed the action of the CBC in setting up a pension scheme.

The committee said evidence it had heard placed news broadcasts first in importance among CBC programs.

"The financial arrangement whereby use is made of The Canadian Press and the British United Press as news-gathering agencies is one of which your committee approves.

"While anything of a scandalous nature should be avoided in news broadcasting, we do believe that news broadcasts and commentaries could be more colorful and realistic. Particularly it should be brought to the listening public, the great part that Canadian forces and the Canadian people in general are playing in the war.

"Let us always be conscious of our national identity."

Speaking of radio in general, the committee said it was "the newest instrument of modern warfare," serving not only as an instrument of entertainment and education but as "the most vital morale builder at a nation's command."

"In short, radio has become one of the major instruments of the State and the responsibility is great for him who would abuse its function by taking only a segmental view of its importance."

The committee said it favored the continuation of "Forums," presenting different viewpoints in matters of public interest.

The financial statement showed the Corporation to be "in a splendid liquid position," entirely free of capital indebtedness.

The committee said it was glad to note existing good relations between the Corporation and privately owned station and recognized "that private stations serve a useful function."

Western End Of Sicily Under Fire

Palermo, Trapani Evacuated; Canadians Move Up

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 22 —(AP)—Canadian-American forces cut deeper into middle Sicily today from captured Enna to choke off the island's western half, and front line reports indicated the Axis was preparing to withdraw from all except the Catania-Messina coastal strip on the east.

At Catania, the British 8th Army still pressed strongly from the south against the stubborn German defence forces.

The Canadians and Americans were said to be chasing the retreating enemy northeastward in the general direction of the escape port of Messina, an advance which, if continued, would quickly put them in a position to strike at Catania from the rear.

(Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent with the Canadian troops, said in an eyewitness story Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds' forces helped take the city (of Enna) after an all-day action that saw a blistering artillery barrage smash the heavy enemy concentrations. This, he reported, was followed by an infantry assault at the bayonet point.)

General Withdrawal

Observers in the battle zone reported a general Axis withdrawal in progress from the whole central and western region. Italian prisoners were quoted as saying the Germans already had fled to the east coast, taking all transport and leaving the Italians to walk.

With approximately half the island now under Allied domination, the single major highway skirting the north coast is the only avenue still open to the enemy for a large scale retreat.

(The Algiers radio said this morning the Axis forces already had evacuated Palermo, on the north coast, and Trapani and Marsala, on the western tip. This broadcast also reported a Canadian - American spearhead striking northwestward from Enna toward Villarosa, nine miles away.)

Ed Riley Winner Of Competition For City Garden

Results of the Peterborough Horticultural Society's lawn and garden competition, announced today, award first honors in the class recognizing the employment of professional help to Ed Riley of Homewood Avenue.

E. H. Croft, Mark Street, for the best amateur lawn and garden display, won the G. K. Fraser, M.P., trophy.

Other residences listed in the judge's report include: Bert Lucas, Reid Street; George Benton, Water Street; John Smith, Benson Ave.; Roy Stabler, Bethune Street; George Duncan, Auburn Street; Mrs. Elmer Aichison, Mark Street.

The society's report extends appreciation to Stanford Harris for his assistance in performing the duty of examining and judging the entries.

Awards Made.

The awards and comments follow:

Class A—For the best kept lawn and garden surrounding the home where professional help is employed—For the third year in succession Mr. Ed Riley, 624 Homewood Ave., was the winner of this class. The grounds and plantings were in their usual good form and appearance. There has been a general falling off in entries in this class due, no doubt, to scarcity of help.

Class B—For the best amateur lawn and garden display, lot 40 feet and over. In this section Mrs. E. H. Croft, 377 Mark Street, wins the first award and holds the J. K. Fraser trophy for one year. Especially noted was a fine display of pinks with many other flowers in variety.

Class C—For lots under 40 feet: Bert Lucas, 294 Reid Street, wins first award A well-kept lawn bordered by a good hedge, gives a fine appearance to the front of the premises. The splendid collection of annuals, nicely arranged, gives a good finish to the general appearance, and the entry is worthy of first place.

Class D—Rock garden with or without pool. George Benton, 782 Water Street, won the major award in this class. Here there were different types of plantings, a sunken garden effect with a stone wall at one end, semperviviums growing out of spaces between the stones, a sloping bank with stone steps leading to a higher elevation where there is a pool with its water plants and gold fish. Each crevice holding a suitable rock plant.

Being Old Helps.

In a garden of this type age improves the appearance of the rockery, weathering the stones and allowing them to become well mossed and thereby giving a natural appearance.

Jack Smith's entry at 150 Benson Avenue was a close second. A marked improvement was noted in plants over last year. The general scheme here is a small cascade ending in a miniature pool with rockery plants filling the niches between the stones on a sloping bank. To complete the picture a large curved pool with water plants and lilies serve to give shade and protection to several types of fish.

Roy Stabler, 541 Bethune Street, a new contender in this class, had a very attractive entry. A rather steep lot is used to advantage for this type of garden with its walk winding through and flanked by many varieties of rock garden plants. Though Mr. Stabler's entry was placed third we feel that the setting is right and will bear watching in years to come.

George Duncan, Auburn Street, had the only entry for a floral bed 30 square feet and under. A fine display of snapdragons in good tilth and bloom. As a cut flower they would compare with many a hothouse bloom.

Victory Garden.

In a Victory garden plus flowers the entry of Mrs. Elmer Aichison, 232 Mark Street, was a good example. Here we have a fine kept garden with a very useful and well-assorted variety of vegetables, all in good growing condition and free from weeds. Fruit is not forgotten, with well-laden bushes of raspberries. Early and late varieties of strawberries were planted as a ground cover and as there was a bumper crop, the ground was doing double duty.

To add to the attraction many fine specimens of flowers bordered the vegetable plot. Especially noted were violas in many colors, also a fine specimen plant of the double shasta daisy variety Esther Read.

This entry rated high and was well worthy of first award.

We are glad to say that even in this short drive through the city many fine gardens were noted, both flower and vegetable. They may not be entered in competition but they do help to make "The City Beautiful."

New Anglican Minister Visits Women's Group

ROSENEATH, July 22—(ENS)—The most interesting feature of the W.A. meeting of St. James' Anglican Church on Wednesday afternoon was the visit of the new rector, Rev. J. Lennox and Mrs. Lennox who spoke briefly.

The meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite, the latter presiding.

In addition to routine reports presented, the principal item of business consisted of making plans for the annual "Little Helpers Picnic" to be held in August at the home of Mrs. E. Timlin, secretary of this department. A fish pond, games, races, and a picnic supper are items planned.

An article entitled "Facing Difficulties in Honan," read by Mrs. Earl Braithwaite illustrated the contrast between the work of the church in war-torn China and Canada.

A poem, "Our Canada," was read by Mrs. Ross McCracken.

Reserves To Come Home Sooner To Mark Ballot

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

OTTAWA, July 22—Reservists of Military District No. 3, Kingston headquarters, were assured today of their right to vote in the Ontario election when Defense Minister J. L. Ralston told Parliament they would be returned home from camp on Aug. 3, one day before the vote is taken.

Mr. Ralston, at the same time, advised Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative Leader, that commanding officers of all units stationed in Canada outside of Ontario have been instructed to co-operate fully with election officers in the distribution of proxies to men who are eligible to vote in the Provincial election.

"I cannot say what instructions have gone out," said Mr. Ralston, "to the individual commanding officers, but I know that instructions went out to all the districts—that they should co-operate fully and give any assistance they can in respect to the holding of the vote in the camps for men who are entitled to vote in Ontario."

He said he thought the arrangement was that the proxies should be placed in the hands of the commanding officers of the different units and the men are notified that the proxies are there.

"The army is co-operating fully with the election officers in this Ontario election," continued the Defense Minister, "but the army is not taking the responsibility of seeing that the votes are polled or that the proxies are used. If the men do not want to use them, the army does not propose to press the men to use the proxies. But the army does provide whatever facilities are asked for in order that the men may exercise their vote."

Mr. Graydon said the army should at least see that the proxies are placed in the hands of the Ontario voters whether they use them or not.

If there is to be real co-operation, said Mr. Graydon, he thought the proxies should be placed in the hands of the Ontario men.

"Then," replied Mr. Ralston, "there would be a charge that the army used particular care to see that the proxies got into the hands of others. If the proxies are placed in a convenient place and the men are notified that they are, every man has a right to go and get his proxy, just as a man goes to a poll and asks an opportunity to vote."

The situation of the Kingston district reservists, of whom there are approximately 2,700, both boys and men, eligible to vote, was first raised in The Globe and Mail on Tuesday. The report pointed out that the units were to move to camp on July 25, three days before the official nomination date. Unlike other reservists, it was impossible, therefore, for them to cast their ballots at advance polls. Mr. Graydon raised the question the same day in the House of Commons.

The Defense Minister said the syllabus of training at the Connaught Ranges has been altered so that the men will take intensive training on their first week-end in order to put in their full nine days' period and then be ready to return on Aug. 3.

Have You Secured Your Vote?

Have you consulted the enumerator's list for your district, to make sure that your name is on it? If you have not done so, how can you be sure that your name will appear on the Voters' List? We understand that the revision boards have had very little to do so far, and that shows that far too many people are indifferent to whether their vote is assured. Such an attitude in wartime cannot be excused.

We live under a democratic system of government which great numbers of citizens seem willing to take for granted. They accept the freedoms and the rights which come to them under the system; when they need it they appeal to the law which the system gives them; they make the fullest use of their liberty under the system to grumble and abuse the system itself. But, like children who accept their parents' home and care as gifts of God and without question, they never get it through their heads that they are themselves responsible for the democratic system and that unless they keep it in good order it will fall apart and be supplanted by something much less desirable. Our democratic system, as we have it today, is the result of many centuries of evolution; that evolution was brought about by expression of opinion, by protest and by constant striving after something better than the existing state of things. The system is far from perfect now, but it will not improve if a large body of Canadian people remain indifferent to it.

The vote is the privilege of every citizen over twenty-one years old who is in possession of his senses. It is a direct way of influencing the destiny of this country. And yet at every recent election the vote polled in the country as a whole has been far smaller than the number of citizens who have the right to vote. In provincial elections the number of slackers tends to be greater. Why? We have discovered no better reason than that thousands of potential voters could not be bothered to take advantage of their privilege. If the vote were taken from them their cries would deafen the heavens, but having it, they are too lazy and too indifferent to use it.

Make sure of your vote now. In your polling district there is an enumerator's list which you may consult, and there are lists in the campaign headquarters of the three candidates. See that your name is on the list, and if it is not, go before the revising board and see that it is put there before the Voters' List is made up. When men are fighting for democracy do not make a joke of democracy by neglecting to vote.

Trouble Brewing In The Balkans

Every day the Nazis give fresh evidence of their fear that the Allies will strike at Europe through the Balkans. Their latest move, according to a dispatch from Turkey, is to land large quantities of artillery and other war weapons on the Dodecanese Islands; as those islands are very near to the west coast of Turkey there seems no good reason to doubt this information.

If Germany did not fear an invasion of the Balkans it is not likely that she would be strengthening the Dodecanese. The islands are strategically situated for military operations against any part of southern Europe, and the Italians are said to have been fortifying them for years. Of course, the Italians were said to have fortified Sicily until not another gun or knife could have been accommodated on that island, and our invaders have found the fortifications anything but awesome; perhaps the same is true of the Dodecanese, and the Germans are trying to do what they can while there is still time.

For some unexplained reason, many people think of the Balkans as a small land area; in actual fact they include almost the whole southeastern peninsula of Europe between the Black and the Aegean seas on the east, and the Adriatic and Ionian seas on the west. The land area of the Balkans is greater than that of Germany and Italy combined; the population is about sixty millions. And at present Rumania is still firmly on the side of the Axis; Yugoslavia and Greece are conquered countries, making all the trouble they can for the Axis; Albania is a hotbed of trouble and guerilla activity; Bulgaria, once a stout ally of the Axis, is now discontented, and is reported to have rebelled against sending troops to some battle fronts when ordered to do so by the Nazis. Although we of the western world grandly lump all these countries together as "the Balkans", they have no real unity of feeling or race; the sovereignty of the modern Balkan states was established by treaty after the Graeco-Turkish trouble in 1921-22 and remained undisturbed until the Italians struck at Albania on Good Friday in 1939 Since then the Balkan states have all fallen into Axis hands and are either conquered countries or vassal states.

If the Allies were to strike through the Balkans they would be supported by the guerillas and patriots in the conquered territories, and they would not have much trouble in convincing the vassal states that the time had come to abandon their allegiance to the Axis. The Germans know this very well, and are doubtless nervous of what would happen if the Allies gained a Balkan foothold. Hence the feverish arming of the Dodecanese. There can be no doubt, also, that the Germans are afraid that Turkey will permit the Allies to send troops through her territory, which would provide a much simpler route than attack from the sea. Turkey will have to ingratiate herself with the Allies in some way if she hopes to increase her influence in the Mediterranean after the war, and she may choose this way of doing it.

The next stab at the Axis may come through the Balkans, which would immediately return that territory to its familiar position as the battleground of Europe.

No One Was To Blame

Prime Minister Churchill has made a statement in the British Commons clearing up the last shreds of misunderstanding which had arisen over initial failure to mention the Canadian forces as part of the Sicilian invasion troops. Apparently General Eisenhower, Mr. Churchill, and Mr Roosevelt were all agreed that the Canadians should be mentioned, in spite of any slight advantage that such a revelation might give the enemy. The first communique from Sicily, however, spoke only of Allied forces, referring presumably to troops from North Africa, where no Canadians had been in battle. The correction was quickly made, and the second communique, mentioning the Canadians, reached Ottawa from Washington before the similar communique from London, because of the six hours difference in time between Canada and England. There was never any intention of slighting Canada, and Britain was as quick to acknowledge that fact as was the U.S.

Canada is in the difficult position of being a powerful nation, and at the same time an inexperienced and somewhat uncertain nation. We do not want to show a foolish touchiness about our national honour, but on the other hand we do not want to be disregarded by our more self-assured and debonair allies. The explanation which Premier Churchill has given abashes us somewhat, as though we had made a fuss before we were really hurt. However, these situations arise, and will continue to arise, until the world is more conscious of Canada than it is at present. It was by no means a bad thing that Premier King spoke with heat upon what at first appeared to be a slight to Canadian troops, even though the explanation is a simple one. Mr Churchill has assured the public that an exchange of telegrams between himself and Mr. King has set the whole matter to rights.

Votes For Reserve Units

Is there any good reason why men who are in camp with their reserve units should not have proxy votes? If there is a reason we have not yet heard it advanced. It would be a simple matter to see that proxies were provided, enabling the men to register their opinion through their wives or some trusted friend. As matters remain at present about 500 men in this district stand to lose their votes, although it means very little extra trouble to provide them with proxies.

Since we have the proxy system in this election we may as well use it to the full. The men who are going to camp are in the reserve army because they feel that they are serving a useful purpose there, and although their camps may not be far distant from their homes they are as effectually prevented from voting as though they were in North Africa. There is still time to see that they are spared this needless injustice. The machinery which would provide them with proxies could be set up in a few days. Why has nothing been done about it before this, and how soon may we expect something to be done?

Peterboro, England Greets Peterboro, Ont.

By G. T. VAWSER
Part 2

THE city has no contour endowments from nature. Its site is perfectly flat but it is pleasantly laid out and tidily kept. Many of its streets are tree-lined and domestic architecture, if not in any way distinguished by genius in design, reflects an even flow of life and general standards firm above the poverty level. We have two theatres and five cinemas. Our rainfall is only about 22 inches per year, but some of the winter months can be rather trying.

The Cathedral brings to us in ordinary times people from every part of the world. It is, indeed, a superlative inheritance and too much praise cannot be given to its custodians for the reverent and generous care with which it is maintained. It is the third monastic church which has stood on much the same spot. The first, founded in 655, was destroyed by the Danes. The second church took fire. The present building was begun in 1118 and completed in 1238. At the Dissolution Henry VIII, in 1540, "erected" it into a Cathedral and it continues to be the mother church of the diocese of Peterborough. The other monastic buildings were largely destroyed or despoiled but there are sufficient remains for the reader to picture in his mind the golden glories of the house when a mitred abbot reigned, kings came, knights assembled, and the monastery was not only Peterborough but the owner of great territorial posessions as well.

We pass from the central Market Place under the old Monastery Foregate with its portcullis grooves and there before us is the great West Front of the Cathedral described by one authority as "the finest in Europe and probably the most beautiful object of all architectural art in England." The three arches are 82 feet high, the flanking towers with their pinnacles much higher. The massive, rounded arches of the interior place the building high in the list of surviving examples of Norman work, and the eye carries on from the West Door a distance of 422 feet to the High Altar and over it the modern tabernacle of Derbyshire alabaster. Beyond the Norman apse is the New Building of the fifteenth century with its roof of fan tracery of wondrous beauty.

We see much of thrilling interest, but can only spare space here to tell of two Queens—Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots and Katharine of Aragon. Mary of Scots was beheaded at Fotheringhay Castle, 13 miles distant, on February 8, 1587, and her body was buried here on August 1st of that year. In 1612 her son, James I, had her remains removed to Westminster Abbey. Katharine, first wife of Henry VIII, died at Kimbolton Castle in 1536 and it was in her honour, according to Lord Herbert of Cherbury, that the much-married preserved the Minster and made it a Cathedral Church.

If we climb the spiral stone staircase of the central tower we can look down on Peterborough from a height of about 130 feet and at the same time survey the enveloping scene. Eastward lie the Fens which someone once described as "the best land to be found out of doors." There are 1,300 square miles of this flat expanse: its greatest length (from Quy, near Cambridge, to the rising ground of Lincolnshire) 73 miles; its greatest width (from Peterborough to Brandon) 36 miles.

PICTURE it as it was before reclamation by drainage: a vast watery morass with little communities perched precariously on little islands of higher and firmer ground. This was the scene of the traditional exploits of Hereward the Wake in his defiance of the Conqueror, as famously told by Kingsley and also in "The Camp of Refuge." Natural drainage is impossible. This fascinating and fruitful territory is and can only be maintained in cultivation by marvellous interlocking systems of watercourses and pumping stations powerfully equipped with the finest machinery money can buy.

Turning southward, and in the foreground, is the River Nene.

Lifting our range of vision a little we see, beginning about two miles away, a great forest of tall, circular brick chimneys. One firm owns 55 of them and the full tally must be near 100, excluding the considerable bunches of three or four outposts. This is the great Fletton brickfield, a large contributor to the industrial prosperity of Peterborough and the district. The tallest stack is 225 feet high; the largest kiln has capacity for approximately two million bricks. From these Oxford Clay knotholes, as they are called, have been built whole suburbs of London. The shell of Westminster Cathedral (Roman Catholic) was once raw material in a small field now worked out.

This district has surrendered to zoology secrets of enormous interest which had been locked in its bosom for millions of years. For deep down in the clay have been found, in some cases intact, the remains of pre-historic reptiles, many of gigantic size and fantastic shape. The Dinosaur Cetiosaurus is described as a near relative of Diplodocus from the United States, but smaller, "being only 60 feet long." There are many species of crocodile. It is thought probable that "millions of years before man made his appearance on earth" there was probably the mouth of a great river in this region and the climate was tropical or sub-tropical.

Westward the land becomes pleasantly undulating. We see the beginning of the great hunting Shires, we can plot on the landscape some of the stately homes of England—the Milton of the Fitzwilliams, the Burghley of the Cecils; and the site of Roman Castor on Ermine Street. A little beyond we can pick up "A1" of the modern trunk roads of the country, London to Edinburgh.

Northward the eye ranges over the district of New England, once a railway outpost, now integrated in the general population of the city and the works of our largest engineering firms.

THE city is enterprisingly governed. The new Town Hall is an unusually fine edifice for a medium-sized provincial town. In design it is of the Wren period; a handsome cupola crowns an imposing portico, and the civic suite —Council Chamber, Mayor's Parlour, and Reception Room—are rarely equalled in their well-proportioned spaciousness and in the richness of their fittings and furniture.

The City Council own approximately 1,000 houses, the electricity undertaking (now a selected station under the scheme of the Central Electricity Board), the cattle market (store stock each Saturday, fat stock each Wednesday), the general market, the water works (with two sources of supply), public and branch libraries, bus station and car parks, a modern swimming pool and slipper baths, and 76 acres of park, garden and recreation grounds. Today the Council administer 168 acres of allotments divided into 2,415 plots, a contribution of high value to the domestic supply of vegetable foodstuffs in these searching days of war.

Peterborough is also the head of a county administration. When County Councils were formed in 1888 the Soke of Peterborough was conserved as a separate entity and as a result it still possesses a judicial prerogative which is unique in the provinces. Justices of the Peace sitting at Quarter Sessions can and do exercise the Assize jurisdiction of Oyer and Terminer and of Gaol Delivery. It is true that if a case of murder arises it is sent to an Assize and the same is true also from time to time of other offences of exceptional gravity or importance. But lots of cases which elsewhere would have to be committed to Assizes as a matter of course are here tried at Quarter Sessions because of the two Commissions.

THE designation "Soke" arouses many inquiries as to its derivation and significance and it is not infrequently pressed into service for lighter touches on convivial occasions. It is not easy in a general article like this to do more than state that it has come down to us from long-gone times and historically portends a district under a particular jurisdiction. (c.f. soc and soccage.)

How are we faring in the war? We have much to be thankful for. Many of our streets and public places are cluttered up with raid shelters, queues form outside shops supplying unrationed commodities, business staffs have shrunk to minimum numbers, domestic help is unobtainable, travel by rail or road is often a feat of endurance. The blackout when nights are long is very bothersome. But actual scars of war are few. We have had many alerts, some raids, and some fatal casualties.

We have all the Service and civil defence elements called for by the times. Also an Allied Officers' Club, canteens for service men and women, British Restaurants, day nurseries, rest centres, and an American Red Cross Club. Women's Voluntary Services and many other organizations are doing grand jobs of work and in all the national efforts as, for example, the recent "Wings for Victory" Week we have achieved honourable and satisfactory results.

A BLACK SHIRT THE "BLACKSHIRTS" APPRECIATE

Easily Captured By Style

THERE are, of course, specific qualities of style to be noticed in any author. Even when you began reading Kidnapped, Treasure Island, and The Black Arrow, you must have sensed that Stevenson was a writer who sought constantly to make his impressions sharp and vivid, that there are no vague or conventional generalities in his style. Time and again you can find him, even in The Black Arrow or Prince Otto, using just the right verb or adjective or figure of speech to make his meaning real; and in his best work —the storm in The Merry Men, the first few pages of Markheim, the preliminary description in A Lodging for the Night, the duel in The Master of Ballantrae, for instance — he is an artist in words with few rivals for vividness. Then as you read on, you perhaps came upon Dickens' Pickwick Papers, and grew to like the good fellowship of the Christmas Party at Dingley Dell, the shrewd drolleries of Sam Weller and his father, whether they discussed a "walentine" or enjoyed the discomfiture of the Reverend Mr. Stiggins at the Ebenezer Temperance Society. Like Mr. Wardle, you threw back your head and "laughed till the glasses on the sideboard rang." You had learned to relish the humor and conviviality of the man who could write, "In came Mrs. Fezziwig, one vast substantial smile." In other words, you had been captured by the Dickens' style. Later still you perhaps read The House of the Seven Gables, richly embroidered with poetic designs, from the fanciful hyperboles in which poor Hepzibah's gusty sighs almost blew Uncle Venner away like a dry leaf to the old-fashioned beauty of those summer afternoons in the Pyncheon gardens flooded by the "yellow richness of the declining sunshine." Gradually perhaps, you came to let the charm of Hawthorne's imagery make up for some of the disappointments in his telling of the story. As you enrich your literary background, you will derive pleasure from appreciation of the qualities that distinguish one author from another. You will learn to notice how the author makes his work real by the use of sensory impressions of sound, odor, taste, touch, and colour; how he gains beauty or eloquence or suggestiveness by his choice of figures of speech; how he searches for the exact word to express his meaning; how his imagination or humour or pathos or power to create atmosphere make him superior or inferior to others of his calling. The study of styles is frequently the chief means of distinguishing between the good and the mediocre in literature.—From "Enjoyment of Literature," by Ralph P. Boas and Edwin Smith. Whitehall Notebook

(By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 22 (CP)—A "friends of Hansard" movement, designed to increase public interest in the official report of parliamentary sittings, has been formed with Cmdr. Stephen Kinghall, M.P., as its honorary director.

At present only 2,500 copies of Hansard are distributed outside those which go to members and by documentary films and other methods of propaganda it is hoped to increase the number to 10,000. One film will show the work behind an answer to a parliamentary question.

Cheers and cries of "gosh" greeted George Hicks' reply to a question in parliament about the number of bricks required to be laid on a straight wall under the essential works order.

"For the most usual types of brickwork — namely 4½ and nine-inch pointed both sides the datum line laid down under the payment by results scheme is 240 and 336 bricks per bricklayer respectively for an eight-hour day," said the parliamentary secretary, ministry of works, in best bricklayer's language.

A former bricklayer himself, Hicks said he thought "such a comparison would be very unfair to other bricklayers' when asked what he could lay down, and he had no answer when a member wanted to know how many Prime Minister Churchill could lay.

Ernest Thurtle, parliamentary secretary, ministry of information, said 87 papers in foreign languages or under foreign auspices receive assistance from his ministry or from other government departments to obtain paper. They consume 27.4 tons of newsprint a week.

Footnote to fame:

Luke Hogan of Liverpool gave these word pictures of two Labour leaders at the party's annual conference:

"Mr. Morrison did very well in the government until he burnt his fingers firewatching.

"Mr. Dalton sits surrounded by coupons trying to prevent himself being choked by bits of cloth he saves from the legs of men's pants."

Morrison is Home Secretary and Minister of Home Security, Dalton is president of the Board of Trade.

L. W. Brockington, adviser to the empire division of the ministry of information, has returned to London after a tour which took him to Australia, New Zealand and a number of Pacific islands with stories of Japanese fanaticism that prefers death to capture.

He said he had been told about a Japanese officer with no legs who crawled up some rocks saying he wanted to surrender. A United States marine shot him dead. The marine was admonished by a fellow officer, but he had hardly finished speaking when the body of the Japanese exploded. It had been a living bomb.

He was also told that naval seamen were rarely able to rescue Japanese after a sea engagement because they preferred to drown.

Japanese airmen, he was told, never carry parachutes.

M. A. Balthasar, Belgium minister of transport, disclosed in London that about 25 per cent of the Belgian seamen who were serving when Belgium entered the war have been lost in action.

Lady Woolton, wife of Britain's food minister, is a guinea pig of sorts for her husband. He told a fish research station at Aberdeen that he tries out food recipes on his wife and so far she has remained healthy.

Lt.-Col. Richard G. Hamilton-Russel, son of the ninth Viscount Boyne and a nephew of the Earl of Harewood and the Princess Royal, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. His brother, Major John Hamilton-Aussel, has won the Military Cross. They won the decorations while serving with the 1st Army in Tunisia.

Flt. Sgt. Thomas Adamson, younger son of two Socialist members of parliament, W. W. Adamson and Mrs. Jennie Adamson, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

A Bible Message

And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters. And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so. And God called the firmament Heaven. (Gen. 1: 6-8.)

Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul....Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth: unite my heart to fear thy name. (Ps. 86: 4, 11.)

Make me to understand the way of thy precepts: so shall I talk of thy wondrous works. My soul melteth for heaviness: strengthen thou me according unto thy word. Remove from me the way of lying: and grant me thy law graciously. I have chosen the way of truth: thy judgments have I laid before me....

Give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole heart. (Ps. 119: 27-30, 34.)

Robert Henri, the well-known artist, was attending a private showing of new pictures in a New York gallery. He was standing before a fine Sargent, when his attention was attracted by a big brawny individual, who looked like anything but an artist, engaged in admiring the same canvas and murmuring: "They have given me a good place at last."

Henri was immediately interested. "You are in this sort of work?" he inquired.

"Been in it for 20 years," replied the brawny one, "and this is the first time I ever got on the line."

"Ah, indeed?" exclaimed Henri. "And where is your picture?"

The stranger pointed to the Sargent. "Right there," he replied.

"That?" said Henri. "Why Sargent painted that!"

"Painted it!" sniffed the brawny man. "Yes, I think Sargent was the name of the man that painted it, but it was me who made the frame."

Mrs. Nixon Runs Farm Alone If Premier Away

By KATHRYN O'NEILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. GEORGE, Ont., July 22—(CP)—Mrs. Harry Nixon, the wife of Ontario's premier, is a brisk, efficient individual who puts her home and family first and politics second. She has run her husband's Brant County farm with a firm and capable hand ever since he entered the Hepburn cabinet in 1934.

"I am old fashioned," Mrs. Nixon told The Canadian Press. Her blue eyes shone as she explained that she still does her own cooking and supervises domestic activity in the century-old grey stone farmhouse.

Of the four Nixon children, only 15-year-old Bob is at home and Mrs. Nixon said "we couldn't get along without him in the present shortage of farm labor."

Family Away

Mrs. Nixon's eldest daughter, Mrs. Douglas Farrell, is with the Food Control Board in Ottawa while her husand is overseas. Her second daughter, Section Officer Kathryn Forbes, is in the women's division of the R.C.A.F. and recently arrived overseas. PO. Jackson Nixon, eldest son of the household was killed in action over Germány in September, 1941. The premier's wife wore a brown and white printed dress with a tiny brown and white ha ttiped smartly over her grey-brown pompadour as she busily made last-minute arrangements to leave the farm in charge of Bob while she accompanied her husband on an election campaign tour.

Was Chemist

Born Alice Jackson in Sarnia township, Lambton county, Mrs. Nixon attended Macdonald Institute at Guelph and later studied chemistry and milling of wheat at the Ontario Agricultural College. After working as assistant chemist in the laboratories of the Western Canada Flour Mills at Winnipeg she returned to the O.A.C. to give demonstrations on wheat and flour.

In the 24 years her husband has represented Brant County in the Ontario Legislature Mrs. Nixon has tried to maintain a normal life.

"We like to be just ordinary people, farmers like all our neighbors," she said. "Our home means so much to us that we will be very glad to retire to the farm when the time comes. But at present we feel that it would be letting the people down in a crisis to retire."

Severe Penalty

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said today that an innkeeper in the French town of Cormeilles had been put to death by order of a German military court for giving overnight shelter to an American airman. The broadcast, which was recorded by the O.W.I., did not disclose the fate of the American, who was said to have bailed out near the town.

Nancy Oakes Greets Husband

NASSAU, Bahamas July 22 (AP)—Nancy Oakes de Marigny conferred for 90 minutes in Bahamas prison yesterday with her husband, Alfred de Marigny, who is charged wehthti ee eus fP.t ih4 shrdl cat with the murder of her father.

Going directly to the prison after her airplane trip here from New England, the 19-year-old girl greeted de Marigny with a kiss.

She talked to him in the presence of de Marigny's attorney, Godfrey Higgs, and Capt. Reginald Miller, superintendent of prisons.

Both officials said the talk was conversational. Higgs quoted Mrs. de Marigny as saying the meeting was "very friendly" and Miller added that de Marigny was cheered by his wife's visit.

The marriage of Nancy to the handsome former count, who is 35, is a factor in the murder investigation. Sir Harry was known to have opposed the wedding.

Oakes was found bludgeoned to death July 8 in his spacious villa, Westbourne.

Order Re-check In Vote Mix-up

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP).—State Secretary McLarty announced today in the House of Commons that Donald Stewart, assistant chief electoral officer, will supervise the August 9 Federal by-election in the constituency of Montreal Cartier.

Mr. McLarty said there had not been time to make full inquiry into charges in the House yesterday by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, that the voters' list for the riding had been padded by including the names of non-existent persons and babies.

Mr. McLarty said Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, had recommended it would be inadvisable to have a completely new enumeration in the riding, but he had suggested that supervising enumerators be appointed to make a thorough house-to-house check of the enumeration in each polling division. There would be two supervising enumerators for each division.

Under existing conditions in the riding, Mr. McLarty said "the fairest and most advantageous method" of choosing the supervising enumerators would be that one should be named by the Government candidate and one by the opposed political interests.

As there are two candidates running in opposition to the Liberal, Mr. McLarty said, each should nominate one-half of the opposition enumerators.

Each supervising enumerator will be sworn to the faithful performance of duty on a special form prescribed by the Chief Electoral Officer. They will begin work Thursday morning, July 22, and complete it by Saturday night, July 24.

"Whenever such supervising enumerators discover that unqualified or fictitious persons have been included on the enumerators' preliminary list which has been printed and distributed, it shall be their duty to prepare an affidavit in form 13 of the Dominion Elections Act and swear such affidavit before the appropriate revising officer," said Mr. McLarty.

The affidavit attacking the qualifications of any elector shall be dealt with by revising officers during regular sittings for revision, already scheduled.

Act As Referee.

When the supervising enumerator has been omitted from the list they must subscribe to a sworn application on behalf of that elector and deliver it to the proper revising officer.

In the event of disagreement between the supervising enumerators as to the inclusion of a name on the Voters' List, a report must be made to the assistant chief electoral officer who will decide the matter.

"Arrangements already have been made for the appointment of additional revising officers for each revisal district by the ex-officio revising officer and such additional revising officers will sit in the revisal office already set up by the returning officer," said Mr. McLarty.

Debate Opens Over Pensions

LONDON, July 22 (CP Cable)—Opening debate on the government's new and more liberal war pensions and alowances proposals, Sir John Anderson, Lord President of the Council, told the House of Commons yesterday the proposals cover everything except when a man goes on leave "and is released for the time being from his obligations to the state."

A white paper covering the changes was issued last week and promptly nicknamed "Womersley's charter," after Sir Walter Womersley, Minister of Pensions.

Sir John said the proposals included the presumption that a man's condition on admission to the services is, in fact, his condition at that time.

(Presumably this meant that any illness not immediately revealed but which later examination showed to have existed at the time a man was admitted to the services would be taken into consideration as far as a pension was concerned.)

A second important change is that any subsequent deterioration in a man's condition will be considered due to war service.

Cases hitherto excluded from claim will be brought in under the government proposals and the minister of pensions will consider those rejected previously on application by the claimant. The only cases excluded will be cases of disablement definitely not caused by war service.

Expect Hitler To Defend Northern Italy

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Former Chief of The Associated Press Rome Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—More German legions for defence of Italy was believed here today to be the purpose of the meeting between Mussolini and Hitler at some northern Italian point the day Rome was bombed. Whether Hitler agreed remains to be seen.

Allied observers heard in roundabout ways some weeks ago that the Germans intended to desert Italy after fighting only a rear guard action in Sicily long enough to permit evacuation of troops.

It would seem to be more economical in manpower for the Germans to abandon Italy and take up defensive lines on the Austrian side of the Brenner Pass behind the natural fortifications of the Alps.

That was what Hitler had been expected to order.

But now it is thought he must realize the surrender of Italy would be a tremendous blow to the morale on his own front—if not in Germany—at least in the occupied and satellite countries. The Britons, Canadians and Americans then would be able to march across Italy into Jugoslavia and establish the dreaded Balkan front.

Furthermore, Allied bombers could use northern Italy bases for assault against the war industries, communication lines and supply routes in southern Germany, Austria and Hungary.

For these reasons, it was felt that the two dictators may have decided to make a stand in industrial northern Italy, stringing a defensive line through the Po Valley.

Assuming this, it was considered not unlikely that Rome would be declared an open city, as was Paris when the Germans pressed on the French capital and the government fled to Bordeaux in 1940. Rome presumably would be as hard to defend as Paris.

Judge Gillanders Reserves Decision

TORONTO, July 22 (CP). —Mr. Justice J. G. Gillanders of the Ontario Labor Court yesterday reserved judgment on an application of the United Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers of America (C.I.O.) for certification as collective bargaining agent in the plant of the International Nickel Co. at Port Colborne.

"In view of the conflicting points that have been raised and the lateness of the hour, I feel that I will have to reserve my judgment," said Mr. Justice Gillanders.

The company opposed the application, arguing that it already had an agreement with the Inco Employees' Welfare Association.

Holstein Cattle Show Big Increase

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 22 — (CP).—G. M. Clemons, secretary of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, today reported registrations of Holstein-Friesian cattle for the first six months of 1943 totalled 28,124, compared with 24,899 in the corresponding period last year.

Transfers of ownership for the same period totalled 23,698 against 18,876 in 1942, a gain of 25 per cent.

Mr. Clemons said the figures indicated an increase in cattle population despite the large number of dispersal sales that have been held.

HOMER BY MARG. HAWTHORNE KEEPS WESTCLOX RECORD INTACT

Can. Navy Crews Regatta Bound At '43 Henley

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 22 (CP)—The influence of war will be felt in the 60th Annual Royal Canadian Henley Regatta which will be held on the permanent course of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

One of the feature events will be Whaler races between the crews from the Royal Canadian Navy's training centres—H.M.C.S. Star at Hamilton and H.M.C.S. York at Toronto. Hon. Angus Macdonald, Navy Minister, will attend the Regatta and act as referee for the whaler races.

While many of the leading oarsmen who competed in the 1942 regatta are now in the armed forces, officials report that prospects are encouraging for this year's event.

Henry Penn Burke of the American National Association of oarsmen has notified H. B. Burgoyne, C.A.A.O. president, that Detroit, Wyandotte and Ecorse clubs will send strong entries while the always-strong entry from Buffalo will be bolstered by the addition of former U.S. College oarsmen now engaged in vital war industry work in that area.

Chief Canadian clubs entering oarsmen will be Toronto Argonauts, Hamilton Leanders, Ottawa Capitals and Brockville Riversides.

A large entry from border clubs in the classes for High School crews is expected and officials predict a considerable array of talent for post-war Henleys will be seen.

Big Bens Beat Aircraft By 9-8 Count

A homer to right field by Marg. Hawthorne, with Viola McLean on third base in the seventh and final frame of last night's Westclox-Aircraft Girls' League tilt enabled the Big Bens to come from behind and keep their loss column unmarked, the champs taking the game 9 to 8 for their tenth win of the season.

It was a close call. Aircraft, getting four runs in the first and overcoming a Westclox lead with a three-counter splurge in the third had been in front 8 to 6 from the fourth frame on and with rain coming quickly as the Big Bens went to bat in the last of the seventh it was obvious that the league leaders would have to do something about it quickly or absorb their first defeat.

In the clutch they came through with three hits, climaxed by the Hawthorne homer and took the verdict. Umpire Herb Payne called play a minute or so after the winning run had crossed the plate so that the Westclox rally was just barely in time to give them the win.

The battle was just as exciting as the tie game the two clubs played three weeks ago. Marg. Watson and Norma Strickland, the rival pitchers, tossed nice ball and both teams did well in the field.

Aggie Anderson in centre field for Westclox had feature catches in the fifth and seventh innings and for the Aircraft, Phyllis Bigelow engineered a smart double play unassisted.

Aircraft made more hits than the winners but the Westclox blows included homers by Isobel Bullock and Marg. Hawthorne and a timely double by Eunice Armstrong and the extra base knocks played a big part in the final result.

Marg. Selkirk, centre fielder for the Aircraft had three hits while Aggie Anderson and Viola McLean each had a pair for the winners.

Aircraft got away to a nice start when they tok advantage of early wildness by Marg Watson to score four runs in the first of the opening frame. Marg Selkirk's single, a fielder's choice, passes to A. DeCarlo and Eleanor Craig and Ruth Hewitt's single were responsible for the quartette of runs.

Westclox came back with two in their half on a pass to Aggie Anderson, an error and a double by Eunice Armstrong. The Big Bens flashed out in front in the last of the second. Beryl Dobbin walked and after the next two batters went out, singes by Aggie Anderson and Viola McLean chased two runs in and then Isobel Bullock came through with a homer to send Viola McLean across the plate ahead of her.

Aircraft bunched singles by Phyllis Bigelow, Marilyn McCarthy, Norma Strickland and Marg Selkirk withn a error in the third to score four runs and take the lead again 7 to 6 and they added another in the fourth, starting with Eleanor Craig's single to go in front 8 to 6.

That was all the scoring until the Big Bens went to bat in the last of the seventh. Aggie Anderson opened the rally with a single and Viola McLean came through with another that aided by an error allowed Aggie Anderson to score and the batter reach thrid. Isobel Bullock popped for the first out but with the tying run on third Marg. Hawthorne lifted a homer to right, Irene Stewart falling as she went to move back for the drive. That was the ball game for the rain came down hard right after the two-run rap and the game was called.

The teams:

Westclox: Aggie Anderson, cf; Viola McLean, 2b; Isobel Bullock, c; Marg. Hawthorne, 3b; Eunice Armstrong, 1b; Marg. Watson, p; Beryl Dobbin, ss; Jean Castle, rf; Barbara Rome, lf.

Aircraft: Marg. Selkirk, cf; A. Patterson, lf; Irene Stewart, rf; A. DeCarlo, c; Eleanor Craig, 2b; Phyllis Bigelow, 1b; Irma Perdue, ss; Marilyn McCarthy, 3b; Norma Strickland, p.

Tonight's game in the City League will be decidedly important. If Genelecs should win they would wind up their regular schedule tied for first place with the Soldiers. On the other hand a Combine victory would assure the Delpellaro outfit of a playoff berth and virtually eliminate the Switch Gear. Both Genelecs and Combines will therefore have their best possible battle array for this tussle which is billed for seven o'clock at Riverside Park. The Combines will probably start Freddy Elliott against the Johnston outfit. Earlier in the season Elliott stopped the Genelecs cold and Combines took the decision 3 to 1. It looks like Akers for the tossing duty for Genelecs and the game should be one of the best of the schedule. Tomorrow night there will be another important game with Battery tossed in against Switch Gear and both teams want that one badly so there should be plenty of action. The Gunners are pointing to a tie for first place while on the other hand the Switch Gear must win to have a chance to get into the playoffs.

Girls' Softball League fans are all a-twitter over the playoff series that is looming up between the undefeated Westclox team and the Aircraft club in the senior division of the loop. The two teams have met four times this season and the Big Bens have won three of the battles and the other ended in a tie but in the last two tussles the two teams have battled along on practically even terms. When they clashed three weeks ago they fought each other to a standstill to end on even terms and last night the Westclockers just managed to nose out the Aircraft girls 9 to 8 by scoring three runs in the final innings. It was a nip-and-tuck argument all the way, with the lead changing hands several times before Marg Hawthorne's last frame homer finally salted it away for the champs. Incidentally in answer to a number of inquiries last night's game which was called in the last of the seventh with one out was a legal ball game and the result a win for the Westclox. The rule calls for seven innings to be played to constitute a game but it also provides that when the team last at bat in the seventh has scored as many runs or more runs than the team first at bat that shall be considered a legal game. If the umps had had to call play before Westclox tied it up or went ahead in that inning, the affair would not have been a regular ball game and would have had to be replayed.

Bad News For Bunny

Earl McCready, the Aurora farmer, and incidentally one of the best wrestlers Canada has ever produced is Promoter Frank Tunney's answer to demands from Peterborough fans that somebody capable of giving the obstreperous Al Bunny Dunlop the well-known works should be stacked up against the Canadian strong man, as Dunlop likes to call himself. McCready will meet the rough-house Al here next Monday night and everybody in town will be with the Moose no matter what he decides to hand out to Dunlop. When the latter first wrestled here a month ago local followers of the mat game took an instant dislike to the former weight-lifter. In his subsequent appearances he managed to rouse the ire of the fans to the boiling point but the climax came on Monday night when the burly Bunny used such back-alley tactics against Irish Pat Flanagan that Referee Lawson was forced to disqualify him. Dunlop has a hair-trigger temper and the smooth and slippery Flanagan did not take long to make him boil over. The final result that both the official and Irish Pat got into a rough-house tangle with the Strongman and all three took considerable battering before order was restored. The argument between McCready and Dunlop should be about the liveliest brawl of the year with Bunny fighting a lone battle and not a friend in the house.

Prospects that Lew Hayman may be back with the R.C.A.F. Hurricanes come kickoff time, are hinted at in a paragraph in the Ottawa Citizen sport column which reads thusly: "The boys who were so sure that Flying Officer Lew Hayman was to coach an Ottawa Air Force entry this fall when he was transferred here early in the summer might be really surprised if he turns up as boss of Toronto's R.C.A.F. Hurricanes again....Lew himself admits he knows nothing of football plans for the coming campaigns...."If anyone in the Air Force has ideas linking me with football this year," says the former Argonaut mentor, "I haven't been told a thing about it."....Despite this, though, there is a feeling in certain sectors that capable Lew will be directing the Hurricanes through their Ontario Rugby Union paces again....It would mean that the champions are the team to beat....Mr. Hayman hasn't come up with a complete dud since he came from Syracuse University to take up the coaching reins in Toronto....At present he is still located in Ottawa but this is no guarantee that he will be here when the footballers start kicking a ball around."

Real Pitching, Folks

Notable pitching performances featured the American League doings yesterday. For one thing Orval Grove of the Chicago White Sox who shares honors with Rip Sewell of the Pirates as the surprise pitchers of the big leagues this season won his ninth straight game at the expense of the Boston Red Sox and Ingersoll's Lefty Judd 8 to 6. They haven't been able to beat the young White Sox pitcher this season. Another was the fact that Tex Hughson of the Red Sox has finally won his 10th triumph of the campaign, beating Chicago 3 to 2, a three-run rally in the eighth doing the trick for Tex who has had a lot of trouble getting into double figures. Steve Sundra of the Brownies did a fancy job of pitching to blank the New York Yanks 1 to 0 in ten innings and Al Smith of the Cleveland Indians who has won nine games as against three losses came up with a gorgeous display of high-class twirling to shut out the Philadelphia Athletics 7 to 0. The losing A pitcher was rookie Flores who after burning up the league in the early stages has not been able to win himself a ball game in the past six weeks.

* * * * * *

There were some features in the National loop too. For instance the St. Louis Cards only made three hits off Rube Fischer and Adams of the Giants but walloped Mel Ott's men who rapped out nine blows 3 to 1. And Dick Conger, late of the Toronto Leafs took a pasting at the hands of the Pittsburg Pirates who beat the Phillies 10 to 2. Klinger was the winning Pirate hurler. The Cincinnati Reds who occasionally break out into a hitting rash, did so yesterday at the expense of Kirby Higbe and the Brooklyn Dodgers and when it was all over the Reds had won 11 to 1. It was the twelfth victory of the season for Riddle who is having himself quite a year. Frank McCormick fired the big rap in that ball game coming through with a homer with the bases densely populated.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Isobel Bullock, catcher of the Westclox team had her right hand badly bruised last night when she was struck by a bat....She finished the battle in spite of the injury but may be out of softball action for a week or so....There are always strange things turning up in baseball....Yesterday Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants and one of the hardest hitters in the big show got his first triple in three years....Ott is leading the home-run parade but three-base hits are something else again....After winning the first game against the Giants yesterday with three hits the St. Louis Cards piled up 19 blows to take the second....As a result of the doings they gained a full game on the Brooklyn Dodgers and the third-place Pittsburg Pirates picked up half a game on the second-placers....Incidentally Maurice Van Robays, formerly of the Leafs drove in four runs for the Corsairs....Big Susie Turner of Tip Tops who play here next week held the Navy to one hit last night and yet had to be satisfied with a 1-1 tie. In his last two starts Turner has only allowed a total of three hits so the local City Leaguers had better get their batting eyes tuned up for next Wednesday's game.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The pennant race in the five series of the six western counties baseball Association was organized at a general meeting of the executive officers and team managers at London, Ont., last night when it was decided to have "A" and "B" classifications in the senior playoffs. Another important decision was the award of the midget championship tournament to Sarnia, Aug. 18 and 19, this point having aroused much rivalry between the Tunnel City and Chatham.

Winners in the two senior groups will play off for the major title following the sectional playdowns. The teams include two from London, Dresden and Chatham from the Kent County league and the R.C.A.R. nine at Centralia. It was decided that the second-place club in the Kent loop will be classed in "B" division, along with Centralia and the second London team. For the junior championship Tillsonburg and London will meet for the privilege of going against Dresden in the final, the semi-final encounters to be concluded before Aug. 10. Five entries were accepted for the midget honors and two clubs, Tilbury and Chatham, were ordered to play off to reduce the number for the Sarnia tourney to four, the other entrants being Goderich, London and Sarnia.

The first tilt of the bantam series will be played Aug. 7 at London with Sarnia and London competing, the return game to be staged Aug. 11 at Sarnia.

Reg Cornell, 20-year-old horseman of Niagara Falls, Ont., was announced last night at Toronto as the leading trainer for the first half of the racing season in Ontario with a record of 20 winners, two more than Douglas Ness of Toronto. Cornell trains them for H. A. Laro of Argentina, the Boone Hall Stable and Frank Ellins.

Fergus Wins

A newcomer in the Guelph District Soccer League, Fergus registered a 5-2 victory against the Netherlands Army team in its first appearance on the Royal City playing field. The Hollanders tied the score 2-all after the midway rest but the visitors went on a scoring spree in the final 10 minutes.

In a spill in the second heat of the free-for-all pace at Simcoe yesterday, Driver Bill Harvey, behind Rip Harvester, was thrown from his sulky and sustained leg injuries that required medical treatment. Miller Brooke won the feature in two out of three heats from Oxford Lad and Lastic Grattan.

Waterloo Takes Verdict

In the first game of the Intercounty round robin playoffs at Guelph, Waterloo Cardinals shellacked the Royal City Juveniles 14-4, with Turrel performing on the mound for the vistors throughout the nine innings.

At Cleveland Stadium last night Lloyd Marshall, 165½, of Sacramento, Calif., decisioned Curtiss Sheppard the "hatchet man" of Pittsburgh, in 10 rounds in a bout that was styled a duration lightheavyweight title fight. Sheppard weighed 173.

A three-cornered tie for first place in the Quebec Senior Lacrosse League was broken last night at Lachine when the locals measured Canadian Army 17-12 in a rough battle which saw the suspension of Desrosiers of Army for rugged work. Canadiens and R.C.A.F. are now tied for second spot in the race.

Back To Perdue

Cecil Isbell, one of the all-time greats of Purdue University football and for many years the star of the Green Bay Packers, pro team, is returning to Purdue to take over a football coaching job. Isbell will be assistant to Elmer Burnham.

Put THIS LOAFER TO WORK!

● If you wait until the tires on your wheels are worn down before you put on a nearly new spare, the other tires are going to fail before you get all the mileage from the spare. Five tires alternated on your running wheels will give much greater mileage than four tires . . . with an unused spare loafing in the trunk.

By not using your "spare" you're wasting valuable tire miles!

Let us put it on your working wheels . . . switch your other tires around to even up their wear . . . add thousands of miles to your potential driving. Scientific switching of tires alone can add as much as 25% to your tire mileage.

Our Goodyear factory-trained tire men are ready at all times to help you get the most possible "duration" mileage from your tires. We will not only switch your tires for you, but carefully inspect them inside and out to catch and fix minor tire damage before it develops into major tire trouble. TORONTO, July 22—(CP)—Raising a thoroughbred from a spindly awkward foal into a swift-striding animal capable of winning a $50,000 handicap and necklace of roses in the inevitable camera finish (remember those double features?) is no easier than stabbing a 50-1 shot in a limit field of maidens. One of the lesser hazards is registration. Every thoroughbred must be registered by Oct. 31 of the year of foaling before competing on a recognized track. Each owner or breeder must submit three drawings showing the foal's markings—one to the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association, one to the Agriculture Department's livestock records in Ottawa and one to the Jockey Club in New York. How the average owner—certainly no Salvadore Dali — contrives to make the drawings uniform is one of racing's mysteries.

Frank Selke believes there is a solution. The hockey manager, a thoroughbred breeder in his own right, says Ottawa may eventually be accepted as clearing house for all registration. Fred Klees, Jockey Club registrar, told Selke the New York organization would be agreeable.

"It may not come until after the war," said Selke. "It would mean more work for Ottawa and they're shortstaffed now. But I think it's coming."

Time And A Half

How do hockey imports spend their time? Not around pool parlors, says Bill Ezinicki. "I work 10 hours a day and when I have spare time I play golf," said the teen-aged Winnipegger who starred for Oshawa Generals in the memorable Memorial Cup finals last season against Winnipeg Rangers. Hastily, Bill added: "There is no place like Oshawa, though." He gave the interview to Vince (Winnipeg Tribune) Leah just before losing the Manitoba Amateur Golf Championship to Allan Boes for the second time.

Bears Win 7-4 In Morning Tilt

By The Associated Press

Newark's experiment of playing a morning game in the International League apparently was a success yesterday. In any event the Newark management announced before the game was over that another 9.30 a.m. tilt will be played next Wednesday against Buffalo.

The game attracted 910 customers who watched the Bears beat Jersey City, 7-4, behind the eight-hit pitching of Frank Hiller, former Lafayette College star. It was Hiller's seventh victory against four defeats.

Bill Trotter came up with a four-hit pitching masterpiece to lead Rochester to a 1-0 shutout over Buffalo in the only other league game scheduled. Trotter retired 16 men in a row before Eddie Turchin got on in the sixth through an error.

The only run came in the first inning on Al Schoendienst's single and Gerry Burmeister's triple.

Wobbly Dodgers Show Very Little Zip

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The housecleaning of the Brooklyn Dodgers may have made them as neat as a pin, but not nearly as sharp.

Even before their rebellion they had practically no chance of capturing the National League pennant from St. Louis Cardinals, but now they look likely to have trouble finishing second or third.

Their immediate danger looms from Pittsburg Pirates, who are the hottest thing in the senior circuit and have won six of their last seven games. Yesterday the Buccaneers battered the faltering Phillies 10-2 with Bob Klinger pitching five-hit ball. This shaved their distance behind the Dodgers to a mere three games.

Split With Reds

The Dodgers divided a doubleheader with Cincinnati and were hardly impressive. They were smothered 11-1 in the opener as Elmer Riddle annexed his 12th victory and they stumbled to a 9-7 decision in the nightcap with the help of fielding lapses by the Reds.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, lengthend their margin on top of the Dodgers to 4½ games by sweeping a double bill from New York Giants 3-1 and 14-6. The Redbirds were held to three hits in the opener, but made all of them count for runs. In the second game the champions banged 19 solid blows and salted the game away with nine runs in the fifth.

Cubs Beat Braves

In the other National League game Hiram Bithorn, the Puerto Rican righthander, bagged his 11th triumph as Chicago Cubs beat Boston Braves 4-1.

St. Louis Browns gained a 1-0 verdict over New York Yankees in the 10th inning when Vernon Stephens opened with a double and scored on a wild throw.

Lefty Al Smith pitched and batted Cleveland Indians to a 7-0 shutout over Philadelphia Athletics, allowing only two hits and getting a triple, double and single himself.

Chicago and Boston divided a doubleheader, Tex Hughson taking the first for the Red Sox 3-2 and Orval Grove getting credit for the White Sox' 8-6 triumph in the nightcap.

A three-run rally in the ninth climaxed by George Case's single for the tying and winning runs brought Washington a 6-5 edge over Detroit in a night game.

Chalky Wright Takes Beating

CLEVELAND, July 22—(AP)—Youth finally caught up with venerable Chalky Wright last night when Lulu Costantino, classy New York featherweight, won a unanimous 10-round decisoin before 10,952 fans in Cleveland Stadium. Constantino scaled 130½, and the former featherweight titlist, 129¾.

The 21-year-old Costantino scored his first decision over Chalky in three bouts, and extended his winning streak to 10 straight. The defeat halted Wright's string of 11 victories.

The New Yorker was the aggressor during most of the route, and delivered his best punches in the in-fighting. Chalky was never able to fashion a consistent attack upon the dancing Constantino, who was on the move all the time.

The early rounds were devoted to close body punching, but Wright whipped in two good rights to Costantino's head. Lulu rallied, however, and flailed the veteran in the mid-section with a series of hard lefts and rights.

Consatntino kept up his delivery in the succeeding rounds, while Wright was never able to find the opening he seemed to be waiting for.

Cards Default In 7th Innings

The City League clash between 4th Battery and the Cardinals ended in a fiasco last night when the Cards failed to come up with nine men to start the seventh inning and the game went to the Gunners by default.

The hockey squad were leading 18 to 1 at the time and were hustling to get seven innings in before the rain when one of the Cards decided he would prefer to break for the shelter of home before the storm arrived and left the park. The tailenders only had nine players and so the departure of the not-very-interested member of the lineup left them with eight men and made the default automatic.

The win moved the Battery up to a full game behind the leading Soldiers while it killed even the faint mathematical chance of the Cards might have had of making a playoff berth.

In the six innings played the Gunners had had no trouble piling up the score. They hit Don Isaacs hard and also cut loose on Grant Patterson who twirled the last two frames and on top of the Battery hitting the Cards were guilty of a flock of errors.

On the other hand the Artillery squad played errorless ball behind effective pitching by Dave Wilson who allowed only three hits in the six innings he worked. Doughty drove in the only Cardinal run in the fifth when he singled to left after Detlor and Patterson had walked.

The Battery scored four in the first, another quartette in the second, five in the third, four more in the fourth and one in the fifth to run up a total of 18 runs in six innings.

Burton hit the only Battery homer of the season when he rapped one to right centre and the injured Patterson could not get over to it. Joe Stewart and Eddie Starr each had a triple, double and single and Art Heal three singles. Altogether the Gunners had sixteen hits in six frames.

The teams:

Battery: Heal, 2b; Burton, lf; Stewart, cf; Starr,c; Ellis, 1b; Jones rf; Miller, rf; Tompkins, ss; Vitarelli, 3b; Wilson, p.

Cardinals: Doughty, c, rf; Maudsley, 3b, c; Van Allen, 2b; Greatrix, cf; Isaacs, p, ss, Quigley, ss 3b; Wade, lf; Detlor, 1b; Patterson, rf, p.

Umpires: Dormer at the plate, Batley on the bases.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP). — Because they couldn't even guess last spring what football would be like this fall, Eastern College athletic directors put off their usual convention....But they'll gather here next week to re-make their schedules and to talk over the situation....Apparently they don't list their convention as a non-essential, but one athletic director probably takes up more space on a train than all the letters they'd need to get the schedules fixed up.

Shorts and Shells.

Denny Shell, 60-year-old harness race driver, has usurped "long shot" Walter Cox's nickname by bringing in three heat winners at North Randall at prices from $26 to $97.80....Gunder Haegg, who prefers gaffelbitar to vegetables as a training diet, couldn't get enough oranges and grapefruit during his stay in California. He kept a dresser drawer filled with them.

Reason 2,000.

In addition to the usual 2,000 reasons why a horse can lose any given race, Henry King of the New York Sun comes up with the news that swarms of huge gadflies have descended on the Jamaica track, making the horses nervous from their bites that the nags don't run according to form....The jockeys aren't immune, either.

Golfing Circus Finishes Sunday

CHICAGO, July 22 (AP) — The big guns of golf fired their mightiest shots over the Tam O'Shanter Meadows today to start the $10,000 All American Open Tournament, major event of the dazzling three-ring golfing circus which winds up Sunday.

Sixteen of the best women players in the United States also started on the first round of a 72-hole medal play tournament, while 16 of the surviving male amateurs advanced through the third and quarter final rounds. All three tournaments were carried on simultaneously on the same course.

A field of 200, professionals and amateurs, were in the force attacking the All American Open for the year's richest golf prize. Among them were such distinguished shooters as Byron Nelson of Toledo, who has won the two previous Tam O'Shanter Opens; Sgt. Clayton Heafner of the Army; Jimmy Demaret; Walter Hagen, 53-year old Chick Evans, Jim Ferrier, Lloyd Mangrum, Chick Harbert and Orval White of Winston-Salem, N.C. White yesterday turned in a 37-33—70, two under par, to win the $150 medal prize for the qualifying pros.

The blond Nelson was favored to triumph again in a punishing 72-hole test, but not by any wide margin.

Members Want Ban Lifted On Communists

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 22—(CP).—Hopes of ending the parliamentary session this week were brightened momentarily yesterday when the House of Commons passed the last remaining items of Government legislation but dimmed again when the Chamber bogged down in a long debate over Communists and Witnesses of Jehovah.

To finish this week, the House must pass many hundreds of millions of dollars of appropriations for war and non-war purposes at a much greater speed than thus far.

Yesterday, the House passed through all stages the new Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act designed specifically for Prairie Province farmers, and quickly passed a bill to set up and finance a national council on physical fitness.

That concluded the Government's legislative program for the session, so far as any notice appears on the order paper. To be disposed of are only some scattered items in the $3,890,000,000 war appropriation for the current fiscal year, and non-war estimates of about $500,000,000.

A Long Debate.

Justice Minister St. Laurent's war appropriation was taken up in the evening but the debate on Communists and Jehovah's Witnesses, which arose last week when these estimates were in committee of the whole, came up again and there little progress was made.

Members representative of all parties have suggested that the ban on Communists and the Witnesses be lifted.

The same arguments were repeated last night until G. G. McGeer (Lib. Vancouver Burhard), who said he was in favor of lifting the ban, declared there should be a revision of debate rules to prevent endless repetition of arguments on this and similar issues.

Mr. St. Laurent repeated his explanation of last week— that the lifting of the ban would invite these groups to announce that their legality had been confirmed by the Government

Subservice

Main argument yesterday was on the witnesses. The minister said they were not banned because of their religious beliefs but because their teachings were subversive. He said they sought to discourage young men from joining the armed forces.

Spokesman for the C. C. F. and New Democracy groups pictured the Witnesses as a religious and harmless sect whose worst faults were that they sometimes were nuisances. They could be dealt with under the criminal code when they violated the laws but there was no excuse for declaring the whole organization illegal.

The debate was on an item — eventually approved —of $35,000 for expenses of administering the Defence of Canada regulations.

Mr. St. Laurent repeatedly told the House that the regulations were administered by Provincial law officers and his department could not be held responsible for individual prosecutions of which complaint made.

Chief argument for lifting the ban on Communists and witnesses was the report of last year's Commons committee on the regulations which recommeneded that the ban be lifted. That report was never adopted by the House nor was his adoption moved.

Until it was moved and adopted by a majority of the House, said Mr. St. Laurent, he would continue to ignore it.

Victor Quelch (N.D. Acadia) asked if it were possible, as some said, that action against the Witnesses was prompted by their attacks upon the Roman Catholic Church.

"There is no particle of evidence to support that statement," said Resources Minister Crearar.

The Physical Fitness Bill authorizes the Government to grant $225,000 on a 50-50 basis with the Provinces for the expenses of a National Council to direct and co-ordinate physical fitness training programs.

Mr. Mackenzie said the main function of the council would be to give guidance and direction in a physical fitness program which would be as uniform as possible. A special school was proposed for the training of physical fitness teachers, and it would be under the direction of provincial authorities.

He told Angus MacInnis (C.C.F. Vancouver East) that a rough division of the grant between provinces would be:—

Prince Edward Island $2,000; Nova Scotia $11,000; New Brunswick $9,000; Quebec $65,000; Ontario $74,000; Manitoba $14,000; Saskatchewan $18,000; Alberta $16,000, and British Columbia, $16-000. Payments would be based on population.

Mr. Mackenzie said he agreed with A. R. Davidson (Prog. Con. York West) that there should be some provision so that gymnasisums and playing fields for school gyms and playing fields for schools, including those in rural areas, could be provided.

Twitted C. C. F.

Arthur Slaght (Liberal Parry Sound) twitted the C. C. F. party on its stand, registered in the House at the start of the war, against participation of Canadians overseas. He said the party had never repudiated that stand, although they now were sorry they had taken it.

Mr. Slaght also aroused a furious reply from Clarence Gillis, (C.C.F. Cape Breton South) when he reminded that member of a press report of his speech in Hamilton last March which attributed to him the statement that "we will have to get rid of the Churchills in order to attain our ideals."

Mr. Gillis had never denied making that statement nor had his party repudiated it.

Mr. Gillis gave a long explanation of what he had said at Hamilton but his explanation did not include the phrase attributed to him. He said he was not responsible for what was written by a "pin-headed reporter."

He observed that Mr. Slaght was "a young man" at the time of the Frist Great War and said that he (Mr. Gillis) had spent his 17th birthday "in France fighting for this country."

Mr. Gillis was not in the House when Mr. Slaght made his argument. Mr. Slaght had left the House when Mr. Gillis replied.

2,342 planes destroyed and more than 75,000 Germans slain.

(The Berlin radio, explaining the Nazi retreats as part of the High Command's plan "to force the enemy to the greatest use and abuse of his forces" in battles of attrition "where the goal is not to gain ground," said 45,172 Russians had been taken prisoner and 4,827 tanks and 2,344 planes had been destroyed or captured since July 5).

THE EXPLANATION
why
WHITE SWAN TISSUE

may be "out of stock" at your dealer's.

You go to your dealer for your regular supply of WHITE SWAN and find him temporarily out of stock. Naturally you are disappointed, but please don't blame him, as he is only too anxious to keep on supplying you with Canada's most popular toilet tissue.

It is simply a question of supply and demand. He cannot keep enough WHITE SWAN in stock because we cannot supply him fast enough. We cannot supply him fast enough because our mill, in turn, cannot meet the increased demand from Government, war industries and the public.

We would like to be able to make more WHITE SWAN than we are turning out now, but war needs come before our requirements for new equipment. So, until the present crisis is over, we ask you to bear with us. We will do our utmost to see that any dealer out of stock for the moment will soon receive his supply.

Power Tangle Irks Colonel Drew

RENFREW, July 22 — Progressive Conservative pledge to cancel the "iniquitous" Ottawa river power agreement "forced through the last Legislature" and lift the burdensome power service charge in rural areas won enthusiastic approval of more than 300 who attended a late afternoon rally today in the municipal auditorium. They had remained in town to hear the party leader, George Drew, though many customarily leave for summer resorts on the Wednesday half holiday.

Mr. Drew particularly condemned the Government for calling a special session last February to ratify the power agreement on the "spurious" plea that it was a war necessary intended to start development of the Ottawa River sites to provide power for war industry. Yet, he said, in late July not a single move had been made. The demand for hurried passing of the power agreement on the plea of patriotic necessity, Mr. Drew said, "was the lowest form of hypocrisy. I hope my words are strong enough."

People to Benefit

If returned to power Mr. Drew pledged immediate cancellation of the agreement and prompt steps to develop Ottawa River power so that the people at whose very door it had been placed would benefit first from it. Mr. Drew spoke in support of John J. Foran, Eganville, a lumber dealer and lifelong resident of Renfrew, contesting South Renfrew against T. P. Murray, Liberal, who sat in the last Legislature. The C.C.F. has not yet put a candidate in the field. Mr. Foran is serving his fourth term as reeve of Eganville by acclamation, was eight years reeve of Sebastopol and was warden of Renfrew in 1934. He served on the Old Age Pensions Board.

Ontario had the right, he said, to demand a power controller who had no personal interests to serve "yet the power controller who sat in on the decision to give away for all time the sites on the Ottawa given to Quebec was not in a position to make an impartial decision. He lives in Quebec. He is a director of many of the great power companies of Quebec, which stand to benefit from this iniquitous legislation forced through the Legislature last February. Yet when a decison was being made bteween Ontario and Quebec, a man perhaps more interested in power than any other single man in Canada sat in on it."

The 999-year lease given Quebec on the Carillon Roches Fendu and Lower Papuette power sites on the Ottawa was not a lease but an outright grant which changed the boundaries of Ontario, "which takes in Hawkesbury and which will flood vast areas up here sometime if the agreement goes ahead," he contiued.

"Utterly Illegal."

"The agreement is utterly illegal. No Government has the right to give away any part of the area placed under the Province's control by Confederation."

He said he proposed a town and country planning commission to plan power distribution of power so as to develop industry as well as stabilize agricultural production in the same areas. He strongly urged decentralization of industry through provision of power in the small communities which needed it.

lied commander-in-chief, said at a press conference yesterday that both the 8th Army and the middle Canadian American striking force were "doing exactly the right thing."

"Owing to the nature of the terrain and the location of the enemy forces," the general added, "the task facing the 8th Army is one of bitter fighting with a generally slow advance."

(Louis Hunter, Canadian Press War Correspondent at Allied Headquarters, North Africa, reported yesterday that on July 19 Gen. Eisenhower paid his second visit to Canadian troops since the invasion of Sicily started, spending some 40 minutes with officers and men of the landing beaches. However, it is not thought that he met Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, the Canadian commander).

Slugging It Out.

The British and the German forces at Catania were slugging it out in one of the most ferocious battles since the famous 8th Army broke the Mareth line The Germans, undoubtedly supported with strong reinforcements from the centre of Sicily and the Italian mainland, were counter-attacking repeatedly but without success.

Axis commanders were reported taking terrible losses, apparently throwing every available man into a frantic effort to stem the British advance across the Catania Plain.

Allied observers believe the Germans intend to try to hold the Catania-Messina line as long as possible, utilizing towering Mount Etna and a cluster of satellite hills. Reinforcements are understood still reaching them.

The enemy is favored not only by the terrain, which is networked with many creeks and three major rivers, but by strong defences originally erected to protect the ring of airfields around Gerbini to the west. The 8th Army, however, has broken the crust of this steel and concret circle and established his hop-off point around an estuary formed by the confluence of the three rivers. It is this British salient the Germans have been hammering with some of their prize shock troops.

Biscari Airport Falls To Americans

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 21—(AP). — American troops storming the Biscari airbase on a 3,000-foot plateau in south-eastern Sicily fought one of the fiercest battles of all last week, delayed reports said.

The U.S. soldiers smashed a counter-attack by the Nazi Herman Goering Division tanks and armored cars, leaving many enemy dead on the heavily-defended mountain road.

R.A.F. field officers who were within a mile of the field while tanks still were fighting attested to the ferceness of the fray.

Overturned enemy armored vehicles and guns marked the entrance to the landing ground once used by many of the German air force's crack fighter and bomber squadrons operating against Malta.

Canadian Legion Totals $1,435 For War Victims

With each successive month, the help that the boys of the Canadian Legion are giving to assist the suffers from air raids over the central country in the Empire continues to mount, more than ever symbolishing the same steady work that they did in the great conflict twenty-five years ago, and in a like manner epitomizes the mounting help that is being given in a general way to the war effort, from this the major Dominion star in the crown of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Each week on Wednesday nights, Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion in this city under the presidency of George Gimblett holds a Bingo in aid of their own welfare work, and from the proceeds of this, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has benefitted in just as steady a manner, which has meant that the fund could rely on them for a contribution once a month, this promise having been made at the very outset of the records of the fund, and faithfully kept in true Anglo-Saxon tradition of their word being as good as their bond.

This month the contribution is quite a substantial one amounting to $62.88, which added to their previous donations makes their total stand at $1,435.27, and constitutes the second largest to come from any one group in the history of the fund, a record which they may justifiably feel is a real credit and will undoubtedly give much satisfaction particularly to that small group of veterans who week after week faithfully discharge the detail duties so necessary to carry on this particular feature of their activities.

Only on a very few occasions has folding money been found in the penny boxes, so when it does occur it is something to talk about, for who knows but what it might encourage others to do likewise for while the name of these receptacles suggsts what is mostly deposited in them, there is still very ample room for larger contributions if one is inspired to contribute that way, and in proportion it does all the more good.

When the box at Warne's Jewellery Store was collected by the secretary of the fund, a dollar bill was found in it, being the larger portion of the total $1.60.

It is just ten days since the last donation of £500 was cabled over to the Lord Mayor of London, and in that time intervening there has accumulated the sum of $340.00 towards the next donation, which of course will be sent just as soon as it is fully completed, and if one can picture for themselves the devastation that has occurred in such places as London, Coventry, Southampton and Liverpool, there would surely be a great surge to do something practical about it.

Dismiss Count Against Woman Raising Prices

Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Wednesday afternoon dismissed a charge against Mrs. M. Hartley of Nick's Camp, Smith township, of having sold ice cream, soft drinks and peanuts at a price higher than was reasonable and justice.

"If there was an infraction of the war time prices and trade regulations I am satisfied it was not done intentionally", said Magistrate Gee in dismissing the case. He pointed out that there had been considerable confusion for some time as prices to be charged for chocolate bars and other similar commodities. No basic price, he said, had been shown by the prosecution.

When the afternoon session commenced W. J. Arthur Fair, defence counsel, called Mrs. Hartley to the stand. She said that in regard to the large bottles of ginger ale mentioned her price had always been 25 cents, with a five cent refund for the return of the bottle. She had never at any time, she said, sold the large bottles for 19 cents. She had been told that the price of Eskimo pies should be six cents, but on being informed to the contrary she had dropped the price to five cents. As to peanuts she said there were several grades.

W. F. Huycke, K.C. prosecuted the case for the War Time Prices and Trade Board and in his argument said that while no basic price had been shown, the price at which articles had been sold immediately after the basic period should be regarded as fair and reasonable and the onus was on the accused to show that any increase on that price was fair and reasonable.

Rainfall Good For Vegetables

Local tomatoes are ripening and will likely be ready for market next week; some possibly for Saturday of this week, Herb Doig told the Examiner to-day.

Cucumbers and marrows will be added to the gardeners' display at this week-end, with cabbage, carrots, beets, beans, peas, and so on.

"No one could estimate the value of that rain last night," said Mr. Doig. "It is a great boon to everybody with things growing, and there will be a full range of garden products on the market this Saturday."

Local rainfall during the night was 1.20 inches.

Two Face Charge Of Attempted Fraud

As the aftermath of a fire which destroyed a Norwood residence in January last, two persons found themselves charged with attempted fraud in police court this morning.

Floyd Emery, Norwood and Helen Girard, Peterborough were accused of having attempted by false pretences to defraud the Economical Mutual Insurance Company of Kitchener, the alleged false pretences being that a claim had been made for insurance on a radio, set of dinner dishes, silverware and four pair of curtains supposedly destroyed by fire which burned a Norwood bungalow.

There has been a long investigation into the matter and the charges were laid by Inspector J. A. Grant of the Ontario Fire Marshall's department.

The two accused appeared before Sergeant Gordon T. Puffer, J.P. today and were remanded until Monday, bail being fixed at $1,000.

Mr. Brewin is C.C.F. candidate in St. George's riding, Toronto, and is very prominent in Anglican church affairs in the Toronto Diocese.

CARMAN SEYMOUR, CAVAN, GROWS RAPE SEED

Vital War Job Devoid Of Glamor Taken In Stride By Farmers

When the Dominion of Canada through its Department of Agriculture appealed to farmers in this district to produce this season a harvest of rape seed from which oil will be extracted for use as a special lubricant for marine engines, one of those who responded was Carman Seymour of Cavan township.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, who took this picture explained to the Examiner that it is a snap-shot of Mr. Seymour in his ten acres of just about the most promising field of rape in the area. It was a broad texture of bloom, uniform and healthy, and as a souvenir of a special war-time agricultural effort, Mr. Paterson decided to photograph it.

Many Volunteered

There was quite a number of volunteer rape growers in the county and adjoining Cavan, which almost seems part of Peterborough. Among Mr. Seymour's neighbors who could be readily mentioned are Harold Ball, Bernard Preston and Roger Hanbidge, all living in the community west of Scott's Corners, north of Springville on the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway.

This picture is going to be a sharp surprise to Carman Seymour. He has no idea the Examiner was publishing it, or even had a print. And if he would have preferred to appear to all the readers of the Examiner in his best suit, and Mr. Seymour is above such a trifling consideration, the answer to that would be that somehow this picture strikingly suggests and represents the wartime farmer in the midst of a tremendous job which he has been doing since he was called into the service of production.

Probably this growing and flowering field of rape does not sufficiently and adequately reflect the restless action of farm work. The planting of seed and its subsequent growing is almost static. It is slow motion action, but in due time the harvest comes, and—it is all a result of thoughtful and skilled farm planning and sustained and intelligent work.

Action Uniform

This picture of Carman Seymour in his "action uniform" seems typical of farmers in their war job, and especially of that class of farmers who respond promptly and energetically to the nation's emergency calls to the spirit and also the sinew of rural Canada, and in this instance, of rural Ontario.

Mr. Seymour, in his flowering field of rape, which was planted as a special job for the government to provide marine engine oil, when other sources were cut off, stands for those other farmers who are literally doing a grand job, many of them lacking the help they need, feeling perhaps they have been overlooked in the effects of the selective service plan, but toiling away and getting things done. It seems, in fact, that those who actually do the most, complain the least.

So, this Cavan farm picture of Carman Seymour is representative of farmers who possibly feel sometimes that people in the city forget about the big essential and supporting program that goes on from month to month up and down the concession lines. No distinctive blue or khaki for their uniforms, just the light and sketchy, but ample raiment of abbreviated shirt and trousers. Mr. Seymour is typical of those farmers who cannot be rounded up for a group picture or group mention, and so he stands alone, out there in his field of bloom, the rugged figure of a Canadian farmer at war.

Allow Three Days For Revision

Revision of the voters' lits for city electors was begun to-day at the City Hall, South Central School and Judge Smoke's Chambers at the Court House.

These offices are open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. to-day, Friday and Saturday.

This is the final opportunity for residents of the city to have their names put on the voters' list. Responsibility rests with the individual to make certain that his or her name is not omitted in enumeration.

Check On Name.

If it is ascertained that your name is not on the list, by reference to posted sheets in your neighborhood, or by calling one of the committee rooms, then the next and last step is to apply for enlistment during these three days.

Probably the easiest way is to call one of the party committee rooms and ask them if your name is on the list; if it is not, then ask for further information as to which of the three revising offices you should apply to have your name put on.

Grant Smedmor Returns Home After 2 Years

Sgt. Grant Smedmor, R.C.A.F., whose home is at 148 Murray street, has just returned from two years' service overseas.

Enlisting in the Army in June, 1940, Sgt. Smedmor spent a year in training in Canada before being sent across. He was with the 3rd Anti-Tank Regiment, R.C.A., until February of this year when he transferred to the air force. For four months he was attached to the R.A.F. for preliminary ground school training, and now has returned to this country to complete his course. His ambition is to become a pilot or navigator.

Sgt. Smedmor has three brothers, all of whom are in the armed forces and have seen service overseas. Arnold is a captain at headquarters of the 3rd Canadian Division, and George, in the R.C.A.F., transferred from the Army in the same manner as his brother. It is probable that he too will return also for his advanced training. A younger brother, Donald, is now in Canada.

This airman says that his indoctrination course with the R.A.F. was pretty stiff, with a very great emphasis placed on discipline and physical training. In the main he liked the food, but now that he is back he has begun to realize that what they did not have over there was variety. Among other things, he is appreciating home cooking.

It's Still Not Explained!

Liberal speakers have been taking to the air in an effort to meet the complaint that is being heard in all parts of the riding that the candidate named by the Liberals is an absentee standard-bearer and that if he were elected he could not possibly represent Peterborough in the Legislature.

They have said much about the fact that Capt. Elliott is on active service and there is nothing much wrong with that. But there is just as much reason why electors should be asked to vote for Harold Scott because he fought in the last war as to vote for Alex Elliott because he is getting ready to fight in this one.

All the radio eloquence has not been able to explain how an absentee candidate, if elected, could sit in Legislature or for that matter if the nomination of soldier candidates had been made a general thing in this election how there could be a Legislature at all.

Electors should remember that anything that is being said about the patriotism of Alex Elliott in putting on the uniform of his country at this time applies with equal force to the patriotism of Harold Scott when he put on the uniform of his country in the first great war.

Axis Securities Show Price Rise

LONDON, July 22 — (AP).—Allied victories are bringing a curious twist to the London stock exchange with a marked rise in prices of securities of enemy and occupied counntries which could not be sold at any price a few years ago.

Financial circles said to-day buyers apparently were banking on quick defeat of the Axis — hoping European countries still would have enough money in the "kitty" to meet obligations of their bondholders.

Actual transactions in the market, however, have not been very large, probably because of the wartime limitation that dealings be on a strictly cash basis.

Typical examples of the trend are:

Italian credit 7 per cent. sterling bonds have jumped from 18 to 42½;

German 5 per cent. sterling bonds have risen recently from 3¾ to 12½;

Japanese 4 per cent. 1889 bonds now are 17—four times their worth a year ago;

Greek 7 per cent. 1924 bonds which have been as low as eight, now are 29.

Credit in a few occupied countries since the start of war has been maintained at a fairly high level — especially in Norway which was able to save its treasury.

Freak Accident Kills Woman

NORTH BAY, Ont. July 22 (CP) —Victim of a freak automobile accident at the corner of Golf and Oak streets in North Bay to-day, Mrs. Annie Soutar of Sudbury, was fatally injured when a car police said was driven by 17-year-old Germain Leduc of Timmins, Ont., struck a hydro pole which toppled on her.

Her skull badly crushed, Mrs. Soutar died instantly.

Proceeding south on Golf street the driver accelerated the car after rounding the corner and the pedal stuck. Police believe that in trying to loosen it, he lost control of the car, which crashed into the pole.

Max Anthony of Ingersoll, Ont., owner of the car and a passenger at the time of the accident, suffered lacerations about the face when the windshield glass was shattered. Mr. Leduc was uninjured, although badly shaken. Police estimated damage to the car amountted to about $150.

Mrs. Soutar, a saleswoman, had been in the city on business.

Case Adjourned By Labour Court

TORONTO, July 22—(CP).—Mr. Jusctice J. G. Gillanders in Ontario Labor Court Wednesday adjourned until next Tuesday the hearing of an application by the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) for certification as the collective bargaining agency at the Galt Malleable Iron Co., at Galt, Ont., after a discussion of conditions at the plant.

The union was represented by E. B. Joliffe and the company by J. G. Gibson, who told court that the company had an agreement with its employees' association. The latter was represented by J. F. Easterbrook who intervened.

No evidence was taken Wednesday, but it was brought out in discussion that of the 192 men employed at the time of the strike, May 21 some 60 were members of the employees' association who remained at work.

Mr. Jolliffe contended all employed in the plant at the time of the strike should have the right to choose their bargaining agency. Mr. Gibson said those still on strike were now no longer employed by the company and should not be considered in determining what union is to be the bargaining agency.

Ralston Happy Over Canadians Success

OTTAWA, July 22 (CP). — Defence Minister Ralston told The Canadian Press last night it was a sources of "great" satisfaction that Lt.-Gen. A G. L. McNaughton on his return to North Africa from the Sicilian battlefront had been able to announce that plans for the invasion had worked out so well.

Col. Ralston was commenting on Canadian Press dispatches from North Africa which revealed that Gen. McNaughton, commander of the overseas Canadian Army, is in North Africa after visiting the invasion front.

Col. Ralston said that for months the Canadian forces in Britain had been training for just such an operation and Gen. McNaughton's statement showed how effective this training had been.

Monsignor Burke Lauds Aviators

HACKENSACK, N.J., July 22 — (AP).—Monsignor Eugene S. Burke, former rector of the American Seminary in Rome, in an interview with the Bergen Evening Record today, expressed satisfaction that American aviators had bombed that city, at the same time voicing gratitude that care had been taken to spare non-military structures.

Now pastor of Holy Trinity Church, Hackensack, the Monsignor said:

"The Axis may no longer hide behind the walls of the Eternal City. Probably the Pope was sitting in the Vatican thanking God that Rome had at last been bombed. He would realize that while innocents surely would suffer as a result, that it is necessary in order to rid the world of Fascism. It was a military job and a well-done one."

B.N.A. Amendment Goes To Commons

LONDON, July 22—(CP Cable).—Foreign Secretary Eden yesterday told the House of Commons that the Canadian Government has asked "as a matter of courtesy" that a bill amending the British North America Act be submitted to the British Parliament.

He said he hoped the House would be agreeable to passing the bill through all stages at the next sitting day. The bill received first reading in the House of Lords Tuesday and, he said, is expected from the Lord almost immediately.

The bill would authorize the postponement until after the war of the constitutional redistribution of seats in the Canadian House of Commons.

Rumania Balks Won't Fight Reds

ISTANBUL, July 19—(Delayed)—(AP).—Diplomatic sources said today Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania has flatly refused German demands that Rumania participate in the fighting this summer against Russia.

Antonescu was reported to have told Nazi representatives two weeks ago that Rumania already had made great sacrifices and henceforth would only defend her own borders.

The sources also said the Germans, in reprisal for this refusal, had threatened to turn pro-Nazi Iron Guardists loose in Rumania to continue anti-semitic activity and terrorist campaigns which Antonescu suppressed late in 1941.

WAR SECRETS, confidential drawings and documents are copied all day long by Frank Celin's photostat camera to help speed production of ships, planes, and guns. C.C.F. Only Hope Joliffe Claims

MOUNT DENNIS, July 22.—(CP). —E. B. Joliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, told a meeting last night that the C.C.F. program is the only hope of "freedom and security" for war veterans and war workers.

He said if Premier Harry Nixon had "a grain of sympathy for the thousands of farmers who have lost their farms because of conditions under his Government, he would be voting C.C.F." in the Aug. 4 Provincial election.

"As a farmer, Mr. Nixon ought to vote C.C.F.," said Mr. Joliffe.

"The C.C.F. has always stood—and still stands—for the maintenance of the family farm. It will be maintained only if agriculture gets a square deal—which it is not getting from any Liberal government."

Mr. Joliffe said George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader, was "wailing that the C.C.F. program is going to mean regimentation and dictatorship."

"The fact is that the C.C.F. policy means democracy and freedom for the workers and farmers of Ontario," the C.C.F. Leader said.

At the same meeting C. H. Millard, candidate for West York, declared: "Labor has shown a decided trend to political action. The old parties can no longer hide their identity as apologists for private enterprise. Labor doesn't forget the tanks at Stratford, Hepburn's Hussars at Oshawa and the strike-breaking police at Kirkland Lake, Wallaceburg, Galt and at the Campbell Soup strike in New Toronto. Thirty per cent. of the 75 candidates nominated by the C.C.F. now are union or labor representatives."

Mr. Joliffe also addressed a meeting at Humewood School.

Eternal City Problem Of Precision Bombing

Rome offers one of the most difficult problems to be faced by any airmen in this war but Allied fliers are proving themselves equal to the task of selecting their military targets with deadly accuracy while leaving Vatican City, historical spots and monuments unharmed. The chart of the Italian capital shows now [illegible] Allied bombers are anxious to spare, are crowded closely among military targets legitimately marked for destruction. Italians were warned that Fascists or Nazis might bomb the Vatican in an attempt to throw the blame on the Allies.

Premier Nixon Outlines Principles In Broadcast

TORONTO, July 22—Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. policies were attacked last night by Premier H. C. Nixon in a Province-wide broadcast in which he urged the return of the present Government because of a proved record and a pledge to continue the policies it had followed for nine years. Claim to a considerable part in the record of the Government, as a senior Cabinet member and Acting Premier on many occasions, was laid by Mr. Nixon.

Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew, he declared, showed inconsistency in his cry that an election at this time was unfair, while he had opposed a bill to extend the life of the Legisature. Furthermore, he said, Mr. Drew professed a great desire to co-operate with the Ottawa Government, yet his record has been one of destructive criticism, winning "his fame—or notoriety—" as a critic of matters not within the jurisdiction of the Province. Even in those matters—the conduct of British and Canadian naval and military affairs —he has shown poor judgment, Mr. Nixon said, having declared Russia's armed might was a myth. If so wrong in things "in his own chosen field," what could be his judgment as an administrator, asked Mr. Nixon, with no record in such a capacity?

"Mr. Drew and the other George of The Globe and Mail are putting a lot of emphasis on the ninth point in his program—that the Province will assume 50 per cent of the municipal school taxes. Supposing it did, who would benefit by the change? The best way to show who would benefit would be to give an example, and since The Globe and Mail has so often singled out this Government for attention, let us use that institution as an example. This great altruistic plan, put forward by Mr. Drew, would mean a reduction in taxes in one year to The Globe and Mail, on its present assessment, of $4,710.35.

"But to the average working citizen who owns his modest home, with an assessment say of $3,000, the reduction would be only $17.10. That shows what Mr. Drew is really doing when he talks of shifting taxes. And to provide the extra Provincial revenue to take care of the change, his only resource would be to add to the already heavy burdens on the income of the working man."

Hits C.C.F. Platform

C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe's ideas "come from that compilation of socialist ideas known as the C.C.F. platform, and I mean the real C.C.F. platform," said Mr. Nixon. Mr. Jolliffe was not bringing forward the whole platform, he said, though he was bound by it as approved at a Regina convention. It proposes to bring farms under the supervision of political appointees Mr. Nixon declared, with the penalty of loss of the farm is supervisors were not satisfied with its operation.

"What a nice mess of political patronage that would be," declared Mr. Nixon, "to have the henchmen of a Socialist leader supervising the farms they covet for themselves. That is in the real platform laid down at Regina and it hasn't been changed."

Similarly, he said, merchants and business men would find themselves struggling under a perpetuation of controls such as those they willingly accept now only because of war.

The best indication of performance was past records, Mr. Nixon said, and the Liberal Party did not appeal on a platform of impossible promises. It pledged to continue the same course it had followed in the past. It stood firmly behind the following principles:

Outlines Principles

1. Continuance of the policy that all resources would be devoted to the prosecution of the war and of aggressive development of natural resources needed for victory.

2. Co-operation with the Federal authorities in every field, such as use of Provincial buildings and personnel in the training of men.

3. Maintenance of Provincial rights wherever possible without impairing the war effort and insistence on the return of rights, after the war is won, which are relinquished temporarily.

4. Continuance of a pay-as-you-go policy and maintenance of a balanced budget such as had permitted retirement of much of the Provincial debt. No further taxation or borrowings during wartime.

5. Protection of the rights of labor, such as evidenced by the Ontario Collective bargaining Act, with strict enforcement of the laws and regulations to protect labor.

6. Extension of social legislation whenever economically sound for the needy classes, and maintenance of all social services with such improvements as can be effected when possible.

7. Continuation of the operations of the Department of Health which were considered the best in Canada and which had achieved for Ontario the lowest death rate in the country.

8. Adoption of health insurance, maternity benefits, public hospitalization plans and similar social programs as soon as national adoption of these schemes can be effected.

9. Continuance of policies of "generous financial assistance" to municipalities to carry the burden of relief and costs of sick, aged, needy and widows.

10. Support of agricuture and, through extension of co-operative marketing, guarantee farmers a fair margin of profit.

11. Encouragement of private enterprise with the minimum of control over or interference with private business.

12. Continuance of the policy of reforming educational schedules as had been done in recent years, to fit young people to meet new conditions in industry, business and professions.

13. Continuance of the policy of assisting the more needy elementary schools which had increased grants-in-aid from $2,790,000 in 1934 to $6,396,000 in 1943.

14. Extension of rural Hydro.

15. Planning for postwar adjustment to be continued.

Mr. Nixon then outlined a program which, he said, his Government had undertaken, a survey of possible work which would be available after the war. The departments were surveying their own fields; Highways had two years of road-building planned, education has a comprehensive plan of training men, which was already training returned men. Lands and Forests was planning reforestation and forest protection. Mines were engaged in research on better methods of mining and plans to extend mining and the entire Government was planning an appeal for reduction of mining taxation.

Benefits Forecast From Big Airfields

LONDON, July 22 (CP)—Clement Attlee, Dominions Secretary, said in an address yesterday that, thanks to wartime-built airfields, Canada can expect the development of rapid air transport to begin within a short time after the war.

He said a country of great distances like Canada, where time spent in transport and travel on the ground is an appreciable factor in both administration and commerce, stands to benefit more than others from such a development. He was speaking before a congress organized by the National Council of the building industries to discuss postwar building problems.

Attlee predicted the Alaska Highway may well become one of the main arterial lines of world traffic.

Speaking on the development of public works in the Dominions and colonies after the war, he said: "In the planned development of the colonies there is room for a great expansion in public works. We must play our part in helping poor people to a better way of life. We cannot escape the obligation to aid them, and clearly it is to our interest to do so."

Alex. Elliott CAN Represent Us

Naturally one would think, with the Liberal Candidate for Peterborough serving his country overseas, that this would be a matter of commendation by all citizens regardless of political affiliations and the last thing expected would be to make political capital out of his absence from the riding.

But the Progressive - Conservative Victory Committee says "He Can't Represent Us." Our Conservative friends know full well that the Legislature elected on August 4 will be entitled to hold office for FIVE years, and will in that time normally hold FIVE sessions. That Alex Elliott will be absent one of these sessions is highly probable. No one can reasonably expect the war to end within the next six months, and YOU can be assured that Alex Elliott will remain a soldier until he finishes the job.

IS THIS A SAMPLE OF TORY CONSISTENCY?

Isn't it strange, that our Conservative friends should condemn the Government for holding an election, and in the very next breath state it is very important that Peterborough's representative should be in the Legislature and not in the Army. If nobody wanted an election, and an election had not been held, Alex Elliott, although overseas would still be our representative. Surely if it were important to have our member here, our Conservative friends would want an election. What do you think the Conservative forces in Nipissing are saying where their candidate Col. Young is with the Canadian Army overseas; would it be "Don't Vote for Young He Can't Represent Us"?

We trust and hope that the war will end long before the term of the new legislature is expired. As soon as the boys return we will have to face all the difficult problems relating to their demobolization and re-establishment in civilian life. These young men have gone forth to war with high ideals, with the vision of a better world ever before them. Let there be no mistake about that. Our young men know what they are fighting for. Wouldn't it be cruel if when they returned they found that there wasn't a single voice in the Legislature — not a single comrade-in-arms to express their hopes and ideals and to translate them into action. This may be the idea of some of the Conservative Party but it is not the idea of the Citizens of Peterborough City and County.

ELLIOTT KNOWS WHAT THE BOYS WANT

Alex Elliott is with those boys overseas. He knows by talking with them, living with them and sleeping with them the problems and fears that beset them, he knows what they are hoping for, and what kind of a world they wish to see when the war is over. He knows that over there among the fighting men the distinctions of race and creed, Conservative and Liberal fade into insignificance and are replaced by the nobler and better spirit of a comradeship in arms based on sacrifice.

We shall not suffer by Alex Elliott's absence. Premier Nixon has already given his son to the cause—he has been killed in action. Do you think Premier Nixon or any members of his cabinet or any private member will see Peterborough suffer because our representative is overseas? Why no, the affairs of the riding are being well looked after by an able Liberal executive.

When the soldiers return and resume civilian life wouldn't it be the best gift citizens could offer them — to say boys we have not forgotten you in your absence — we have given our confidence to one of you — you have as your representative a man experienced as a Parliamentarian—a man who knows your views and your problems. You have as your representative your old comrade-in-arms—Alex Elliott, a Real Man.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—For the past two years my ice man has called every day except Sunday and charged us three dollars a month. He now calls only four times a week and charges us the same price. Is this a price increase?

A.—Yes. The ban on daily deliveries has been lifted for the two months, July and August, and the ice companies may, if they so desire, deliver five or six times a week. However, if the number of deliveries is fewer, then the price must be reduced in the same proportion.

Q.—I understand the maximum meat ration for medical purposes is three coupons per week. Is this correct?

A.—No. Persons who obtain extra rations on a doctor's certificate, have their regular rations plus any additional ration required up to a maximum of three coupons.

Q.—My boy was at camp for a period of ten days, and although he was served rationed meat only once during that time, two coupons were detached from his ration book. Was this proper?

A.—Yes. The regulations now state that hotels and summer camps must detach two meat coupons for each week of residence unless it can be shown on application to the Ration Office that the guest is required to take his meals elsewhere than with a quota user.

Q.—Is my butcher within his rights in removing from my ration book meat coupons which become void and have not been spent?

A.—No. Unspent coupons should destroyed by the holder of the book. While void coupons are worthless to the consumer, they are still valid for the retailer in purchasing replacement stock. Unless these are destroyed, retailers will be able to buy supplies which they do not need and the purpose of rationing will be defeated.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 23.

ACCORDING to the lunar and mutual aspects this should be a good day for serious and steady application to tasks, duties and investments of funds and energies expected to have enduring and stable returns. This may be in association wtih old-established institutions, with diplomatic or political groups, where sound obligations and abilities are recognized. Well-organized strategies may be employed but earnest effort, based on principle and fidelity should win in the long run, with rewards of merit and lasting results worth working for with diligence and straightforwardness. In private affairs also let duty be the watchword. Elders and home ties will be appreciative.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which lasting and substantial rewards with recognition for past performances may be expected. It is a time for working with serious and sustained efforts, guided by quickened and dependable intuition, employing diplomacy, tact and stratagem. Sound investments, in lands, property and securities, are encouraged. Elders and old institutions may confer worthwhile benefits.

A child born on this day will be endowed with solid and dependable abilities and traits of character. It should be industrious and practical although philosophical, perhaps psychic and have reliable intuitions.

SUSPICION OF MATE DESTROYS WOMAN'S HOUSE OF HAPPINESS

Opposite Sexes in Offices Develop Sincere Friendships Far Different From Love.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married eight years and we have one child. Our home life has been ideal until recently when a woman in her thirties came to work in the same office with my husband. He took a great fancy to her and was always telling me how sweet and good, how pure and innocent she was, and what a lovely smile she had, until finally it got on my nerves and I exploded and told him just what I thought of him and of her.

This made him so angry that he struck me. Afterwards he apologized and begged me to forgive him, which I did, but he still insults me if I mention her name and gets perfectly furious. I have asked him to leave this place and get work elsewhere, but he refuses.

I love my husband dearly, but I feel our home is going on the rocks, and my heart is filled with bitterness when I think of his insulting me for this stranger. What shall I do?

A SAD WIFE.

Wife Burns Down House of Happiness

ANSWER—"For man is tinder and woman is tow, and somebody comes and begins to blow," and the tragedy of it is that it is so often the wife who starts the conflagration that burns down her house of happiness. That is what you have done, my poor friend. You have taken the surest possible means of alienating your husband from you and making him fall in love with the other woman by your suspicions and your accusations and your attacks upon her.

Evidently there was nothing between your husband and this girl except a mild mutual attraction, or else he never would have told you about her. Certainly he would never have sung her praises to you if this feeling toward her had not been one of platonic admiration. And if you had agreed with him that she must be a perfectly lovely young woman and asked her up to dinner on Sunday, there are ninety-nine chances to one that it would all have petered out into a harmless friendship that would have been a pleasure in his life, and nothing more. Perhaps you would even have liked the young woman as well as he did if you had come to know her.

You must remember that when men and women work together, day after day, there is bound to be some sort of relationship established between them, and they make things either pleasant or unpleasant for each other. Many men and women who work together in the same office find each other intelligent, interesting, stimulating. They come to have a sincere friendship and affection for each other, based on mutual helpfulness and kindliness and generosity, but that does not mean that they are in love, or entertain any sentiment towards each other to which the most jealous husband or wife could object.

So my advice to you is to try to get this point of view, which is evidently your husband's. Apologize to him for the insult you offered him in believing that he was not capable of having a disinterested friendship with another woman. If you don't, as sure as Fate you are going to drive him to her and fan his fancy for the girl into a genuine passion.

And, for Heaven's sake, quit nagging him about giving up his position. He is quite right to refuse to give up his good job. Besides, wherever he went there would be women in the office. The only difference would be that next time he would have sense enough not to tell you about one whom he happened to think was nice.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: I was raised in Southern Missouri and I know a lot of tricks with cornmeal that you Canadians never heard of. I am giving you two that I use commonly besides cornmeal mush—which takes the place of potatoes, when chilled, sliced, floured and fried in butter.

Cornmeal Filets.

(Contributed by Mrs. Groh).

Two cups milk, ½ cup cornmeal, ¼ cup salt, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup flour, 1 beaten egg, ½ cup bread crumbs. Bring milk to boil. Sift in cornmeal slowly stirring constantly. Add salt and butter. Cover and let simmer slowly 20 minutes. Pour into greased mould. Cool. Cut into slices (or "filets"). Dip in flour, then in egg diluted with a little water. Dip in bread crumbs. Put in greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven until brown.

Cornmeal With Cheese.

(Contributed by Mrs. Groh).

Two cups hot cornmeal, 1 cup mild grated cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt ¼ teaspoon pepper. Have cornmeal hot. Put half on bottom of greased baking dish. Add cheese in a layer. Put remaining cornmeal on top. Dot with butter, sprinkle with crumbs, salt and pepper, and bake at 350 Deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes.

This struck a familiar chord for I lived in your beloved Missouri and have eaten "mush" many times. A very good substitute for when potatoes are scarce!

The old typewriter is being stowed in the trunk of the car tomorrow and we're off, not too far) on a fishing trip—and Em's going to do all the cooking Next week watch out for camp-fire and kerosene-stove fare—but this week notice the civilized stuff I've assembled—"super" I might say (Since Peter has come back fgrom camp all our meals are "super"!)

I want to emphasize the importance of using egg desserts for meatless meals, so I'm giving you a choice recipe for Baked Custard with Caramel Sauce This dessert can be made in the cool of the day after the oven is hot to bake sausage rolls. I made my pastry Monday and let it ripen in the ice box. Because Tuesday felt pretty warm even at 7 in the morning—I turned the oven on and baked my sausage rolls for Wednesday and the custard for Tuesday's dinner followed them after the oven had cooled off a little.

Baked Custard

(With Caramel Sauce)

Three eggs, 2 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt, 2¼ cups scalded milk, ¾ teaspoon vanilla, few grains nutmeg, cup graham cracker crumbs is optional. Beat the eggs, and add the sugar and salt. Add the scalded milk, vanilla and nutmeg. Mix well. Pour into custard cups. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven of 300 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. When tested with sliver knife custard will not sitck to knife if it is baked. A good topping when it is served is to sprinkle graham cracker crumbs over it; which have been browned in a little brown sugar and butter.

Caramel Sauce: Butter the inside of a granite saucepan. Add 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate and melt over hot water. Add 2 cups light brown sugar and mix well. Add 1 ounce butter and ½ cup rich milk. Cook until the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water, then take from fire, and flavor with vanilla.

Sausage Turnovers

One cup sausage meat and 1 cup ham (or 1 pound link sausages), 1 teaspono Worcestershire suace, 1 cup boiled rice, 1 egg, plain pie paste. Fry sausage meat slowly for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Drain off fat. Add ham, rice and sauce, mixing well. Beat egg thoroughly and add to mixture. Roll pie paste thin and cut in 4-inch squares. Place 2 tablespons of meat mixture in centre of each. Moisten edges with water and fold in triangle. Close edges with a fork. Prick the tops and bake 15 to 20 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. If link sausages are used merely wrap the pasrty around them, seal edges and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes.

Lettuce Salad
(For Epicures Only)

(Have you ever wished to "breakfast on berries and dine on the fruit of the trees?" This calls for flowers from your garden!) Wash lettuce and let stand 30 minutes in cold water. Drain. Pour French Dressing (see below) and toss to coat leaves thoroughly. Then sprinkle with chopped naturtium blossoms or seeds, radishes, hard-cooked egg and parsley and chives, chopped together.

French Dressing

One cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar (or 1½-grain saccharin tablet), ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Mix ingredients and shake well every itme just before using.

Monday Night Salad

This is merley 1 cup ground cold leftover roast beef added to 2 cups very finely shredded cabbage, ¼ cup mayonnaise and ½ teaspoon salt. Other ingredients such as sweet green pepper pimiento, cucumber and radish may be added—but the important ingredient is the beef—it is popular with men—and one way to entice them into eating their raw greens.

Egg Salads

1. Cut the whites of hard cooked eggs into eighths lengthwise. Arrange on lettuce to simulate the petals of a daisy. Put yolks through ricer and arrange in the centre of the whites. Serve with mayonnaise and put some chopped parsley in the mayonnaise.

2. Chop whites finely and arrange on lettuce. Put yolks through ricer and mound in the centre. Garnish with parsley and serve with cooked salad dressings.

Orange Tea Biscuits

Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¾ cup orange juice, grated rind 2 oranges, loaf sugar. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt together. Rub shortening in with finger tips. Add grated rind then orange juice slowly to make a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board to ½-inch thickness. Sprinkle tops with additional grated rind. Cut out and bake at 450 deg. F. 10 to 15 minutes.

Molasses Cake

One-half cup shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 3 eggs, ¾ teaspoon soda, 2-3 cup molasses, 2¼ cups flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon each cloves and mace, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup each milk and raisins. Cream the shortening, sugar and egg yolks together. Add soda, mixed with molasses. Mix and sift flour, cinnamon, clove mace and salt. and add alternately with the milk to the fisst mixture. Stir in beaten whites. Dredge the raisins lightly with flour and stir in lightly. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 to 60 minutes.

Boiled Bacon, Cheese and Tomato Sandwich

Cut white bread in ¼-inch slices and trim off crusts. Spread lightly with butter. Cover bread with thin slices of old Canadian cheese. Then put slices of tomato on the cheese and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Lay 2 strips of bacon over the top. Put in broiler and broil until cheese melts and bacon is crisp.

Iced Coffee Nog

One-half cup brown sugar, ⅛ cup double-strength coffee, 2 egg yolks beaten, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, 1 cup cream from Jersey milk in cream-top botties. Combine the sugar and ½ cup freshly made coffee in top of double boiler, placer over direct heat, and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Pour slowly into the beaten yolks, stirring. Cook boiling water until thickened. Remove from heat, add salt and flavoring, chill. Beat whites stiff, and fold into mixture with whipped cream. Chill to mush in freezer. Freeze hard if desired. Half fill tall glasses, pour over chilled coffee to fill glasses.

THESE three girls busy over a tea table are wearing frocks which reveal that they are finished with working hours and are ready for a good time. Simple they are, these dresses, in keeping with days which make clothes budgets and cleaning bills something with which to conjure. But all three models are feminine and fresh, dress-ups for festive dates when favorite servicemen are home on furlough.

QUESTION: Would you kindly send me your recipe for Devonshire Cream? You gave it in the paper some time back and before I could get around to cutting out the newspaper disappeared. Thank you. — Dorothy Millward.

ANSWER: I am glad to repeat this for I found it popular with other readers.

Devonshire Cream

Use with summer milk that is 12 hours old or in winter with milk that is 24 hours old.

Set over slow heat to bring VERY SLOWLY almost to boiling point, keep there 10 to 15 minutes. DO NOT ALLOW TO BOIL—for the slower it heats the better. The cream will wrinkle. Do not disturb but let cool and stand 12 to 24 hours then remove cream carefully by rolling it off surface of milk. This is a delicious thick mass that may be whipped, but is best eaten on fresh fruit pies such as raspberry or peach or on chilled compotes of fruit. Four quarts rich milk make 2 cups cream. Pasteurized milk or milk that has been chilled in refrigerator will not do—whole unpasteurized Jersey milk is best.

QUESTION: I would like you to send me recipes for Gherkin pickles using saccharin instead of sugar. I would appreciate this very much. — Mrs. A. W. Mills.

ANSWER:

Saccharin Pickles

One quart vinegar will cover:—
24-28 large pickles
36-40 medium pickles
65-70 small pickles
40-50 mixed pickles.

Purchase powdered saccharin from the drug store. Wash the size of cucumbers selected very well. To 1 gallon vinegar add one cup salt, one cup sugar, one cup ground mustard. Bring just to boiling point. Have cucumbers in clean crock. Just before pouring liquid over pickles dissolve two teaspoons powdered saccharin in ½ cup of the hot liquid, then mix it down into the vinegar liquid and pour over pickles. Cucumbers must be submerged at all times by weighting them down and covering and keeping in very cool place. If you do not have good storing facilities they should be sealed in quart or 2-quart sealers. A 1-quart jar holds 8-10 medium, (3 inch) cucumbers, 20 small. A gallon crock holds 60 medium sized cucumbers.

Hoping these instructions help you and that your pickles turn out nicely.

who has only one defect. He has an ungovernable temper and gets angry enough over a trifle to strike me. Do you think that it is jealousy that makes him behave so, and that after we are married and he is sure of me he will change? I love him, but I am afraid.

No Peace With Bad Tempered Man

ANSWER — You do well to be afraid, Joan, of a man with an ungovernable temper, and you will be lucky if you are so afraid of a future with him that you pass it up.

For of all faults that a man can have, none is worse than for him to be bad-tempered, and if he goes into rages now in which he strikes you, after marriage he will beat you up whenever his black devil drives him into working off his fury on some defenseless object.

Don't delude yourself into thinking that after marriage, when he is sure of you, his jealousy will be appeased. The very essence of jealousy is suspicion. It never trusts anybody or anything. It feeds upon its own evil imagination, and believes the worst of everybody and everthing.

The thing that a wife's happiness depends upon is her husband's disposition. It is what she has to live with every day of the year, and there is no peace or joy in life for her if she has to go in trembling fear lest she do or say something that will send her husband into a rage and cause him to hurl insults and abuses at her.

Don't marry a high-tempered man, and if you have a grain of sense in your head don't marry a cowardly bully who has already shown you that he is a woman-beater. If you do, you deserve exactly what you will get.

DEAR MISS DIX — My friends and I have been arguing over this question: What is love's greatest mistake? What do you think?

A GROUP OF GIRLS.

Selfishness Love's Greatest Mistake

ANSWER—I think love's greatest mistake is selfishness. Trying to monopolize the beloved one. Trying to be all-in-all to someone and shut out every other interest and affection.

Very few people in love ever really consider the happiness of the one they love. Thy are concerned only with their own. They would bind the one they loved to them without asking whether he or she would prefer some other place. If they enjoy the society of some one, they do not stop to consider the fact that they may bore that one. If some one satisfies them, they never question whether they are also enough for that other one.

A young man who loves a girl will marry her even though he knows that he is dragging her down to poverty and want. A wife who loves her husband will cling to him even though she knows that he is tired of her and that she bores him to extinction. A mother who loves her child will often wreck his prospects in life to keep him with her. Very few people are capable of a love great enough to put another before themselves.

LAWN BOWLING

It was Wednesday and the rains came.

Writing in a Toronto paper last Saturday "Ditch High" has this to say about Lawn Bowling:

"It is a curious thing that lawn bowling attracts rain. All the rains of the four summer months came on Wednesdays and Saturdays."

Strange as that may be, it is just about right. Rain came again yesterday to spoil two tournaments. Our own men's doubles scheduled for last night, rained out after one game was played and then down at Port Hope in the ladies' annual tournament it rained, but not until two games were played, and that constitutes a legal tournament.

There were 14 rinks entered, six going down from our club. The ladies did well too, capturing second, third and fifth prizes. We can repeat what we said before: "As the Peterborough Club goes, so go the tournaments." The winning rinks were:

2nd, second high for two wins—Mrs. A. Leach, Miss P. Coleman, Mrs. W. Petrie, Mrs. G. Coleman, Sr., skip.

3rd, third high for two wins — Mrs. F. Hall, Mrs. B. McLean, Mrs. F. Dawe, Mrs. H. Wilson, skip.

5th, high for one win—Mrs. L. Yeotes, Miss J. Cullen, Mrs F. Staunton, Mrs. H. Beatty, skip

We have no official report on the mixed tournament held at Campbellford.

It will be men's rinks for tomorrow night's tournament.

You Should Know the French Language Fairly Well

LEARN FRENCH

Don't you hope some day that you will see this famous sight—the Eiffel tower? When you go to Paris after the war you will have to know French to a certain degree.

Though Franc is overrun by the Nazis now she will live again. Her language is still one of the two most important languages in the world and every educated person should have at least an understanding of French as well as English.

The Free French under General Giraud and General de Gaulle are one of the main fighting allies of Canada in the war against the Axis, and the contacts with the French will be many. You should learn the language.

There are many French in Canada itself, so if you live in the same community with them you should learn the language to converse with them.

Our 32-page booklet is a very handy guide for those beginning to learn French. You can become familiar with everyday French expressions quickly. In a few hours of fascinating study you can learn the fundamentals of the language.

For your copy of TEACH YOURSELF TO SPEAK FRENCH, send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NICE PLAYING MISSED

EVEN THE very best players fail to see some of the prettiest plays which are possible in certain hands. During the post-mortems at a big duplicate, while waiting for other tables to finish a round, they usually discuss the various possibilities of the last couple of deals, until they feel that they have explored the worthwhile features of them. But sometimes a certain contract, which did not get bid, might have furnished something very spectacular, which none of them fathoms during the discussion

North: ♠ 8 6 4 ♥ J 10 6 5 2 ♦ A 7 6 4 ♣ 10
West: ♠ K 3 ♥ K Q 8 7 ♦ 10 9 8 ♣ K Q J 4
East: ♠ J 10 5 2 ♥ 9 4 ♦ Q J 5 2 ♣ 7 5 2
South: ♠ A Q 9 7 ♥ A 3 ♦ K 3 ♣ A 9 8 6 3

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Dbl
1 ♥	Dbl	2 ♣	Dbl
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠

If your memory of bridge hands can extend back to early last month, that deal looks familiar to you. The bidding on it was by masters in the national individual championship, and an extra trick was made. In the ensuing discussion, none of them realized what North could have done at hearts, even with a heart lead. Those cards were put up to Carlton Russell, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and his favorite partner, who by Mr. Russell's own "numerical" methods helped bid it to 4-Hearts, perhaps because West may not have bid that suit. But Mr. Russell's play has been chronicled.

The heart 4 was won by the A, club A scored, club 3 ruffed by the heart 5, diamond 4 led to the K, club 6 ruffed with the heart 6, diamond A taken, diamond 6 ruffed by the heart 3, club 8 ruffed by the heart 10, East being unable to over-ruff and thus enabling Mr. Russell to place those honors with West.

Then came the neat wind-up. With North holding three spades, the heart J and the diamond 7, South his four spades and the club 9, and West the heart K-Q-8 and spade K-3, Mr. Russell laid down his last heart, the J. West took it, but could score only his three trump tricks, having to finish by leading from his spade K-3 into the dummy's A-Q. Thus Mr. Russell scored 4-Hearts by using his last trump, an honor, to throw an opponent into the lead, truly an unusual play.

North: ♠ K 5 ♥ Q 8 6 ♦ J 10 9 7 5 ♣ A 9 3

East: ♠ A J 10 7 6 2 ♥ A 10 ♦ K 6 ♣ K J 7

Hungary Adopts Attitude Of Non-Belligerent

BERNE, July 22—(AP).—Nazi pressure is keeping Hungary half-way on the job for the Axis despite the Hungarian Government's effort to follow its new policy of non-belligerency until the end of the war, Balkan quarters said today.

While Hungarian combat troops were withdrawing from the eastern front last winter after heavy losses, other Hungarian units still are maintaining guard along railways stretching from the frontier into Poland and toward the east, and to some degree into Yugoslavia.

Communiques published in the press of occupied eastern areas sometimes speak also of Hungarian parachute units but these apparently are small in number.

The railway guards are armed but are not officially regular army groups. The parachutists apparently are volunteers, thus permitting Premier Nicolas Kallay to stage that having brought back the regular combat units of the army from the east, Hungary had become non-belligerent.

Maintain Guards.

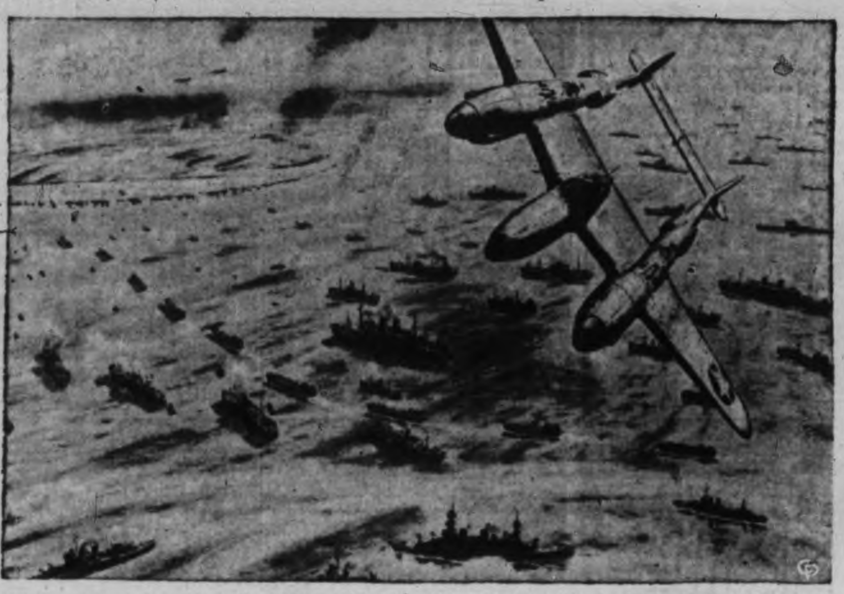
To make this policy more nearly complete, efforts have been made to win release from the guarding task but without success. Nevertheless, Hungarian quarters say the government is taking what steps it can to keep away from any actual fighting.

The press is being permitted to speak more freely of the critical situation confronting the Axis, and increased purchase of newspapers from neutral countries has been ordered recently to give the people a better chance of getting news from the Allied side.

Most Balkan observers continue to believe Hungary would get completely out of the war tomorrow if she could but that she feels herself helpless to do anything at the moment.

Those observers believe invasion of the Balkans or collapse of Italy would encourage more direct Hungarian action to get out of the war.

As Artist Saw Allied Invasion Of Sicily



The greatest invasion fleet in history, which brought a mighty Allied army across the Mediterranean from North Africa to Sicily, inspired Artist Noel Sickles to draw this graphic illustration of the event for the armed forces The perfect co-ordination which enabled thousands of ships to carry men and supplies to the doomed island is shown.

No Planes Lost In Long Hop Over Jap Base

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN,
Associated Press War Correspondent

HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEFENCE COMMAND, July 21 — (Delayed)— (AP) — Alaska pilots training in combat flying over Kiska celebrated to-day with the first successful raid on Japanese territory since the bombing of Tokyo.

Aleutians-based bombers returned without the loss of a plane from a long-distance bombing of Paramushiro, Japan's northernmost military base. The raid came as a logical development after the American occupation of Attu. It had long been expected and prepared for, with Japanese shipping being swept from the northern seas by naval surface vessels.

The bombers were from the U. S. army's 11th Air Base Force, which has done the lion's share of all flying the Aleutians the last year.

Returning pilots reported the bombing was no more difficult than flights against Japanese bases on American islands in the Aleutians. They came out of the overcast into the clear skies above Paramushiro and looked down on a square mile of military installations. They saw some Japanese planes but none that wanted to fight.

Only light anti-aircraft fire was met. Bombs were reported near ships in the harbor. They saw what appeared to be an ancient fort, built long before bombers were ever made.

Nearby was a mile-long airplane landing strip.

Several large buildings were set afire.

The raider, who were in the air for more than nine hours, spent at least 40 minutes over the target, climbing and circling before dropping their bomb loads. Bad weather areas forced them to take a circuitous route to Paramushiro, and clouds prevented the contemplated deck-level bombing when they were over the target.

The big bombers carried no special equipment except life rafts for possible forced landings on the cold sea. But all agreed the thing to do if their planes were crippled was to try to reach Russian territory.

The pilots, all veterans of raids on Attu or Kiska, knew they were making a dangerous survey flight in preparation for future attacks which will eventually hit all of the Kuriles and extend to the more thickly-populated islands of Japan proper.

Capt. James L. Hudelson, Benton, Ill., who already holds the Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal for his achievements in Aleutian combat flying, led the flight.

Miss Rosemary Sidley, 31 (ABOVE), former Chicago debutante and heiress to part of the Horlick malted milk fortune, was slain by William Knox Chandler, employee of the Office of Strategic Services, who then committed suicide, according to the verdict of Coroner Magruder MacDonald of Washington, D.C., where the murder-suicide took place. Police said the fatal shootings followed an argument in the home where Miss Sidley roomed.

Ogoki Diversion Now Complete

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 22—(CP). — Officials of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission and representatives of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests left today for Summit Lake, 40 miles north of Lake Nipigon, to witness the diversion of Ogoki River waters to the Great Lakes system, a project designed to add some 360,000 horespower to power sites on the Nipigon and St. Lawrence Rivers.

"Inasmuch as the water from the Ogoki River will pass through Lake Nipigon and enter the Great Lakes system, added power will be available at all points where generating plants are now in operation and at sites awaiting development," R. B. Chandler, manager for the Port Arthur Public Utilities Commission, said.

Mr. Chandler estimated that 75,000 additional horsepower could be available to this district alone, but the chief benefit would be to Eastern Canadian sites. The run-off from the Ogoki will eventually be at the rate of 4,000 cubic feet per second.

No Medicine Ever Helped Me Like Syntona Did, He Says

Relieved Stomach Disorders; Ended Gas, Constipation and Pains in Back, Arms and Limbs; Nerves Relaxed; Sleeps Better.

MR. JACOB R. LILEK

"A few weeks ago I was feeling so bad I did'nt see how I could keep on with my work, but I'm certainly feeling a whole lot different since taking a few bottle of Syntona," said Mr. Jacob R. Lilek, 301 John Street North, Hamilton, Ontario, recently.

"For the past 7 or 8 months my stomach had been all upset. I suffered with gas pains and a sick nauseated feeling after every meal. I had a nagging pain across my back and pains all through my arms, limbs and joints They would get awful stiff and sore. my nerves were bad. I wasn't able to get a sound sleep and I felt tired and miserable all the time.

"I tried about everything I had heard of but there wasn't anything that did me any good until I started taking Syntona. After the very first few days I knew this medicine was going to be good for me. My food began digesting better and I felt more like eating. The gas, nausea and distressed feeling cleared up. So I kept on taking it and now I have a real appetite. The aches and pains have gone away, my nerves are relaxed and I get sound, restful sleep. I am now able to work long shifts without getting all tired out like I used to and I certainly recommend Syntona to any one feeling as I did."

Syntona is made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Aids in the elminiation of excess acids and waste matter from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.

Detroit's Bishop Mooney Regrets Rome Bombing

DETROIT, July 22 — (AP). — Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Detroit, and chairman of the Administrative Board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, in a statement today expressed "surprise and regret" at the bombing of Rome, but added that the Fascist government of Italy could have made bombing unnecessary.

The Fascist government, the Archbishop said, "could have declared Rome an open city and acted in sincere conformity with that declaration."

He took note of the "elaborate precautions which our military authorities took to avoid damaging what all men of culture hold dear and hundreds of millions of Christians hold sacred," but added that "the sense of surprise and regret remains."

"One shudders to think of the moral risks which have been taken," the statement continued. "This war will not be won merely on land or sea or in the air; it must be won in the hearts and minds of men. A stray bomb released by mistake over Rome may do moral harm to our cause that far outweighs the military value of the most accurate destruction of enemy supplies.

"May we not hope at least that having shown the ineffectiveness of enemy strategy in hiding supplies under the cover of sanctity and culture, we will not subject to further risk the moral idealism that distinguishes and ennobles our cause."

Archbishop Mooney described the city of Rome as the "Episocap See of One who more than any other man on earth worked and prayed and pleaded to save mankind from war's desolation."

PALERMO CITY FALLS TO AMERICANS

Reds Smash Last Fort At Orel City

50,000 Germans Killed So Far Pincers Tightening

MOSCOW, July 23 — (AP). — Russian forces crashed through the last strongly-fortified link in Orel's northern defences yesterday on the 10th day of an offensive that has cost the Germans 50,000 killed and 6,000 captured, and closed their pincers tighter about that city despite desperate Nazi counter-attacks, a Soviet announcement said to-day.

Bolkhov, 35 miles above the city, which a Red Army column racing down from the north had by-passed while driving to within nine miles northeast of Orel, crumbled before the attackers and of strongly fortified districts" in its fall "completed the liquidation that direction, the Russians said.

Another Russian column pounding to within 11 miles of the key German defence city from the east and a southern column moving up to complete the three - headed drive, beat back Nazi tanks and infantry to continue a steady advance, according to the Soviet announcement.

Gain Five Miles

Altogether, the Russians said gains of four to five miles were registered in the Orel sector yesterday while the Germans lost 2,500 killed and 39 tanks destroyed or captured. Prisoners and supplies also were taken, the Russians declared.

The Russian midnight communique which disclosed the losses in manpower to Hitler's army during the 10-day Soviet offensive placed German losses in material destroyed or captured during the same period at these figures:—

Nine hundred planes, 1,148 tanks, 1,062 guns of various calibre, 800 mortars, and 1,400 machine guns.

(The German Radio countered with the assertion that the Red Army had lost more than 350,000 in dead, wounded or captured since July 15.)

(Terming the struggle "the greatest battle of attrition ever fought," German sources pictured the immensity of the armies facing each other along the Russian front by saying they were made up of 600 divisions—from 7,200,000 to 9,000,000 men "presently engaged" there.)

In the ~elgorod sector, 165 miles south of Orel, the Russian announcement said that Soviet troops overcame strong German resistance from several populated areas in that sector. And the bodies of more than 1,000 enemy dead were counted on the field following a two day battle, the Russians said.

The Russians said German prisoners taken in one sector of the Orel battle said they had received orders to fight to the last man.

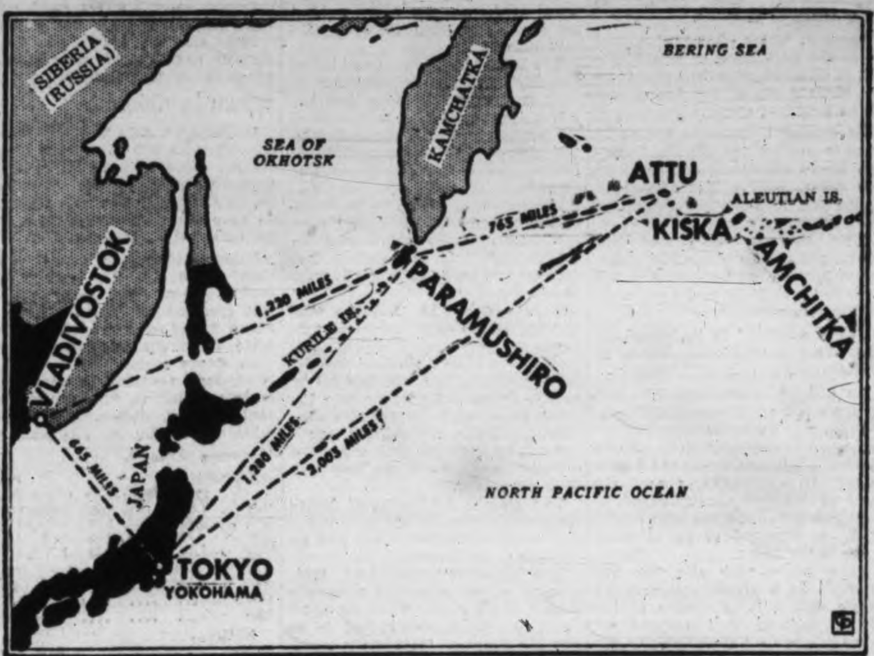
Palermo Capture Causes Riots

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 23—(AP).—Repercussions of the seizure of Palermo were reported today from all over Italy and the Balkans.

Madrid dispatches said Italians demonstrated in the streets of Rome, Venice, Milan, Turin, Florence and Trieste, shouting "Peace!" These reports also said that a wave of strikes and sabotage swept the country.

From the Balkans came reports of rebellion and fighting against Axis occupation forces.

U.S. Liberators Attack Jap Paramushiro Base



First U.S. raid on the major Japanese base on Paramushiro Island, northernmost of the Japanese chain, is reported by the Navy. The attack was carried out by U.S. Army Liberator bombers. Although the bombers' base was not revealed, it was presumed that they took off from a field in the Aleutians, as indicated on the map. Buildings were struck and near hits scored on ships in Paramushiro Straits.

Farm Prices Up 43 Percent

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 23—(CP).—Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, said in an address prepared for delivery to the Alberta Federation of Agriculture here today that the production of food ranks in importance "with guns and tanks and planes," and that the total volume of food production last year was more than 25 per cent. above pre-war levels.

The record was "all the more striking" because manpower shortage had fallen heavily on agriculture; 350,000 men had gone from the farms to the armed forces and war industries, and there was difficulty in obtaining needed farm equipment of the diversion of materials and plants to war needs."

Subsidies Paid.

Speaking on "the price ceiling and the farmer," Mr. Gordon said there had been a "definite improvement" since the present war began in the economic position of farmers. The official index showed that farm prices had risen 43 per cent. since 1939, and if wheat were left out prices, on the average, were 50 per cent. higher aside from subsidies.

Hog and butter prices had been raised and a subsidy paid on butter fat. Cheese prices were five cents a pound higher than in the basic period, and egg prices in June were higher than in any June since 1929, while potato prices had doubled. There had been more adjustments in prices for farm products than in anything else with which the Prices Board had dealt.

Expenses Up Too.

Farmers' expenses have risen, but taken as a whole farm living and operating costs have not risen nearly as much as the selling prices for agricultural products. The margin between income and expenses is "almost double" the pre-war figure.

If all the price increases granted to farm products had been allowed to affect consumer prices, there would have been a substantial rise in the cost of living. To prevent this, increases have been paid in some cases in the form of subsidies to producers; in others, the trade has been forced to absorb some of the price increase, and in still others consumer subsidies had been arranged.

The contention that higher prices would help the farmer get the labor he needs does not hold; it would result in a competition by auction for labor, wages would soon outstrip the benefit of increased prices, and the "familiar inflationary spiral" again appear.

The real interest of agriculture would be served by a long period of stabilized prices. The continued success of the Canadian price ceiling experiment depends upon the support and co-operation of every interest and group in the country.

Many English Churches Hit Still Allies Spare Rome

LONDON, July 23—(CP Cable).—The bombing of Rome last Monday was aimed at definite military objectives, but the same cannot be said for the Germans in their aerial tactics. Observers recalled today that the Nazis struck at British cathedral cities little more than a year ago with the avowed purpose of destroying historical monuments

The Germans called these raids "reprisals" for R.A.F. attacks on Lubeck and Rostock, Nazi arsenals for the Russian front. In their fury they unloaded high explosive and incendiary bombs on Canterbury, Exeter, Bath and Norwich.

In the raid on Rome the United States Army Air Force planes smashed their targets — railway yards, airfields and factories. A year ago the German aim was equally good but their targets were cathedrals, churches and libraries.

Since the war started enemy raiders have destroyed or damaged thousands of churches of all denominations in Britain. Unofficial estimates place the total between 3,000 and 5,000.

13,895 Damaged.

The War Damage Commission has received notification of damage by enemy bombing to 13,895 churches, monasteries convents and other ecclesiastical buildings, Home Secretary Herbert Morrison said in a recent written answer to a question in the House of Commons.

Announcement of the first flight came several weeks after it was announced in the House of Commons that T.C.A would go into the trans-Atlantic field to fly mail, baggage and express to and from Britain as a wartime measure on behalf of the Canadian Government.

The previous non-stop record from Montreal to Britain was established by Capt. S. T. B. Cripps, D.F.C., of British General Praises Canadian Force

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST, North Africa, July 23.—(CP Cable.)—Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, second in command of the Sicilian campaign, told Canadian war correspondents yesterday the Canadians have gone far and fast in the Battle of Sicily.

At an informal reception held at his North African headquarters, Gen. Alexander said "the Canadians are good and they will be jolly good."

"Like the American 45th Division they went into the battle untried and have done exceptionally well," the Deputy Commander-in-Chief of the Allied forces added. "The Canadians are fine material, they have had very good basic training and they have learned from the experiences of others. They have gone far and fast in this battle. They will be as good as any troops."

Looked Very Fit.

The General, bareheaded, wore a khaki drill shirt, long trousers and dusty brown suede shoes. He looked remarkably fit. He did not wear rank insignia or decorations of any kind.

The famed commander of the 15th Army Group compared the Canadians to a football team. "No matter how much training a team has it doesn't reach its peak until it has had some first class matches," he said.

Then he explained why the Canadians had been put in the centre in Sicily, between the Americans and the British forces.

"Was it deliberate?" asked a correspondent.

"No," replied Gen. Alexander. "The reason was that like the American 45th division, they had come in big ships and had to be transferred to their landing craft in water deep enough to accommodate large ships.

"The Canadians will profit from experience All troops need to have battle experience but the Canadians had the advantage of excellent basic training.

"No doubt if one went to the front one would find that they had small tactical errors that experienced troops don't make but it is from such experiences they profit. The battle experience they are getting in Sicily will make the Canadians among the finest fighting troops there are."

Improve 100 Per Cent.

Gen. Alexander asked, "Were the Americans good when they first arrived in North Africa?" and replied to his own question "No." He added "But they were better trained in modern warfare than we were in France in 1940. Today after the fights they have been in the Americans are very fine troops indeed. There is no comparison between the Americans in Sicily now and the Americans six months ago. They are at least 100 per cent. better.

"The same thing holds with our own army Was the British army good in France in 1940? No. They were amateurs against professionals for the Germans had the experience of Poland."

Catholic Papers Discuss Raid

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 23 (CP Cable).—Two Roman Catholic publications in Britain today held that Rome was a legitimate target for United Nations bombers but questioned the wisdom of Monday's massive bombing raid.

The Catholic Herald commented the attack was model of what raids should always be, but added: "Is the military advantage gained in destroying railway communications and military targets here and there worth the grand present it makes the enemy of valuable propaganda material? Is it worth it at the time when we are winning the battle and just after President Roosevelt's letter (to the people)?

"Is it worth the bitterness that may be felt for a very long time to come against countries which will be said to have stopped at nothing in pursuing their military ends, however justifiable in themselves?

Attacks like Monday's are doubtless legitimate — but they may prove in the end to have been extremely foolish policy."

Echo No Protest

The Universe said: "Rome is a legitimate military objective. Catholics certainly are not going to play the Axis game by echoing the hypocritical portest of the Italian Fascist Radio. The clear and objective statement of the Vatican Radio is a very different matter.

Greatest Victory In Sicily To Date Italian Force Trapped

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 23 (AP).—An American armored division, overrunning a collapsed Italian resistance, has captured Palermo, capital and largest city of Sicily, thereby isolating the whole western end of the island, Allied headquarters announced today.

Fast-striking units of the American 7th Army surpassed the expectations of even their veteran taskmaster, Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, by racing from Enna in central Sicily to the north coast port in 58 hours.

Thousands of Italian forces were trapped by the emergence of the Allied spearhead upon the North Sicilian coast.

By the capture of Palermo, Italy's sixth largest city, the Allied gained dominance of the Tyrrhenian Sea, the water approach to the western coast of Italy.

Noose Tightens

The Axis was being compressed into an area of northeastern Sicily little larger than Cap Bon where their Tunisian forces were destroyed last May.

The main American forces, despite the sweep over western Sicily were about 30 miles south of San Stefano di Camastra on the north shore where they could be brought to bear upon this remaining battle line.

San Stefano di Camastra north of Enna, is connected by a major highway with the Leonforte area northeast of Enna.

Advance elements of the army entered Palermo at 10 a.m. yesterday, and the Allied Headquarters communique said the capture of the city with its two major harbors was completed by evening.

Meanwhile the battle for Catania and control of the Mount Etna area on the northeast tip of the island entered its second week of undiminished fury, with Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army edging closer to the key city and inflicting heaviest losses on the Germans.

To-day's communique said the Canadians were making progress against fierce resistance to the southwest of Catania.

(The Algiers radio reported that fresh waves of Allied parachute troops were attacking the Germans north of Catania.

(The Italian communique admitted that Axis defence forces had withdrawn in western Sicily in the face of "powerful armored formations," but gave no clue as to the extent of the withdrawal.)

Cut Sicily in Two.

The capture of Palermo not only split Sicily but gave the Allies possession of shipping accommodations of the greatest value. There is more than a mile of wharf space which has been damaged by repeated Allied bombings but which can be restored for operations in a short time.

At the same time the slice to Palermo chopped off the last major road arteries leading laterally across the island and trapped any Axis troops which had not escaped toward Messina and Catania.

The capture of the city was the greatest victory of the Sicilian campaign to date and apparently were achieved without severe fighting and with insignifant losses.

Offical reports said Italian resistance tended to evaporate as tanks and armored cars roared across the roads on all sides of the enemy positions, overwhelming them be-

Prisoner Shot 7 Times By Italians

Italian-American Paratrooper Finally Escapes

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, July 23—(AP)—A story of how he was captured by the Italians in Sicily, shot seven times and left for dead, and yet escaped and made his way back to the American lines, was told today by Pte. Michael Scambulluri of Albany, N.Y., a parachute trooper who is recovering in an Allied base hospital in the middle east.

Scambulluri landed in an area alive with enemy troops and was surrounded and captured before he could join his mates. He said he was taken before a captain and questioned.

"When I spoke to the captain in Italian, and asked the name of the town, he became enraged and accused me of being a spy. He ordered my hands tied behind my back and I was led out of the barracks and stood against a wall in the courtyard.

A Poor Shot

"It looked as though they were going to begin some rough stuff. I wasn't far wrong. The captain walked about 20 feet away from me, took out his revolver and fired one shot at me.

"All hell seemed to burn inside of me and I collapsed. The captain continued firing at me, pouring six more shots into me as I lay there on the ground.

Scambulluri said a soldier, apparently dissatisfied with his captain's work, lobbed two hand grenades in his direction, the force of which spun him around completely. He added, however, he was still conscious when he heard the captain give orders for his burial the following morning.

"I heard the group walk away," he continued, "and when it got quiet I wiggled to a tree about 20 feet away and worked myself to my feet. I don't know where I got the strength, but I managed to get out of the place and across the fields into some nearby woods.

Cut His Wrists

"I half walked, half crawled through the brush until I came across an old, deserted cemetery. I stopped and sawed through the ropes binding my hands on the

Rome Bombing Puts Mussolini On Spot

Pleas From Other Countries Seek To Have Spot Declared "Open City"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The bombing of Rome has created a world-wide tension which is becoming increasingly taut because of voluntary repression of public discussion, due to a tacit recognition all around that it's a subject that is full of dynamite.

While there's a strong disinclination to debate the air raid which has taken place, a general hope is being recorded that circumstances will render further bombing unnecessary. From many countries is coming the renewed appeal that Mussolini remove all military objectives from Rome and declare it an "open city" which, under international law, would put it outside the war zone.

This is a move which has been urged on the Fascist chief ever since Italy entered the war. But he has never given any indication that he intended to comply. Obviously his reasons are that Rome has provided him not only with an essential military base but a place of security for his headquarters.

His reluctance can be understood when one is given the definition of "open city."

My understanding is that an "open city" is one from which have been removed all troops, defences, military installations (including headquarters and headquarters staff), military production (which means any kind of war factory), and military supplies or personnel.

Bars Il Duce

Since Mussolini not only is head of the government, but commander in chief of the army and navy he obviously would be barred from Rome.

Obviously it would be a heavy blow to Il Duce to lose Rome not only as a military base but as a bomb-proof shelter for himself and government. But the things cuts a lot deeper than that. Rome is the heart of Italy's railroads. Most of the country's war industries are in the north, and in order to get munitions from the supply centres to southern Italy—to Sicily, for example —they are poured through Rome.

Thus far Mussolini has given no sign that he intends to relinquish his sanctuary. Still, circumstances have put him in a position where he certainly must consider making Rome an "open city." In this connection the London Daily Mail report from Madrid that Hitler is said to be urging the Duce to transfer the government and military staffs to Verona.

Undoubtedly he also is in the uncomfortable spot of having to debate whether after all he hadn't better sue for peace forthwith, since it's obvious that he will be knocked out soon, anyway. Loss of Palermo, political and cultural centre of Sicily, certainly is a harsh reminder of the approaching end.

Palermo Is Golden Prize

Invaders Have Always Coveted City

By The Canadian Press

Palermo, Sicily's capital, largest city and principal seaport, has been a battle prize since the Carthagenians wrested it from the Phoenicians, who founded it in the dawn of Mediterranean history.

The city is built on an inlet on the north shore of the island and the semi-circle of mountains and hills which partly surround it to the south make it a natural stronghold. Its name means "surrounded by rocky cliffs."

Palermo was captured by the Romans in 254 A.D. Subsequently it passed into the hands of the Goths, the Byzantines, the Saracens, the Normans and the Hohenstufens.

It was the scene, in 1282, of the masacre of the French rulers and under Spanish rule it was the residence of a viceroy and a place of magnificence.

Palermo and Sicily became a part of the Italian empire after Garibaldi overthrew the Bourbon government in 1860.

The city also witnessed a series of revolutions the last in 1866 which was quelled in its beginning.

As a part of the Italian empire it was built into a naval base, and its active part in the present war began in January 1941, when it was bombed by waves of R.A.F. planes.

Secret Workers Get Help

U.S. Sends Food, Machines For Underground

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — By air and by mysterious underground channels the enslaved peoples of Europe are getting regular reminders—in a form more substantial than leaflets—that the United States is rich and generous and aims to do something about their plight.

Sewing kits, seeds, soap, and packets of tea, bouillon and chocolate are being dropped by parachute or smuggled past Nazi barriers, each gift carrying a message of encouragement to the down-trodden for whom such things are scarce, costly or unobtainable.

Office of war information officials today lifted some of the secrecy surrounding these deliveries into occupied lands and even enemy countries.

Ingenuity of a high order went into the designing of printing and duplicating devices to help the underground movements of Europe in waging their own propaganda warfare against the Axis overlords.

These are built compact and light, for greater ease in spiriting them to remote spots or new hideouts. They are quickly assembled and taken apart without tools—an advantage in places where the Gestapo may drop in unexpectedly.

500 POUND BOMBS BRING HAVOC TO JAP WAREHOUSES, REFINERIES

Allied Fliers Batter Dutch Base

First Air Raid Since Japs Took Over Port

By C. YATES McDANIEL, Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 23 —(AP)— Allied airmen sprang a surprise on the Japanese yesterday with a destructive raid on the enemy's main Netherlands East Indies base at Soerabaja.

It was the first faid on the once great Dutch naval base on Java since the Japanese captured it in March, 1942, and the longest mission ever flown in the southwest Pacific.

Lights were burning brightly in first heavy bombers raced in and began planting 500-pound bombs and incendiaries in the target area. Japanese ground batteries however, a heavy but ineffective barrage. All rage. All the bombers returned.

Fires Raging.

An Allied communique today said incendiaries and high explosives hit an oil refinery, warehouses, railway installations and a dock. Towering fires, some of them visible 140 miles away, were started.

The four-engined war planes flew nearly 2,400 miles in the operation, made before dawn Thursday. The previous record of 2,000 miles was made on raids against Makassar on Celebes Island.

The spectacular attack on Soerabaja captured immediate attention from the Solomons area but there was no easing of the daily battering given Munda on New Georgia. Bombers continued to rain bombs upon the beleaguered Japanese airbase there, dropping in 250 sorties, made "'in direct support of our ground troops."

(Japanese forces at Munda are contained within the defences ringing the field, a spokesman at the South Pacific headquarters of Admiral William L. Halsey, jr., said. He added that capture of the airbase "now is in reach.")

Maintaining heavy pressure on the Japanese in the sector south of Salamaua, Australian and American ground forces took a heavy toll of the enemy in a series of clashes near Namling.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Winner of the big three last Spring, the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and the Belmont, Count Fleet has been temporarily retired and may not be seen in action again until the big events roll around in the Fall, it was reliably stated last night.

The big moneymaker of this year's racing injured his ankle in winning the Belmont Stakes by 30 lengths seven weeks ago and has done nothing more than gallop during the past 30 days. Denial was made that the Count was being retired because of the injury and the explanation was given that it would take until September to get him back to peak condition. The Hertz Hurricane had run up $224,055 earnings this year and looked good enough to overhaul the all-time season's record of $308,275 by Gallant Fox in 1930.

Mowers Enlists

Winner of the Vezina Trophy while playing with Detroit Red Wings, Stanley Cup holders last season, Johnny Mowers of Niagara Falls has enlisted with the R. C. A. F. and will report for aircrew training Aug. 23. The Vezina award is for the goalminder rated the most valuable during a season.

Sgt. C. K. McKie of Toronto and Tprs. K. W. Lefer of Fort Erie and W. H. Powder Puff Derby

A "powder puff derby" has been listed as a new event for the first outdoor horse show to be held at Calgary since 1922, with entries restricted to lady jockeys. The distance of the race is ⅝ of a mile and the horses to be used are track novices. The show opens Aug. 28.

Pitcher Harry Brechen of the St. Louis Cardinals has been called for duty with the U.S. Army and will be inducted next Monday, following Pitcher Howie Pollett who is now in the U.S. Army Air Corps. Their departure leaves the club with four available twirlers.

The Turf Committee of America announced at New York yesterday that horse racing in the United States has already contributed $1,037,327 to war charities this season, or more than half of the $2,000,000 goal. The charity meeting at Belmont Park producd the largest single contribution of $114,008.

War Committee Continues After Sessions

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA July 23—(CP).—Parliament moves towards its long adjournment today while preparations are made for at least two Commons committees to carry on their work in the interval between now and Jan. 26 the date set for reassembly.

Today, the Commons returns to consideration of the non-war estimates which occupied it most of yesterday and which constitutes the business left to be disposed of.

Yesterday in a nine-hour sitting, the $3,890,000,000 war appropriation bill was passed after consideration at intervals over a period of months. The non-war estimates amount to something over $500,000,000 and at yetserday's yesterday's sitting items totalling $71,391,251 were approved.

The special reconstruction committee reported to the House with a request that it be permitted to continue its work during adjournmen. Its job is to consider plans for providing employment and rehabilitation after the war.

A request of the war expenditures committee to sit while the House is adjourned already has been granted. The special social security committee, which is expected to report tomorrow, has not completed its main task of examining the proposed health insurance bill. It may ask

Brintons Win Close One

Brintons made a close game in the Girls' Softball League when they eked out an 11 to 10 victory over the Electrics at the Military Training Centre. The winners put up the run that meant victory in the last of the eighth after the Electrics had tied up the score in their half.

It was a see-saw battle all the way. Brintons took an early lead by scoring three runs in the first inning but Electrics pushed a marker across in the third and exploded a three-run rally in the fourth that put them in front 4 to 3.

They came back in the first of the six to look well away by scoring three more counters to make the total 7 to 3 but Brintons retaliated with a sudden outbreak of scoring in their half that was not stopped until they had registered six times and were leading 9 to 7.

Electrics were not through yet however. They managed to shove two over in the first of the seventh to make it all even at 9-9 but a Brinton run in their half made it 10 to 9 for the ultimate winners.

Electrics managed to tie it up in the first of the eighth by scoring a single marker but once again the Brintons had the punch to pick up the winning run in their half of the eighth, blank the Electrics in the ninth and take the decision.

Cubs Grab Win From Knights

Last night at Memorial Park the hard hitting Cubs staged a last inning rally to cop a neat win over the hustling Knights 13-8. The Knights, fighting for a playoff berth fielded a strong team, but failed to come through in the clutches.

Heffernan, for the Cubs, pitched smart ball, being especially effective with men on base. Collins on the loser's mound was hit hard throughout.

Bill Donoghue climaxed the big rally in the seventh with a grand slam homer for the Cubs, settling the issue. Caccavella, with a double and three singles and C. O'Donoghue with a homer, triple and single led the Cubs at bat.

Herrick led the K. of C. club with two doubles and a single. E. Murphy had a double and single.

Herrick played nice ball at second for the Knights, handling seven chances. Ed Sullivan made two sparkling running catches for the Cubs.

Western Cities Isolated By Americans

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 23—(AP)—American forces, driving forward in a move to clean up the westward end of Sicily, captured the island capital of Palermo on the north coast today.

Capture of the city represented a lightning advance for the forces of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, which only yesterday were reported 30 miles south of Palermo.

Palermo, which has a normal peacetime population of about 300,000, is situated some 50 miles from the western tip of the island and is the principal seaport.

By driving through to the north coast to capture the city the American forces effectively cut Sicily in two parts, sealing the avenue of escape for Axis troops trapped in the west.

(The Morocco radio said this morning that Axis troops had abandoned Marsala and Trapani at the western tip of Sicily and were withdrawing eastward.

(Rome admitted in its communique today that Italian forces in Western Sicily had withdrawn.)

An official announcement said Palermo fell at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Palermo is the undisputed political and cultural centre of Sicily and its fall in Italian eyes would in all likelihood be considered almost the same as loss of the entire island.

Shipping facilities provided by the port are expected to be of great value to the Allies.

(The fall of the city was announced in a special communique which said a large section of the Italian garrison had surrendered, according to an Algiers radio broadcast heard by The Associated Press.

(The broadcast said the Italian 26th division had surrendered. It added the British 8th Army still was engaging in a bitter battle for Catania. In another broadcast, Algiers relayed what it called "unconfirmed reports at Allied headquarters" that Allied parachute forces had been landed north of Catania while the Germans rushed up reinforcements by air.)

Nearing Junction

Fate of two other cities, Marsala and Trapani, was not mentioned in the dispatch, although yesterday's reports had them in the path of the American advance, speeded by the fact that only rapidly crumbling Italian resistance protected the three centres.

Meanwhile Canadian troops were herding remnants of the 15th German armored division toward Mount Etna after sweeping into Ramacca, 22 miles southwest of Catania.

This brought them closer to a junction with the famous 8th Army, grinding slowly toward Catania in a bloody advance that was being desperately opposed by the crack Hermann Goering division.

fore they could be solidified.

The capture of Palermo completed a run of nearly 200 miles, by road, across from Gela, where the Americans landed 12 days before.

Meanwhile, other American columns had been thrown out along the south-western perimeter of Sicily where they had reached Castelvetrano two days ago and the mopping up operations in the entire area west of the line running from Enna to Palermo had begun.

The collapse of the Italian front tended to widen the breach between the Axis partners, whose relations have been steadily deteriorating ever since the Allied landing in Sicily, according to headquarters reports.

The report the Canadian troops had encountered stiff resistance in their sector indicated they had begun a right wheel from the centre of the island and were in contact with the German 15th Armored Division holding the enemy's flank west of Catania.

The American 7th Army up to last midnight had captured 27,000 prisnoers, 250 guns, 500 vehicles and 10,000,000 rounds of ammunition and destroyed 84 tanks, of which 14 were 60-ton Tigers.

Italian forces in Palermo were stunned by the swift arrival of American armor, which had been last reported 15 miles distant.

When the big port was first hit by mobile forces which broke into the outer areas and paralyzed resistance, panic was said to have spread throughout the city, and when the main elements came up they met little opposition.

The Italians had planned large-scale demolitions of the port works and other installations but had no time to carry them out.

The defenders complained their own navy had limited its assistance to the sending of a single small speedboat which was rushed in at the last hour to transport a number of high-ranking Italian naval officers out of the area.

Among high Italian officers in Allied hands, it was announced today, is Admiral Priato Leonard, who was commandant of the Augusta naval base on the Sicilian east coast.

ster Abbey. St. Paul's Cathedral, Bath Abbey, Llandaff Cathedral, Coventry Cathedral and Exeter Cathedral are among the most prominent religious structures which have been bombed.

It was on June 2, 1942, at the height of the Germans' so-called "Baedeker raids," that Canterbury Cathedral was first hit. A fleet of bombers struck at the historic old town near the channel coast early in the morning. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, said they "singled out the cathedral and dive-bombed it."

The bombs demolished the cathedral library, shattered the deanery and destroyed the chapter house. The fabric of the cathedral was cracked and fragments of stone were strewn in the cloisters.

A year earlier Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral were hit during the aerial blitz on London. The roof of Westminster Abbey's lantern tower was punctured. At St. Paul's the high altar and the organ were destroyed and a hole was smashed through the north transept.

Commenting on the Pope's letter deploring the bombing of Rome, the Daily Mail said to-day: "We all share the Pope's sympathy for the victims of the Rome raid—for we too had many victims in this country. We understand his great concern for the monuments of Rome, for we have lost many irreplacable treasures.

Cannot Relax.

"But we cannot relay any means of ending as quickly as possible a war which if long continued would engulf not Rome alone but the entire civilized world."

The Daily Mirror in an editorial protested against the Pontiff's letter because it was 'calculated to create a false impression" and cast "stigma on the Allied nations," especially the Americans who carried out the raid.

"The inevitable conclusion to be drawn from the Pope's letter is that one side of this struggle, namely the United Nations, has done something which it ought not to have done," the Mirror said.

"If the Allied action in bombing Rome is a matter of condenmnation, it follows on the face of it that the bombers of any other belligerent too, ought to come under the same category."

Catholic Edifices Burn.

The paper added: "The message to 'all the faithful.' We may be pardoned, however, if we imagine that it will not make a deep impression on these sections of the faithful who live in other belligerent capitals and have already passed through terrifying ordeals and have seen their sacred buildings shattered, yet without, so far as one can be aware, causing any special discomfiture within the precincts of the Vatican city."

The British Information Services in New York placed at 4,100 the total number of churches of all denominations in the United Kingdom which were destroyed or damaged seriously by Axis bombers.

In London alone, it pointed out, 50 of the 150 Roman Catholic churches were destroyed or damaged, including the famous cathedral of St. George, at Southwark, which now is a blackened ruin; the Westminster Cathedral and Our Lady of Victories.

Proxy Forms Mailed By Soldiers

Troops Get Line On Election Through C.P. News

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 23 — (CP Cable). — Proxy forms from Ontario servicemen in Britain still are being sent to Canada for distribution to the friends or relatives designated to cast a vote in the forthcoming Ontario Provincial election on behalf of the overseas forces.

The final date for turning in the forms to commanding officers was July 16 but many soldiers took advantage of the privilege of mailing proxies direct to Canada and reports here indicate that these are still being sent, despite the possibility they may be too late.

The election date is Aug. 4.

Soldiers were advised in army orders of their eligibility to cast a proxy vote by designating a friend or relative in Canada to vote for them. Although there was no campaigning on this side of the Atlantic, the troops were able to follow the main issues of the election through the Canadian Press news.

It is difficult to estimate what proportion of Ontario soldiers filled in proxy forms because of the number mailed individually. But the adjutant of one Ontario battalion said he received applications from nearly all the officers and men in his unit. About one-quarter were returned to him and the others presumably were sent directly to Canada. Most of the soldiers designated relatives to vote for them.

TORONTO POULTRY

TORONTO, July 23 — (CP). — The dressed poultry market continues very firm, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Receipts show an increase over last week but are not sufficient to meet the demand, some dealers having to continually short order. The quality of arrivals is good. Quotations to producers and country dealers are unchanged at:

Broilers, all weights, A milk-fed 33c, B milk-fed 31c, B 29c, C 22c.

Fowl, A, over 4 lbs., 24⅝c, under 4 lbs. 23⅝c, B, over 4 lbs. 22⅝c, under 4 lbs. 21⅝c, C 18c.

The live poultry market has been more active and receipts, with the exception of broilers have increased. About 200 head of ducks, costing 26 cents lb. delivered and 100 head of turkeys, old hens 29 cents lb. and old toms 27 cents lb., were among arrivals.

COBOURG

Chief Of Police Praised For Quick Arrest

COBOURG, July 23 — (ENS)— Chief of Police W. J. Carey of Cobourg is lauded in an article in a recent issue of the bulletin issued by the Toronto Better Business Bureau. The article refers to the arrest some weeks ago of a self-styled purchasing agent for the navy, who called himself, "Captain Macdonald."

Wearing a uniform which was a combination of merchant marine and Royal Canadian Navy, the pseudo-captain made a couple of business calls in Cobourg as a prelude to building up a 'front." After the necessary credit foundation had been made, the usual procedure of having a cheque cashed would have followed, except for one thing —Chief Carey arrested him.

The Better Business Bureau had this to say:

"Prompt action of police chief in Cobourg leads to arrest of individual wanted in Toronto on several charges—Last month an individual using the name of 'Captain Macdonald, which was an alias, visited Cobourg and called upon several stores where he placed substantial orders for the Navy. Dressed in naval uniform. 'Macdonald' concentrated on hardware stores and eventually found it necessary to cash a cheque or two.

Wrong Uniform

"This did not prove very difficult following the placing of a number of large orders 'for the navy.' The suspicions of the chief of police was aroused when he found that the so-called captain did not wear a proper uniform and that he wore a civilian raincoat.

"Upon being closely questioned by the police, he claimed to be from North Sydney. N.S., but when his registration card was produced it indicated that he came from Sudbury and that his name was Donald MacPherson. The chief promptly contacted the Toronto police and learned that MacPherosn was wanted on several charges. MacPherson was subsequently picked up by police officers from Toronto—appeared before a magistrate and received a sentence of 18 months in jail on one charge of theft and two charges of fraud."

Safe, Not Stolen

SONORA, Calif., July 23—(AP)—Two months ago O.K. Peckham reported his car stolen. Today the State highway patrol said it had been located—in a vacant garage near Peckham's home. A service station which had greased the car returned it last May 27 to the wrong address.

Hepburn Claims CCF Tied Close To C.I.O.

ST. THOMAS, July 23—The C.C.F. reminds Mitchell F. Hepburn, Independent Liberal candidate in Elgin, of the story of the rural school board that started building a school by resolution, he told a meeting of electors at Yarmouth Centre last night. First the school board passed a resolution to build a new school; then they passed a resolution to build a new school of material from the old school; then they passed a resolution to continue holding school in the old school until the new school was built.

In the final analysis, Mr. Hepburn submitted, a Provincial Legislature was in the nature of a large county council. It had to derive its revenues from similar sources and did not have the power of creating currency. He doubted very much if the C.C.F. promises to spend more money would have a very strong appeal anywhere in the Province, particularly rural Ontario.

Mr. Hepburn said while he did not think there was any chance of the C.C.F. winning sufficient seats in Ontario to be the governing party, he warned against the danger of electing many C.C.F. candidates, which he described as the political arm of the C.I.O.

"Nothing would please John L. Lewis, who was repudiated by the electors of Ontario in 1937, more than to see the political arm of the C.I.O. get support from the electors on Aug. 4," he said.

Mr. Hepburn added that he doubted very much if Ontario electors would give such support in their voting, having in mind that if many of them shiver in their homes for lack of fuel next winter, which is strongly probable, John L. Lewis will be responsible as head of the mine workers. He repeated his statement made at his nomination that Lewis was one of the greatest deterent forces against the war effort on the continent.

Sourdoughs Would Turn In Graves To See Softies

By GORDON McCALLUM

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., July 23. — The fellows who blazed the trail of '98 in the gold rush days, hooked their elbows over the bar and put their feet on the brass rail, probably will be disgusted to hear this: The soldiers and the civilians in this new rush to Alaska are drinking Coca-Cola and eating ice cream.

Instead of passing their time in gambling centres and "shooting it out" with the chisellers, they're playing baseball, watching Jimmy Cagney on the screen, working the juke box until it groans, or just drinking coffee and kidding the waitresses.

The one billiard parlor with its four tables does a constant business. Every night there are baseball games on the "Whitehorse Post Athletic Field." Sunfall comes late in this part of the world and on some evenings there are two games with the second one ending with the sun still well over the horizon. The soldiers and civilians play softball, known in the West as fastball. And they really play. The betting is terrific. Teams bet against teams, and spectators against spectators. Sometimes as much as $500 or $600 will be at stake.

Watch Out.

The athletic field has a boxing platform with a sign which says: "Do not hang on the ropes." That's meant for spectators, not for groggy boxers. Just before July 4, a civilian company moved a grader on the grounds to lengthen them a bit. Some of the batters had been smacking the ball too far out for the fielders.

In the restaurants, United States soldiers buy away-from-camp meals just for a change. They pay 25 cents for pie and coffee, 25c for a sandwich, 75 cents for a meal. One cafe has a sign which announces Dishwasher wanted.' The state of the silverware, with yesterday's eggs still on it, shows that the sign is honest.

The beer parlor has been out of beer since mid-winter. It serves soft drinks, instead.

One of thees days the liquor famine will end. The year's supply of hard liquor has arrived but it's still in bond while the liquor store staff sorts it out. The supply came all the way from Scotland, via Eastern Canada to Vancouver, up the coast to Skagway, and then over the White pass and Yukon Railway to Whitehorse.

But when the liquor is put on the shelves, the sales will be different from last year. For the first time in history, the Yukon Territories will have a liquor permit system.

The limit will be one bottle of spirits —any size up to a quart a month.

The Modern Age.

The Yukon Territories is going modern. When R.C.M.P. Inspector H. P. Mathewson came in last February, the only motor vehicle laws said the speed limit was 20 miles an hour on the road and 15 at intersections. Whitehorse traffic, with hundreds of army and civilian vehicles, started to jam. The Yukon Council went to work and passed stop-street and parking by-laws. Up to now, the R. C. M. P. have been warning drivers. Next week Inspector Mathewson said, charges will be laid.

The normal wintertime population of Whitehorse is 300 to 500. Move in 10,000 to 15,000 Americans and it's pretty hard not to believe that you aren't in part of the United States.

July 1 was officially observed as Dominion Day— but July 4 was the real holiday. The American visitors saw to that.

Society Hears Talk On U.S. Trip

HARWOOD, July 23.—(ENS). — The Women's Missionary Society of Bethesda United church met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Garnet Isaac.

Mrs. George Lang, who has spent the past year in various parts of United States, gave an interesting address on her trip, by showing many pictures and books.

Mrs. Lawton presided over the business part of the meeting. A special collection was taken to supply needs for a ditty bag, which is to be filled.

The convener, Mrs. W. Bell, opened the devotional period. The theme of the program was 'The Church in Captivity.' A topic was given 'The Church in Captivity' and those taking part were: Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Lawton for Holland, Mrs. McCulloch for Germany, and Mrs. Ellis Isaac for Norway. Miss Shirley Drope sang :Bless This House.' Mrs. Hayden Butter gave a reading, 'Peace and War' and Mrs. Rosevear read the Scripture lesson.

Mrs. Garnet Isaac, the hostess, and her group, served refreshments.

Personals.

Miss Kathleen Fisher, Toronto, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Drope and Miss Lottie Drope.

Mr. Harold Drope spent a few days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Staples, Port Britain, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers have returned to their homes in Rochester.

Miss Marjorie Sandercock, Roseneath, is spending her holidays with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Isaac.

Misses Marjorie and Merla Francis, Cobourg, are spending their vacation with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cowper, Louise, Myra and Helen attended the Turk re-union in Cobourg on Wednesday.

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 22—(CP). — Even in the gun turret of a Lancaster life can be pretty serene — providing luck is riding along. That's the verdict of Flt. Sgt. Jack Haywood, air - gunner from Port Arthur, Ont., who has just completed his tour of operations without mishap whatever.

He flew as an R.C.A.F. member of a record-breaking Aussie squadron and is instructing in air gunnery now. He bombed Berlin four times, did the same to Essen and his log includes trips to Dortmund Karlruhe, Stettin, Nuremburg, Lorient, Cologne, St. Nazaire and Frankfurt. Twice he went to Italy and once on the long hop to Pilsen in Czechoslovakia.

But listen to this: On all these trips he never fired his guns except when he was testing them. He saw only two night fighters and both of them were going the other way.

FO. Jerrold Campbell of Scotland, Ont., 22-year-old pilot in Coastal Command, has taken a trip with a merchant navy convoy of the kind he gives protection to during his air trips. In return for such trips as Campbell's merchant navy men are taken on areial escort patrols so they'll know how the protection they receive is carried out.

Usually the airmen making "return visits" board a convoy ship at one coastal port and disembark at the next Channel port of call.

When PO. Russ Harling of Winnipeg shot down his second Nazi fighter in three days during the smashing raid on Krefield it was to have been his last operational trip. But Russ wanted to hang on until his skipper, Flt. Sgt. Bill Gray of Vancouver was through his "ops" too and Harling's request was granted. Harling has been twice rescued from the sea by emergency dinghy.

Ten bombs, sliding down towards one of the great workshops of the Schneider armament factory, are shown in one of the remarkable photographs taken at night by a bomber over a German target. The picture was brought back by Flying Officer G. E. (Chick) MacIntosh of Winnipeg, a Halifax pilot in the Moose Squadron. The pictures show the 10 bombs eventually going right on to the building the crew had been sent out to hit.

With MacIntosh were FO. Larry Noble of Prince Albert, Sask., Sgt. Bill Joy of Mackey, Ont., Sgt. Armir Lemire of Mellville, Sask., FO. Ken Harrold, Toronto, and Sgt. E. J. C. Hancock, Scotland.

At one Canadian station a strange plane landed and out stepped what is well known as an "intrepid airman." He inquired of a nearby groundcrew man who the station commander might be. The answer was, "Oh, some group captain."

The newcomer turned out to be none other than that same "groupie," Group Capt. Henry Carscallen of Hamilton, Ont.

Used A Scythe

SHALLOW LAKE, Ont., July 23 — (CP). — District farmers whistled in admiration when W. A. Graham, 83, mowed a field of heavy hay with a scythe in what they described as "record time." The following day he and Mrs. Graham completed the job by raking and coiling the hay with a handrake and forks.

CAMPBELLFORD

Farmer's Idea Relieves Labor Shortage

CAMPBELLFORD, July 21. — (ENS).—One of the most satisfactory answers to the labor problem yet reported has been found by a farmer, J. A. Sullivan, in Percy township, six miles from Campbellford.

Mr. Sullivan, who suffered from lack of help began thinking of what he could do to relieve the situation He decided a farmer could fix a tractor and binder so that they could be operated by one man instead of two. He worked on the idea for some time and finally eliminated the steering problem by designing a universal joint which could be fastened over the steering column of the tractor.

A few trials showed him he was on the right track, so with a length of 1¼ inch pipe fastened to the universal joint and a supplementary steering wheel reaching to the proper position on the binder he has solved at least one phase of the labor shortage during the harvest season. An endless rope is used to operate the clutch of the tractor from the binder seat. Mr. Sullivan declares the device is practically foolproof and makes the combination manoeuverable enough to get around any corner in the field.

Mr. Sullivan has also a plan which has worked successfully to reduce the amount of labor required at threshing time from seven to three men. Since he owns a separator, they do not first cut the grain and then put it in the barn as is commonly done in this part of the province. Instead the crop is cut and brought to the separator at the barn which is then operated easily by two men and a boy. The men fork into the separator and the boy looks after the grain. Normally four men are required in the mow to keep the supply going into the separator while two others fork into the mill and a seventh looks after the mill itself.

Americans Lose 16,556 Killed Since Dec. 7, '41

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP).— United States deaths from battle action in the first year and a half of the Second Great War are less than one-third the total for the entire period of the First Great War.

This was disclosed yesterday in War and Navy Department casualty lists which show that since December 7, 1941, 16.556 men have died in action or from wounds. In the entire period of United States' participation in the First Great War— which was approximately the same length as the time this war has been under way--53,407 deaths were recorded in action or from wounds. But that ratio cannot be expected to continue. Acting Secretary of War Robert Patterson, at a press conference yesterday, declared:

"It is almost certain that the fighting in immediate prospect is likely to be much heavier than we have thus far experienced. With hard fighting our casualties will mount. The period of relative quiet is gone. From this time on the war will proceed at a faster pace, and we would do well not to underrate the enemy's capabilities, or to underrate the losses that we will incur."

Of the known dead, 8,412 are navy, marine and coast guard men who died either in battle or from wounds, and 8,144 are army men. In the First Great War the total of deaths in action or from wounds included 2,897 navy and marine personnel (coast guardsmen were not included in those figures) and 50,510 members of the army.

Overall casualties of the army— dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war—thus far in this war total 65,136 Mr. Patterson told his press conference. In the previous war that overall figure for the army was approximately four times as large, or 248,589.

Amgot—A Portent

In the past week a new word has made its way into the war news—Amgot. It is made up of the initials of a full title, which is Allied Military Government of Occupied Territories, for now, after years of waiting, the time has come when the word "occupied" is not used exclusively of territory in the hands of our enemies. Amgot is functioning in the parts of Sicily which are now in our hands. The territory which we occupied in Africa could could safely be left to the administration of the French, but in Sicily we have no friends to take care of these matters for us. And thus Amgot has sprung into life.

When we begin the assault on Europe on a big scale, Amgot will increase in stature. For when a section of country has been taken it cannot be left in chaos. Necessary services must continue; light, heat and water must be supplied. Public utilities must be protected from saboteurs; there must be no poison in the water supply. Citizens must be kept under surveillance, and the police force must have a new head; attempts to escape to unoccupied territory must be foiled. Justice must be administered. In fact, life must be carried on as much as possible without disruption. It is the job of Amgot to see that this is done.

In Sicily, where General Alexander is military Governor, Amgot has dissolved the Fascist party and has suspended the authority of the Italian Crown. It has also revoked all laws which discriminate between one man and another for any reason of race or creed. Personal and property rights are protected, law courts are guaranteed free functioning, and public officials are kept in their jobs if they behave themselves. Amgot, for the people of conquered Sicily, means a new order of a sort which they may come to enjoy.

Falling Leaf And Fading Tree

The connoisseur of totalitarian villany has always recognized the lyric nature of Italian Fascism as compared with the arid strenuosity of Nazism. While the Nazis strutted the streets singing the Horst Wessel Song—surely the bleakest of all war songs—the Italian Blackshirts swung through the streets singing a far better tune—

Giovinezza, giovinezza,
Primavera di belleza!

"Youth, youth, springtime of beauty," they carolled in 1921, and youth seemed to be the very spirit of Fascism then. Mussolini shared in the illusion, and did feats of strength and agility in public, to show what a youthful creature he was. The sun was strong, and Fascism burgeoned in Italy as it never did in the colder climate of the north.

And when the Italian Empire was being built Fascism ripened into a rich and heavy-fruited summer, and those who enjoyed the full rays of the sun never dreamed that summer days would end. But the end has come; the springtime of beauty is over; the virile and youthful Duce has suddenly become a pretentious little old man, comic rather than awesome. Carlo Scorza shouts and scolds, but the leaves fall and the tree fades. The twenty years of Italian spring have vanished, and the chill rains of autumn are growing colder.

Disney The Dietician

In a recent editorial on the spread of tuberculosis in this city we mentioned the necessity for good diet as a protection against disease, and spoke particularly about the need of a well-filled lunch-box for the working man or woman. We learn that the Food Distribution Administration of the U.S. is paying particular attention to food for workers, and has the co-operation of Walt Disney, who has drawn them some splendid posters.

One of these posters shows Maxie Hare (you remember him, and his epic race with Toby Tortoise) chewing a carrot as he nonchalantly stands on the head of the Big Bad Wolf. "There's Fightamins in Fruits and Vegetables", says Maxie; "eat at least three good servings a day including citrus fruits, or tomatoes, and yellow or leafy green vegetables". In another poster we see Donald Duck wilting on a rivetting job. Why? Because he did not eat enough breakfast. "You can't breakfast like a bird and work like a horse", says this poster; "grapefruit, orange juice, melon or berries, coffee, oatmeal or other cereal, eggs now and then, two slices of whole wheat or enriched bread and butter" is the recommended meal. But the poster we like best is one of Goofy the dog loafing on the job, as the poster warns, "A goofy lunch, pulls your punch". The recommended box lunch is a half-pint of milk, two meat or cheese sandwiches on whole wheat or enriched bread, a raw carrot and an orange, and cookies or other dessert.

The lessons of these posters are needed here quite as much as in the U.S. If some of those posters found their way to Canada it would be a good thing.

Expounding And Examining

Our Brantford contemporary offers his readers a useful little note on the name of his newspaper. The Expositor, he tells us, comes from the Latin exponere, and more directly from expositorem, meaning one who sets forth, or expounds. What an excellent name for a paper!

For our part we sometimes deplore the zeal of the unknown who first called this paper the Examiner; it is a most difficult name to live up to. To have to examine everything—what a fate! How happy are those editors who write for an Express, which need only be rapid in its judgement; or a Herald, which can be content to announce; or a Phoenix which needs only be brilliant and soaring; or a Mirror which is happy to reflect the trend of the times.

But to be forced to examine or expound is to be condemned to the fate of Sisyphus, rolling a great stone up a hill each day, only to find on the morrow that it has slipped to the bottom again.

New Central Station In Montreal

Montreal has at last completed its Canadian National Central Station, and where formerly there was nothing but an excavation which was derisively called "the hole in the ground" there is now a commodious and efficient terminus. The new station is not the one of which ambitious Montrealers dreamed. Wartime building is difficult enough without attempting to gain effects which would tax the capacities of peacetime builders. But the new station is a vast improvement on the old Bonaventure Station, which was neither efficient nor suitable to the dignity of a large city. It is a good thing that the name has been retained. Many a traveller from the States or from abroad has commented on the charm and aptness of the name "Bonaventure"; if Montreal allowed it to fade from memory it would have suffered a very real loss.

The planning and construction of a station to handle the complex and steady rail traffic of a great city is an engineering problem of utmost difficulty. It is not hard to build a handsome station, but it is extremely hard to build a station which will be convenient for both passengers and operators. Many Canadian cities are still handicapped by stations which they have outgrown, and which put every difficulty in the way of efficient rail traffic. One of Canada's tasks during the next twenty years will be to get rid of these, and to build efficient stations where they are most needed. For at least twenty years the old Bonaventure station has been the most conspicuous of these old-fashioned stations. Now it has gone, and a great city has a railway depot for each of the main lines which is worthy of its surroundings.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Compliments are like perfume: inhale them, but do not swallow them.

The Socialist party, we observe, is advocating "liquid" money. Is that the kind you spend like water?

Eire and Sweden are the only neutral countries operating an air line to Britain at present, but the Irish do not like it and have made an informal protest. The reason is that all neutral civil planes have to be painted the same colour, and the colour chosen is offensive to the Irish eye. It is a fine flaring orange.

There is a rumour that Mussolini has secreted stores of gold in Eire, in case he should have to take refuge there. We have no grudge against the Irish, but we should love to think of the Big Patoot wearing out his life somewhere in the fastnesses of Sligo.

Referring to a news picture of Mr. John Bracken leaning on a fence and gazing soulfully at the back door of his boyhood home, a contemporary remarks that it has a "Lincolnesque touch". Mr. Bracken may look like Lincoln, but his job resembles that of Moses.

Political Decency

By
EUGENE L'HEUREUX
(In "L'Action Catholique")

WE do not wish in any way to prolong the torture inflicted last week right in the House of Commons to a member who had to retract three times in order to avoid an inquiry in the course of which he would have had to prove accusations lightly made.

Nevertheless, in the name of all those who have no party to defend or fight, but only truth, justice and progress to serve, we must draw, from this unfortunate incident, a lesson in political decency.

Outside of election time, every one admits that electoral campaigns are riots of hatred, slander, perfidiuos insinuations, calumny, and incoherent speech in which only a small number of people who have kept their self control, refuse to share.

It is as though, once the flow of eloquence and of electoral literature has been let loose, Christian ethics, common decency, and human feelings no longer existed.

If only one did not see, taking part in this vulgar racket, such a large number of people intended by their talent, culture and ordinary common sense for more commendable tasks, the sight would not be so depressing and we should not feel like despairing of democracy.

UNFORTUNATELY, each campaign which is somewhat lively, brings us many illustrations of the political phenomenon "corruptio optimi pessima." People, who, at any other time, would be careful not to lie, nor libel, nor voice perfidious insinuations nor even slander, vie with shameless intriguers in their zeal to destroy adversaries "per fas et nefas."

Before approving such a phenomenal conduct, we insist that a single text be shown or quoted, asserting that Christian ethics and human decency are suspended during electoral campaigns and that political followers whether intelligent or stupid, educated or ignorant have a right to "go wild" during these weeks of excitement, which should, on the contrary, more than all others, be used to think things over in a spirit of good citizenship of the highest sort.

Let it be well understood: we are not advocating that the people and especially the elite should abstain from voting or participating in any action preparatory to voting. On the contrary, this is what we are asserting: all electors should vote, especially the more enlightened ones; but they must bring to this civic deed, which is one of the greatest duties of every citizen living in a democracy, all the intelligence and all the intellectual honesty possible.

THOSE who claim to belong to the better classes, and help make our political campaigs so ugly by sharing in the lies, the perfidious insinuations and different other contemptible dealings are the most guilty of all, even if they believe the old sophism that "the end justifies the means." Besides, once his heart is full of political passion, his head swollen with popularity, his pockets filling up, what political follower would not feel justified, to play any dirty trick on opponents more hated than enemies of the country, in order to serve a party which always seems the best no matter what it does?

The duty of the elite, in electoral time, is not to provide the parties with fallacious arguments or extrinsic help, but to bring to the deliberating people, some light, real light, that enlightment which will enable the elector to vote intelligently rather than with passion.

When we speak of an elite we mean all those who are influential because of their talents, their training, their position and a sort of tendency to radiate, so to speak, and because of all this, are somehow dedicated to the social and political guidance of the people.

IT seems the right time to express our thoughts on the electoral questino in connection with the parliamentary incident on which the whole press has comented. And for two reasons. One is that we do not consider the very period of electoral hysteria the best moment to make people understand how low and how injurious are certain methods, too widely used.

But there is a second reason on which we should like to insist even more: for a certain number of politicians, great, small or average, electoral campaigns last three hundred and sixty-five days and six hours a year, so that they use constantly the same methods of slander, calumny, insinuation and bluff.

Careless and blundering, the man who paid dearly for his mistake last week in the House of Comons, is not the only guilty one. Unfortunately, so are almost all political men, government supporters as well as those in the opposition, and all the followers who freely impute to their opponents the worst motives and if necessary misrepresent the actions and the thoughts of the latter in order to ruin them better in the eyes of the voters. Listen carefully to political speeches, read seriously the articles of political sheets, and you will see how few there are who seek less to stir up passions the better to enrol adherents, rather than to enlighten the better to serve.

AS long as passion thus wins over reason in our political debates, we shall be wrong in blaming the parliamentary system for our disappointments and on cursing Democracy, in a platonic manner. The faults of Democracy are simply the guilty actions and omissions of men who lack the necessary courage to fill up the congenial gaps of this system which, as a whole, can compare with others.

If we wish to regenerate politics, the first important thing to do is to improve the political spirit, even that of people who never stop reproaching others for such behaviour and yet say about their opponents, things which reveal a mind far from constructive.

In short, with us, politics have long since spoiled the mind. It is now for the mind to get even by correcting politics. You might say this is a hard thing to do. Yes, but it can be done. Why, the moral value of men is precisely measured by the courage they show when facing difficult but necessary tasks.

HE PAID TOO MUCH

The shy bridegroom asked the parson what would be the amount of the wedding fee.

The parson, smiling genially, replied: "Oh, just give me what you feel like, after the ceremony."

The knot tied, the bridegroom produced a shilling.

The parson looked at the shilling, then at the bride — and gave the bridegroom eightpence change.

Letters To The Editor

BERRY PRICES DOUBLED

Sir,—The account in your paper of July 21st re "Prices Board Case Causes Storm" must have given a lot of people a good laugh.

Why make such a fuss about 1 cent on an ice cream one, and peanuts, and allow raspberries grown right here in our own locality to be doubled in price since last year? Labour certainly doesn't account for it, as the pickers, I understand are receiving the usual 3½ cents per quart box.

Come on boys, leave the 1 cent increase alone, and pile into the big stuff. There are enough of you around to do it.

FREE ADVICE TO FARMERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—"Farmers, speed up production, work harder, use more initiative, dig down deeper, get into the game, put in longer hours, etc. etc." Strange advice that, heard on every side from those who work only eight hours a day. At this time of year farmers are working hard twelve and fourteen hours a day, and what do they gain. Only criticism and never-ending complaints and 'biting of the hands that feed.'

The prices of farm produce were kept at a low level with the idea that farmers would be forced to increase production, to make a bare living and pay off some of their debts. With the help of the weather and the farmer's refusal to be a slave, it has not worked out that way. For the first time in memory, a food shortage is being felt where it was most needed, in the villages, towns, and cities of Canada. It is time the true values of food from the farm was recognized. Our city friends need to learn that apples are not merely picked from the trees, berries from bushes, and eggs from the nests. Above all they should know that there is something wrong with such a difference in prices as that between ten-cent milk and 36-cent beer.

It has been suggested that urban consumers, instead of grumbling at the prices, set up a co-operative store for farm produce in each village or town and larger numbers in the cities. If these would be run on the cash-and-carry basis, I am sure the farmers would co-operate.

'CO-OPERATOR.'

Innisfree In The Realms Of Prose

TO the period of Yeats' collaboration with Ellis belong two of the most charming of the early poems, "The Lake Isle of Innisfree" and "The Man Who Dreamed of Faeryland." Both were published in Henley's National Observer, the one in December, 1890, and the other in the February following. "See," said Henley when the fairyland poem appeared, "what a fine thing has been written by one of my lads." "The Lake Isle" was not only generally popular but it set the professors agog by the arrangement of the vowel sounds ("I scarcely knew," said Yeats, "what a vowel was"):

And I shall have some peace there, for peace
comes dropping slow,
Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings;
There midnight's all a glimmer, and noon a purple glow,
And evening full of the linnet's wings.

A letter came from R. L. Stevenson in far-off Samoa. Stevenson said that he had been three times laid under a spell; first by the early Swinburne, then by a stanza in "Love in a Valley," and then by "Innisfree" "It is so quaint and airy, simple, artful, and eloquent to the heart."

In the novelette "John Sherman," which was published a few months after "Innisfree," there is this passage:

"Delayed by a crush in the Strand, he heard a faint trickling of water nearby; it came from a shop window where a little water-jet balanced a wooden ball upon its point. The sound suggestedl a cataract with a long Gaelic name, that leaped crying into the Gate of the Winds at Ballah. Wandering among these memories a footstep went to and fro continually, and the figure of Mary Carton moved among them like a phantom. He was set dreaming a whole day by walking down one Sunday morning to the border of the Thames — a few hundred yards from his house—and looking at the osier-covered Chiswick eyot. It made him remember an old day-dream of his. The source of the river that passed his garden at home was a certain wood-bordered and islanded lake, whither in childhood he had often gone blackberry-gathering. At the further end was a little islet called Innisfree. Its rocky centre, covered with many bushes, rose some forty feet above the lake. Often when life and its difficulties had seemed to him like the lessons of some elder boy given to a younger by mistake, it had seemed good to dream of going away to that islet and building a wooden hut there and burning a few years out, rowing to and fro, fishing, or lying on the island slopes by day, and listening at night to the ripple of the water and the quivering of the bushes—full always of unknown creatures—and going out at morning to see the island's edge marked by the feet of birds."—From "Life of W. B. Yeats," by Joseph Hone. (New York: Macmillan.)

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, July 23 —(CP)—When Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons of his difficulties in gaining recognition in early communiques of Canada's part in the Sicilian campaign, he was exhibiting a growing tendency on the part of the smaller Allied nations to demand a full voice in decisions affecting their national and political interests.

The same tendency was revealed a short time ago when some of the smaller countries such as the Netherlands protested against the proposed concentratino of power in the big four, Britain, Russia, China and the United States, over relief and rehabilitation policies in war-ravaged countries.

For some time it has been apparent here that the smaller countries, while accepting the principle that the day-to-day conduct of the war should remain in the control of Britain and the United States, are growing impatient at attempts to keep them in the background permanently or in a subordinate position in projected post-war machinery.

A JOB OF SORTING

The United States war relocation authority, custodian of 100,000 Japanese and Japanese-Americans, plans to tackle in September a big job it has been wanting to do for months—get the 90 per cent pro-American away from the 10 per cent pro-Japanese in the detention camps.

It would have done this long ago because it claims that conflicts between the two groups have been the cause of most of the trouble behind the barbed wire of the 10 detention camps. It has been delayed because it was necessary, first, to have full information on each individual.

WAR IN WASHINGTON

When Congress reconvenes in September, the governor now is planning to divert refrigerating fluid to war plants, leaving the capitol's air-conditioning system stranded.

Keep your eye on the Republican post-war policy association, dedicated to the job of purging the G.O.P. of isolationism and already becoming a major political factor in the United States.

Organized by Deneen A. Watson, a 39-year-old Chicago lawyer and financed by Dennison B. Hull, a Chicago architect, the association has held conventions in the east and mid-west and will move into the far west and the mountain states later. By October it expects to be ready for its first national convention.

Its job is to convince Republicans that the United States must abandon isolation, must collaborate with other countries in maintaining international order and peace after the war.

They are backing no candidate for president although Wendell L. Willkie, the outstanding internationalist among 1944 prospects, is obviously the man they are helping at the moment.

A Bible Message

I waited patiently for the Lord; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry....And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God: many shall see it, and fear, and shall trust in the Lord. Blessed is that man that maketh the Lord his trust, and respecteth not the proud, nor such as turn aside to lies.

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered. Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine ears hast thou opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required....

I have preached righteousness in the great congregation: lo, I have not refrained my lips, O Lord, thou knowest.

I have not hid thy righteousness within my heart; I have declared thy faithfulness and thy salvation: I have not concealed thy lovingkindness and thy truth from the great congregation. (Ps. 40: 1, 3-6, 9, 10.)

A New Churchill Story

At the club I was told a good story about Mr. Churchill which I believe is true. The present Prime Minister was at a private dinner party, and amongst the guests was a foreign potentate of some distinction. Towards the end of the repast the host came across to Winston and confided to him with some embarrassment that the potentate had been seen purloining an exquisite little silver salver. It was one of a set, and was irreplaceable. What could he do about it?

Winston told him to leave it to him. He'd get it back somehow. Under cover of his serviette he too quietly appropriated a salver. Dinner over, he sidled up to the potentate, and, slyly showing him the salver in his pocket, said cunningly: "I've got one of these as well as you. But we'l have to put them back, you know — we've been spotted." Winston's salver was duly replaced, the real culprit hastily followed suit, and all was well.

It recalls another story of how, when a certain native ruler and his entourage were about to visit Windsor Castle, Queen Mary had all small articles of value removed first to a place of safety.—Ottawa Journal.

Pay corps officers reached the front with a story about a bombing on the beach where they landed. They had just got on the beach with heavy boxes containing £25,000 for paying the troops when the raiders attacked.

They had no time to dig slit trenches so they piled the boxes of money and took shelter behind them—creating the most expensive bomb shield in the army. Neither the money nor the officers were hit.

School Taxes to Be Reduced One-Half By Drew Government

ON ALL ONTARIO HOMES AND FARMS

Pledge 9 of the Progressive Conservative platform reads:

> There will be a sweeping revision of our whole system of real estate taxation so that the owning and improvement of homes and farm land, which are the very foundation of our society, will not be discouraged by excessive taxation. AS AN INITIAL STEP IN THAT DIRECTION THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT WILL ASSUME AT LEAST 50 PER CENT OF THE SCHOOL TAXES NOW CHARGED AGAINST REAL ESTATE. IT IS, HOWEVER, TO BE CLEARLY UNDERSTOOD THAT THIS CHANGE WILL NOT AFFECT THE AUTHORITY OF THE LOCAL SCHOOL BOARDS.

The promised transfer of 50% of the cost of primary and secondary education from real estate to the provincial treasury has been met in some quarters by queries as to how the extra burden is to be financed in Queen's Park when a Drew Government takes over the reins of government. Estimating that 50% of the cost of education will run into twenty million dollars the critics cry: "Where is all this money coming from?"

A considerable proportion or all of the money could readily come from economies in those branches of government which during the nine years of Liberal rule have raised the public taxation from fifty million dollars to over one hundred million dollars. The administration now drawing to a close has in reckless fashion piled levy upon levy and debt upon debt until the annual budget deals exclusively in astronomical figures. What is more! Those who oppose the projected relief of home owners and other proprietors of real estate should bear in mind the stimulating and buoying effect of converting real estate into a marketable commodity. There will be encouragement to build and own homes which will provide work for a considerable proportion of the population. There is nothing like widespread housing activity to increase industry and gainful employment. The value of real estate would be increased, the housing problem would be solved, slums could be cleared away and there would be no need of a resumption of state and municipal relief after the war.

In this connection The Orillia Packet and Times says editorially that this reform, "will not necessarily add a dollar to the tax burden that the taxpayers have to carry. It will simply be a readjustment of the cost of maintaining the schools so that it will fall more equitably on a larger number of shoulders. At present the major part of the load falls on the section of the community who are property owners, who are neither the people who benefit directly nor those most able to pay."

But still the critics exclaim: "Where is the 20 million dollars to come from?"

That is surely a queer query to propound in a Province which in the last four years has raised billions for war besides scores of millions for the Canadian Red Cross Society and other voluntary organizations and at the same time heavily increased its purchases of war securities and its savings bank deposits.

The manner in which the Province has taken its war time tasks in its stride has imbued our people with a fresh confidence in our own spiritual, moral and material capacities for achievement. The skill, co-operation, and organizing abilities, with which employers and employees have faced new obligations and broken all time records in production, have opened people's eyes to a splendid future for Ontario and for the rest of Canada— if only we have wise government leadership.

That indeed was the keynote of the speech in which George Drew announced the party's 22 point policy, including that related to tax reforms. He said: — "Our whole planning for the future will be based upon the conviction that this Province has not yet begun to develop its resources. With effective planning we can make these resources provide work for our men and women who come out of the war and out of war factories—and that on a scale that will assure a higher measure of prosperity than we have ever known. Drew has also said:

> "Our danger in this Province is not unemployment after the war, but rather a shortage of workers for the job which lies ahead if only those who direct our affairs have the vision to see the role which Ontario and Canada can play in the post-war world. If we believe Ontario is about to enter a rapid expansion in the producing capacity of our farms, our factories, our mines, and our forests, then we are safe in promising employment not only for those who will be demobilized, but to many others who will also be needed to produce those things that will be required in enormous quantities by the whole world."

The demands for replacement and reconstruction in many countries overseas after the war will tax Ontario's huge reserves of raw material and manufacturing facilities to the utmost limit. All the terrible destruction of the last four years has created and is creating such opportunities here at home for our young men and women as they have never yet known.

Given a new strong government in Queen's Park and a new strong government at Ottawa, we may look forward to a fresh era in Ontario and in the rest of Canada. It may indeed be asserted without fear of successful contradition that each of the 22 points in the Progressive Conservative platform makes for the creation of a greater and more prosperous Ontario which need not be inconvenienced in the slightest degree by government assumption of an additional obligation of twenty million dollars for primary and secondary education.

The Drew programme makes for progress in agriculture, industry, the mines, forests, and commerce. It makes for the encouragement of individual initiative and private enterprise, for co-operative relations between employers and employees, for the opening up of new mining areas and for the employment of two million people in forest industries and derivative enterprises. The elimination of politics from the Civil Service will make for efficient government, the abolition of provincial government services which duplicate Federal services will prove a source of economy. The promised abolition of monopolies and the pledged assurance of adequate supplies of fuel, milk, and other basic necessities will conduce towards the development of a healthier and more efficient nation. So will the pledge of Social Security for those unable, through no fault of their own, to take care of themselves, especially in old age.

The issue is in the hands of the electors who are under a patriotic and moral obligation to do three things:

(1) See that your name is on the voter's list.

(2) Get out and work for the Progressive Conservative Party and its platform and a greater and more prosperous Ontario.

(3) Talk to your friends, and acquaintances and get them to the polls on the right side.

Make Ontario strong. Work and Vote for the Progressive Conservative Candidate.

Where the Money is to Come From

1. Partly from abolition of Over-Lapping Services.
2. Partly from Departmental Economies.
3. Still more of the necessary revenue will flow in from the stimulating influence this halving of school taxes will exert upon real estate values and upon rehousing and general building activities.
4. Most of the necessary revenue will arise from the accelerated development of Ontario's vast natural resources that will result from the presence in Queen's Park of a Progressive Conservative Government of strong, capable men who have presented the Province with the most aggressive and constructive programme in the history of the Province.

TO THE RESCUE OF REAL ESTATE
(Windsor Star)

Mr. Drew proposes that the Ontario Government, if he is called upon to form it, will assume at least fifty percent of the school taxes now charged against real estate . . . If that were done in Windsor it would knock about 10 mills off the tax rate. That . . . would prove a relief to all taxpayers.

DREW, NIXON, AND SCHOOL TAXES
(Ottawa Journal, July 13, 1943)

> There will be a sweeping revision of our whole system of real estate taxation so that the owning and improvement of homes will not be discouraged by excessive taxation."

This clearly is one of the most important of the 22 points in the election program issued by Mr. George Drew, Ontario leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Drew, elaborating briefly, said that "as the initial step" the provincial government would assume "at least 50 per cent of the school taxes now charged against real estate," but explained that this change would not affect "the authority of the local school boards." . . .

Mr. Drew's declaration of principles makes it possible to relieve a grievance which has existed for many years. We tell men and women that they should own their own homes— but we pile on those homes such a load of taxes that ownership often is a grievous burden which rests most heavily, by comparison, on those least able to pay. There was a classic example in the depression days when a very large part of the cost of direct relief was charged against the communities and so against real estate. Here was a situation which the municipalities had not brought about, could not cure, and for which they had no responsibility at all, and yet the unfortunate taxpayer was left "holding the bag" because there was no lesser government to which he could pass it. Only now are Ontario cities recovering from this gross injustice.

It would seem elementary that the cost of education should be distributed as widely as possible among all the people, and yet our present system throws (in the cities at least) the lion's share of it upon real estate. Mr. Drew, speaking after his nomination in High Park, Toronto, said that in Britain, in Australia and New Zealand, the greater part of school costs is borne by the State. Ontario should follow their example, and according to the Progressive Conservative leader it can be done without any increase in provincial taxes. "This province," he told the Toronto meeting, "was over-taxed last year by an amount considerably more than would be involved in these changes."

Here is a first-class election issue, with the Liberal Premier Nixon defending the old system and the Progressive Conservative party urging changes little short of revolutionary. No one can say this time there is "no difference" between parties.

GENELECS MOVE INTO A FIRST PLACE TIE WITH THE SOLDIER TEAM

Beat Combines 13 to 10 In Loose Game

Genelecs reeled off their sixth straight win in the City Softball League series at Riverside Park Thursday night when they outscored Combines 13 to 10 in a loose but exciting tilt. The victory placed Manager Ted Johnston's team tied for first place with Soldiers at the top of the heap.

Most of the excitement was provided with the Combines, after playing ragged ball in the field that left them trailing far behind the Genelecs, suddenly cut loose with a rally in the eighth. Five batters in a row come through with hits, which with the help of a couple of boots chased five runs in with nobody out. The explosion drove Ronnie Akers out of the box but Bill Moorhead, coming up with an effective bit of relief pitching, quelled the uprising and saved the game.

Akers led the winners at bat with four blows in five trips to the plate while Holly Mowry and Casey Masterson had three each. Gib Brockley, Combines left fielder had three also, his string including one of hardest-hit homers of the season, a long triple and a single.

George Hawks' double to centre and Akers' single to the same field sent in the first Genelec run in the second.

The winners came back with four in the third. McNabb was safe on Currie's error. Holmes sacrificed him to second and Tucker was safe on a fumble by Gardner. Mowry's single to right, scored McNabb and Tucker. Moorhead's double scored Mowry and after Hawks had flied out Akers singled to right to send another run across.

In the fourth Masterson and McNabb led off with singles. Holmes forced Masterson at third on a bunt. Tucker flied out but Mowry's double scored McNabb. Moorhead rolled to Gardner.

So He Can Smile

Al Bunny Dunlop, rough-house wrestler who meets Earl McCready here in the main bout Monday night. Peterborough fans will be surprised at his smile. Dunlop's standing expression in the ring is a scowl.

Dunlop Faces Beating So Fans Hope

Albert "Bunny" Dunlop claims to be the strongest wrestler in the whole world. Dunlop bases his claims not only on his record breaking strongman-lifts but also on the recently proven fact that he is the only wrestler to lift the Human Blimp over his head in a wrestling heave. Well, Mr. Dunlop may be the strongest of the grapplers but when he meets Earl McCready here next Monday night in the Arena, all the strength and then some may be required to save him from the worst beating of his professioonal wrestling career. Dunlop has been making a slaughter of the lighter men who have been sent against him here but the two hundred and forty pound McCready is in a different class. This match came about through a demand from many fans to bring someone in here who could give the burly Dunlop a good trimming. Having seen what McCready does to opponents, most of the fans spoken to, voiced the opinion that Earl is big enough and strong enough to do this chore up right. So, its Strongman Dunlop and Top Man Wrestler Earl McCready for the feature spot on Brock Street on Monday.

Another outstanding Canadian wrestler will appear here for the first time this season in big John Katan. Katan is just as rough as Dunlop and in fact claims to be the Roughhouse Champion. On Monday he meets the popular Toar Morgan the Fighting Marine and that bout should be a honey.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Switch Gear and 4th Battery will meet tonight at Riverside Park in a City League fixture that means a lot to both clubs. The Gunners, of course, need a victory to stay in the running for first spot. A Battery win tonight will mean a three-cornered tie for first place, and necessitate a pre-playoff series to determine the setup for the final rounds. Switch Gear also need the game to keep in reach of a playoff berth so that both teams have every incentive to cook with gas tonight. There have been no announcements as to pitchers but it will either be Wilson or Crowe for the Gunners and Harrison or Reynolds for Switch Gear. Both teams expect to be at full strength for they appreciate the importance of a win and will hustle all the way to grab off the decision. The game is called for 7 o'clock and in view of what hinges upon the result should be one of the most interesting of the schedule, despite the fact that the Gunners won handily the last time the two clubs met.

* * * * * *

The City Softball League has already two teams tied for first place in the race, Soldiers and Genelecs have completed their schedule with seven wins and three losses each. A third club will end up all even with the army team and Ted Johnston's outfit if the 4th Battery comes down in front in their game with the Switch Gear team tonight. Incidentally a win for the Gunners would also leave Switch Gear and the Combines tied for fourth place with a tie game between the two outfits still to be played. Cardinals whose last hope to reach the playoffs vanished the other night have dropped out of the race and as a result another win has been added to the totals of the Battery, Switch Gear and Combines and that leaves the standing with only two games left to play as follows:—

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Soldiers	7	3	.700
Genelecs	7	3	.700
Battery	6	3	.667
Switch Gear	4	4	.500
Combines	4	5	.444
Cardinals	0	10	.000

It Should Be A Treat

The visit of the famous Tip Top team here on Wednesday of next week for a game with a picked all-star City League team, reinforced with a crack Toronto pitcher, in aid of the Kinsmens's Milk for Britain Fund has the fans all talking and by far the biggest crowd of the season will be on hand for this memorable tussle. The crack Tip Top squad who will probably have big Susie Turner on the rubber for them include some of the finest softball performers in the Dominion in their lineup. They have the hard-hitting Eckler at first base, Harrison at second is rated one of the most sensational infielders in the game, Spero is a fast-fielding shortstop and Surphlis ranks with the best of the difficult corner guardians. In the outfield is Andy Kowalik who was with the Peterborough Central Leaguers for a short time some years ago, Walter Jeffers and Summerhill, all fast fielders and hard-hitters. McKinnon will do the catching and the whole team is packed with power and speed. With a senior pitcher working for the Peterborough team and the pick of the City League stars in the lineup the game should be a honey. The proceeds will all go to the Milk for Britain Fund and Howard Shimer who has the arrangements in hand reports all kinds of help in staging the big affair. He will probably have at least ten gate prizes as an added attraction which means that many lucky fans will not only see the game of the season and help a fine cause but will also take home a worthwhile prize.

* * * * * *

The Girls' Softball League is rapidly completing its schedule and the playoffs are just around the corner. There will be action on that front tonight when the Brintons and Generals will battle at the Bowl at 7o'clock. It should be an interesting argument. The Brintons have been playing good ball and they are hopeful of repeating their feat of last season and grabbing off the intermediate championship. Of course the Electrics and Generals expect to have something to say about that and the latter may decide that tonight would be a good opportunity to serve notice that they are strictly in the running. There should be a good crowd to see the rivals battle. The summer is slipping by and the regular schedule will soon be completed.

Matchmaker Frank Tunney has done it again, coming up with a card for next Monday night's wrestling show at the Brock Street Summer Gardens that shuold provide plenty of action and thrills. Strongman Al Bunny Dunlop who never uses a clean hold when he can get in a back-alley bit of skulduggery is being tossed to the lions. At least he is matched with Earl McCready in the main bout and Peterborough fans are hoping that that will mean that the Aurora farmer will give Dunlop the beating he has been asking for ever since his first appearance in Peterborough. Of course rough-house Bunny has no such ideas about the battle. He regards it as a chance to show against a high-class opponent that he belongs in the first division of the grappling game. The Moose is likely to disillusion him but the process should furnish plenty of excitement. With all his faults Dunlop is powerful and game and he is not going to curl up simply because he is facing a star. Incidentally Dunlop is not the only bad man in the card for John Katan who gets a kick out of the booing the crowd give him for rough tactics knows every mean move in the wrestling repertoire. He meets the popular Toar Morgan, the fighting Marine in the semi-final Monday and will find a hostile audience to greet him for Morgan is a prime favorite with Peterborough followers of the game. The well-liked Joe Maich will tangle with Doc Felice, the Californian in the opening mill and these two good boys should stage quite a thrilling 30 minutes.

He's Done It Again

Big Mort Cooper garnered his 13th victory of the season last night as the St. Louis Cards triumphed over the New York Giants 6 to 2 and the champs thus picked up another game at the expense of the Brooklyn Dodgers who were stopped cold by old Bucky Walters who allowed them only three hits and shut them out 5 to 0. And the law of averages finally caught up to the Chicago Cubs who had defeated the Braves nine games in a row this season. The Boston club took both ends of a double-header Pittsburg Pirates got a setback too as they were twice beaten by the Phillies. Schoolboy Rowe shut them out 3 to 0 in the first game and they were outslugged in the second session. In the American League the Yanks looked like the Yanks of old as they collected fourteen hits to beat the Brownies 9 to 5. Detroit exploded a double depth charge in front of the Washington Senators to beat them twice and the Cleveland Indians triumphed over the A's 2 to 1 on swell pitching by Jim Bagby.

Paddock, Sprint Star Dies In Crash

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP).—The crash of a naval plane near Sitka, Alaska, has claimed the lives of Maj.-Gen. William P. Upshur, veteran hero of the United States Marines, and Capt. Charles Paddock, Olympic track star of the 1920's, who once was acclaiamed as the "worlds fastest human."

The Navy Department reported late yesterday that Upshur, Paddock and four other persons were killed when the plane crashed and burned Wednesday. There were no survivors. The Navy said "The cause of the accident has not yet been determined."

The names of the plane's four other occupants were not disclosed, pending notification of next of kin. The Navy said that the bodies of all passengers and members of the crew have been recovered.

Upshur, Commanding General of the Marines for the Department of the Pacific and a seasoned campaigner who won the Congressional Medal of Honor for service in Haiti in 1915, had been in charge of supplying personnel in Marine units in the Pacific theatre since early last year.

Paddock, 42, joined the Marine Corps as an officer July 10, 1942, and had been on Upshur's staff since that time, serving both as an aide and as departmental morale officer at the Pacific Department headquarters. He also was public relations officer for the department until lass March.

As a track star in the early 20's, he established 94 records, captured the 100-metre Olympic championship in 1920 and held various National championships for the 100 and 200-metre distances in the period between 1920 and 1929.

Paddock served as general manager of the Pasadena Star News and Post and business manager of the Long Beach Press Telegram and contrib uted to magazines. A lieutenant in the field artillery in 1918-1919, he is surivved by his widow and two children.

Saw Wide Service.

Upshur, a native of Richmond, Va., and a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, entered the Marine Corps in 1904 as a second lieutenant, and upon his death was the senior major-general in the corps, under only Lt.-Gen. Thomas A. Holcomb.

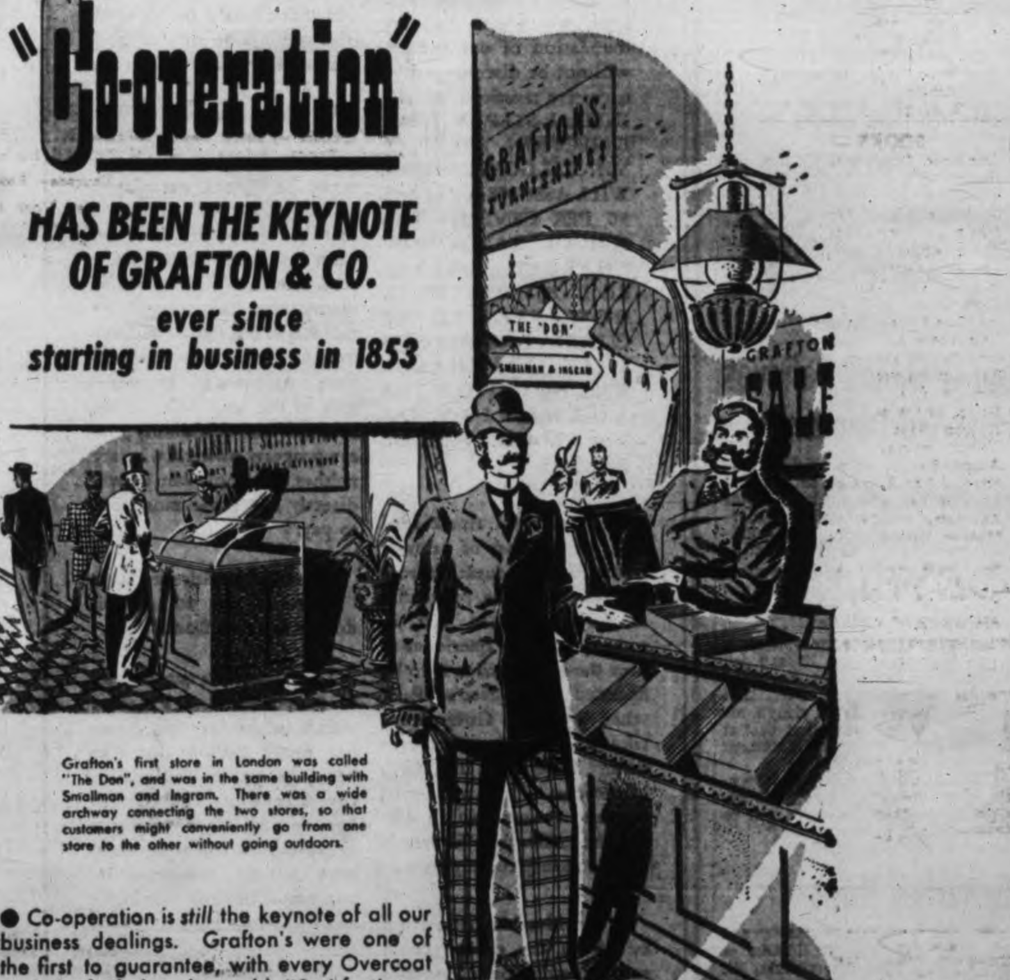
"Co-operation" HAS BEEN THE KEYNOTE OF GRAFTON & CO. ever since starting in business in 1853



Grafton's first store in London was called "The Don", and was in the same building with Smallman and Ingram. There was a wide archway connecting the two stores, so that customers might conveniently go from one store to the other without going outdoors.

Our present London Store, now located at 152-154 Dundas St.

● Co-operation is still the keynote of all our business dealings. Grafton's were one of the first to guarantee, with every Overcoat or Suit of Clothes they sold, "Satisfaction — or money cheerfully refunded". We endeavour to make every transaction a pleasant event. And because of the extra value, the honest Canadian workmanship, and the lasting quality of every garment bearing the "High Grade" label, every customer of each of Grafton's eight stores can count on receiving the co-operation that counts for most.

HURLER MORT COOPER NABS 13th VICTORY BEATING GIANTS 6 TO 2

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP) — Proving both that he is literate and that he knows a good idea when he sees one, Willie Gilzenberg, Tony Galento's manager, comes through with a letter just like the ones Jimmy Johnston writes . . . Willie takes this way of accepting a challenge from Jimmy's heavyweight, Freddie Fiducia, so there's ground for suspicion that Johnston helped write the letter . . . "Everyone challenges Galento, even wrestlers," moans Gilzenberg's typewriter . . "Yet few fight him, or agree to do so. They ought to leave the poor fellow alone. He's obese, he's squeaking, he can't lift his hands and he can't move." . . . Agreeing with all those statements, we're perfectly willing to leave Tony alone, but for one fact that Will points out: "T.G. does all right—to the extent of a grand note a week—as a master exhibitionist."

Off His Base:

During the Cubs' recent eastern swing Lou Novikoff swung at a bad pitch, somewhere around his right ear, and drove it to the outfield for a single . . . as he stopped at first, one of the umps told him: "Don't ever yell at me the next time I call that kind of a pitch a high strike on you or I'll chase you out of the game."

Sportpourri:

If he hasn't lost any during the Tam O'Shanter tourney, Byron Nelson has just 42 new golf balls to last him for the duration . . . When Frank Farrell ran the Highlanders—later to become the Yankees—he fired four players who recently managed World Champion baseball clubs, Jake Stahl, George Stallings Gabby Street and Bill McKechnie . . . Bill Gallow, the champion three-year-old trotter who retired last year because of sore feet (who wouldn't) is due to make his first comeback start in the trotting Derby at Old Orchard, Maine, next week.

Terry Young Wins Over Ben Jeffries

NEW YORK, July 23 — (AP). — Terry Young, 139, of New York, scored a two-round technical knockout over Benny Jeffries, 142, Brooklyn, in the windup of a boxing show at Fort Hamilton last night.

Jeffries was drafted from the audience as a last-minute substitute when Ruby Garcia, of Puerto Rico, failed to put in an appearance.

He was floored three times in the first round and twice in the second before the referee halted it in 25 seconds of the second round.

Canadian Pug Seeking British Title

By ALLAN NICKELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 23. — (CP).—Consider it a definite possibility at least one of Britain's professional boxing crowds could be taken home by a Canadian and don't be surprised if hammering Harry Hurst handles the job.

It all depends on Harry himself, of course, but if the 25-year-old Montreal mittman scores a few worthwhile victories, at least one promoter hopes to match him with with Britain's lightweight champion, Eric Boon, in a title bout.

Jimmy Best, who stages fight cards around Liverpool, believes Harry, one of Canada's leading lightweights, can show the form to warrant a title bout. And that despite the fact the Montrealer dropped a decision in his first bout in Britain.

Physical trainer instructor at this Canadian bomber group station, Cpl. Harry has found it a bit of a problem to keep in the best of fistic trim. There aren't any outstanding boxers around the station so Harry trains the hard way—without sparring partners. That he hopes to remedy.

Harry lost his first bout over here by a decision after 10 fast rounds with Jimmy Moore, crack Liverpool welterweight. The Canadian was fighting at 142 pounds, seven more than normal, and sports writers agreed he obviously was out of condition.

Newark Bears Blank Syracuse

(By The Associated Press)

A couple of healthy homers, mixed with effective pitching, gave Newark Bears and Montreal Royals victories in the International League last night.

Larry Rosenthal whacked a 450-foot round tripper for the Bears with two on in the first inning to spark Newark to a 4-0 shutout over Syracuse behind Joe Page's three-hit pitching.

Gil Brack, former major leaguer, walloped a four-baser for the Royals with one on in the first inning to get the Canadians away to a fast start against Buffalo and coast to an 8-3 triumph. Given a 7-0 lead by the fifth, Al Sherer had little trouble in beating the Bisons. He allowed only seven hits, two of them by Rookie Johnny Bero. Brack led the 12-hit Montreal attack with three safeties in four trips to the plate.

Page was in rare form for the Newark club. Only one Syracuse runner reached third.

A scheduled doubleheader between Baltimore and Jersey City was postponed. Toronto and Rochester had an open date.

Golf Tourney Sells War Bonds

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, July 23—(AP). — The super-duper golfing triple-header at Tam O'Shanter is on the way to setting fabulous records.

The spectacle is attracting the biggest assemblage of spectators in the history of the game, and also figures to result in the greatest war-stamp selling drive credited to any sport.

To date more than $400,000 in war bonds have been sold, with three more days to go. The goal is $1,000,000 in bonds and $100,000 in war stamps.

Admission to this amazing carnival is $1 or more in war stamps—which the purchaser retains. The total attendance may reach 75,000 to 100,000.

This circus-like event is golf on a stupendous scale. It is three tournaments in one, lasting a full week, where the best amateurs, professional and women players now available can be seen.

The extravaganza opens golf—once considered a very dignified sport for dignified people—to the masses. The course is swarming with shirt-sleeved thousands watching in fascination the 462 swingers from 37 states.

Less than 30 per cent. are true golf fans. The rest are pop-eyed common guys and gals looking for excitement and peek at Patty Berg, Betty Hicks, Byron Nelson, Wilford Whryle, Ralph Guldahl, Walter Hagen, and the other big shots of the links.

It's a combination of Coney Island, the Atlantic City boardwalk, and the world's fair, rolled into one. This is Tam O'Shanter.

Schoolboy Rowe Blanks Pirates 3 to 0

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Some plaintive chirping has been coming from St. Louis Cardinals recently because of their pitching staff, badly maimed by injuries and calls to the service.

But their National League rivals probably will be slow to show any sympathy for the world champions, who have just won four games in a row and increased their first place margin to 5½ games.

Cardinals came up with another victory over New York Giants last night 6-2 with big Mort Cooper acquiring his 13th victory against five defeats by pitching eight-hit ball and holdng the Giants scoreless after the first inning.

The cause of the Cardinals was helped at Cincinnati as Bucky Walters shut out Brooklyn Dodgers 5-0 on three hits to get his fifth victory. The Reds made 10 hits off three pitchers with Curt Davis bearing the burden of defeat.

Dodgers Safe

The Dodgers' grip on second place was left unshaken, however, because Philadelphia Phillies bounced off the floor to wallop third-place Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 and 9-6 in a doubleheader. Schoolboy Rowe pitched the opening shutout and his teammates followed through with a six-run rally in the ninth inning of the second game to win for Rookie Jack Kraus.

Boston Braves, who had not beat Chicago Cubs all season, also turned the tables with a double victory 8-6 and 3-2 nailing the first through a five-run rally in the fourth inning and the second on two errors.

In the American League New York Yankees out-walloped St. Louis Browns to win 9-5 with Charley (King Kong) Keller hitting his 12th homer with two on for the Yanks.

Detroit downed Washington Senators twice in a twilight-night doubleheader 7-5 and 1-0. Rudy York's 13th home run and second in two nights came with two on in the sixth inning to win the first game and Rookie Frank (Stubby) Overmire captured a pitching battle from Early Wynn in the second feature, although giving up six hits to Wynn's four.

Similarly, Cleveland was outhit 7-5 but managed to beat Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 by scoring twice in the fifth.

Chicago at Boston was postponed.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 23—(CP)—Brian Timmis appointed to coach Hamilton Wildcats in Ontario Rugby Football Union . . . Just a headline in a newspaper, worth 50 words or so to news agencies if they carried it at all. But worth much more to many football men. Dave Sprague for instance.

Some of the details are vague but Dave remembers the essentials well. One particular afternoon in 1930 stands out. Hamilton Tigers, their proud line punctured by injuries, face Toronto Balmy Beach in the Eastern Canada finals. Weakened by a western Canada tour which required them to play seven games in 14 days (all victories), Tigers have only 13 men in uniform. Brian Timmis has braces on both knees. Every time he falls down his teammates drag him to his feet.

"Man, that was some game," Sprague recalls.

Sprague and Timmis were offensive mainsprings and defensive anchors of that club, one of the greatest in an era of two-bucks-and-a-kick football. An era which produced, among many others, Hawley (Huck) Welch, Cap Fear, Glen Small, Ray Boadway, Ted Reeve.

So now Timmis is to coach Wildcats. Sprague is located in Ottawa, an even-money bet to coach Combines in the six-team O.R.F.U. If the games are dull this season, Dave and Brian should have plenty to talk about.

Incidentally:

George (Edmonton Journal) Mackintosh says it is doubtful if "a more efficient fastball statistician could be found the length and breadth of the country" than Mrs. Margaret McCallion, official scorer for the Edmonton fastball league through 315 games. Mrs. McCallion also kept batting, fielding and pitching records . . . A different angle is revealed in Bobbie (Toronto Globe and Mail) Rosenfeld's tale about the United States Sports editor who assigned his wife to cover a Southern Association Baseball game . . . The missus' lead paragraph: "I covered the contest for my husband last night because he convinced me he was 'snowed under' . . . I have seen him under a few times, but it was never snow." Babe Didrikson and Patty Berg were slated to take part in war charity golf matches at Vancouver Aug. 8, but there may be a hitch. The U.S. Amateur Golf Association so far has refused Babe a permit to play . . . Jerry Brown, former National Hockey League star with Detroit Red Wings, is spending a short leave at his Edmonton home. He's a 2nd lieutenant, stationed at Cornwall, Ont.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Schoolboy Rowe, young Detroit Tiger hurler, was shelved for the season six years ago today because of an ailing arm. His arm failed to respond to treatment and early the next year Rowe was optioned to Beaumont of the Texas league. Rowe pitched 16 straight victories for the Tigers in 1934. He now is back with the Philadelphia Phils in the National league.

Drew On Radio Says Nixon Offers No Plan

TORONTO, July 23.—Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew told a radio audience last night that Prime Minister Harry Nixon's radio address the previous night had revealed that the Premier intended "just to keep on doing what he has been doing in the past." And, Mr. Drew warred, "Mr. Nixon's speech left no doubt in any one's mind that those who vote for a Liberal candidate in this election vote for a continuance of the same ineffective sort of government we have been getting."

Mr. Nixon, he said, offered nothing for the future, and, "significantly enough, has nothing to say about the present or future welfare of the men and women in our armed forces."

School Tax Charges.

The Premier had also made it clear that he would not reduce school taxes charged against real estate.

"He says that the removal of 50 per cent. of the tax (as pledged by the Progressive Conservative Party) will only mean a saving of $17.10 to the man with a home assessed at $3,000. That may seem unimportant to Mr. Nixon, but I am sure that most people wil agree that it is a step in the right direction." The figure would vary in different municipalities, and would be higher in some, Mr. Drew pointed out.

Mr. Drew quoted Mr. Nixon as saying in his radio address that the saving on the Globe and Mail Building would be $4,710.35. "He conveyed the impression that this was the real motive behind my proposal," said Mr. Drew.

The Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader went on to say that "as might be expected" even Mr. Nixon's figures were wrong on the effect of the 50 per cent. school tax cut. Instead of the taxes on the Globe and Mail Building being reduced by $4,710.35, they would be reduced by more—$5,342.03.

As well as benefiting the Globe and Mail, Mr. Drew said, perhaps Mr. Nixon should also have mentioned that the proposed school tax reduction would benefit the Toronto Daily Star still more. "The Star saving would be $9,429.48. Why does Mr. Nixon not suggest 'I am doing this for the benefit of the Star'?"

Acted Before Election.

After three years, during which the Progressive Conservative Opposition had introduced resolution after resolution calling for a long-term program, the Government had finally this year introduced an act to set up a rehabilitation and social security committee to hear evidence and recommend plans for the rehabilitation of the members of the armed forces and munition workers and to establish a basis of social security. For months nothing had been done. Then the committee finally was called for a preliminary meeting — "two days before Mr. Nixon dissolved the House and announced the election." If Mr. Nixon were returned to office, Mr. Drew said, there would be no action or planning.

Immediate and sweeping reforms in the educational system were imperative, Mr. Drew said, so that children might be trained to make a living, "and that all the children, wherever they may live or whatever the circumstances of their parents may be, will have equal opportunity to be educated up to the limit of their ability."

leave to continue its work during the adjournment.

A debate developed yesterday on War Service Minister LaFleche's items in the war appropriation bill on censorship with Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative leader, questioning the necessity of all the censorship measures being applied.

Gen. LaFleche assured Mr. Graydon censorship was concerned only with war matters. He said criticism of the judiciary such as was reportedly made recently by Miss Agnes Macphail, former member of parliament, was not a matter for censorship.

Too Many Liberals

Justice Minister St. Laurent had spoken "without reflection" when, queried in the House last month about Miss Macphail's statement, he said he would bring it to the attention of the censors.

Mr. Graydon said the press had "taken issue" with the authorities as to the necessity of some censorship regulations.

He read a letter published in the Toronto Globe and Mail on June 22, 1942, signed by Dr. W. J. Edmondston Scott, a postal censor in the languages of central and western Europe from 1939 to 1942.

This letter referred to "inquisitorial censorship" and praised a Globe and Mail editorial of this subject published June 16.

The letter had been "widely speculated upon in every part of Canada,". said Mr. Graydon and he thought the minister should tell the House just why certain drastic restrictions were necessary.

A "whole sale resignation" of the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was necessary to clear the board of suspicions of partisanship, Mr. Graydon suggested. He said Rene Morin of Montreal, chairman of the board, was a former Liberal member of parliament and E. H. Charleson of Ottawa, a member, had recently presided at a Liberal meeting.

MORE ABOUT—

invasion was reported in progress, with the 8th Army continuing to make steady gains south of the key city. North of the city, it was reported, the enemy was digging in for a last-ditch stand.

The battered German divisions there have been reinforced by fresh Nazi units, including a parachute battalion now fighting as infantry. Behind the eastern port, the enemy has established an anchor on the slopes of Etna for a final front running northwest to the vicinity of Stefano Di Camastra.

(A Berlin broadcast gave support to the belief that great enemy forces were previously rushed eastward to the last-stand positions north of Catania.

("Axis troops operating on the west wing," the German News Agency DNB said, "have disengaged themselves north and northeast of Enna, thus frustrating a large scale outflanking movement by the Americans."

More Prisoners.

(Berlin first trotted out the term "disengaged" last winter during the German retreats on the Russian and North African fronts.)

Axis multitudes were surrendering. The total of prisoners was more than 40,000 yesterday and increasing rapidly.

The Americans in the west moved with astonishing speed, some 60 miles in the three days ending Wednesday. Their commanding general, Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, called it better than the Nazis had ever done.

Reports from the battlefront indicated Canadian troops were rapidly gaining war lore, and carving for themselves a spot in the famed 8th Army.

William Stewart ,Canadian Press War Correspondent, reported yesterday that Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, second in command of the Sicily invasion, praised the efforts of Dominion troops in an interview.

He said the Canadians had gone "far and fast" in the battle of Sicily, adding "The Canadians are good and they will be jolly good... They have had very good basic training and they have learned from the experience of others."

Few Casualties

Another example of how the Dominion soldiers were fitting into the general invasion scheme came when L. S. B. Shapiro, Montreal Gazette war correspondent with the 8th Army at Catania, reported that Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery had personally selected Canadian tank units for the venture.

Shapiro wrote, "while organizing the Sicilian campaign, the General recalled the efficiency of this Canadian formation at the time when he was commanding the defence of Southeastern England two years ago, and he asked specifically for them."

In recondition of this, the correspondent said, the tank troops now call themselves, "Montgomery's Own."

Apparently Canadian casualties, as yet, have not been exceedingly heavy, despite their tough scraps with German panzer units. Maj. Bert Wemp, Toronto Telegram war correspondent in North Africa reported that the first batch of Canadian casualties from Sicily were the "most cheerful I have ever seen."

He said the majority of the casualties being brought back to base hospitals were "walking cases."

Triton Sinks 12 Ships Before Reported Lost

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)— The Navy Department announced today the United States submarine Triton "must be presumed to be lost" on a war patrol.

The Triton, which had destroyed more than 12 enemy warships and merchantmen, was commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. George Kenneth Mackenzie, Brooklyn, N.Y.

The vessel carried a normal complement of about 60 men.

It was the 10th United States undersea boat to be lost in this war.

QUEBEC, July 23.—(CP).— Premier Godbout last night released the text of identical telegrams he had sent Provincial governments protesting the Federal government's move in supporting an amendment to the British North America Act which would defer redistribution of House of Commons seats until peacetime. (The bill was passed yesterday by the British House of Commons.)

Johnston Says CCF To Aid Farmers, Labor

"The C.C.F. is the farmers' and workers' party, it belongs to you, it is your instrument for rectifying the wrongs you have suffered in the past and for going full steam ahead for prosperity and progress in the future," it was said Thursday in a radio address by Bruce Johnston, C.C.F. candidate in Peterborough.

Describing the C.C.F. farm program Mr. Johnston said: "For years our farmers have not been able to command prices for their products sufficiently high enough to permit them to enjoy a standard of living on a level with other elements in our communities. A provincial C.C.F. government, recognizing the fundamental importance of parity prices for farm products and the importance of planned agricultural production both on a national and an international scale, will urge the Federal Government to act along these lines, and will give assistance to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and other farm organizations in presenting the problems of farmers to the Federal Government."

The C.C.F. farm program, the candidate said in his address, was drawn up by a committee of working farmers with the assistance of some farm experts under the chairmanship of Miss Agnes McPhail, and was submitted to the provincial convention last April and adopted after amendment and debate. "The program advocates measures which these C.C.F. farmers, and the convention acting on their advice, think will be beneficial to the Ontario farming community," the speaker declared.

Health Important

"Rural communities are vitally interested in public health. From my own observations I have concluded that our public health laws and general health condtions are in a deplorable state. The health of our young men who were examined for the Army is sufficient evidence of what is really taking place. To help remedy this situation as far as rural communities are concerned, and in the interest of promoting a positive and preventive health program, a C.C.F. government will pass enabling legislation to permit rural municipalities to set up municipal doctor systems, and such legislation will make provision for the etsablishment of health districts with government assistance in order that municpialities may extend their health services to include hospitalization, nursing and specialist services," Mr. Johnston said.

"We must build up the forests which have been ruthlessly and carelessly cut away by lumber companies in the sole pursuit of the almighty dollar," the candidate declared in referring to the reforestration and conservation project the C.C.F. is pledged to establish.

Further, "in order to end monopoly exploitation and for the protection of both the farmer and the consumer, a C.C.F. government will bring processing plants under public or co-operative ownership and will give encouragement to both producers' and consumers' co-operatives and credit unions. This assistance will take the form of substantial financial support to an educational organization set up by approved co-operative businesses for the purpose of carrying on educational work in co-operation, and financial aid to approved co-operative businesses in the form of loans at a rate not to exceed 2%," the speaker said.

Loans Made

Similar loans would be made to assist young farmers when they were starting up, and the C.C.F. would make Hydro Electric power available to all rural areas in Ontario at reasonable rates. "Hydro was established as a service to our people. It must fulfill that purpose," Mr. Johnston said.

He noted that in the past farmers have had great difficulty in obtaining modern labor-saving machinery because its cost was way out of proportion to their individual earning power. To meet this situation a C.C.F. government, through co-operation with the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and county and township councils, would encourage development of the community use of farm machinery, either on a co-operative or a township basis, providing financial aid if necessary.

Must Win First

"It is our first duty to win the war," Mr. Johnston said, "but it is also our duty to plan for the peace, right now. The C.C.F. is the common ground where the farmers and working people meet to fight the monopoly stranglehold 'big business' has upon our country. When our boys come home they will expect, as they were promised and as they are entitled, to find a country where the farmers and working people meet to fight the monopoly stranglehold 'big business' has upon our country. When our boys come home they will expect, as they were promised and as they are entitled, to find a country where they can support themselves and their families under decent conditions of employment, prices and wages.

"We must plan now to maintain and to develop markets for our farm produce and to establish price structures. We must plan now for the security and well-being of the farmers and working people who are the rock foundation of our nation."

Jolliffe Flays Col. George Drew

TORONTO, July 23—The present election is being conducted with such "negligence and incompetency that tens of thousands are being left off the voters' lists," E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, charged last night. Speaking at a meeting in support of the candidacy of Andrew Brewin in St. George Riding, Mr. Joliffe declared: "While the boys are fighting for democracy overseas some of the fundamental principles are being betrayed."

In Sudbury, he said, "where a large C.C.F. vote is expected, it appears to have been done deliberately. Nixon and his colleagues can't even manage an election so how can he expect to carry on the affairs of the Province? There is the whole fiasco of proxies which are going to be a complete failure; the enumerators who failed to enumerate. The next party to govern Ontario in these trying times should be the choice of all the people, not just half of them who managed by a strange coincidence to get on the voters' lists."

Turning his fire on George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, Mr. Joliffe declared he had sat completely silent in the Legislature while several ridings had been unrepresented because no by-elections were held. "Drew's judgment has been completely wrong on all questions of democracy," he said.

Referring to postwar rehabilitation, he declared: "If a man can't get a job, freedom is just a word; democracy just a mockery." The first item on the C.C.F. agenda for when the war ended was full employment for all, he said. ("Let's face up to our responsibilities."

Mr. Brewin also attacked Mr. Drew for failing to have insisted that by-elections be held. "He sat silent while British institutions were sabotaged in this Province," he declared. "Another fundamental British institution, the right of free speech in free assembly," had been overlooked by the Progressive Conservative Leader, he said.

Seeking Jobs

OTTAWA, July 23.—(CP).— War Services Minister Lafleche yesterday told the House of Commons consideration was being given to the possibility of finding some other service for the 412 men making up Canada's civilian fire-fighting corps overseas, now that bombing attacks on Britain have greatly lessened.

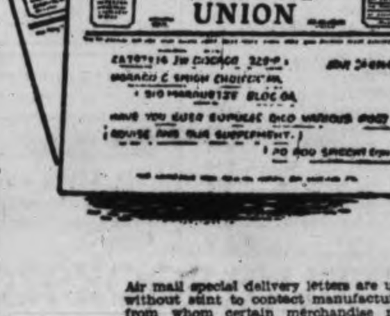
to serve you!

Operating a retail furniture store these days is pretty much of a "headache" but if it's our part of the general war effort we accept it gladly and will do the best we can about it. You know, of course, that we are making every possible effort to secure and offer for sale the things our customers need for their homes.

We do not hesitate to use the long distance phone or the telegraph service to importune manufacturers for merchandise with which to replenish our stocks or to follow up on shipments of merchandise which have been promised us, in fact, we are sparing no expense in order to continue the service to which our customers have been accustomed.



Air mail special delivery letters are used without stint to contact manufacturers from whom certain merchandise may be procurable and in many cases these are written to personal friends connected with leading manufacturers who might be in a position to help us by seeing that shipments of merchandise we order are speeded on their way to us.

We have even been directly to the furniture manufacturing centres to plead for shipments of enough merchandise to take care of the requirements of our regular trade. This involes time and travel expense but we have not hesitated to do it.

During the last two months we have made many trips searching for merchandise we know our customers would welcome . . . and with some success too! Our long and continued patronage of many of the leading manufacturers has stood us in good stead with the result that much of the merchandise procured is either on our floor now or will be arriving any day to bring our stocks more nearly in line with what you have been accustomed to find on our floors so, no matter what you need in home furnishings, we're still pretty sure to have it . . . and we're still offering our customary good service and money back guarantee as always.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

AIRMEN GET WINGS.

J. E. Thompson of Peterborough, graduated to-day from the R.C.A.F. as a pilot and received his wings from Group Capt. J. C. Huggard, commanding officer of No. 8 Training school at Moncton, N.B. Graduating from Hagersville was C. E. Koebel of St. Clemens, who is a first cousin of Mrs. Peter McGillen, Carlisle avenue, and L. L. Williams of Lindsay.

THREE ADJOURNMENTS.

This was a morning of adjournments in police court. Alex Knott, charged with having been drunk on George Street, asked for a week's delay in the proceedings and Magistrate R. B. Baxter granted the request. Norman Austin, also charged with intoxication, was given a week's adjournment and when George Smith, similarly charged, also wanted some time he was accommodated by the court.

2 Bancroft Men One Marmora Are Casualties

Two men from Bancroft, Ptes. Ernest Young and M. Tinney, and Pte. Robert J. Wright of Marmora, have been reported wounded in action in Sicily and are now receiving treatment in hospitals in North Africa.

Pte. Robert Wright of Marmora is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wright and he is with his two pals Pte. Young and Pte. Tinney in the same hospital. None of the three are seriously injured. Pte. Wright is believed to be the youngest Canadian soldier overseas, who was allowed to remain there. He went over at the age of 16 and is now 20.

In describing the fight in Sicily, Pte. Wright said that he was on the island for five days and his last fight was when the Canadians met the Herman Goering panzer division north of Ragusa. The Tiger tanks charged them and shelled the troops with their big guns, but the men put several of them out of action, he declared.

"When that happened, they ran away. We really thought we were in for stiff opposition, but the big surprise came when the Germans turned tail and ran. We kept right on advancing."

Pte. Young said that their unit and the one to the right with Toronto and Montreal men took both beach areas assigned to them and there were only two casualties until they were well inland.

The third member of the trio, Pte. Tinney said that civilians carried water to the troops in jugs and bottles, but the men made them drink first, just in case. When they were coming out of Sicily they saw "V" signs everywhere, and in his opinion the Italians would drop out of the war if they could because they hate the Germans.

Aphid Plague Cuts Pea Crop

That peak of hot weather plus billions of aphids have cut the pack of peas at Canada Packers to about 75 per cent of the expected production.

The aphid is commonly called a plant-louse, a tiny green insect that sucks the sap from green stalks. They are of the genus of the aphis, with a special appetite for green peas. If you grow roses you are bound to meet them and to marvel at their reproductive capacity. They seem to spring into being before your eyes, and if you can imagine from observation of the tender leaves of a rose bush their infinite number in a pea field, then you have some idea of what happened to the pea pack in this district.

The first canning activity at Packers will likely be wound up by the middle of next week. In the pinch of labor shortage C.P.C. gratefully received substantial help from some of the trainees and staff men at the Exhibition Park. G. A. Gillespie had expected more of the men to offer themselves for temporary work on the farms, but it transpired that some of them had taken on emergency jobs at C.P.C. and also the Quaker Oats.

No objection was raised to that diversion, because both plants were shorthanded and needed help. It was entirely up to the men themselves what they did with their spare time, and going into any kind of food production was action on the credit side, and the report from Canada Packers was that the management was glad these soldiers happened along in a time of need.

Car Driver Discovers Speeding Doesn't Pay

Frank Whatman apparently picked a bad time to step on the gas while driving on the Lakefield Road, for Provincial Constable Price Morris happened to be in the vicinity at the time, and as a result a charge of speeding ensued.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter imposed a fine of $15 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning on a written plea of guilty.

J. G. Stewart also entered a written guilty plea this morning to a charge of careless driving as the aftermath of an accident in which his car was ditched recently on Highway 28 and he was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Oldest Grocery Repeats Aid To War Victims

One of the finer things that may be said of any business concern is that it has been established for a many years, for this implies a satisfactory service to the community that has merited the support necessary to enable it to carry on for such a long period, without which it would have long ceased to exist.

The W. H Hamilton Grocery Store on Simcoe Street, is very much linked up with the earliest business of the district by-gone days in this city, its roots going back to the year 1832 only a very few years after the earliest settlers began to carve out a home for themselves from the primitive forests to become what to-day is one of the finest cities in Central Ontario.

In over one hundred years of service to the community, this, the oldest establihed business concern in its own line, has had very few owners, the W. H. Hamilton family taking it over in 1832, and Mr. Drummond the present owner some three years ago, planning that his nephews would carry on this establishment in the old tradtion for reliability and service to the community.

Boys Overseas.

Unfortunately the exigencies of war has called both the young men to the service of their country, one of whom, P. O. J. Drummond White has already paid the supreme sacrifice in the service of his country, and the other Lieut Drummond White is on active service in England at this moment, so they may be said to be taking a full share in the great struggle now being waged for the liberty of mankind.

Reaching out beyond the immediate sphere of the city and district to render a further service to mankind, this same business gave a contribution to help the war torn sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund some time ago, and now they are back once more with additional aid for the same purpose amounting to $25 which emphasises their outlook as one which rises far beyond their own narrow circle in the realm of doing good for others.

Associated with them in to-day's list of receipts for the fund is June Gunn, a young lady of eleven summers who held a sale of novelties and trinkets at her home 70 Lansdowne Avenue Monday afternoon from which she raised the sum of $2.00 credited to her to-day.

The young folk now free from school duites can take an example from this act, and in so doing would not only render a service to the Empire, but also find that they profited much themselves in useful experience which will stand them in good stead later on.

Selective Service Affects Teachers

"The general intention of Selective Service Regulations, as applying to teachers," according to W. H. L. Mellis, manager of the local Employment and Selective Service Office, "is to retain teachers at their profession during the school year, and to make the best possible use of their services during vacation."

Mr. Mellis said that there might be some misunderstanding among teachers as to their status under Selective Service Civilian Regulations. He explained their status in this way:

By Order in Council of June 17, 1943, teachers were brought under Selective Service: previously they had been exempt in so far as employment at their profession is concerned. Now a teacher must continue at the teaching profession during the school year, and can only leave to take other full-time employment, except in the agricultural industry, under permit from Selective Service. It is not the intention to authorize teachers to leave the profession, where their services as teachers are needed. Teachers may still join the armed forces without permit, or they may engage at part-time employment during the school year, so long as it does not interfere with their teaching hours. During vacations teachers are encouraged to take other high priority work, but generally speaking and apart from employment in agriculture, teachers must secure Selective Service permits before entering employment. Teachers will not require permits to engage at work in their own profession.

The new regulation defines a teacher as any person who teaches or instructs in a school, college or university not carried on for gain.

M.O.H. Is Getting Great Training Mayor Informed

Mayor Hamilton received this week a letter from Captain A. L. Elliott, with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, Canadian Army Overseas, dated July 5. Some of the topics are of general nature and will probably be of interest to many of Captain Elliott's friends.

"It was very kind of you to take the trouble to cable me. When it arrived I was away from the Regiment for a few days as an umpire on a Divisional scheme, constantly on the move, sleeping wherever we happened to be.

Sunday is generally quiet here with a church parade and odd duties. A week ago Sunday a group of us were together when your name was mentioned, and it was remarked that if you could walk in on us you would think this was almost entirely a Peterborough Regiment.

Among those who were here were Herb Mason, Don Scott, Ralph Honey, Jack Peterson (who is on the D.R. at 5 CCC) Reg Dixon (Canadian Department Stores, Peterborough), Russ Widdess (Omemee), Fred Lander (Harwood), Neil Gemmell, Ernie Whelpton, Bank of Montreal and myself with two or three others.

"Last Sunday there was a Highland Brigade parade at which the S.D.G. supplied one Regiment. The Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa sent a support group. We had a large pipe band, comprising the pipe bands of the three regiments. The S.D. & G. won the company drill competition. Many including Lt. Col. T. Hicks Lyne attended to see the affair from some distance. Lieutenants Jack Cooper and Harry Marsh were there with the Camerons. Today, Ralph (Honey) and I were both in the Camerons' area and met Jack and Harry. They are doing fine, and look the very best.

Met Dr. Fraser

I noticed in the Examiner that a new Medical Officer has been appointed at home during the absence of Dr. G. Murray Fraser. Jack Harstone and I met Murray about three weeks ago. He is looking and feeling very well. Murray has had a lot of splendid experience in the practice of hygiene methods and processes in all phases which might affect large concentrations of troops. This should prove a very valuable experience. I think a letter from you would be greatly appreciated by him.

This training in the field over here is the best life you could find, with all the training outside, and sleeping in tents or in the open. It makes you realize that a hotel bed is worth the money when you go on leave.

I have heard something from clippings and letters about your problems concerning Wartime Housing, fuel shortage, garbage contract and other items, from time to time. You must be a good liaison agent as the Aldermen appear to approach their problems very agreeably in the best Peterborough spirit. With war loans and the activities of auxiliary war organizations involving calls on your time, I can well understand that you must be busy. I was glad to hear Jim Turnbull is at the Peterborough Training Centre. I have had many enquiries about him from all ranks. He did all he could over here to give the Regiment as much Peterborough background as possible. With a name like the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders people find it hard to associate Peterborough with it.

Voices Thanks

I have not yet met John Thompson. I was twice in London and went to an office where Colin Campbell calls occasionally. I met Bert Wemp of the Toronto Telegram who told me this. I may meet him yet.

Apparently an election is brewing. It seems an imposition on all those who will have to do much work and assume an irksome responsibility because I am away. I hope it will not be involving too much on their part. I shall be very grateful to all those who help. There is one compensating factor. Our new Premier, Harry (Nixon) is a grand fellow. He understands the situation in Peterborough well. I feel that if at any time there is something we feel entitled to as a community he will lend a strong hand to help us. Well, the pages of this letter are accumulating. Please accept my thanks again for your cable, and best regards. Alex."

C.G.E. Recruits Aces As Farm Helpers

G. A. Gillespie has recruited a small auxiliary harvesting corps of about twenty employees from the Canadian General Electric Company whom he recommends to farmers for temporary work with a confidence based on actual performance.

"I called on H. A. Cranfield at the C.G.E. and he gave me the names of men who had a background of farm experience," Gillespie said today. "Then we asked them whether they were willing to take on this emergency job of helping farmers in the evenings and on Saturday afternoons. Last Monday evening we had nineteen of them lined up for action, but because of week-end conditions we could use only seven.

Before that and since then they have been doing a fine job. One difficulty that arose to some extent was persuading farmers to take these men. Farmers are dubious and they hesitate about it, but those who took these men agree with me that they are efficient and willing and the right kind of helpers to have.

Action Convinces

Warden Mather himself was one of the doubters, but one evening's work proved to him that these men know their work. Some of them worked last Saturday afternoon right up till dark. We arranged to have them paid 45 cents an hour, and a few of them even said they would be willing to work for nothing just to help with the farm problem."

At one farm two wagons were used in an evening's haying and they took in twelve loads. Six loads for one evening is about an average."

Mr. Gillespie said these "shock troops" of his are willing to carry on to the end of the harvest.

"We are getting more calls every day as farmers are convinced that these men can do the job. Some of them are going out this evening to two farms that have called us for the first time."

Happy Ending

Harry Young of North Monaghan was in the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, while Mr. Gillespie was telling his experience, and telling it with a great deal of satisfaction.

Mr. Young admitted that he had been one of the doubters, but he was persuaded into taking a chance, and is quite happy about it.

The two men that were assigned to him have been helping through the haying and they are going to stay with him through August.

"Reg Perks of the personnel staff at C.G.E. has been helping us to get in touch with our 'commandos' every day, and by six o'clock they know where they are going. Farmers are advised that they can keep on with the chores and leave the haying to our men; and that is the way it has turned out."

Gets Things Done

F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, who has been associated with Mr. Gillespie in this enlisting of helpers and transporting them to the farms.

The Examiner asked him how the list of helpers was obtained.

"Well, you know 'G.A.' he's the kind that just refuses to be licked," Mr. Paterson said. "He is patient and persistent and good humored about things, and he got some real help down at the C.G.E., and the men he has lined up are all experienced. They have been moving in a lot of hay. Our eleven men from the west are all steadily on the job, and they have been a real help."

Appoint Local Man Stratford Organist

Irwin James Luther, A.D.C.M., formerly of Peterborough, has been appointed organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Stratford. Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin Luther, he has been organist and director of music at St. David's Anglican Church, London since the first of the year.

In Peterborough Mr. Luther studied under Frederick G. Mann, L. Mus., organist and choirmaster of St. John's Anglican Church, whose boys' choir earned permanent possession of a shield by three years' continued winning at Stratford Musical Festival.

A veteran of this war, Mr. Luther served for 11 months with the Royal Canadian Engineers, third division in Canada until discharged as medically unfit. He is unmarried.

The organist holds the degree of Associate of the Dominion College of Music (Ottawa) for both piano and organ, and has his Associateship of Music in history, counterpoint and harmony from the same college.

His senior piano and theory standing was secured at McGill Conservatory, and harmony at Royal School of Music, London, England. In 1939 he attended the Department of Education Summer School in Toronto, for teachers of singing.

Sea Cadets Plan 2 Weeks Camp

Peterborough's Sea Cadets are taking off Saturday at 8 a.m. from the C.N.R. for Midland to spend the next two weeks at Minnicog Camp on Georgian Bay.

The local corps will consist of 134 cadets and six officers who will spend most of their vacation time in advanced training under the direction of members of the permanent naval force from H.M.S. York, Toronto.

The local youngsters are going to get their feet on a moving deck up at Georgian Bay, and apply their training in their quarters in the old Bradburn Opera House to the vessel that will serve as reality for them. Some of them are going to be away from home beds for the first time, but they are all perhaps beyond the age of feeling unduly lonesome.

They will be continually under the discipline of the navy, except during periods of recreation. Their two weeks should be a fine experience for them.

No Norway Attack

LONDON, July 23— (CP)— The Moscow radio officially denied today a Berlin claim that Russian troops had made a landing on the Norwegian coast July 19.

The radio, recorded by the Soviet Monitor, described the German report as "an invention from beginning to end" and said it "once again confirms the correctness of the old Russian proverb, "fear has large eyes."

Three Groups Adopt Hospital Plan

Three local groups of employees have adopted the "Plan For Hospital Care." They are Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, S. S. Kresge and Richard Hall and Son. Employees of other Peterborough firms are expected to take similar advantage of the terms and benefits of this plan for hospitalization. Details of costs and arrangements have been explained to some of them as the canvass of Peterborough continues.

Mayor Hamilton has issued a letter recommending the "Plan for Hospital Care."

From information I have to hand and personal conversation with those familiar with its detail, I am satisfied it is a splendid thing for the average citizen and his family as a low cost protection and safeguard for the proper care of their health.

By this program, which has become province-wide, a man, his wife and family can enroll for as little as $1 monthly in groups of employees numbering five or more. This monthly fee provides for free hospitalization for himself, his wife and his children, up to 21 days each, per year, should they require such attention.

With a humble beginning two years ago, the plan today has approximately 200,000 members in Ontario alone. It has the entire approval of the Ontario Hospital Association, and it is strictly non-profitable, and I am happy to commend it to all our citizens for their careful consideration and approval."

The Comic Strip Premier

When the Liberal propaganda brigade put Premier Nixon in a comic strip the other day it was adding a humorous emphasis to the general feeling that the Nixon administration is on the way out.

If there is one clear trend in this election campaign it is that the Ontario government is heading toward political disaster as August 4 draws nearer.

You can't fool the people all the time. They know that with all his faults and all his mistakes Mitch Hepburn was the dynamo that kept the Liberal administration running. They know, too, that it was he, and he alone that made a second-rate cabinet look like the real thing. And they resent the effrontery of Premier Nixon, after having helped in the ousting of the man who led the Liberal party out of the wilderness, in coming to the country and asking to be returned to power on the strength of the Hepburn record. It just doesn't make sense and the voters know it.

That is why they are turning to the Progresive Conservative party and the new deal promised in the clean-cut 22-point program of George Drew. That is why in Peterborough they are rallying to the support of

For Saturday, July 24.

WHILE THE energies and faculties are under high stimuli for quick and decisive aciton yet there may be factors of an adverse nature to cope with, adjust or remedy. Largely it is individual characteristics that offer the major frustrations and annoyance. A tendency to unreliable, tricky, expedient or "smart" tactics also may work for defeat. However, there is probability of a sudden surprising and strange intervention, helping to nullify bad situations. This might be a touch of adventure or romance, perhaps a "hunch."

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year the happiness and good fortune of which depend upon individual sound principles and judgment together wtih integrity, prudence and regard for the rights and interests of others. This in business as well as in intimate personal relaions. There are indications of overbearing egotism, excesses and indulgences which may incite others to antagonism and similar reprisals. There may be temptations to resort to subterfuge, especially wtih legal or public authorities or superiors. However there may be a sudden, strange and unexpected turn of events, shifting affairs to better conditions. Keep in the narrow path.

A child born on this day while clever and versatile, with skill and ingenuity, may need rigorous control or discipline of self-willed overbearing and over indulgent conduct nullifying its best success and happiness.

WOMEN KEPT GUESSING BECAUSE MEN LOVE IN SO MANY WAYS

Willingness to Sacrifice For Mate Real Test of Genuine Affection in Union

A distraught and puzzled woman asks: "How can a wife tell whether her husband loves her or not?"

Well, sister, it is a hard thing to do, even when a wife is dealing with the common or garden variety of husbands, and when she gets one of the rarer and more complicated species, she needs to be the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter and to have been born with a caul, and to have been endowed with the gift of prophecy to enable her to get a line on the state of his affections. And even then she is likely as not to be wrong, whichever way she sizes up his emotions.

You see, men love their wives in so many different ways that it is no wonder that it keeps the poor women guessing. There is the physical love that a man gives to a woman whom Nature designed for his mate, and that really makes her the one woman in the world for him. But if, as is very often the case, she happens not to be his intellectual equal, it doesn't keep her from boring him to death. It doesn't make him try to be companionable to her, nor do anything for her happiness beyond providing her with a home, giving her food, clothes and spending money. It doesn't keep him from being sarcastic to her and irritable and hard to get along with.

Some Love Stems From Selfishness

Then there is the selfish love a man gives his wife. He has a very real feeling for her because she ministers to his comfort, and he is horribly upset when she dies because she had disarranged all of his soft way of living. There is nobody to look after the children and keep the home a going concern, with everything done on schedule time and no friction or waste. Every time he goes to put on a clean shirt and finds that nobody has sent out the laundry; every time he sits down to an ill-cooked dinner he could shed bitter tears over the loss of his Maria.

Such a man is fond of his wife in the same way he is fond of his automoble or his handsome home. She is one of the pleasant facts of his existence, but he doesn't feel it necessary ever to mention it to her, or to make any gesture that would indicate his appreciation of her efforts in his behalf. Still less does he feel called upon to exert himself to entertain and amuse her. He thinks that being married to him is enough of a picnic for any woman.

Then there is the husband whose love is so self-centred that he never thinks of his wife as having any separate life whatever or any desires apart from him. He ruthlessly sacrifices his wife because he is so full of self-love that he can't imagine her having any tastes, or desires, or inclinations different from his. I knew a man of this type who gave practically everything he made to his family. His wife and children skimped on the necessities so that he might lavish luxuries on his brothers and sisters.

Self-Centered Variety Knows No Limits

Finally, when he had taken the money that his wife had saved, penny by penny to buy some furniture she coveted, in order to give his brother a new car, she remonstrated with him and accused him of not loving her. "Why," he cried in surprise, "it is because I love you so much, because I think of you as part of myself that I never dreamed you wouldn't want to do the thing I want to do, and that you wouldn't be glad to sacrifice yourself for my family."

And there are the men who love their wives egotistically, who set them upon a pedestal and consid-

Offer Reward To Capture Guerilla Leader

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)T—he Berlin radio announced today that the German military commander in Yugoslavia had offered a reward of 100,000 marks for information leading to the capture—dead or alive—of Josip Broz, Montenegrin guerilla leader popularly known as "Tito."

The broadcast, which was recorded by The Associated Press, acknowledged that Tito's whereabouts are unknown, but said that "Axis military authorities suspect he is now trying to organize partisan resistance in Slovenia."

As a result of mopping operations last spring, the broadcast declared, Tito was forced to abandon guerrilla activities in northwest Boynia and fled to Montenegro with the remnants of his forces.

Axis troops were said to have pursued and annihilated most of his remaining forces in the mountains of Montenegro.

"Tito himself again escaped, however," the broadcast said, "with a few of his followers. He evaded pursuing Axis troops and his present whereabouts are not known."

To Review War

Tea Flooded Too

FALLS CITY, Neb., July 23 — (AP). — Nazi newscasters heard in North Africa give the boys a laugh or two every time they broadcast, according to Capt. Loren Allison of Falls City. In a letter to his parents, Capt. Allison told how a Berlin radio announcer, in an English broadcast, related gleefully that "a flood had destroyed all the coffee plantations in the region of Coffeyville, Kas."

Greek Officials Abandon Posts

LONDON, July 23—(CP).—The Berlin radio, acknowledging Allied successes in Sicily had touched off fresh disturbances in the Balkans, reported today Axis troops had fought a violent battle with Yugoslav partisans in Montenegro in which 10,000 of the guerillas were said to have been killed.

The fiercest fighting, said the German news agency, DNB, was in the vicinity of the Komarnica valley, 50 or 60 miles southeast of Sarajevo.

A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Ankara, meanwhile, said growing unrest also was evident in Greece, where many Greek officials and police were reported to have abandoned their posts. The dispatch said German occupation authorities had issued a proclamation listing such men as saboteurs subject to immediate execution.

Soldiers Warned Avoid Italian Women, Wine

LONDON, July 23.—I have seen and read the little booklet which was put into the hands of Canadian troops invading Sicily. It is, I believe, the first copy to reach our authorities here.

Six by four and one-half inches in size and containing 40 pages, it bears on the front cover glimpses of the ancient coastal town of Agrigento now held by the Americans, and on the back, the Maple Leaf.

Much thought was given to its compilation. Besides a double page map and 18 pages of useful words and phases in Italian, it contains a mass of general information and advice.

Truth and tolerance, candor and chivalry are nicely balanced in describing Italy's place on the map and in history, telling how the country is governed and what Italians are like. The place and prestige of the Roman Catholic country's art treasures, its social habits and institutions are mentioned.

Tribute To Beliefs.

Tribute is paid to the Papacy in its diplomatic aspect and to its part in carrying on the old arts and sciences and crafts and in cultivating the land and preserving Roman civilization after the invasion of the barbarians in the sixteenth century; and Protestants are simply warned that to them Italian religious customs may seem surprising while Italians themselves know little about Protestantism.

To Canadian sweethearts and wive who have been led by romantic novelists to think of Italy as a place of peculiar peril for their menfolk the paragraph on women may bring some comfort. "As to women," it runs, "the less you have to do with them the better. The men are jealous, the code of morals strict and loose women almost unknown except in towns and the larger villages.

"In the rural districts a girl does not go with a man unless she is engaged to him. Even the most harmless behaviour on your part will arouse suspicion and may give offense, while anything in the nature of courting or more is to look for trouble and get it."

No Fooling

Taken in conjunction with the warning elswhere that a streak of grimness runs through Italian character and that "the people are no weaklings but hot-blooded and quick tempered believing in revenge, apt to be ruthlessly cruel and to take to guns and knives instead of fists to settle a quarrel" this caution against indulging amatory propensities should serve as a warning to the most ardent.

Our boys will be sad to learn that coffee is now unobtainable while sugar is scarce and tea never popular.

After their long stay in Britain it will come as a further douche to read: "You will find no pubs in Italy. The wines though pleasing will upset your stomach and go to your legs as well as your head unless you know when to stop."

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness, and aid in healing the sore, tender spots Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

No Speaker But Enjoys Politics Mrs. Drew Says

Written For The Canadian Press By Greta Crowe Shutt

GUELPH, July 23.—(CP).— Appreciative of her opportunities for service as wife of the Ontario Leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Mrs. George A. Drew says she enjoys nothing so much as talking with the women she meets at her husband's political meetings.

Mrs. Drew was in the garden of her father's home here cutting roses, a slender tall figure in white with a summer tan which rivalled that of her small sturdy daughter, Sandra. The interview was delayed briefly when John Edward, her five-year-old son, came in for a minute to shake hands.

Mrs. Drew takes a keen interest in politics and goes with her husband to political meetings whenever possible. She doesn't make speeches.

No Speeches.

"One speechmaker in a family is enough," she said, smiling. "I think meeting people and talking with them is the best way to understand them and to find out what they are thinkng. Women everywhere are wonderful. They are so enthusiastic."

Mrs. Drew says women should take a keen interest in politics. 'I have lived in Germany and Italy and I know what it is like to live under Nazism and Fascism. I am so profoundly thankful that the children can be brought up here in Canada. The life here is something that women should struggle to preserve for their children."

Daughter of Edward Johnson, managing director of the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York, Mrs. Drew was born in Florence, Italy, and was named Fiorenza for her birthplace. After her mother's death she was educated by a governess who brought the little girl across the Atlantic to her grandfather's home.

When the governess returned to Europe, Mrs. Drew attended Guelph public schools and then Bishop Strachan school in Toronto. A year at a finishing school in Switzerland was followed by a year at Dresden where she studied languages and music. Later she took a business course in order to assist her father as secretary. She married Col, Drew in September of 1936 in Guelph.

Mrs. Drew's chief interests are her husband, her father and her children. In Toronto, where she lives, she is active in the affairs of the junior leauge.

Women, she says, should "hold the fort at home" while their men are fighting overseas. She believes women should give careful attention to the training of their children, supplementing training of church and school.

Alaska Highway Official Name

OTTAWA, July 23—(CP)—The Canadian and United States governments have agreed that the highway from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, shall be given the official name "Alaska Highway."

The decision was reached by an exchange of notes dated July 19 and made public today by the External Affairs Department.

Choice of an appropriate name for the road, being constructed by the United States as a defence measure, has been a subject of controversy for many months. Only a few days ago the House of Commons here heard complaints against the name "Alcan Highway" which has been fairly widely used.

Military Heads Cooperate In Soldier Vote

OTTAWA, July 23 (CP).— Defence headquarters yesterday issued a 300-word statement describing assistance given by headquarters and military officials elsewhere in registering the soldier vote in the Aug. 4 Ontario Provincial election, "both as regards soldiers stationed in Ontario and those elsewhere."

The statement follows:

Following intimation that the Provincial election would be held at a date to be specified later, general officers commanling in chief and district officers commanding outside the Province of Ontario were instructed under date of June 14 as to the arrangements whereby every Ontario elector on active service outside the province was to be given an opportunity to vote by proxy, and were supplied with details of the manner in which military authorities should assist in ensuring that all personnel would be enabled to take advantage of the proxy arrangements.

Additional instructions were issued concerning army personnel, who were qualified voters, but who might be in transit between points in Canada or between Canada and overseas and might not reach their destinations in time to complete proxies and have them returned before the required date.

To make certain that such personnel were given every reasonable opportunty to exercise their franchise, instructions were issued by National Defence Headquarters to district officers commanding and oficers commanding Canadian units and transit camps that they must ensure that all such personnel were given an opportunity to secure proxy forms and were warned by orders published in all units that they should at once secure proxies if they wished to exercise their franchise.

With regard to reserve army personnel who go to camp too late to vote in advance polls, arrangements have been made whereby they will be released from training to enable them to return to their homes to vote.

Full co-operation is being given by N.D.H.Q. and military authorities throughout the province to assist in registering the soldier vote. This includes the provision of deputy returning officers and poll clerks in all the larger camps.

Beat Combines

Combines got their first two runs in a hurry in the fifth. Currie walked and Brockley laced a homer down the right field foul line. That made it 6 to 2 but Genelecs came back with four in their half on hits by Hawks, Akers, Masterson and McNabb and a couple of costly errors.

Brockley's bat was chiefly responsible for three more Combine runs in the first of the fifth. Murduff was safe on Hawks' error and ater Elliott had flied out Currie's single scored Murduff, Brockley tripled to deep right centre, scoring Currie and came home himself on a wild pitch.

Moorhead's double, a long fly by Hawks and Akers' infield out gave the Genelecs another run in the sixth, and they added two more in the seventh when Mowry singled to left with the bases full.

With the score of 13 to five against them the Combines suddenly came to life in the first of the eighth. Elliott beat out a tap to Giardino and went to second on the second-sacker's high throw. Currie's single scored him. Brockley hit safely to short, Gardner's single to left scored Curie. McCormick's double to left sent Brockley in and when the throw to the plate got away from Mowry Gardner also registered and McCormick completed the circuit. That was five runs in and nobody out. Akers was taken out and went to left field, Moorhead taking over the mound duties. Caccavella greeted him with a single but was forced by Calladine. Craig walked but Murduff flied to McNabb and Elliott up for the second time forced Craig.

er them superior to all other women simply because they ARE their wives and bear their names, and represent their choice in women. This is the kind of love that wives find it hardest to understand and believe in, because such husbands are frequently philanderers who chase after every pretty woman who comes their way.

But in their hearts these men are really true to their Polls. They have given something to their wives just sit tight and to their light o' loves, and if their wives just sit and tight and wait, they always come back to them.

Sacrifice Is Real Test of Love

And there you are. It is because husbands love in such different ways and give such queer manifestations of affection that their wives find it so hard to diagnose the symptoms and tell about the temperature of their affection.

Wives are always complaining that their husbands don't love them because they don't tell them so, because they flirt with other women, because they never take them out to places of amusement, but these are not infallible indications of lack of affection.

The one acid test of love in both women and men is what they are willing to do for the one they profess to love. If husbands and wives are willing to work for each other; if they are willing to sacrifice for each other; if they are willing to put the happiness of the other before their own, they love. If they don't, they love no one but themselves.

LAWN BOWLING

BY HERB. MARTIN

To-day is Friday, July 23rd and our big tournament is scheduled for Wednesday, July 28th. Have you made your entry? If not, why not? To-night it will be men's rinks at 7.30 o'clock.

Our ladies are off on another excursion to-day. This time it is Cobourg.

And speaking of the ladies, several of them celebrated their birthday yesterday. We say many happy returns

Bill Ashby's rink won their first scheduled game of the season last evening. Nice going, boys.

Learn To Be More Polite and Be Popular

BE FEMININE

So many young ladies in this modern day are so independent rather than being feminine. Above all, be feminine! If you have an escort, allow him to open doors, hail taxicabs, get things for you at a dance, give the order to the waiter in a restaurant, and help you out of automobiles, street cars, and busses.

When you are his guest, let him pay for such thinks as tickets and dinner checks.

All young ladies should know these little rules of etiquette, because though they may seem small and unimportant to you, they are most important to your escort, and he judges you by the way you behave.

Allow him to help you with your wraps and other things. It's part of the feminine charm all men admire.

Our 32-page booklet tells the young moderns how to be more popular. Good manners and poise are among the most valuable possessions that any young person can have. Learn the pointers of etiquette and avoid embarrassing blunders in public.

Young people, who are rude, are never liked and usually unpopular so know the rules of etiquette and enjoy popularity.

For your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR YOUNG MODERNS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T MAKE HIM BID IT

IF YOU know your side should be in a game contract, and you also know what declaration is the correct one, don't invite your partner to bid it. Unless there is something to be gained, such as a possible slam contract, by means of a force or a cue-bid, it is hazardous to make a mere simple rebid of some kind. In case your partner has no extra values which he has not yet shown, he may drop you. Bid the game yourself if you have sufficient strength.

North: ♠ K 5 ♥ Q 8 6 ♦ J 10 9 7 5 ♣ A 9 3

West: ♠ Q 9 8 3 ♥ K 9 5 2 ♦ Q 2 ♣ Q 6 2

East: ♠ A J 10 7 6 2 ♥ A 10 ♦ K 6 ♣ K J 7

South: ♠ 4 ♥ J 7 4 3 ♦ A 8 4 3 ♣ 10 8 5 4

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠

And West passed. Wouldn't you? The point is that East should have bid 4-Spades himself as soon as he heard his partner support the suit. In fact, he should have bid 3-Spades, a force to game, if his partner made any other bid, such as 1-No Trump, or two in any of the other suits. Just count up the playing tricks in his hand, after his partner confirmed spades. He had about four and a half in trumps, one in hearts, a half in diamonds, and probably about one in clubs—a total of seven. It would have been almost impossible to give West a hand worth the weakest kind of spade raise which would not produce a likely winning play for game.

East had his mind on the bidding during the play, or he should have taken 11 tricks. South led the heart 3, the Q forcing the A. To East that marked J with South, so he led the 10 and, when it was not covered, let it win. Now, too late, he discovered that he had passed up his only quick entry for what would have been a successful trump finesse, so he had to lose a trick each in spades, diamonds and clubs. You can easily guess how West felt about his partner after that mess.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 6 5 ♥ K J 10 6 4 ♦ J 9 5 2 ♣ 8 7

West: ♠ 7 3 ♥ A 9 2 ♦ K Q 8 3 ♣ Q 6 5 2

East: ♠ K 8 4 2 ♥ Q 7 ♦ A 4 ♣ A J 10 9 3

South: ♠ A Q J 10 9 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ 10 7 6 ♣ K 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If East bids 1-Club, West 1-Diamond, East 1 Spade, West 2-No Trumps and East 3-No Trumps, what line of reasoning should show North the best defense?

Airborne Troops Valuable In Sicily Raid

By LEWIS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—By repulsing German armor to protect beach landings, airborne troops proved their worth in Sicily and won the right to a still more prominent part in coming invasions, Maj.-Gen. Joseph M. Swing of the United States army declared today.

At a press conference the General disclosed that the American airborne force which descended on Sicily was larger than any other ever set down in a single operation. Gen. Swing did not make public the exact number of troops employed, but he indicated it was close to the whole personnel of the 82nd Airborne Division.

In their first test under fire, these parachute and glider troopers used anti-tank guns and 75 millimetre field howitzers to beat back efforts of the 15th German Armored Division to smash down on the beaches where the American 1st and 45th Infantry Divisions were coming ashore. The soldiers from the sky held against the best the enemy could throw at them from Friday night until the land forces reached them Monday, the General said.

Gen. Swing, who is the commander of another airborne division in the United States, was sent to North Africa to help co-ordinate the Sicilian invasion plans. He left Sicily a few days ago and now is on his way back to Washington to report on the lessons learned on the island.

Regarding British airborne operations behind the enemy lines in the Syracuse area, Gen. Swing quoted Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery as saying, "They advanced our operations by a week."

Reporter Tells Of Raid On Kahili Base

Last Saturday United States Army, Navy and Marine Air Forces in the South Pacific's greatest co-ordinated aerial attack, struck in wave after wave on the airdromes and anchorages of Kahili, a Japanese base in the Solomon Islands. In this delayed dispatch from U. S. Air Headquarters for the Solomons, Leif Erickson reports in fresh detail how the raid smashed the Japanese anchorage.

By LEIF ERICKSON,
Associated Press War Correspondent

GUADALCANAL, July 17 —(Delayed) —(CP) — Nine Japanese ships including a light cruiesr and three destroyers were blasted and sunk off Kahili to-day in a raid by 192 United States planes smashing at the key Japan base in the Solomon Islands with the heaviest air stroke yet delivered in this area.

(A communique issued the day after the raid listed seven ships sunk and an eighth probaly beached).

The United States Air Command in the Solomons reported that 49 Japanese fighter planes were shot down in futile attempts at interception and that American losses were five planes —three fighters, a dive bomber and torpedo plane.

Excited pilots returning from the attack said the enemy's anchorage at Jakohina Mission, midway between Buin and Kahili on southern Bougainville Island was filled with flaming, smoking wrecks.

In addition to the warships destroyed, three small cargo vessels and two tankers were sent to the bottom.

The light cruiesr was blown apart by a direct hit amidships. One of the tankers also was shattered down to the stern by direct hits and resultant explosions.

"If we could give the Japanese the business like this every day he would soon hove his fingernails bitten off to his elbow," the Air Headquarters spokesman said.

Nazi Sub Captain Screams For Help

Yelling wildly, a Nazi U-boat captain screams for help after his submarine was sunk in the Atlantic by an Allied ship. The enemy sub was just about to attack an Allied convoy when it was fatally hit.

Criminal Code Amendment Fails To Pass

OTTAWA, July 23 (CP). —The Senate Banking and Commerce committee today voted against an amendment of the Criminal Code make illegal the publication of information "likely" to assist in betting, except by "a bona fide newspaper."

The committee also changed another amendment, deleting the words "likely to be used" from a section applying to premises equipped for gambling.

Senator Salter Hayden (Lib. Ontario) said he did not like an amendment extending the gambling section of the code to premises kept or outfitted as "likely to be used" to facilitate or encourage gambling. The extension deprived accused persons of the opportunity they now had to defend themselves, he said.

The change constituted "a contradiction of normal criminal jurisprudence" which placed the onus of proof on the crown.

No Chance to Defend

Senator Hayden also objected to the amendment restricting publications for races on sport pages was likely" to assist in betting to "a bona fide newspaper." he said there was considerable doubt as to what constituted a bona fide newspaper and whether regular racing publications would be made illegal.

Senator J. J. Bench (Lib. Ontario) asked whether such a publication as the program for the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta to be held at St. Catharines, Ont., next week would come under the act with this amendment.

Senator Hayden said he thought that if the Crown could establish that betting took place on the boat races the program would be illegal.

He said the publication of selections for races on sportp ages was in reality "editorial opinion on the sport pages" and might come under the act.

While the amendment had originated with the Ontario government, the attorney-general of the province had since asked that action on the amendment be deferred.

Senator J. H. King, government Senate leader, said there was a general feeling that there were abuses in betting as it now was carried on in Canada.

WI Plans To Keep On Oratorical Contests

BUCKHORN, July 23—(ENS)—The regular meeting of the Buckhorn W.I. was held in the True Blue Hall recently with the president, Miss M. Nicholls, presiding.

A number of business items were discussed and it was decided to carry on the oratorical contest for the schools of the district and also to send boxes to all the members' sons or brothers who are in the armed forces.

Mrs. A. Fulton, convener for "home economics," then took charge of the meeting. She gave a paper on how all members could help in this war by thrift, sewing, good meals, taking care of all utensils. Mrs. Smith gave a reading on "home economics" showing how this will have a large place in peace time. A reading, "One of Those Days," was given by Mrs. Wood.

Drew Criticized For Remarks On Soldiers' Votes

OTTAWA July 23 (CP)—Protest from the Progressive Conservative benches today drowned out most of a statement by George Fulford (Lib. Leeds) in the House of Commons when he asked if steps were being taken to deal with "a reckless and ill-considered statement" by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative leader, on provincial voting privileges for reserve army units now in camp.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, said the House did not want "that kind of remarks," concerned only with the provincial election on Aug. 4.

Defence Minister Ralston said Col. Drew's remarks were "hardly creditable" to him.

Leave It To Public

The minister said he planned no action on what Col. Drew had said, since public opinion would give the best answer.

There had been a claim the defence department was "disenfranchising" men in the reserve army who now were in camp. Some time ago dates had been set for a camp which would reach to provincial election day; but he had told the House yesterday that it was planned to have the men home in time to vote.

Col. Ralston said men like Col. Drew should accept statements of what was planned by the department.

When Mr. Graydon said Mr. Fulford had brought up the matter of the Drew statement because of the provincial election, Col. Ralston said he had heard many things discussed in the House which had little to do with federal affairs.

Mr. Graydon replied that questions had been asked about voting privileges for soldiers. But Mr. Fulford's remarks had been "completely uncalled for" and "without precedent in the House."

Previously, Col. Ralston had answered inquiries by Mr. Graydon about voting facilities for soldiers.

The Progressive Conservative House Leader had asked assurance that men in Ontario training camps, moved to other camps between enumeration and revision of voters' lists and polling day, and those moved from Ontario to other provinces, would be given proxies before their transfer.

Col. Ralston said he expected soldiers moved within Ontario would have an opportunity to vote, although the procedure depended on the time and the distance they were moved.

He said he expected those going out of the province would be provided with proxies.

Airforce Needs Many Recruits

OTTAWA, July 23 (CP). —Air Minister Power said in an interview today that reserves of men available for aircrew are getting low and that the present rate of enlistment is below requirements.

"We are getting fewer aircrew than we require," he said. "At the moment we are down in recruiting and our reserves are getting low. We had big reserves in January but we are eating them up now."

Other R.C.A.F. officials, when questioned on the reduction in air crew recruitments, referred to an advertisement published yesterday inviting physically fit young men between 17½ and 33 years of age to enlist for aircrew training.

The advertisement mentioned the contribution of young Canadian men in turning out munitions and equipment and then continued:

"But today the call goes out to every young able-bodied man to get into the fight—to hunt U-boats—to blast and burn enemy factories—to shatter the Axis on every front.

"No matter where or how you are employed, there's an opening for you as aircrew today."

CANADIANS HIT NAZIS WEST FLANK

4,500 Huns Killed At Orel's Gates

Hun Losses Mount Rapidly; Reds Advance More

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 24.—(AP).—More than 4,500 German soldiers died yesterday at the approaches to Orel where Russian forces closing a pincers about that bastion continued to throw back Nazis counter attacks and forged ahead two or four miles, front line dispatches said to-day.

As the fierce battle of attrition raged into its 12th day with reports of mounting German losses, Red Star, the army organ, said the battle not only had crushed Hitler's plan for a new general offensive on the eastern front but was causing him to lose the battle for Sicily.

"The Red army offensive is breaking down the entire German defence in Europe," Red Star said. "It makes the German rear vulnerable."

No Aid To Sicily.

The newspaper said that Hitler had been unable to release forces to combat the Allied invasion of Sicily because he was so heavily engaged on the Russian front.

Dispatches describing the fury of the German counter-attacks at Orel, where the Russians have quoted German prisoners as saying Hitler has ordered his forces to hold to the last man, told of a Russian smash across a river directly east of the city.

Eleven German counter-attacks were launched against the position, the dispatches said, and the Russians announced officially that more than 2,000 Germans were annihilated in the attempt to dislodge the Red army forces.

The Germans also stepped up their aerial defence of the city by sending 250 planes over the Russian positions, but the dispatches said Soviet fighter planes beat them off before they reached their objective. The Germans lost 52 planes over Orel in a single day, the Russians said.

In their apparent drive to encircle this pivotal German position, the fighting Red troops also pressed in mile-by-mile from both the north and south, parrying fierce German counter-attacks and in-

Rounding out an active offensive day, R.A.F. planes first bombed and then machine-gunned enemy positions at Theizang and Kalemyo.

Palermo Falls Without Shot

By HAROLD V. BOYLE—Associated Press War Correspondent

PALERMO, July 22—(Delayed)—(AP).—Historic Palermo, capital and largest city on Sicily, fell today without firing a shot in its own defence to American infantry and armored columns converging from three directions.

Soldiers won the race tramping to the outskirts of the city about noon from the southwest after a 60-mile advance from Castelve-trano during which they had to halt three times to knock out harassing artillery pieces.

Happy that his forces avoided shelling into submission this city known throughout the world for its ancient churches, temples and monuments which make it a living tomb of Phoenician, Greek, Byzantine, Saracen, Norman, Spanish and early French civilizations, the American deputy commander under Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton accepted the surrender.

Italian officers, bags packed, had been waiting all day to hand over the town of from 400,000 to 500,000 population. The Germans were out last night.

The harbor area has been heavily damaged by the Allied bombings. The city itself bore the scars of bombs but the damage is not as extensive as that visited upon a number of other Sicilian towns.

Troops who rolled into Palermo at dusk received a hearty welcome. The populace cheered, threw gifts of flowers and fruit and poured free wine in the greatest demonstration most of them had ever seen. Italian soldiers still in uniform lined the streets by the hundreds and joined in the cheers. Some of them were so glad to be out of the war they even ran out and kissed the hands of the American soldiers rolling past in half-tracks.

New Governors

The civil affairs section of the Allies is putting each Sicilian city back on its feet within a few hours after the combat troops take it.

A number of British and American officers landed with the assault troops on invasion day, assigned to relieve combat forces of a job of administering captured enemy territory.

In fact, they have followed so closely after the charging troops that in one instance, Lt. Col. Charles Poletti, former Governor of New York, who is on the staff of the newly created Amgot—Allied Military Government of Occupied Territory — found himself the only American left in a town captured only a few minutes before. Poletti said he merely made the people a speech. They cheered. And everything was fine.

When the first forces enter a city they may find it paralyzed with no water or electricity, its police force inactive and its people short of food because of breakdowns in transportation.

De Valera Raps Morrison Over Irish Partitioning

NEW YORK, July 23—(CP).—The Consulate-General of Eire today issued a statement by Prime Minister Eamon de Valera in Dublin commenting on a recent speech by Herbert Morrison, British Home Secretary.

Mr. Morrison was quoted as saying that Eire's role of neutrality in the war "does not stand up too well in the history of nations," and that Britain "shall not forget...that Eire a country which has fought many a battle for what it conceived to be the cause of liberty, should have stood aside neutral...in this...dramatic and fateful struggle."

Mr. De Valera's reply follows:

"Those who read the reported reference in the British Home Secretary's speech to the many battles which our country (Eire) has fought for what it conceived to be the cause of liberty will, I think, go on to ask themselves the question against what country (in one way or another) has most of those battles to be fought.

"They will also ask what country is responsible for the continuing crime of partitioning this ancient nation of Ireland and whose is the force that at this moment compels almost half a million of our people, including the majority in South Down and South Armagh, in the counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh and in Derry City, to endure the denial of the 'freedom and liberties' for which this war in the 'cause of human freedom,' to quote Mr. Morrison, is reing fought.

"The British Home Secretary may

Few Canadians Are Wounded

A BRITISH HOSPITAL, NORTH AFRICA, July 24—(CP Cable)—Canadian soldiers wounded and injured in the fighting in Sicily have brought back personal accounts of the initial landings and the campaigning which followed as the Canadian 1st Division troops drove inland.

I spoke to a number of them at this hospital yesterday and heard their descriptions of the invasion. Most were only slightly wounded or injured and soon will be fit to go into action again.

Some were wounded by snipers, some victims of road accidents.

L.Bdr. Joseph McAuley, 26, of Stratford, Ont., with an anti-tank unit, was a victim of what he described as a "screwy" accident.

"I was a mechanic for the unit's vehicles," McAuley explained. "I travel from gunsite to gunsite on a motorcycle. Our unit was advanc-

New Move Should Cut Off Port of Catania
8th Army Advance Slowed

Canadians Face Bitter Fight In Sicily's Hills

With the Canadian 1st Division in Central Sicily, July 21 (delayed)—(CP Cable)—Here in Central Sicily mountain warfare is raging by the jagged peaks and towering hills east of Enna as the Canadians hammer away at German rearguards in battles on the main road leading to Catania.

Making a detour around Enna, Canadians attacked to the north up the road from Valguarnera, and there has been a determined advance by the Dominion troops for the past 24 hours aganist persistent artillery fire from German 88-millimetre guns and heavy mortars as well as sighted machine-guns.

The Canadians haven't had an easy time and are having to fight for every hill in their path. But they are gaining ground steadily in face of this opposition.

However, the Americans won the race to Enna.

Canadians had hoped to grab off that city, and there was a lot of good natured rivalry between the Yanks and Canucks, but the Sicilian plum fell to the Americans. Enna was the Canadians' objective originally, but the plan was switched to give the Dominion soldiers the task of cutting the main German road communications east and northeast of the city.

Disappointed

Canadians were plenty disappointed that they didn't get Enna, but now they are concentrating on blasting German communications and beating up the troublesome rearguard which continues to blow up the roads and harass the Allied advance with stubborn resistance.

I spent most of the day along the front, watching our artillery and infantry and tanks fanning out and going ahead slowly but steadily as hill after hill was captured.

The biggest impression was not the resistance put up by the enemy, but the geographic difficulties the Canucks are now encountering. They are fighting in a mountainous country that is worse than northern Tunisia where the British 1st Army had such a struggle last winter.

I talked with Capt Frank Klenavic of St. Catharines, Ont., about this and he agreed that this was rougher, tougher country than he saw when in North Africa with the 1st Army.

"There are only hills and mountains here and no broad valleys for troops, guns and tanks to deploy as there was in Tunisia," Klenavic said.

However, before they sailed for Sicily the Canadians received considerable training in mountain warfare and they are now putting those lessons to good advantage.

I talked with a group of French Canadian soldiers near the front who were rounding up all the mules they could lay hands on to run mule trains through these heart - breaking mountains with ammunition, supplies and water. Everyone was covered from head to foot with white Sicilian dust, and the Canucks looked like a ghost force.

Boost Women's Pay

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP).—Defence Minister Ralston announced today in the House of Commons that the pay of women in the forces is being raised to 80 per cent of that paid to men in the same rank, from the present 66 2-3 per cent.

Col. Ralston said the pay increase will be retroactive to July 1. Entering the service at $1.05 a day, women will receive $1.20 a day at the end of six months. Other financial benefits for women will include trades pay on the same basis as men and staff and professional pay also on an equal basis, said the Minister.

Allowances will be paid the dependents of women in the services—except for husbands and children—on the same basis as for men in the forces.

Cobourg Soldier Herds Prisoners

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 17 (Delayed) — (CP Cable) — Battle-line close-ups:

A group of young staff officers on brigade staffs has been doing a magnificient job of keeping the Canadian brigades rolling forward in their headlong push into Sicily.

Brigade headquarters have not settled down for more than a night or a few hours during the day. Without sleep and working at top speed, the staffs were kept going somehow.

Among the officers on these staffs are Captain William "Mike" Dare, Brantford, Ont., Lieut. Art. Curliss, Welland, Ont.

Capt Mike Webber of Ottawa who was with the signals units and the Spitsbergen expedition in 1941, is also a brigage signals officer here.

Bad Language

A French-Canadian regiment is using mule cart trains to bring up stacks of equipment not needed immediately. Night and day 25 mule carts creak along the road with the mules urged on by the shouting of soldiers in a mixture of French, Italian and English curses.

The toughest prisoner of war assignment: Sgt. Jack Ulch of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and seven of his men had to march nearly 20 miles down the line in heat and dust with 750 prisoners in tow. At the time there were no vehicles available.

Dominion Troops Travel 75 Miles In Last Two Weeks

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 24—(AP)—American forces have captured the western Sicilian port of Marsala, Allied headquarters announced today, and many of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's 7th Army units were believed swinging eastward to join British and Canadian troops in a knockout blow at Axis defenders clinging to the island's northeast corner.

"A rapidly diminishnig portion of the island is all that remains to the Axis," said the Allied headquarters communique, disclosing the Americans were mopping up enemy resistance in Western Sicily and had captured "large numbers of prisoners and huge quantities of enemy equipment."

South of Catania, the Germans were still fiercely resisting the British 8th Army, although Allied warships drawn up along the coast poured a destructive naval bombardment into the enemy's shore positions.

It was disclosed officially the Allies have taken a total of 60,000 prisoners while they are expected to round up at least 50,000 more. These were said to average about three per cent Germans.

"The Germans were trying frantically to reinforce their divisions in northeast Sicily but the Americans cut the north coast "well east" of captured Palermo, blocking the land route from the west to Messina, headquarters said.

The Canadians, advancing eastward, were reported swinging rapidly around the German west flank at Catania on their way to join the 8th Army in taking that key city.

From that position they could bear directly upon the western flank of the Axis army now blocking the 8th Army drive up the east coast at Catania, either pressing the Nazis within range of the big guns of the Allied fleet off the coast or plunuging to Mesina and cutting off the only escape route remaining open.

Slogging through the hot, dusty heart of Sicily, progress of the Canadians has been necessarily slow, with their advance contested by the 15th German panzer unit which was reported being slowly herded before them.

He also reported that they had already advanced some 75 miles since hitting the beaches near Pachino two weeks ago. But their progress, he reported, has been slow for the last three days, as they were forced to "fig" every foot of their way through the sun baked hills around Enna."

A Bitter Struggle

Meanwhile, German forces defending Catania and the northeastern tip were thrusting savagely at Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomerys 8th Army. The bitter battle which has raged at Catania's southern environs for eight days, has reduced the northward drive of the British veterans to a yard-by-yard progress. Paul Kern Lee, Associated Press correspondent, reported the Germans are strongly dug in around Catania. He said their force there is estimated at more than three divisions, including the tough Hermann Goering armored division, reinforced by long-range coastal guns and large field pieces.

The Germans are especially well entrenched about a mile and a

Pensions Now Increased For Old-Age

Wartime Supplement Of $5 To Be Paid In All Provinces

OTTAWA, July 24 — (CP). — Finance Minister Ilsley today told the House of Commons the government was making legal provision to increase the maximum basis of old-age and blind pension payments from $20 to $25.

By order-in-council under the War Measures Act, the Government will be authorized to "enter into supplementary agreements with the Provinces enabling a special war supplement not exceeding $5 a month to be paid, in addition to the regular pensions payable under the Act as it stands at present," Mr. Ilsley said.

This will not mean that all pensioners will receive a flat increase of $5 a months.

The regulations will be that no pensioners may receive in combined pension and outside income more than $365 a year.

Thus the increased maximum will be of particular benefit to the groups having no other source of income.

Some Pay Already

A number of provinces are already paying supplementary old age pensions and these need not be disturbed by the increased maximum announced today.

The general terms and conditions under which pensions now are payable—with the Dominion paying 75 per cent and the provinces 25 per cent—will not be changed "except for appropriate adjustments in regard to the provisions of the act covering maximum pension and allowable outside income.

Under the present maximum of $20 a month or $240 a year, the allowable outside income is $125 a year. All outside income in excess of $125 is deducted from the $240-a-year maximum old-age pension payable.

The new proposal of a maximum of $25 a month or $300 a year means that the outside income in excess of $65 a year is deducted from the maximum pension payable, since the ceiling of combined incomes remains at $365.

17 Planes Lost In Crete Raid

CAIRO, July 24—(AP).—Light bombers of the R.A.F. and Greek Air Force made widespread attacks on Crete in daylight yesterday, the Middle East air command announced today.

Ammunition dumps were blown up and tented camps, gun positions and wireless and power stations were shot up by the attacking airmen, the announcement said.

Well over 100 planes took part in the raid and "ranged all over the island" the BBC said in a broadcast recorded by CBS.

Seventeen Allied planes were listed as missing

(The Berlin radio said last night in a broadcast heard by NBC that German airfields on the Greek island in the eastern Mediterranean were a particular target.

(The Germans called the damage "insignificant" and said the raid "obviously was made for the main purpose of probing Axis defences in Crete.")

The Middle East announcement called the raid "a large scale offensive operation"

Factories engaged in enemy production at Ierapetra and Heraklion were targets of the light bombers and direct hits were reported scored.

Canadians Travelling Fast

Capture 8,000 Prisoners Across Sicily

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 17—(Delayed)—(CP Cable). — Canadians have penetrated further into Sicily up to this date, than any other formation in the invasion force, and are continuing their smashing advance at a top speed with a terrific force of infantry, tanks and guns. They are far ahead of schedule.

(Since then, reports from William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent at Allied Headquarters, North Africa, state that the Canadian plunge through Siciliy has been slowed down, fighting with the 15th Panzer division having braked but not halted the advance.)

Prisoners taken by the Dominion troops now number upwards of 8,000, and hourly more batches of Italians are surrendering. The top men now being captured belong to the Livorine division, Italy's top fighting force.

A staff officer said the Canucks are going ahead afster than any formation in the Sicilian force, despite the fact they have less transport and are going long distances afoot.

Global War Picture Now Favors Allies

Several Crises Loom In Immediate Future At Different Spots

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When we put the magnifying glass on this accelerating world war we become acutely aware that we are involved in numerous individual crises, both military and political — the sort of hot-spots one logs down and sticks in one's hat as a reminder to keep an eye on them for quick developments—and here, apart from the Allied avalanche sweeping Sicily, are some worth watching:

Italo-German relations: Indications increase that Hitler and Mussolini may be close to a parting of the ways, due to Hitler's inability —or disinclination—to give badly needed additional aid to a stooge who has ceased to be useful.

Morale of the Italian people: This interlocks with the preceding crisis. There's no doubt that a vast number of Italians are fed up with Mussolini and the war.

Relations between the Vatican and the Allies: Possibly the term "crisis" is too strong to be used in connection with the aftermath of the bombing of Rome. However, it certainly is a matter of moment when there's any difference of opinion between the leaders of the United Nations and his holiness, the Pope, to whom a world-wide religious empire looks for guidance.

Red drive on Orel: The near encirclement of this city, in face of fierce Boche resistance, represents more than a threat to a single strong point and the great German army defending it. Orel is the pivotal fortress for hundreds of miles of the Nazi line south of Moscow. Its fall might produce a collapse of Hitler's entire right flank, against which the Reds are beginning to fling heavy attacks.

Turkey's neutrality: If the Allies do invade the Balkans, will the Turks at long last abandon neutrality and join them, or at least permit passage of United Nations troops through Turkish territory? That might happen, for the Turks are the friends of the Allies. It would be a momentous development.
